TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."

EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

"My son, when you go the city, get you a bicycle, some tight pants, some tooth-pick shues, and a slender cane, but with all your gettings don't fail to get a bottle of Salvation Oil, for "pride (you know) goeth before a fall."

Bishop Bradley has appointed Rev. Father Welsh of Gorham to be pastor of St. Mary's church, Salmon Falls, vice Father Doherty, deceased.

is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, offensive breath, coated tongue, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may result. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for billiousness. Sold by all druggists.

Allan J. Adams was hanged at Northampton, Mass., April 16th, for the murder of Moses Dickenson of Amherst, in 1875. Adams was a tramp, and a ruffian of the vilest sort.

Laurentius of Haarlem invented the use of printing with wooden types. Gutten burg afterwards invented cut metal types. These were great steps toward universal knowledge, and have aided Chester H. Graves & Sons of Boston in introducing to the public the purest alcoholic stimulant yet distilled, the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey. Your grocer or druggist will supply you and cheerfully indorse its excellence.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

Rev. Sam Jones solemnly warns the girls to be careful in what company they go to parties, and declares the best way to go to such places is not to go at all.

Wonderful success everywhere. Hop Plasters for weak parts, severe aches, strains, backache.

Smokers can always find a fine line of imported and domestic cigars, and cigarettes and cigar cases at Preston's drug store.

The Cyclone.

Later advices from the Minnesota cyclone's track place the number of deaths at St. Cloud at thirty or thirty-five. At Sauk Rapids thirty-one had died up to the afternoon of the 15th, and the number would be swelled to forty or more. In both the towns named the improvised hospitals were filled with the wounded. A church near Rice's station was blown down, and thirteen persons of a wedding party, including the officiating minister, killed.

Monroe township, Mo., was visited by a cyclone on the evening of the 14th, many buildings destroyed and three persons killed; a number of persons were also fatally hurt. At St. Joseph two people were killed.

A cyclone in Wise county Texas, on the 14th, killed twelve people and ruined many buildings and farms.

Another New Fast Press.

BOSTON, April 16th.—The work on the new Boston Globe building is progressing rapidly. The circulation of the Globe is increasing so fast, however, that part of the basement of the new building will be used at once for a new double press, which has just been completed for the Globe. It is the first double perfecting press in New England, and will print 28,000 eight-page papers an hour. The newsdealers of Portsmouth will tell you all how fast their Globe business is increasing. If you do not have the Sunday Globe regularly, order it of your newsdealer or carrier to-day.

It is said that President Cleveland, whose affections for some time past have been in a state of desuetude, is to marry in June Miss Folsom of Buffalo. The happy affianced lady is now in Europe, and will return after consulting the modistes of Paris.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 129 West 129 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PERK, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Dowell, Mass.

MUSIC HALL.

Thursday evening the first representation of Miss Akerstrom's new play, "Viola, the Street Singer," was witnessed by a packed audience, and greeted with generous applause; the piece has a very good plot, and the interest is kept up to the end. Friday evening there was another large audience to see Miss Akerstrom as the "Pearl of Savoy," in which she is effective and pleasing.

This afternoon the favorite "Fanchon, the cricket," will be presented; and the very successful engagement of Miss Akerstrom and her really good supporting company will close this evening with "The New Magdalen."

COFFEE PARTY.

The coffee party given by the ladies of the South Parish in Congress hall on Thursday evening was numerously attended, and in every way enjoyable and successful. The hall was as neatly and tastefully decorated as we ever saw it, and the supper was of couse excellent; the large display of fancy articles was disposed of almost to the last item, and the dance with which the affair wound up was a source of pleasure alike to the young participants and the more elderly lookers-on.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

Grand Worthy Chief Templar George A. Bailey on the evening of the 14th inst. paid an official visit to Rockingham Lodge of Good Templars, and expressed himself as well satisfied with the condition of the lodge.

Votes of thanks were extended to Rev. Mr. McGinley for his interesting and impressive address the previous Sunday evening in memory of John B. Gough, the great apostle of temperance, and to Mr. W. W. McIntyre and the Philharmonic society for the music rendered on that occasion; also to the visitors from other lodges.

After adjournment the members gathered at the home of Mr. Edwin Randall and wife, to take part in the celebration of their silver wedding.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner yacht Una, which has laid so long at the Raynes shipyard, housed over, has been freed from her wooden roof, and it was on Friday reported would be placed in command of Capt. Daniel E. Rich to be towed by the tug Clara Batemen to Boston, there to be sold.

The schooner Estella, Capt. Horace Burns, in coming down the river Thursday afternoon, brick laden, was carried by the tide against Portsmouth bridge, broadside on, but the tide being nearly at low water was running slowly, and she sustained no injury beyond a slight breakage of her rail. She was hauled clear at slack water.

The schooner Emily A. Staples, Goodwin master, on Friday came off the marine railway at Kittery, were some slight repairs had been made on her by Warren Keen.

The brick schooners G. W. Raitt, D. K. Ham, Hattie Lewis and Ocean Eagle, which sailed from this port on the 14th inst., arrived at Boston on the 15th.

To-morrow is Palm Sunday, the beginning of Passion week.

Each lady and girl attending the matinee at Music hall this afternoon at two o'clock, will receive as a souvenir a handsome photograph of Ullie Akerstrom.

Hon. Frank Jones has gone to New York for a week or so.

J. Albert Walker, Esq., arrived home on Thursday evening last from a visit of several months at the south with his wife and daughter.

The hours for the transaction of business at the custom house are now fixed at from nine o'clock A. M. to three P. M.

There is a huge pile of stone, probably 3000 tons or more, from the Deer street sewer-trench, stacked in the city yard. It is of excellent quality for crushing and street making.

Ayers & Locke advertise four-button kids at forty-seven cents a pair.

More than twenty loads of twigs and small branches, gathered from the streets or cut from the shade trees in consequence of having been broken by the "ice-storm," have been burned by the city workmen on the south pond dump. The stuff burns poorly, but it is the easiest way to get rid of it.

Hon. Frank Jones has been chosen president of the Rochester water works.

Ex-policeman John Hennessy, whose resignation from the force was accepted at the late meeting of the board of aldermen, did not allow himself to remain long in idleness, as he immediately resumed his former occupation as stevedore at the Concord railroad wharf.

The Concord and the Manchester & Lawrence railroads each pay a dividend of five per cent in May.

Major George F. Emory, treasurer of the Union Institution for Savings, of Boston, who died in that city April 14th in the 73d year of his age, was born in this city, but went to Boston when young and entered the office of the Post under Col. Greene. Later he was engaged in mercantile business, and during the presidency of Franklin Pierce was general appraiser in the Boston custom house. When the war of the rebellion broke out he was made a paymaster in the army by President Lincoln, and served with credit to the end, when he became treasurer of the Union Institute for Savings; he was also at one time treasurer of the Catholic Union of Boston. He leaves a wife and five children.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally come out and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bony formations Purescribed. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are stiff, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before and after the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. S. DRIGGS,
May 9, 1885. 612 E. City St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one INHALER, all in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

went on, crying and wringing his hands."

"Maybe he knew something about our deaf and dumb woman," Amy cried. "Perhaps she was one of his friends. O, Eddie! why didn't you speak up and tell him about her?"

"I never thought of it once," Eddie answered, "and I shouldn't have had time if I had thought of it, for the train started off before he had finished asking questions."

"Oh, maybe when she gets well she'll be able to make us understand where she wants to go," Alice said. "We ought to have a good lot of nuts by this time. How many have we, Amy?"

"We have a barrel and a half of pecans already, that's eighteen dollars, and three or four of walnuts. Pa is going to ship them next Saturday, and by that time we ought to have as many more. We're sure of forty dollars at the least."

But to the delight of the girls, fifty dollars in gold and silver was placed in their hands a fortnight afterwards. As the woman was a foreigner, Judge Wright said she would know nothing of American bank-notes. So the coin had been obtained, and a long procession of children filed to the cabin to give the money to her, for every child who had assisted in the nutting felt that he or she had a right to witness the presentation of the gift.

The poor woman was sitting in her usual languid attitude, with her baby on her knee, and the children saw she had been weeping, for her large blue eyes were swollen and red.

Of course there was nothing to be said, but Amy, with a smile, walked forward and laid the money in her hand, with a gesture towards her companions indicating that it was a joint present from them all.

The woman looked at the money in a bewildered manner, and then with a strange little cry, threw herself on her knees and seemed to offer up a fervent prayer.

Her next movement, which was rather an embarrassing one for the children, was to seize the hand of each in turn and raise it to her lips. The boys backed towards the door trying to escape, but she was too quick for them. Then with her eyes raining tears, she took a piece of charcoal from the fireplace, and, slowly and awkwardly, marked on the whitewashed wall, "Herman Boggild, Jacksonville, Florida."

Then followed some words in queer characters and in a strange language, but the woman pointed to the name and then to herself.

"I understand!" cried Eddie Ross. "She was going to Florida, to that Herman Boggild, when the accident occurred."

"Oh, isn't it delightful!" Amy exclaimed, clapping her hands; "and she's got money enough to get there. I'll get pa to come right off and see about it."

But when Judge Wright reached the cabin, he could obtain no further information from the mute than the names written over and over again. "She has evidently only learned to write those names in English," he said. "But she wants to go to Florida to this Herman Boggild, and we must send her there."

A day or two later a southern-bound train took the stranger and her child to Jacksonville. Her young friends accompanied her to the cars, and it was touching to see her farewell to them. On each head she seemed to invoke a blessing, and by signs she made them write down their names on a piece of paper, which she carried to her lips, and then put in her bosom.

About six months after this, a man, well-dressed, and evidently a foreigner from his broken English, stopped in Westville, and asked to be shown the way to Judge Wright's.

"I am her brudder," he said to the judge, "de deaf and dumb Minna you were so good to. I stop here on my way to tank you, and de blessed children who help her. I am not poor man, and I want to pay you back."

"No, no, my friend," said Judge Wright. "The children who helped her, by their own labor—for no one else gave any money—would be terribly hurt if you offered to pay them. Let them always feel that they have done a kind and worthy act. And now tell me about your sister. She reached you safely?"

Tears stood in the man's eyes.

"She did come safe, my poor sister. She lose her trents on de car dat broke; she lose her money, and I tink she lose her senses little while, till you help her. Her boxes she send to me by express de day before de accident, so dey get to Jacksonville safe. I vent to Alvord and dey told me all de Germans were killed. Ach, wheu I hear dat!"

"Well, it is over now, and she must be happy to be safe with you."

"Ah, yes!" Herman cried. "She talk on her fingers about your little girl, and all de heavenly, goot children dat help her. She say dey are the angels of de goot Gott; she pray all de time for dem. I cannot stop but one leetle minute before de cars starts, I know, but will you tank de children for poor Minna Herzog, and for me? Ach! Gott will bless dem, for dey began to do well early, and with all dere strength."

The children the following winter received several barrels of fine oranges from Minna Herzog and Herman Boggild. Each Christmas for two years since then some present comes from the poor mute whom they rescued, and whose gratitude seems unfailing.—Youth's Companion.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, as initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in the system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a well ballasted, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent brake and signal and air-brake, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all the trains. Passengers of this route are Transfered at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains run between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are served a la carte. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the shortest and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, sportsmen's resorts, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat, grass and potato lands of Northern Dakota.

The Shall Another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

The retention of any waste matter in the system produces injury. The collection of "phlegm" or diseased mucus in time of cold or throat affection should be promptly removed. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup does it more quickly and effectually than any other cough syrup made.

The leather manufactories at Woburn and Winchester, Mass., on which at least 3,000 people are dependent for support, will be all shut down within a few days. The manufacturers stated two weeks ago, when a new list of wages was presented, that they would be obliged to shut down if compelled to advance wages.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

W. B. Thom & Co., hat manufacturers of Haverhill, Mass., on whose goods there has been a boycott for eighteen months, have come to an agreement with the Knights of Labor.

Rev. D. M. Carpenter, of Clymer, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., writes March 2, 1885: My boy, two years old, took a severe cold which settled in his throat and lungs. Nothing afforded him relief, and I thought he must die. Finally I put an Allcock's Porous Plaster around the throat and one on the chest. In less than an hour his breathing became better, and he fell asleep. In twenty-four hours the child was well.

The local tailors' association of Providence, R. I., has formulated a boycott against H. W. Hudson & Co., merchant tailors of that city, for refusing to discharge several non-union men who had been in their employ for years.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from biliousness, headache, constipation, and all liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. Forty in a vial. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

A despatch from Marshall, Texas, states that the United States commissioner is taking testimony at that place in regard to the strike and cause of the discharge of J. C. Hall.

A perfect sound body and a mind unimpaired are possible only with pure blood. Leading medical authorities indose Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood purifying medicine in existence. It vastly increases the working and productive powers of both hand and brain.

Keene Bros., of Lynn, Mass., have not yet settled with the Lasters' union; therefore, the boycott has not been lifted, and matters remain as for the past nineteen weeks.

Stop and Think

How much money you have thrown away buying worthless medicines, prepared by unprincipled parties, who care not what harm they may do to your system. You can depend on every bottle of Sulphur Bitters as being a reliable medicine. It searches out and cleanses from the blood all impure matter, and makes you feel like a new person.—Boston Daily Globe.

THE HOPE OF NEW ENGLAND.

The last census is not altogether pleasant reading in many portions for the sons of New England, but it conveys lessons which they cannot afford to ignore. If it tells that Maine and Vermont stood stationary as regards populations between 1870 and 1880, it also records the rapid growth and prosperity of many cities and towns which are beginning to tread upon the heels of older communities. It seems to say that to manufactures, not to agriculture, must New England apply herself, and that to the skill of her artisans must she look for her old-time supremacy. This changed condition of affairs is recognized in many enterprising cities, a good example of which may be found in Waterbury, the bustling Connecticut city upon the Naugatuck that is so rapidly coming to the front as a manufacturing center. Waterbury has wide-awake citizens who take every opportunity to push it and to welcome new ideas. The advantage of such a progressive spirit is well shown in the case of G. W. Angell, who lives at No. 204 South Main street, Waterbury, and who gives this personal experience:

"For twenty years I have suffered tortures from chronic rheumatism. The doctors said I was incurable, but thanks to Athlophoros, I have now taken a new lease on life. I had tried numerous remedies with the hope of at least allaying my suffering, but all failed until a friend advised me to try Athlophoros. I did so, and as the result am now looking and feeling as though I had never known what rheumatism was."

Mrs. E. Vickers, of No. 46 Pleasant street, says:

"It is owing to Athlophoros that I am now alive. I suffered with inflammatory rheumatism for years, most of the time being perfectly helpless. One bottle of Athlophoros cured me. I can sincerely say that there is nothing like it for the speedy relief and permanent cure of rheumatism and can recommend it to all suffering from that disease."

The testimony is reinforced by that of Mrs. Jane Downey, of No. 24 Pleasant street, a near neighbor of Mrs. Vicker's, in this story of her case:

"Two bottles of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. My family physician advised me to take the remedy, saying that he had done all he could for me, but could give me no relief. Athlophoros drove the rheumatism away, and I am happy to say that it has never come back. My daughter, who suffered terribly from rheumatism, was also cured by taking half a bottle of the medicine."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE
Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK
Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD
Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

Foreshadowing.

I look within thine eyes, My little child,
And see them dark, and deep, and earnest clear;
They answer widely back in slow surprise
At fears which tell my fear—
My mother fears my sweet one, for thee,
That unawares, within the dusky deep,
May slumberous fires, all unsuspected be,
And dark, strange phantoms sleep.

And all my mother love, My little child,
Yearns over thee, and longs to wrap thee round,
Enfolded safe and warm, my tender dove,
Within love's sheltering bound,
For time will be a strong maturity,
The wakening up, the coming into life
Of thy young powers, whatever they may be,
Will bring thee feverish strife.

Then, oh! for thy sweet soul, My little child!
Could all thy crosses but be mine to bear,
Could all thy burdens my shoulders roll,
Or could I in them share,
Thrice welcome were such pain and weary load.
But, ah, thy tender feet must tread alone
The certain winepress of thy womanhood,
And I must hear thee moan.

And shall I see thy face, My little child,
Grow terror white, may be, at the coming in
Of life's flood tide, o'erweeping all the space
Where shells and pina had been,
For that, sweet heart, will be the full flood tide
When Love comes singing o'er youth's sunny sands
And drowns out all the letters girlhood tried
To trace with dreamy hands.

Oh, then my heart implores, My little child,
That thou be not on mad, wild breakers thrown,
But borne on blissful waves to blessed shores,
Where Love dwells with its own.
Not so, though bitterly my hands may wring
In keenest anguish, which I may not tell,
E'en mother love is impotent to bring
For youth's worst woes a spell.

So I can only cling, My little child,
All closely while I may to thy dear form,
And pray the Father for His sheltering
In every coming storm.
Lord, I Thee trust. And, looking in these eyes,
I pray thee that Thou hold within Thy hand
My darling's future all in tender wise,
And Thou—dost understand.
—Kate Kendall in Boston Traveller.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Effie Ford, with tear-stained face, sat amid a pile of formidable documents. She was in deep mourning. Only one week before she had laid away the remains of her only surviving relative in the shadow of the cross-crowned church over the hill. It was a dismal prospect for a girl of 17, and one who was absolutely ignorant of business. The Fords had always lived in luxury. But on his death-bed Mr. Ford called Effie to him: his articulation was imperfect, but she caught: "Bad investments, mortgage bonds. Poor! Poor * * * Barker will tell you." A few gasps and it was over.

All day she had tried to bring order out of chaos. At last, with a sigh, she tossed the little fringes from her forehead, as if even their light weight were an oppression.

"It is useless," she murmured, "I can make nothing of anything." Then suddenly she remembered, "Barker will tell you." The memory came with a sigh of relief.

A servant answered the bell.

"Take this to Mr. Barker," she ordered, "and wait an answer."

It came in less than an hour.

"Mr. Barker will wait upon Miss Ford at 5." She glanced at the clock. It lacked five minutes of that hour.

Barker was a lawyer in the same town. She had always known him, and she remembered that he had been with her father frequently before she went to school for the last time.

As he entered Effie started. She had thought of him as rather elderly, but the man who stood before her was extremely handsome, and perhaps double her 17 years.

"You are kind, Mr. Barker, to respond so promptly. I did not know what to do, to whom to turn. I can make nothing of papa's papers," she sighed, wearily.

"Of course. What can you know about law?" and together they turned to the perplexing pile.

Barker ran his eye over paper after paper, and a startled look came into his eyes, keen lawyer's though they were.

"Are these all?" he asked.

"I believe so. Papa kept his papers in that secretary; and, Mr. Barker, I know from what he said that there were losses—that I shall not be very well off. I do not mind," she added, quickly, "other people are poor, why not I?"

"Some losses! Not as well off as she had been!" He regarded her queerly. Poor child! Did she know that house, lands, even the costly furniture was covered with mortgages? No, and he determined she never should know. He had no living relatives, and why should he not do for this helpless girl what he would have liked some one to do for sister or wife of his?

"There will be something left after the debts are paid, will there not?"

The pretty pathetic eyes looked squarely into his. He could not answer this child-woman with evasion. "If you will trust to me, Miss Ford, I will do my best. Your father trusted me on several occasions," (he did not added, if that father had been guided by his judgment, his daughter would not now be penniless) "and I am confident I know more of the business than anyone else." He waited her reply.

"Oh, yes, and thank you, Mr. Barker." With a childish, trustful motion, she slipped her hand in his. Barker's experience with women was bounded by aggressive little widows, and soul-terrifying Sally Brasses, and there was a queer little flutter in his manner as he bid her good-night.

Mr. Ford's affairs were in a hopeless tangle. Ruin was inevitable. Such was Barker's verdict, after a reperusal of the Ford papers. "Poor little thing!" he whispered to himself; "she shall never know if I can help it."

Unnecessary Violence,

For which outraged nature exacts heavy penalties, is done to the bowels by persons who with drastic, drenching purgatives make war on those organs in order to relieve their constriction. Constipation is not one of those desperate diseases that require desperate remedies. In fact, it is not a disease at all, but the incomplete discharge of a function, to the healthful renewal of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is far better adapted than drugs, whose action is excessive, and consequently debilitating and injurious. Disorder of the liver, contamination of the blood with bile, sick headaches and dyspeptic symptoms are the attendants of costiveness, and are likewise remedied by the Bitters. Its action is not limited to relieving the bowels naturally and without pain. Used with persistence, and as directed, it perpetuates regularity in the habit of body, and in the operations of the digestive organs and liver. Fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles are prevented and cured by it.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:—

1st: Because the system is now it its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Gunpowder

And guns were first invented by Swartz, a monk of Cologne, in 1340. He never dreamed of the mischief and suffering he made possible. But when C. H. Graves & Sons of Boston decided to bottle and sell, through druggists and grocers, the pure G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, they put within the reach of every one a standard article of medicinal virtues whose excellence is unequalled.

Methodist Conference.

The annual session of the New Hampshire Conference of Methodist churches will convene April 22d at Keene, where the first Methodist Episcopal church in New Hampshire was organized in 1803. The number of church members then in the state was but a few hundred; it now numbers about 16,000, and the church property amounts to more than $700,000 in value.

Naval Intelligence.

Chief Engr. John W. Moore, having completed special duty to which he was assigned, has been placed on waiting orders.

Carpenter Henry Williams is ordered from the League island navy yard to the Philadelphia naval asylum.

Carpenter Herbert M. Griffiths is ordered to the League island navy yard.

Comdr. Joseph B. Coghlan is ordered as equipment officer at the Mare island navy yard.

Lieut. G. Blocklinger, Ensign F. R. Heath and Cadet Engineers Kenneth McAlpine and Otto G. Gsantner, are ordered to the Alliance.

Joseph Bradford of Boston, poet, journalist and dramatist, died April 13th. He was born in Nashville, Tenn., and was a member of one of the wealthiest families in the state. He graduated at the naval academy, and espoused the union cause in 1861, though all his people "went with their state." After the war he made his debut in Baltimore as an actor, and for several years past has been an actor, journalist and playwright in Boston. He wrote "Cherubs" for Robson and Crane, "One of the Finest" for Gus Williams, and "Rose and Coe" for Harry Bloodgood. His memorial poems on Grant, Hendricks and Gough attracted wide attention. He leaves a wife.

Dr. Everett Nelson, under indictment in the United States court for complicity in the Lancaster, Mass., bank swindle, was on Friday reported to be dying in a hospital at Boston, from injuries received in a railroad accident.

J. E. Robinson, cashier of the First national bank of Angelica, N. Y., for twenty-five years past, has gone to Canada, and with him $50,000 of the bank's money.

Some weeks since a woman went to the police magistrate in Exeter, and represented that she was Mrs. Julia Roberts of Newmarket, and wanted to swear out two complaints against liquor dealers for keeping liquor for sale. It was done, and the parties were bound over for the Supreme court. Afterwards it was discovered that Mrs. Roberts never swore out any warrant, but had been personated by Mrs. Maggie Willey of Newmarket, who afterwards fled to Brunswick, Me., where she was arrested on the 15th inst. on the charge of forgery, and brought back to Exeter for trial.

Rev. Wm. A. Hammond of Franklin, who recently ran away to Boston with his wife's money, and was caught and brought back by her, has skipped again, this time to Montreal, taking her silverware and clothes. Mrs. Hammond is reported as saying that her husband is to be joined in Montreal by a woman, for whom he stole the clothes. It is further stated that there is evidence in Franklin of gross immorality on the reverend gentleman's part.

George A. Barrett, a shoe manufacturer of Claremont, is missing. He was in New York on the 6th inst., having with him a large sum of money, and wrote that he should be at home on the 8th, since which he has not been heard from.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Fog Signal Changed. — The lighthouse board gives notice that on and after May 1st, 1886, instead of the double and single blows alternatively, at intervals of thirty seconds, heretofore struck in thick and foggy weather by the fog bell at the Eastern point light-station, entrance to Gloucester harbor, Mass., there will be struck two blows in quick succession at intervals of twenty seconds.

Wreck Lightship. — A lightship to mark where the steamship Oregon is sunk has been placed in position, and the gas buoy taken up. She has two masts, with a red light on the forward one and a white light on the after one. Both lights are visible about ten miles. She is painted lead color, with the word "Oregon" in large black letters on both sides, and No. 20 in white letters on each quarter. She is placed due east magnetic from the wreck, between 200 and 300 yards. In order to clear the wrecks of the Oregon and the Hylton Castle a vessel must pass to the southward of the lightship.

Larger Bell Buoy.—The marine office of Canada gives notice that the small bell buoy off La Have harbor, Nova Scotia, has been replaced by a larger one of Trinity House pattern. From the buoy Mosher's island lighthouse bears N. by W. distant three miles, and West Ironbound lighthouse N. N. E. distant 2 1-8 miles.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

As no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

At Christ church, evening service will be at 7:30, except on Saturday, when it will commence at 5:00; sermon on Maunday Thuasday and Good Friday.

Services at Christ church will hereafter be held in the church proper instead of the Guild room, commencing with Holy Week.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

A meeting of Storer Post, G. A. R., was held Friday evening for the purpose of appointing a committee to confer with Mayor Eldredge and any committee that may be appointed by the citizens in relation to the mayor's proposition to present the city with a bronze figure to surmount a soldiers' memorial, if funds for the erection of an appropriate monument of stone can be raised by subscription or otherwise. It was also voted that it should be the duty of this committee, acting with the citizens, to select a proper site for the monument, and decide upon the most favorable method of raising funds. The meeting was well attended, and a committee of thirty members was appointed, as follows:

Charles H. Besselievre, Lorenzo T. Burnham, Jos. R. Curtis, Marcus M. Collis, George E. Hodgdon, Charles W. Tracy, Charles L. Hoyt, John H. Hutchinson, D. Webster Barnabee, Daniel J. Vaughan, J. Horace Kent, Meshach H. Bell, Oren W. Bartlett, Abel Jackson, Baron Stowe Laskey, John H. Locke, Henry S. Paul, Willard J. Sampson, J. Albert Sanborn, John W. Parsons, Jos. H. Thacher, John W. Caswell, Samuel C. Whittier, Jeremiah F. Hall, David Urch, Freeman F. Sanborn, James R. Morrison, David B. Macomb, Isaac F. Choate, Henry S. Smith.

The committee had a meeting Saturday evening, and appointed a sub-committee of two to confer with some of the most prominent citizens as to future measures.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, April 18th.

John Crowley, for drunkenness, was sentenced to sixty days at the county farm, and to pay $6.90.

DIRECT ROUTE FROM NEW YORK TO MOUNT DESERT.

Now that it is proposed to have a through train from New York to Bar Harbor without change of cars until the point of debarkation on the Maine Central railroad is reached, the wonder will be that nobody had sooner thought of a transfer float for exchange of passenger cars between the railroads terminating in Boston. The story is that the train is to come from New York over the New Haven and New York & New England roads, and upon arriving in Boston is to be transferred by float to the Eastern railroad tracks at East Boston, whence it will be drawn to the summer resorts of Maine, and the passengers will find themselves borne from the miry streets of Gotham to the elysium of the down-east coast without change of cars. Perhaps this new arrangement may be accompanied by the long-desired five-hour time between New York and Boston.

The managers of the railroads beyond Boston will one day become conscious of the fact that the great bulk of travel east of Boston, which goes to and from New York and the south, does not wish to spend unnecessary time and money in passing through Boston. One of these days the Boston & Albany railroad and other lines will awake to the fact that the New York & New England has captured the best part of the travel which comes from New York through Boston, and goes eastward. To-day there is hardly a train leaving or arriving in Boston from the south and west that makes a proper close connection with trains going east.

The schooner Mary Willey, Williams master, last week started on her usual round—to Portland to load corn for Bangor, at the latter place to load lumber for this port. She arrived at Portland on Friday, and cleared for Bangor the same day.

The steamer Pinafore, Capt. Oscar Laighton commanding, shortly before midnight on Friday night started for the Isles of Shoals, having in tow the gondola Cock of the Walk loaded with 15,000 brick to be used in building new ovens in the Appledore house bakery. The fog was thick enough to cut into slices, and the first thing besides fog and water that was seen after leaving the harbor, was the moorings off Appledore. The steamer came in again Saturday, towing the gondola, light.

Mr. Zach Randall, the noted and experienced boat fisherman of Newcastle, has thawed out for the warm term, like the eels, flounders and frost fish of Little harbor. He put in his first appearance at the north end last week with an abundant supply of "crawm."

Joseph and Clarence Caswell started for Cedar island, Isles of Shoals, Saturday night, to commence their lobstering operations for the season.

A marine bicycle bearing a gentleman and a lady went up river Sunday afternoon. She was some time stemming the current at Badger's island, but finally succeeded in getting by.

The U. S. S. Vandalia, recently repaired at this navy yard, returned to Newport, R. I., April 17th, from a successful trial trip.

The lighthouse steamer Iris arrived on Saturday evening, and tied up at the navy yard wharf.

The "lodge," so-called, at the navy yard, took fire on Sunday, but the fire was put out without much damage having been done.

The street sprinklers were out on Saturday, for the first time this season.

Among the games to be played by the Portsmouth cricket club this year will be two with the International club of Lowell, Mass., the first on the 5th of June, at Lowell, and the second on the 5th of July, at Dover.

Rev. James DeNormandie has been invited to deliver the Memorial address in this city, May 31st.

Hon. Daniel Marcy, who has been sojourning in New Orleans during the winter, is now passing a few weeks in Orange county, Florida, with his health greatly improved.

The funeral of the late John H. Grant, who died in West Medford, Mass., last Friday, took place on Sunday from No. 1 McDonough street in this city under the auspices of Damon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and Osgood Lodge of Odd Fellows, of which organizations he was a member. Mr. Grant was one of the last persons—we believe he was the last—to keep a meat store in "Jefferson market," on the ground floor of the city building.

Diamonds, watches, jewelry, fire-arms. Bargains at the Collateral Loan Co.'s sale in Boston next week.

Rev. Wm. A. Rand, superintending school committee of Seabrook, in his report for the year ending March 1st, 1886, gives a very favorable report of the schools and the interest and progress of the pupils during the year. The grammar department of the graded school was during the first term under the efficient direction of Mr. J. Edward Pickering of Newington, who declined to teach a second term on account of a more remunerative engagement elsewhere. Miss S. Lizzie Pickering of Newington taught the first term in district six, and the second term in district four; and the school in district three was in charge of Miss Jennie E. Frink of Newington both terms. All these teachers are highly complimented in the report of the committee.

A very handsome and tasteful tablet has recently been placed over the grave of the late Sewall W. Webber, in the Proprietors' cemetery. It was made at the stone and marble works of Hon. John S. Treat, and in pattern follows the one over the grave of the late Henry C. Walker.

Mr. George Simpson of the Brixham district, York, last week drove into this city two pairs of Durham cattle five years old, and weighing 4000 lbs. per pair, which attracted considerable attention as they stood on the Parade. They were sold to Mr. S. A. Hatch of Greenland.

Mr. Octavius B. Libbey, proprietor of the Brevoort house, New York city, who was last week united in marriage at Charlestown, Mass., with the daughter of Assistant Naval Constructor John F. Hanscom, U. S. N., is son of the late Henry Libbey, formerly a worthy and respected resident of Eliot and Kittery. Mr. O. B. Libbey left Eliot a number of years ago for New York, where by energy and careful attention to business he has so prospered as to have become proprietor of one of the most profitable hotels in the city.

Trefethen & Connor laid eighteen linear feet of the big sewer, and Mr Shanahan put up a man-hole, on Sunday. There is now a section of the four-foot sewer about 375 feet long to complete; a twelve-inch pipe to be laid from the Eldredge brewery to the end of the three-foot sewer; the outlet on the river to finish; and connection to make with the several city sewers now discharging into the north pond.

At a meeting of the governor and council last Thursday, Albert Drew and Levi Ladderbush were pardoned from jail. Ladderbush, who has been confined in Portsmouth jail since last autumn, for being concerned in a drunken assault upon peaceable parties at Houde's hotel, Newmarket, is very low with consumption, and part of his sentence was remitted in consequence.

The governor and council last week appointed Thursday, April 29th, as Arbor day.

seemed to start a vision of a home Eden, where certain eyes looked into his with bewildering love. Bah! What have sentimental love dreams in common with an austere lawyer's office.

* * * * * *

A puzzled face appeared at the office of Barker & Hawkins one day, not long after.

"I am sorry to worry you, but see here!" Effie produced a slip of paper which she held toward him. It stated the existence of a note, covering $10,000, principal and interest, held by one Isaacs & Tobias, brokers in a neighboring city.

"When did you receive this?" He avoiding looking at the captivating face as much as possible.

"To-day; and, Mr. Barker, it must be paid. The $10,000 you saved for me will just cover it. Will you do it for me?"

"Yes, Miss Ford. It is fortunate, however, that I changed the investment. By the new arrangement it has doubled. You can pay this bill and retain the same amount."

"I can? How nice! I thought I would have to go out as a nurse-maid or—something. Mr. Barker, when is your client coming who owns the house? I feel as if I were an intruder, somehow."

"You are not. The favor is to him. I have his word for it."

She still lingered. "Mr. Barker, you have been so kind and good. I wish I could do something for you. If I can ever—will you let me?"

"Yes, Miss Ford."

Effie left the office with a queer, dissatisfied feeling at her heart. Down the drowsing street, filled with lazy shadows, she strolled. As she turned a corner she collided with a rakish-looking youth. He recovered himself with an apology. There was such a frank look in his bright, blue eyes that Effie took to him at once. He accompanied her as far as the gate, opened it, and, with a bow, turned toward the open plaza. "What a very, very nice, accommodating boy," was Effie's mental comment.

She met the "very nice boy" frequently after this. He was 18 and quite idle. He obtained a conventional introduction—Bert Gwynne was his name—and he constituted himself Effie's veritable double. On the street, at church, Mr. Bert Gwynne was always present, and he assumed the attitude with such an of-course-it-is-agreeable-to-you air that Effie became incensed and determined to give him a piece of her mind.

One day he commenced to poke fun at "Old Gabe Barker." Then the dynamite exploded.

"He's not old," she flashed.

"Forty if he's an hour," insisted the provoking.

"I say he's not," declared the frank little lady. "Anyhow, he's not a presuming boy"; great acrimony in the last words.

"He'll make you marry him after a while; now you see. He bought up every one of those notes," cried the badly conducted.

"What notes? Tell me?" Effie was aflame.

"Your father's. Who do you suppose paid the debts? Why, Gabe Barker out of his own pocket. This very house is his," continued he.

"You are a wicked person, and I don't believe one word you say," burst out Effie.

"It isn't such a mighty thing after all. I'd do ever so much more, Effie, if you'd let me. But you called me presuming, and it made me angry."

"So you are. I hate you, and I'm going this minute to Mr. Barker." She flung on her hat.

"I wouldn't. Let it alone. He's well able to do it if he wishes." Bert thought he had never seen Effie so desirable, as with that angry pout and the infinite air of scorn with which she regarded him.

* * * * * *

"Mr. Barker is it so? Tell me. I will know!"; with tear-flushed face she raided in on him. "They say that papa died—insolvent, and—you bought up his no—otes, and tell me!" she implored impassionately.

"Effie, don't! you will be ill. Who told you such cruel things?" He shuffled his papers in agitation.

"Bert Gwynne; he says it is the talk of the place, and——"

Heavens! What had she almost said: He'll make you marry him after a while. He marry her! such an insignificant nobody.

"Effie, listen; I am not going to deny what I have done."

"Then you did! oh!" She went down by the stiff old client's chair in a heap and hid her face in her hands.

"Child, what could I do? The creditors threatened. There was nothing to pay them, and you looked so little and helpless. Besides, it is only discharging an old obligation. Your father was very kind to me when I was a poor lad. Effie, don't be angry."

Sob, sob from the rounds of the chair.

"Is the house yours, too?"

"By heavens, Effie, if you ask me anything more I'll deny everything," desperately.

"Is it, I say?" tempestuously.

"Yes."

Gabriel Barker was as abashed as if he had been confronted with selling illegal whisky.

"Do you hold those notes?"

"Confound that meddlesome Gwynne boy. I'll thrash him to-morrow if I live. Yes, Effie, but they are yours. I have left them to you in my will. Here they are," laying a bundle in her lap.

"Take them away. I will not have them," she said, excitedly. "Unless—Mr. Barker—you tell me how—I—can—pay—you."

"Will you, if I tell you, Effie?"

He opened his arms and she crept close to his heart, whispering:

"Yes, Gabriel."

Bond Service of the Heart.

When by the fire we sit with hand in hand,
My spirit seems to watch beside your knee,
Alert and eager at your least command
To do your bidding over earth and sea;
You sigh—and of that dubious message fain,
I scour the world to bring you what you lack;
Till, from some island of the spicy main,
The pressure of your fingers calls me back;
You smile—and I, who love to be your slave,
Post round the orb at your fantastic will,
Though, while my fancy skims the laughing wave,
My hand lies happy in your hand, and still;
Now more from fortune or from life would
Than that dear silent service to fulfill.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

THE WRONG WAY TO GO UP STAIRS.

Going up stairs on one's hands and knees is a method of ascent not uncommonly seen among infants who are just learning the mysteries and perplexities of ambulation, but fortunately it is seldom that those of mature years have to resort to such means of progress. Mrs. J. C. Chapman, a well known resident of Mansfield, Mass., says that she once tried it and failed, and that others may be deterred from a similar experience it is perhaps worth while to give her experience. Mrs. Chapman now walks as upright as any one, and gives this account of her attempt:

"I was perfectly helpless with an attack of acute rheumatism, and was all doubled up. I could not sit upright even long enough to eat a meal. I tried once to get up stairs on my hands and knees, but failed. After taking everything recommended by my friends, and not getting the least benefit from anything, I despaired of ever getting around again. I had lost all hope of being cured when, like a gleam of light, Athlophoros was recommended to me by a friend who had used it with entire success. I took it and have never been troubled with rheumatism since, now three years. I can cheerfully recommend Athlophoros to any body suffering with rheumatism, for I know from experience that it will make a complete and permanent cure."

From J. A. Crane & Co., prominent druggists of Orange, Mass., comes this statement of a case that came under their observation:

"Mr. Shubel Briggs, of this place, has bought Athlophoros of us. He stated to us to-day that his wife before taking it could not move herself in bed, as she was suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism. After taking a few doses of Athlophoros she could move easily, and before two bottles were finished she had recovered completely and has not been troubled since. Mr. Briggs himself, who was troubled with stiffness in the joints, used some of the Athlophoros and experienced decided relief."

Charles H. Minchew, of Taunton, tells this story of his wife's cure, which was not unlike that of Mrs. Briggs:

"My wife had been afflicted with rheumatism for some time, and I employed a doctor who failed to do her any good. I happened to see Athlophoros advertised and concluded to get and try it. It worked like a charm, curing my wife completely, and I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. George H. Surgens is foreman of the cloth room of the Flint Village, Fall River, Mass. He lives at No. 140 County Street, Fall River. Of his wife's case he says:

"My wife was treated by four different doctors for a severe case of neuralgia of six years' standing. Her sufferings were terrible and the physicians could not allay them, though using the most powerful medicines all the time. As she was getting worse and worse I bought a bottle of Athlophoros, and that brought the first and only relief my wife had. Now she can attend to her household affairs and other duties as though she had never experienced the tortures of that dread disease, neuralgia. When Athlophoros can be had at the nearest drug store nobody should suffer from neuralgia or rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD ACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

To Take Home to Your Wife.

"What shall I take home to my wife?"
—An overheard passing remark.

Take home to your wife a sincere and honest heart,
Kept affectionate, and true and tender;
Kindled well to a glow by a "living altar coal,"
The gift of a giver—not a sender.
Take THAT home to your wife.

When you find a pleasant word afloat on the air,
And are puzzled to know how to catch it,
Bid it come to you at once, for kindest keep and care,
Guard it cautiously and tenderly watch it.
Take THAT home to your wife.

Should you find a bright idea wandering aimlessly about,
And marvel how you best may obtain it,
Set a prompt and careful watch, both within and without,
And, when once you have made out to gain it,
Take THAT home to your wife.

Should there sleep within your soul a little spark of love,
With a tendency each day to growing brighter,
Let the "coal from off the altar" but touch it from above,
And, with your own heart happier and lighter,
Take THAT home to your wife.

Should you spy a little sin in the pathway of life,
No matter how, or where, or whenever,
Toss it back upon the winds—a germ of worldly strife—
Resolving, what may come, that you'll never
Take THAT home to your wife.

Take only to your wife all the good that you know
In the worldly ways of life's daily giving;
Take your heart in your hand when your homeward way you go,
And you'll have at last a life worth the living,
To take home WITH your wife.

—Clark W. Bryan, in Good Housekeeping.

A POSTAGE STAMP.

The Way of the World as Observed by a Two-Cent Postage Stamp.

Primarily I am a stamp; just a common, everyday, two-cent stamp, possessing only such attributes as are peculiar to my class. Indeed, if I were placed among a thousand of my brethren I doubt if the keenest observer would be able to point me out as being in any way distinguished. A vague gloom enshrouds that portion of my life preceding its development into one of the government agents (if I may so call myself); and I indistinctly remember of having once been connected in some way with a copy of an English comic paper which drifted as an exchange into an American newspaper office, and thence quickly into a huge waste-basket. From that time until arriving at my present state I passed through the hands of paper-dealers, paper-manufacturers, and divers clerks and careless people, my last distinct impression being received from an engraver's press.

I can scarcely be called a conceited person; still I am led to believe that my mission in the world is an important one. I am kind-hearted, of agreeable disposition, and well satisfied with my lot. I frequently congratulate myself upon the good fortune which made me what I am. How much better to be, perchance, the bearer of some kind letter, a perfumed billetdoux, if you please, than a vulgar revenue stamp, fit only to adorn a box of ill-smelling cigars or grace a barrel of inferior liquor!

A much hurried clerk places a postage-stamp upon a letter, which he drops into a convenient letter-box, and entirely forgets the circumstances. It humbly serves his purposes; beyond that he does not care. But think for a moment of the travels of that same stamp, of the persons it meets, of the message it bears, and say it is not a sentient being!

After my birth I was carefully accounted for to various commonplace officials, and, after some delay, sent to the post-office at a certain eastern city. I was purchased soon afterwards by Mr. Archibald Warrack, who tore me rudely from my friends, and, after carrying me about in his pocketbook for a day or two, cast me into a certain dark drawer of his desk.

This Mr. Warrack was about 25, tall, graceful, and altogether a very gentlemanly-appearing person. He dressed neatly and tastefully, out with no suggestion to fobbishness. To be frank, I admired him from the beginning of our acquaintance. Regarding his social and financial status, he was a gentleman of artistic tastes—one of the grand army of dilettanti—possessing an ample bank account and a pedigree which was never questioned.

The desk, into a drawer of which I was so ignominiously thrust, stood in a sunny alcove separated from Mr. Warrack's studio by a heavy portiere. This little apartment was a very pleasant place, and Mr. Warrack spent considerably more time in lounging there than he did in working in the great, bare room adjoining. Art was a hobby of mine, and it was with much satisfaction that I found myself placed in such a congenial atmosphere.

Soon after being transferred to the drawer I have before alluded to I discovered that my quarters were shared by a number of other persons of my own kind who were reposing on dainty perfumed envelopes. They were, however, black stains upon their escutcheons, which showed them to be forever ruined. I made bold to introduce myself to one of these scarred veterans, and, after a few preliminary remarks concerning the weather, politics, and so on, said:

"From your looks (date of cancelling) I infer that you have been dwelling with this Mr. Warrack for some time, and, being a stranger, I shall esteem it a favor if you will tell me such things as you feel at liberty to speak of concerning his private history."

"It's a sad case," said my friend, with a deep sigh. He looked haggard and worn, and was apparently in great distress.

"How 'sad?'" I inquired sympathetically.

"A sad case," he continued without heeding my interruption. "Less than six months ago I was the carrier of a

A Cape Neddick correspondent long engaged in the brick-carying trade, as an officer of schooners sailing out of this port, writes us that "in 1884 the wind was to the eastward 230 days, and rain or snow fell on 127 days; in 1885 the wind was to the eastward 188 days, and rain or snow fell on 119 days. By the wind being to the eastward, I mean some part of the day; some days it would only be to the eastward an hour or two."

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodtJan

Hon. Cornelius V. Dearborn died quite suddenly at Nashua on the 18th inst., in the 54th year of his age. For many years he has been a leading citizen of Nashua. He was appointed bank commissioner of the state in 1858, and superintended the conversion of the state banks into national banks. In March, 1866, he was appointed national bank examiner for New Hampshire; was removed by Andrew Johnson, but was reinstated by President Grant, and held the office till his death. He was treasurer of the Underhill Edge Tool Co., and president of the Indian Head Mutual Fire Ins. Co., and held other positions of honor and trust.

News And Notes.

Capt R. W. Meade, now commanding the Delphin, is said to have been selected as the commander of the new cruiser Atlanta.

Saturday night and Sunday the river at Montreal rose so that much of the city was flooded, the water standing six feet in many streets. The flood, which was caused by an ice jam in the river, is the worst ever known in Montreal, and the loss amounts to millions of dollars.

In New York, Monday morning, all the street railroads were "tied up" by order of the Empire Protective Association. On ten or twelve of the lines the men said they had no grievances to complain of, but were obliged to strike by the orders of the union.

It is reported that 600 houses in the town of Stry, Austria, were burned and many people killed, over 100 being killed in one street.

The cholera has appeared at Brindisi, Italy.

Mrs. Virginia Thompson, a republican, having been re-appointed postmistress at Louisville, Ky., over 5000 democrats met in mass meeting to denounce Congressman Willis and President Cleveland.

The strike of union switchmen on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Chicago is over, the strikers and railroad managers having compromised.

Eight kegs of giant powder exploded while being unloaded from a train at Cleatonville, Wisconsin, killing the baggage master, telegraph operator and a brakeman, and seriously injuring the conductor and three other men.

Michael McQuirk, aged twenty-three, and Ellen Haley, aged twenty-one, were drowned in the river at Hartford, Conn., April 18th, by the capsizing of a sailboat.

The Boston Sunday Globe of the 18th inst. had twenty pages, eighty-five columns being taken up by advertisements—the largest number ever printed by a Boston papers.

The demand for all kinds of fish in Gloucester last week was very light, and prices correspondingly low. The fresh mackerel carried into the metropolitan markets by the southern fleet tended to stop traffic in salt fish and fresh halibut and cod, and very few orders were taken by the Gloucester dealers. The receipts of codfish during the week were very large, and of halibut larger than for any week in a long time past; but there was no call, and halibut brought only four cents a pound, for white and gray—and this in Lent, too! The Lenten season has done little for the fishermen this year, for though the catches have been large, and often under circumstances of weather and temperature which it would seem should have insured high prices, yet prices as a rule have remained very low for the season, being sometimes down to splitting rates.

A correspondent of the Eastern Star, of Kennebunk, writing from Wells, says that "during the height of the tempest on the 6th inst., while two local fishermen were looking out upon the tempestuous seas which lashed the sandy beach, an object was discovered about one-eighth of a mile from the shore, which might have been mistaken for a school of seals or of large fish, leaping from billow to billow. It was nearly dark and a blinding rain was driving in from the eastward, but the men who witnessed the phenomenon declared that during the let-ups of the storm they obtained a distinct view of the object at sea; that it was neither seal, porpoise, wreckage nor weeds, but a huge animal as long as a whale, but of much more slender proportions. One of the two men who watched the antics of the monster is an old salt, and he affirms that the animal is a counterpart of the veritable sea serpent which he once saw in the Caribbean sea, except that it appears to have grown considerably in the years that have intervened. The huge beast, the witness asserts, swam upon the waves with ease. High in the air it held its head, the size of a barrel, and containing eyes like cups, which gleamed over the sea like electric lights. The animal had neither fins nor legs, and its mouth, which was kept partly open, was armed with triple rows of teeth. It finally disappeared by diving into the ocean. The reputations of the two men who reported the reptile have always been good, and neither of them are addicted to drink. Both declare that they were badly scared." It is a trifle early for the sea serpent to appear, the season of summer travel not having yet set in; and again, there is no earthly use in his appearing off Wells beach anyway, as there is now no hotel there, the Island Ledge house having burned down five or six years ago, and the Atlantic house having followed suit last year.

The consumption of malt and spirituous liquors is falling off in Great Britain, as the tax receipts show. It is the same in this country. The internal revenue receipts from beer are diminishing, while distilled spirits are distanced by bogus compounds whose only potency is to satisfactorily fuddle at a cheaper price than a good article can be afforded. In fact, good liquors are badly boycotted just now.

John J. Hill's fish market at the Spring market is getting into full blast. The lobster cars there, one of which has been recently added, are constantly replenished, and lobsters are boiled every morning at five o'clock.

George Littlefield, who moved from Kennebunk to Lawrence, Mass., in 1845, and worked on the first dwelling erected in the then "new city," has moved back to Kennebunk with his family.

Rev. George M. Payne, recently deceased, the esteemed minister long known in Kittery and vicinity, was in the 75th year of his age. The papers have incorrectly given his age as over eighty.

Bristol possesses a thief who knows a good thing when he sees it. Three months ago he stole a pair of pinchers from J. W. Griffith's bench. Mr. Griffith procured a new pair, and recently the thief returned the old ones and took the new pair.

During the heavy gale of two weeks ago the big barn of John A. Cooper at South Berwick was unroofed, and Mr. Edwin Ham's house was unroofed and all the rooms and furniture drenched with water.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

All three are marines, who indulged in a drunken row on Market street, Sunday.

THE STREETS.

A little effort was exerted to clear up a part of Market square on Monday. The removal of bits of twigs and collections of refuse from the gutters is what is needed, before a rain, and before the grass gets so high as to cover and hold on to the rubbish. The street department is a trifle behind in its spring cleaning, and will have to employ a big force by-and-bye to catch up with the demands of the public for clean streets.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Recently, Secretary Howard of the Granite State Fire Insurance company went to Albany to file certain papers required in order to have his company admitted to transact business in the state of New York. After the papers had been accepted the late collector was shown around the new capital, and was ushered into Gov. Hill's room and presented to that official. Now the governor has an eye on the democratic nomination for the presidency, and was very cordial toward the secretary of the young insurance company of New Hampshire, whose president is known at Albany to be a power in his party in the Granite state. The reporters who were lying in wait for a stock of political gossip concluded that Mr. Howard was a prominent politician from New Hampshire, and as he represented Frank Jones' insurance company of course must be an active democrat. They at once proceeded to make up an interview in which Howard is represented as saying many things which were not talked about, and which the ex-collector first heard of on his return from New York city on Saturday night.

A DIRECT ROUTE TO THE WEST.

The Fitchburg railroad commenced running on Monday a new express train to Albany. It leaves Boston at 10:30 P. M., arriving at Troy at 6:55 and at Albany at 7:25 A. M. Passengers can leave Portsmouth on the Flying Yankee at 7:30 P. M., and be in Albany the next morning, there connecting with morning trains of the Delaware & Hudson, West Shore and New York Central roads for points north and west. For travellers from places on the Boston & Maine road this will be a convenient train in every respect.

LOOKS VERY LIKE IT.

The correspondent of the Manchester Union writes that paper as follows:

From certain moves made by the navy department it is suspected by certain persons that the government is slowly working towards a complete shutting up of the Kittery navy yard. It is said material essential for use is being sent off, and much has gone. Tools have been sent to Washington and to Brooklyn. The entire photographic apparatus has been required at the Washington yard, and will be sent on in a few days. This fact of itself is significant, for the reason that this outfit was used to take views of vessels in progress of construction, the views showing what amount of advance had been made from week to week. The ship houses are rotting, it is claimed, the material left is going to the dogs, and everything looks as if the Kittery navy yard was nearly a thing of the past. The office building at the centre of the yard leaks at every rain and the rooms are flooded, etc. The monthly allowances at present for repairs, etc., are smaller by at least $5000 than at any time within thirty-five years. In a few more months the loss by delay will be larger than the expenditures of the last six months.

From the accession of Mr. Whitney to the secretaryship of the navy, down to the present time, it has seemed evident that his aim was to aggrandize the New York navy yard at the expense of the others—to make that the navy yard of the Atlantic coast, and let the others drop into innocuous desuetude.

A CONTRAST.

The Dover Republican makes the following comparison:

In Portsmouth, last year, there were 988 tramps lodged in the police station, and 986 arrests; the amount of fines and costs collected by the marshal, $760.60, and $581.69 was paid into the city treasury. Compare these figures with those of Dover: Here we find that there were 678 lodgers during the year, 381 arrests, that the costs collected amounted to $2,155.35, and $1,749.69 was paid into the city treasury. The clerk of the police court has also paid to the city treasurer $214.16, making a total received by the city of $1,964.20, or $1,382.57 more than Portsmouth.

Why the Dover police establishment, with about one-third the number of arrests made in Portsmouth, should collect about three times the total amount of fines and costs collected in this city, is to a considerable extent explained by the fact that in Dover a good many of the liquor sellers are hauled over the judicial coals, while in Portsmouth it is the liquor drinkers, who mostly don't have any money, that are principally looked after.

A call for a meeting of citizens to be held in the common council chamber on Thursday evening, 22d inst., to consider the subject of a soldiers' monument, was being circulated for signatures on Monday.

Harry Bloodgood has for many years been deservedly popular, as one of the best low comedians on the stage, and his "Happy Thought Co.," which will appear in Music hall Thursday evening, is said to bubble over with fun. See advertisement.

Daniel E. Leavitt has made many improvements in and around his new residence at the corner of Middle and Union streets. None of these, as far as the public are interested, seem equal to that caused by the substitution of granite curbing for the fencing around the front yard. Nothing improves a house and grounds as much as the removal of these fences, as has been of late done in several instances in this city.

Capt. R. F. Bradford has purchased the lot in rear of his estate on Court street, extending his grounds to the boulevard at the millpond.

There is a very nice painting on exhibition at Montgomery's music and art store, painted by W. Stott, a talented artist. It is entitled "Cold comfort," and any one looking at it, who has ever been in a similar situation, can well appreciate it.

Alderman Coffin has regained his usual health, and is able to attend to his official duties. He has just returned home from his professional work of decorating the Baptist church at Brentwood.

A man named Charles Doeg, said to belong in this city, recently had a finger taken off in a shoe shop at Dover, and last week received from his shop mates a purse of $125.

Last Friday noon there arrived at the North Hampton railroad station a car from Montreal, containing sixteen horses billed to W. M. Clapp. Nobody knew who or where W. M. Clapp was, and the horses were accordingly put in Charles Batchelder's stable, where they remained until three o'clock Monday afternoon, when a despatch came to ship them back to White River Junction, they being destined for New York state. As the horses were unusually fine animals, their value being estimated by horse men at from $200 to $500 each, it is singular that they should not have been accompanied by a man to look out for them.

Henry W. Donnell, of Cape Neddick, was drowned early in the morning on the 18th inst., near Talpey's cove. He was going to haul his lobster pots when his dory went on a sunken rock a few rods from shore, and was capsized by a sea. A man on shore who heard his cries for help was unable to reach the spot in time to save him. He was about thirty years old, and leaves a widow, formerly a Miss Wilbur, and one child.

A small boat, while sailing by Boiling rock on Sunday afternoon, was capsized at the point where she struck the strong ebb tide. Nathan and Frank Spinney were sailing her. Nathan went under twice, but Frank clutched the keel of the boat as she turned bottom up. They were rescued by Charles Tetherly of Eliot neck, who seems to be an adept at the salvation business.

The schooner Jonathan Sawyer, the latest addition to the Dover Navigation Co.'s fleet, sailed from Rockland, Me., on the 17th inst., with a load of lime for Jacksonville, Fla. After discharging she will load at a southern port with lumber for New York.

The tug Ann is manned as follows: George W. Drew, master; Thomas H. Abrams, mate; George W. Tebbetts, engineer; Charles Drew, fireman. She has already done considerable work, among her tows last week being the Loella to the lower harbor, the Lizzie Guptill to the Concord railroad wharf, and the three-master William T. Walker to sea. On Saturday she towed Sise's scow to the marine railway at Kittery, to be caulked by Jesse N. Wilson. Sunday she towed an oyster schooner from the city down to Doane's wharf; and on Monday took out three brick schooners, the Satellite, Chilion and J. Chester Wood, at one tow, and afterward the Lizzie Guptill and Oreste.

The following are among the transfers of real estate recently recorded in the office of the register of deeds for York county: Kittery—Mark Blake of Kittery to Joseph B. Warner of Cambridge, Mass., real estate on Gerrish's island for $1. Eliot—Mary J. Gowen to Daniel Stacy, three and one-half acres of land for $150. York—Harriet J. Emerson to John I. Banks et al., thirteen acres of pasture land for $350. South Berwick—Jacob Brierly to Charles H. Bennett, land at South Berwick Junction for $120; Ebenezer Wadleigh of Methuen, Mass., to John Drew of South Berwick, wood land in South Berwick for $1500. Wells—Josiah Storer to Oscar W. Clark, woodland for $137.50; John Rankin to Oscar W. Clark, woodland for $12.

Capt. Ira Whidden is making quick trips in the schooner Chilion, and seems to have the luck of favorable winds. She arrived at Portsmouth bridge on Friday, from Boston, sailed directly up to the brickyards, came down on Monday, loaded, and was towed out by the tug Ann.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

[Concluded from 1st page]

letter written by a young lady named Rariden—Miss Helen Rariden—to Mr. Warrack, the gentleman whose acquaintance you have recently made. This letter was written in reply to one from him in which he exhausted all the available adjectives of the English language in the sincerest avowals of love, closing with an offer of his heart and hand."

"And the letter of which you were the bearer contained——"

"Her acceptance," he said, completing my sentence. "Helen Rariden is a beautiful woman, gifted, wealthy, and of excellent family. At the time I parted from her, or rather at the time she parted with me, she loved this fellow with all her pure soul—loved him as man was never loved before, and he doubtless cared for her—then."

The emphasis of this last word was destroyed by a pitiful sob, and for a few moments my friend was so moved that he could not speak. I waited patiently until he again began:

"Shortly after the engagement, which naturally followed, Helen (I take the liberty of so calling her) was compelled to accompany her mother to Europe on a trip undertaken in the hope of benefiting that lady's health. The parting of this Mr. Warrack with his promised bride was tender and touching. I was present at the time in the gentleman's left-hand coat-pocket, and felt the beating of Helen's heart with a distinctness for a few blissful moments. I admit that it was an embarrassing position for me to occupy, but I could not well withdraw, as I was then very much attached to this letter, as I am now."

I smiled at this bit of pleasantry, but my neighbor pressed a convenient pen-wiper to his misty eyes and resumed his narrative.

"After Helen went abroad Warrack was morose and melancholy for a while; he began several pictures with which to occupy his mind—gloomy conceptions to correspond with his state of feelings. He first began what he called 'Arthur and Guinevere'—the parting scene, you know. He sketched and daubed at it for a week or so, but kicked it off the easel one day in a fit of impatience. When Helen's first letters came to him (they are in the next drawer below, embellished with cold, haughty foreign stamps), he replied promptly and at great length—tender, loving messages. O, how true he was!"

The stamp smiled bitterly.

"But he soon became neglectful and would toss Helen's notes into a corner of the desk and not even open them. Of course, under these circumstances, Helen did not write so often, and I soon began to notice a change in Warrack's manner. He became cheerful and planned some joyous pictures; one of them, a 'spring' landscape, is on his easel now, and he has ordered the canvas primed for a contemplated work to be called 'The Lifting of the Clouds.'"

"And what is the cause of this sudden change?" I asked.

"He is interested in another direction," was the reply.

"And what of Helen?" I inquired.

"She is still true," answered my friend in a tone of conviction.

This ended our conversation for the time being. My fellow-lodger drew back into a dark corner and remained silent for several days.

In the meantime Mr. Warrack seemed happy; he spent much time in singing and whistling snatches of tunes, chiefly from light operas. He painted a little when in the right mood, and I observed through the keyhole of the drawer that the "Lifting of the Clouds" was progressing finely. It was with pain that I thought there might be some connection between the title of the picture and the growing coldness in the manner of the young people towards one another, judging from the dwindling of their correspondence.

A few days after my conversation with the elderly stamp Mr. Warrack opened our drawer and threw in an unopened letter which he had just received. As soon as he went out my friend snatched it and examined it eagerly. The envelope bore the card of a Venetian hotel and a canceled postage stamp whose language we did not know.

"From Helen?" I said interrogatively.

"Yes," was thy mournful reply.

Time wore on. It is a fashion time has, in the life of lowly postage-stamps. Spring came tripping down her bright, flower-mailed path, and in the darkness of our habitation we felt the stirring of reawakened life. Mr. Warrack did not enter his studio for days at a time. When I spoke of these long absences to my chum he only answered in the language of Tennyson:

In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnished dove;
In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

"Turns to thoughts of his new love while he forgets the old," I suggested.

"Poor Helen!" he said. "O, woman, you alone are long-suffering and true."

Spring, summer and fall.

One bright autumn day, as my friend and I were conversing in our quarters, Mr. Warrack, who was sitting in the alcove reading a newspaper, cut from its society columns two items which had, through the instrumentality of fate and typographical "make-up," been printed in this order:

Cards have been issued for the wedding of Mr. Archibald Warrack, the rising young artist, and Miss Florence Springer, daughter of Jay Winter, the poet.

"O, the perfidy of man," said my poor stamp friend when I had finished the reading.

The other item read:

A cablegram from Venice announces the marriage at that place of Miss Helen Rariden, who has been sojourning abroad for some time past, to Sir Arthur Lombard, of London.

"The devil!" gasped my friend through the dust which covered him.

"Not the devil, but the way of the world," said I.—W. M. N., in Chicago Tribune.

COD LIVER OIL NO GOOD.

Physicians Discontinuing It.

(From the Buffalo, N. Y. News.)

Experience has shown that cod liver oil has no nutritive power, and, besides this negative character, the accumulation of fatty matter which follows its use, deranges the alimentary canal. "Any kind of oil is trying to the stomach, even when the system is in a healthy condition, and how much more must it be when the digestive organs are weak, and are dosed with something of the most unpalatable character. The quantity of cod liver oil which is ordered to be taken daily, is always in excess of the capacity for digestion and absorption, and injurious results naturally follow. In fact we would hear of more cases in which serious harm has been caused by cod liver oil were it not that in order to swallow it, the patient mixes it with whiskey, and the alcohol thus taken neutralizes the evil done by the oil. It is a fact laid down by all chemists and scientists that nothing will reanimate a disordered system or promote digestion, which has been impaired, quicker or more effectively than alcohol, and as this is what medical men aim at in their treatment of the sick, it follows that they are now largely prescribing simply a pure whisky and discontinuing the use of cod liver oil entirely. None of these so-called cod liver oils pretend to have more than 50 per cent., and some of them only 20 per cent. of pure oil. Some of it is Shark Oil, which has been found to have no medicinal effects, in fact, it is found worse than the cod liver oil. Two ounces of alcohol contains more nutriment than is found in twelve ounces of lean meat, besides it is the only medicinal article that enters the blood direct, without any digestive effort on the part of the stomach, while cod liver oil is so indigestible as to necessitate the employment of other agents to aid its assimilation, and, as a consequence, leaves the stomach, which of a consumptive patient is always weak, in a weaker condition than ever. As stated, whiskey is now the recognized treatment for consumption, but let the patients be careful to see that the whiskey they use is absolutely pure and free from fusel oil, and made from malt, such as Duffy's pure malt whiskey, which latter is the only whiskey that combines a food quality with a stimulant.

The bishop of Madrid, Spain, was shot three times on the cathedral steps, Sunday morning, and fatally wounded, by a disrobed priest, who would have been torn in pieces by the populace but for the police.

The retention of any waste matter in the system produces injury. The collection of "phlegm" or diseased mucus in time of cold or throat affection should be promptly removed. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup does it more quickly and effectually than any other cough syrup made.

The Harvard university boat crew have been talking of going to England to row Cambridge, but the scheme has been given up.

Scrofula diseases manifest themselves in the spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, and removes every taint of scrofula.

The Oak Hill church, near McDade, Ill., was burned recently, and a man named Christian was tried and acquitted on a charge of setting it on fire. Sunday night last, while walking with his wife, he was met by a mob and riddled with bullets.

Catarrh.—For fifteen years I have been greatly annoyed with this disgusting disease, which caused severe pain in my head, continual dropping into my throat and unpleasant breath. My sense of smell was much impaired. By a thorough use for six months of Ely's Cream Balm I have entirely overcome these troubles. J. B. Case, St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and 11th St., New York. Not a liquid or snuff.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a growth of hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 100 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons. It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

A MAP

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at Initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that System, and through interchange which it offers and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous rails, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well appointed, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and unsurpassed Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten, Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Northern Illinois and Iowa, as also the most desirable routes to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Chicago, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

The moulders, 150 in number, of the Philadelphia & Reading Co., at Reading, Pa., have struck for higher wages, and the foundry has been closed.

Rev. D. M. Carpenter, of Clymer, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., writes March 2, 1885: My boy, two years old, took a severe cold which settled in his throat and lungs. Nothing afforded him relief, and I thought he must die. Finally I put an Allcock's Porous Plaster around the throat and one on the chest. In less than an hour his breathing became better, and he fell asleep. In twenty-four hours the child was well.

Two thousand masons' and plasterers' laborers struck in New York on the 19th, for more wages.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from biliousness, headache, constipation, and all liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. Forty in a vial. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

An attempt was made Monday afternoon to run cars on the Third Avenue railroad in New York city, but a mob of about 2,000 men wrecked the car, beat the driver and injured two policemen. The police, 175 in number, then charged the mob, arrested eight and hurt a great many others.

A perfect sound body and a mind unimpaired are possible only with pure blood. Leading medical authorities indose Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood purifying medicine in existence. It vastly increases the working and productive powers of both hand and brain.

Stop and Think

How much money you have thrown away buying worthless medicines, prepared by unprincipled parties, who care not what harm they may do to your system. You can depend on every bottle of Sulphur Bitters as being a reliable medicine. It searches out and cleanses from the blood all impure matter, and makes you feel like a new person.—Boston Daily Globe.

All the New York horse railroads except the Third Avenue were "untied" Tuesday morning, and ran cars as usual.

McCLELLAN AND BURNSIDE.

The recent death of General McClellan leaves but few living of those unfortunate commanders who found themselves unequal to the great responsibilities placed upon them during the civil war. Burnside, Halleck, "Fighting Joe" Hooker, and others, had passed away before him, honored by the nation they had served, after having lived down the hostile criticism their official acts had excited. Equal justice will be done to General McClellan, and a true estimate of his abilities as an organizer and a soldier will be recorded. In his political ambition the genial Burnside was far more successful than his old commander, and death found him a senator from Rhode Island. McClellan might have been a cabinet officer but for factional quarrels in New Jersey which made his appointment inexpedient.

Rhode Island's devotion to her handsome senator illustrates a happy characteristic of the smallest State which still distinguishes her. General Burnside was not a native of "Little Rhody"—having come east from Indiana—but he had the right timber in him, and was made governor and afterward senator of his adopted State. The same spirit may be seen in her citizens to-day in their hearty reception of that which will be of benefit to them. A case in point is that of Mr. John A. Bishop, of Central Falls, R. I., who tells this story:

"For eighteen years I suffered with neuralgia and never got any relief until I took Athlophoros. After that had cured me of the disease I became afflicted with sciatic rheumatism, for which I was treated by two doctors. Neither of them did me any good, in fact I grew worse under their treatment. Again I began taking Athlophoros, and, strange as it may seem, relief came almost instantly. The pain abated so that I was able to get around in less than three days, and as I daily grew stronger the rheumatism left me altogether."

Mrs. S. T. Goss, of No. 42 Dudley Street, Providence, can confirm this seemingly wonderful cure out of her own experience. She says:

"For thirty years I suffered with muscular rheumatism, during which time I used every known remedy and all sorts of prescriptions from physicians. At times I would gain a little relief, but only for a short period, after which the disease would attack me with renewed violence. It was while I was suffering one of these very severe attacks that a friend spoke to me of the wonders Athlophoros was doing and advised me to try it. I did get a bottle and in two days after beginning to use it was on my feet. Athlophoros is now kept in my house and is looked upon as indispensable. It is the greatest preparation I ever knew of and will cure rheumatism just as it is claimed it will do."

Mr. J. D. Payne, one of the most prominent citizens of Westville, Ct., where he has pleasant home on Fountain street, is outspoken in his praise of Atlophoros.

"I did not think there was any cure for rheumatism," he says, "but I am pleased to say that there is and that it is Athlophoros. Three doses of it cured my wife of rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CAPE BRETON FOLK.

The Open Air Sacrament and Communion Sabbath Originated by Covenanters.

The sacrament in the open air originated with the Covenanters, when they met by stealth in the fields or woods for their forbidden worship. It was thus established in the Lowlands with the organization of Protestantism, and it still continues to be a characteristic feature of the Highlands after its discontinuation in the Lowlands. The sacrament begins always at eleven on Thursday. This day is regarded as one of preparation; the spirit of it is that of fasting and humiliation, expressed in the usual services; the singing of the psalms of David, prayers, and a sermon—all in Gaelic. The singing is what first impressed me as perfectly unique. The precentor sings in a low and exceedingly plaintive voice, a soft pronunciation, and a timid expression; his recitatives are as austere as Gregorian chants, but full of little notes and slurs, and by contrast his phrases are rendered still more touching after the mass of sound coming from the people. The congregation also sings with softness; but as individuals have their own time, discords prevail, the long syllables are drawn out beyond measure, with a nasal drawl, and the shorter ones are clipped off and swallowed. But the ordinary irritation produced by these defects is not felt. In the complete absence of rhythm you feel less the defects of time; in fact, so drawling is the execution that you just abandon all requirements of time, and accept the effects of intonation alone. These Gaelic psalms often have an extraordinary effect; when the people at times happen to unite their plaintive voices on certain long notes and slurs, the multitude sends up a subdued wail that is wonderfully touching. The preaching was not less interesting than the singing. One of the worthy ministers seemed to me of a type perfectly suited to the scene. He was a patriarch in years, in fatherly kindness, in serenity and simplicity. His cherubic face, set in a frame of gray hair and beard, seemed to be made for smiling; but some interior power had won half of him over to severity—at least it seemed so at times when one brow, one eye, one side of the mouth, all contracted with an expression of gloom. Standing up in the little sentry-box with his hands clasped on his rotundity, he waited in silence for some moments, until he had established himself in a slow swaying motion from side to side; this swinging seemed essential to all those Cape Breton speakers and singers. Soon he started, in a very low voice, a humming, a word, and a hesitation, all together; and the hesitation often triumphed, made him wait again until more swinging had evolved a suggestion.

Communion Sabbath is the most important day of the sacrament in both a religious and a social point of view. At an early hour the roads were througed with men and women on foot, on horseback, in open buggies, and by ten o'clock the grounds were well filled with people shaking hands, passing salutations; some were arranging quietly the preliminaries of horse trades and other transactions, and all were enjoying the one unfailing public gathering of the year. The enjoyment, however, had to be detected beneath a very grave mien and low-voiced talk. The crowd that day, having a larger proportion of the young and the worldly people, was more mixed in its composition, but the elements kept pretty distinct, for the devout and the elderly formed the group nearest the "tent," while those of lesser degrees of piety made concentric circles thereabout. While the usual services went on, many groups of lads and lasses on the outskirts exchanged notes, threw one another motto candies, and even kept up conversations in undertones. I was told that at a sacrament some young men once established themselves in a wagon near by, and burlesqued the communion service with crackers and the whisky bottle. Now and then an elder walked about the ground and called for order. The arrival of a wagon aroused every dozer, and turned every head toward the road. A glance at the assembly, even at the most solemn moments of the service, left one ignorant of the fact that anything of interest was going on at the central point, for all classes had the singular habit of sitting or lying or standing with their faces turned in any direction. It seemed in this respect to be a picnic of deaf-mutes. The occasion showed in a striking way the hardihood of this people, their indifference to discomfort, the force of tradition among them, and, in some cases, the absorbing sincerity of their piety. All day long it rained, a cold east wind from the Banks of Newfoundland swept up the valley in gusts, and the chill was well-nigh unendurable to me. And yet the good patriarch preached on in his eternal way; the services kept their usual proportions; for nearly six hours men and women of three generations sat on the wet ground, the men all bareheaded, most of the people without the shelter of even an umbrella or a waterproof. Even when bad weather prevails during all five days of the sacrament it does not shorten the sermons. After the customary services of prayers, psalms, and sermon, the minister "fenced the tables;" that is, he spoke to the effect of excluding those who were not communicants, and encouraging those who held "tokens" to come forward. When the communicants had taken their seats and the "elements" had been placed on the table, the minister came down from the "tent" and read before the institution of the sacrament, 1st Corinthians, chapter xi., verses 23 to 29. Meanwhile a deacon collected the "tokens" from those at the table. After a prayer and an address, the minister broke bread and gave it to Unnecessary Violence, For which outraged nature exacts heavy penalties, is done to the bowels by persons who with drastic, drenching purgatives make war on those organs in order to relieve their constriction. Constipation is not one of those desperate diseases that require desperate remedies. In fact, it is not a disease at all, but the incomplete discharge of a function, to the healthful renewal of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is far better adapted than drugs, whose action is excessive, and consequently debilitating and injurious. Disorder of the liver, contamination of the blood with bile, sick headaches and dyspeptic symptoms are the attendants of costiveness, and are likewise remedied by the Bitters. Its action is not limited to relieving the bowels naturally and without pain. Used with persistence, and as directed, it perpetuates regularity in the habit of body, and in the operations of the digestive organs and liver. Fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles are prevented and cured by it.

During a fight with tough street characters in South Boston, Mass., Officer Sullivan was shot through the wrist and horribly kicked about the head and body. He shot one of his assailants twice, and physicians say both men will probably die. Another rough is under arrest for shooting the officer.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. This is not talk, but truth. One pill to a dose. To be had of all Druggists. See advertisement.

Employes and guests of the Clinton hotel, Utica, N. Y., had a narrow escape from suffocation, the building early Sunday morning being destroyed by fire.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, In Incipient Consumption seems to possess remedial powers of great efficacy. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Makes pure blood and builds up and fortifies the system against further inroads by disease.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

A committee from the Knights of Labor waited upon the mill agents in Manchester on Monday, and asked for a reduction in the hours of labor to sixty hours per week, the same as in Massachusetts. The agents made no definite reply, but another conference will be held.

Gunpowder

And guns were first invented by Swarts, a monk of Cologne, in 1340. He never dreamed of the mischief and suffering he made possible. But when C. H. Graves & Sons of Boston decided to bottle and sell, through druggists and grocers, the pure G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, they put within the reach of every one a standard article of medicinal virtues whose excellence is unequalled.

The Great Strike.

A. R. Moore of Brockton, Mass., of the executive board of the Knights of Labor, was in St. Louis on the 19th, in consultation with the members of the board there. A despatch says "The object of Mr. Moore's visit was to discover the true situation. He told the executive board that it seemed necessary to him that the assemblies he represented (Nos. 30, 77 and 86) should take immediate action in support of the strikers. The board agreed with him, and Mr. Moore left the city with the intention of recommending the shoe and cotton workers of the eastern states to fall in line with the strikers on the south-western railroad system. Their assemblies will request the shoe and cotton manufacturers to boycott the Gould system by refusing to ship freight over it. If the manufacturers refuse, a strike will be ordered, and nearly 100,000 workers will drop their tools and join the great army of unemployed. Should this move not have the desired effect, the strike will probably be extended to other interests and may involve the whole country." District assembly No. 30 is located in Massachusetts, and is the largest district assembly in the country. It is composed of 300 local assemblies, which have a membership of 40,000. In the membership of the three district assemblies are enrolled the cotton and shoe workers of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine.

It is stated that the Knights of Labor have decided to extend the railroad strike. The new move, if carried into effect, will include nearly 100,000 railroad workers, as well as millions of capital.

It is reported from Pittsburg, Pa., that the Knights of Labor of district assembly No. 3 intend at once to boycott the Western Union Telegraph company, as the beginning of the war against Gould. They will ask all business men not to patronize the Western Union, and those who persist in doing so will be boycotted.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., April 19th.

Last Tuesday afternoon Mr. J. P. Norton, proprietor of York brick-yards, lost a valuable horse. His death was the result of over-eating grain, he having got loose during the night before, and eaten a large amount.

Life insurance business is booming just now. Mr. Stevens of Deering, Me., agent of the Maine Benefit association, has taken several applications hereabouts. Geo. F. Plaisted, agent for the same kind of an association, the Provident Aid society, is also doing some work in that way. Full particulars may be learned of him.

Splendid views of the great ice storm of Jan. 28, 1886, showing to wonderful beauty the destruction of trees, etc., in different parts of York, taken by Newell & Co. of Portsmouth, are now on exhibition and sale at Plaisted's store.

Miss McIntyre, daughter of Mr. Leonard McIntyre, has been engaged by agent Parsons to teach the summer term of school in district No. 12.

It is reported on reliable authority that H. E. Evans, proprietor of Hotel Bartlett, will commence an action against the town for damages done to his premises by the late inundation. The sluiceway through the new Long Sands road was not sufficiently large to carry off the large volume of fresh water.

All the west-bound stages from Cape Neddick and York stop at York corner post-office for passengers and express orders. First stage leaves at 7:15 A. M. The second (mail) leaves at 7:30 A. M.

The Congregational society have voted to erect a new building for horse sheds.

Henry W. Donnell, aged about thirty years, living near Concordville, while drawing lobster-pots yesterday morning fell overboard and was drowned. His body had not been recovered up to Sunday evening. A sad loss to the widowed mother.

A petition is in circulation to the selectmen to call a town meeting to see if the town will vote to instruct the selectmen to petition the county commissioners to examine, widen and straighten and newly locate the road from the Hotel Bartlett to York Harbor. The meeting, if called, will be on Saturday, May 1st, at two o'clock, P. M. P.

TUESDAY MORNING, 20th.

The body of Henry W. Donnell, who was drowned Sunday morning, was recovered about three o'clock yesterday afternoon by diver James Sylvester of Kittery. Coroner Geo. F. Plaisted was called, and viewing the remains, decided an inquest unnecessary. The deceased was a very exemplary young man and was highly respected by all who knew him. His age was twenty-eight years, eleven months and eighteen days. He leaves a widow, and one child fourteen months old. The widow has the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends. P.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Grygg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

THE HALO.

"One London dealer in birds received, when the fashion was at its height, a single consignment of thirty-two thousand dead humming birds! Another dealer received at one time thirty thousand aquatic birds, and three hundred thousand pairs of wings!!"

Think what a price to pay,—
Faces so bright and gay,—
Just for a hat!
Flowers unvisited, mornings unsung,
Sea-ranges bare of the wings that o'er swung,
Dared just for that!

Think of the others, too,
Others and mothers, too,
Bright eyes in hat!
Hear you no mother-moan floating in air,
Hear you no little moan,—birdling's despair,
Somewhere, for that?

Caught 'mid some mother-work,
Torn by a hunter Turk,
Just for your hat!
Plenty of mother-heart yet in the world;
All the more wings to tear, carefully twirled,
Women want that!

Oh, but the shame of it,
Oh, but the blame of it,
Price of a hat!
Just for a jauntiness brightening the street!
This is your Halo, O! faces so sweet,— DEATH! and for that!

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PORTSMOUTH.

The citizens of Portsmouth are invited to meet at the common council room on Thursday evening, April 22d, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting a committee to act in conjunction with a committee appointed by the Grand Army of the Republic, and to make such arrangements as may be deemed necessary, in view of the erection in this city of a Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument.

Marcellus Eldredge, J. J. Pickering, Frank Jones, Chaales A. Sinclair, John H. Broughton, Fred E. Potter, William H. Sise, Francis E. Langdon, E. H. Winchester, C. M. Gignoux, John S. Treat, John Laighton, E. S. Fay, A. P. Preston, W. Freeman, William H. Rollins, H. F. Eldredge, William H. Hackett, Henry M. Clark, Calvin Page, C. C. Jackson, J. Albert Walker, T. Salter Tredick, John Conlon.

SUPREME COURT--BLODGETT J.

In Dodge vs. Janvin et. als., the jury found for the plaintiff.

In Bullard vs. Boston & Maine railroad the jury found for the plaintiff, giving her $2,000.

RUNAWAY.

At the comparatively early hour of eight o'clock on Tuesday morning the horse attached to an Agameticus basket team, leading trade dull on Market square, started on the way up Congress street, at first at a slow pace, which was at once increased on hearing the wild shouts of bystanders to stop. Toward Fleet street the team had gathered good headway, and then began an indiscriminate scattering of baskets right and left, until the fiery steed was stopped at the Academy, and the street was able to return to its accustomed condition of quiet and good order.

WHERE TO PLACE IT.

Mr. Editor: As it seems certain that Portsmouth is to have a soldiers' monument, the question as to a suitable location appears to become important. What better spot in the city can be found than the park in front of the residence of our late honored townsman Ichabod Goodwin, our gallant war governor, who unhesitantly placed his fortune upon the altar of his country to preserve the Union when the first call for troops was made and there was no time for legislative authority for his official act? If this lot, which also fronts the residence of our munificent mayor, could be had for this purpose, it seems an appropriate place for the monument. It is designated a "soldiers' monument," but while we cherish the memory of the soldiers let us have thereon something to recall the noble heroism of our naval officers and men in the contests of the Kearsarge, the capture of the Albemarle and the victory on the Mississippi. JAQUES.

An entertainment and Easter sale will be held by the young people of the Middle street Baptist society this (Wednesday) evening in Congress hall. Doors open at five o'clock; supper served at all hours; ice cream, cake and musical exercises the order of the evening. Admission 15 cts., children 10 cts.

We clip the following from the "Table Gossip" in last Sunday's Boston Globe: "A very pleasant affair came off at the Commonwealth hotel last Wednesday evening. About seven o'clock Mr. Edwin B. Rundlett, the principal clerk, was requested to come to the ladies' parlor, where some thirty or forty of the guests were assembled, and by them was presented with a handsome jewel-case containing $300 in gold coin as an appropriate and timely tribute to his many excellent qualities upon the eve of his wedding-day. Ex-Alderman Haldeman was selected by the donors to represent them, which he did in a few felicitous remarks. Mr. Rundlett was evidently taken by surprise, but he proved quite equal to the occasion, expressing his sincere obligation and appreciation."

Mr. Edwin H. Leslie, who since his relinquishment of the office of janitor of the United States building has been employed at the machine shop, on Monday began service with the Portsmouth Brewing company as engineer.

The Easter cards and tokens are more beautiful and artistic this year than ever. They can be found in great variety at Montgomery's, Goodrich's or H. B. Buzzell & Son's.

The large elm on the Raynes estate, near the corner of Elm and Vaughan streets, whose roots were cut away on one side when the new street was made, was partially taken down on Tuesday, being nearly dead. The telegraph, telephone and fire alarm wires had to be removed to give the workmen a fair chance at the tree.

The three-act musical comedy, "Rose and Coe, a curious coincidence," which Bloodgood's Happy Thought company will present at Music hall on Thursday evening, 22d inst., was written by the brilliant journalist, poet and dramatist, Joseph Bradford of Boston, who died last week. Miss Julia Williams, who is with the company, will be well and favorably remembered as the original "Tot" in Denman Thompson's play "Joshua Whitcomb,"

The ladies' committee of the Universalist society would like to have all members of the parish, also all friends who are interested in the re-opening of the church, meet them at their vestry on Monday evening, April 26th, at 7:30 o'clock. PER ORDER.

Harper's Magazine for May is recieved by Goodrich and Moses Bros. It is a superior number of this excellent popular periodical.

Hon. Frank Jones arrived home from New York on Tuesday.

C. E. Boynton has bought the lot of land on the northwest corner of Lincoln and Miller avenues of John J. Pickering, and will build thereon a residence for his own occupancy.

The flower hunters have been having success out in the woods searching for the trailing arbutus. Two prominent business gentlemen of this city, spent a few leisure hours over in Maine the first of last week, and returned with fine bouquets of the fragment blossoms.

Dr. Fay now draws the lines over what that successful business man, if closely questioned, will be compelled to admit is the best piece of horse flesh in Portsmouth. The quadruped is a four-years-old mare, a descendant from the celebrated trotter "May Taylor," formerly owned by the doctor. The doctor generally is a one-price man in his dealings, but he asserts that he has no price for this stepper, as she is intended for his private driving and is not destined for the market.

The rooms in the city building were well occupied on Monday evening. In the aldermanic chamber the assessors were in session; in the common council room there was a meeting of the teachers association; and in the committee room the sewer committee were in session.

The tide-gates of the north mill-pond, which were carried away by the rush of water last winter, are to be replaced in time for holding the pond full of water during the hot season.

An old tree opposite the residence of Mrs. Akerman on Islington street was cut down on Tuesday.

The principal boat-landing at this city now is near the stone store on Market street. Since the mild weather large numbers of boats daily arrive there. Mr. Frank C. Wendell has philanthropically placed there a long bench for the rest of the waiters.

A road-making machine has arrived in the city, for trial by the municipal officers.

The cross-walk which the board of aldermen voted to build at the junction of Vaughan and Hanover streets was being laid on Tuesday.

Mr. Oliver Berry, of Greenland Depot, last spring planted one potato weighing 13-4 lbs., putting one eye in a hill, and in the fall harvested four bushels and twenty-two pounds from it. This big and prolific potato was found in a hill nearly alone by itself the previous autumn, its only companion being a little one about the size of a partridge's egg.

The schooner Ellen Morrison arrived at C. E. Walker & Co.'s coal pocket on Tuesday from New York with 225 tons of coal, which is being discharged by Mr. Walker's stevedores.

The girder of the Portsmouth bridge against which the schooner Estella struck last week, is said to be the same which punched a hole through the schooner Ceres and caused her sinking to the bottom of the Piscataqua some years ago. If the tide had been higher at the time it is probable that the Estella would have shared a similar fate. The river men say that the projection of the girder should be removed. Except for that the schooner would have received no damage.

The brickers Satellite, J. Chester Wood, Ocean Eagle and Chillon, which sailed from this port Monday afternoon, arrived at Boston on Tuesday.

The tug Clara Batemen started at midnight Tuesday night for Boston, having in tow the schooner yatch Una, Rich master.

The schooner Sylph, of Burgeo, Newfoundland, arrived at Gloucester, Mass., April 18th, from the Grand banks, with 30,000 lbs. of fresh halibut—the first Newfoundland vessel that ever arrived at that port with fresh halibut. The price of halibut in Gloucester on Monday was the lowest for many years, three cents a pound.

Freddie Newton has recently shipped thirty barrels of cod liver oil to Smith & Parker of Salem. It is not expected that much more oil will be tried out here this season.

Mr. George A. Foote, a restaurant keeper of Biddeford, formerly of this city, has had a mortgage on his stock and fixtures foreclosed.

William H. Thompson had his nose and jawbone broken and his teeth knocked out by a horse kicking him on Sunday, at Kennebunk.

The York & Kittery Christian association, at the recent annual meeting in the church at Beech ridge, York, elected the following-named persons as officers for the ensuing year: Samuel Carter, moderator; Alsbury G. Goodwin, clerk; Daniel McIntire, Alsbury G. Goodwin, Henry Grover, assessors; Perry Cummings, George McIntire, Joshua M. Bragdon, committee on grounds.

FIRE IN ELIOT.

The large barn of William Kennard, in Eliot, was burned about nine o'clock on Tuesday evening, the 20th inst., with two cows, two hogs, a large amount of hay, farm tools, etc. The house, though situated close to the barn, was saved.

those nearest him, and passed them wine, and then three deacons or elders served the bread and wine along the rest of the tables. Externally it was a company of distressed, abject mourners soaked in the gusts of cold rain, the men's heads covered by handkerchiefs, the women's by black shawls. But they seemed entirely absorbed by their interior experiences, the tortures of conscience, the hopes and terrors of their faith. The sacrament closed with the usual services on Monday, and the crowds then dispersed to their homes.—C. H. Farnham, in Harper's Magazine for March.

Congressman Tim Campbell of New York, who succeeded Sunset Cox, had penetrated to Mr. Vilas' inner sanctuary in spite of the guards, and stood at the cabinet officer's elbow watching him as he wrote furiously and persistently without looking up. Finally Campbell spoke up: "Oi am Congressman Campbell of New York, Mr. Vilas, and Oi have important business with yez." "Talk away, talk away," was the impatient response of the postmaster-general as he went on with his writing. Campbell looked the Wisconsin man all over, and then bristled up like a hen whose feathers are stroked the wrong way. "Indade and Oi'll not spake with yez until yez stop wroiting and insolte me to sit down and give me yer attention. Oi am used to being trated as a gintleman, sor, and Oi have important business with yez, and——" But before he could get any farther Vilas had lain down his pen, and before Campbell left he got what he wanted.

One of the most curiously original collections of books in any library is said to be a botanical collection at Warsenstein, in Germany. At first sight the volumes appear like rough blocks of wood; but on closer examination it is found that each is a complete history of the particular tree which it represents. At the back of the book the bark has been removed from a space large enough to admit of the scientific and the common name of the tree as a title. One side is formed from the split wood of the tree, showing its grain and natural fracture; the other shows the wood when worked smooth and varnished. One end shows the grain as left by the saw, and the other the finely polished wood. On opening the book one finds the fruit, seeds, leaves, and other products of the trees, the moss which usually grows upon its trunk, and the insects which feed upon the various parts of the tree. To all this is added a well printed description of the habits, usual location, and manner of growth of the tree.

The chief roadmaster to the French government railways has made the discovery that the best plant yet found for consolidating the loose soil of a newly-made embankment is by the interlacing of its roots is the double poppy. The ordinary grasses or clovers employed for the purpose require, he says, several months for the development of their comparatively feeble roots, while the double poppy germinates in a few days, and at the end of three or four months its roots are a foot long, and tightly interlaced. The plant is an annual, but it sows itself after the first year. In France it is among the hardiest of the common plants, and if it is so with us also we hope the authorities will not neglect this discovery, as the brilliant hue of the poppy in great masses would be delightful as one flew by it for miles and miles. Perhaps, too, it would impregnate the air with odors bringing sleep to the restless traveler. And next some one will discover an equally scientific use for the daisy and the camellia, and even for the orchid.

Morrison and Randall, writes a Cleveland Leader correspondent, are widely different in their characters. Randall reminds one of a pugilist. He has a heavy jaw, a bulldog expression, and he strikes straight from the shoulder. Morrison is a diplomate. He walks around like a cat, with his soft felt hat pulled down over his eyes. He gives you his hearty shake of the hand and his friendly and seemingly honest eye smiles for everyone. He works in secret. He likes to tell good stories, and he avails more in a social crowd than on the floor of the house. Each of Morrison's friends thinks Morrison cares more for him than he does for any other friend, or even for himself, and Morrison makes as few enemies as Randall does friends. Morrison appreciates the fact that he is a poor speaker. He is ill at ease upon the floor, and looks like a schoolboy making his first declamation. Randall is never more at home than when engaged in a fight before the house. He stands straight up and looks over his opponents with an expression of conscious power. He never quails, never shows any emotion, and he hangs to his purpose like the bulldog from whom his soul evidently came by transmigration. Randall's training as a knocker among the boys in Philadelphia in early life still shows in his conduct after a scoop of years in congressional service.

Never do anything hastily. A man at Atlanta, Ga., after the prohibition triumph in that city sent clear to Newark, N. J., and paid $50 for a mad dog before learning that whisky is not used as an antidote in hydrophobia. He might have sent to Texas and got a snake for 10 cents that would have been of some account to him.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Stockton Mother (reprovingly)—"And doesn't my little boy ask too rudely? 'Give me this' and 'Give me that' won't do, my son. How can you justify such impoliteness?" Atherton (suddenly reminded); — "Why, mummer, you self learnt us 'Just as I am, without one please.'" The quotation being inapplicable, the petitioner was remanded. —California Maverick.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. AS INVALUABLE AS FLOUR.

Ansonia and West Ansonia are two thrifty towns in Connecticut that have become famous for their brass works. These are not their only claims to distinction, however. Apart from many pleasant features common to progressive New England communities, they possess a number of citizens of advanced views who are at present engaged in a work of peculiar interest. One of these is Mr. Reuben Locke, whose home is on Hill Street, West Ansonia, and who is highly esteemed by his fellow citizens. Why he is active in his present work he thus explains:

"Five spoonfuls of Athlophoros cured me of a very stubborn attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I cannot express my feelings of joy at having at last found a medicine that did what the doctors failed to do for me. I esteem Athlophoros as I would my dearest friend, and recommend it because I know that it will do all that is claimed for it."

Mr. J. V. Wightman, of Ansonia, is no less enthusiastic and positive in his belief in the efficacy of this great remedy. He says:

"I believe, in fact I know, that there is nothing like Athlophoros. It cured me permanently of a very severe case of muscular rheumatism. I have recommended it on the strength of my own case to a number of people suffering with rheumatism and neuralgia, and they have one and all been cured by it, and the good work still goes on. On every side I hear the highest praise of Athlophoros."

From Providence, R. I., the same good news is reported. The happy messenger of glad tidings in the present instance is Mr. Isaac Crocker, who is well known to many people in Providence as the paper carrier who brings them their daily papers. Mr. Crocker rejoices over the cure of his son which he describes as follows:

"In the winter of 1882 and 1883 our son, who was then fourteen years old, was very sick with inflammatory rheumatism. He was confined to his bed and suffered greatly. He was very sick until the spring, and his trouble continued up to February of the present year (1885), when he saw Athlophoros advertised. At that time he was unable to move his feet. After taking two doses he could move them without pain, and by the time he had taken half a bottle he was cured. We have recommended Athlophoros to a neighbor who is 75 years old and it has helped him more than anything he ever tried. We would as soon think of baking without flour as without Atlophoros."

Mrs. Millie M. Davis, of No. 193 Whalley Avenue, New Haven, says:

"For three months I suffered dreadfully with muscular rheumatism. In that time I was treated by four different physicians, none of whom relieved me of the pain and distress. They said I had waited too long, and their medicine had no effect. I did not experience the much-sought relief till I took Athlophoros, the very first dose of which eased me so much that I could, for the first time in a great while, sit down to eat my meals. I steadily improved and in a short time was completely cured of rheumatism. I gladly add my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by Athlophoros."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it, express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it of your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

RICHARD GRANT WHITE.

Richard Grant White put his hand to the plow in many fields of literature, and in all he showed the sturdiness that denotes yeoman stock. But, apart from his special taste for music, the most of his studies sprang from his love of Shakspeare. In the case of his theatrical and philological writings this is obvious, and in those which illustrate his attachment to England it is fair to ascribe no inconsiderable part to the fondness which, however invigorated and broadened by other traditions, was primarily due to the great dramatist of English history and life. Essays upon words, stage-usages, and matters of music, observations upon our cousins' ways and customs and modes of speech, international satire, and squibs of all kinds and lengths made up a large part of his industrious literary life; but, for all that, Shakspeare was his profession, and the principal work of his hands was editorial. In some respects this choice of employment was felicitous, and fell in with natural intellectual aptitudes. He had a note-taking mind, and his memory was retentive of details to an extraordinary degree—a quality invaluable to an editor of texts; and in addition to this, his clear-headedness, his shrewd sobriety, his content with a plain and honest-seeming meaning, and especially his contempt for the palaver of refining analysts of the German stripe, stood him in such good stead that he holds an honorable place among the students who have made the critical study of Shakspeare part and parcel of the pride of American scholarship.

The substance of his attainments is to be found, of course, in the various essays, prefatory either to the general work or to the individual plays and poems, which conduce so much to the value of his version of Shakspeare in the way of exposition, criticism, and information; and in these his views are set forth with most modesty, succinctness, and moderation, and his knowledge is deployed with most swiftness and effect. They form, however, only a small portion of his contributions to Shakspeare literature; very much of his labor in his chosen subject was off-hand work, and must be sought in the magazines to which he devoted his less serious moments. Such articles—and their number is legion—usually present some single phase of a Shakspeare theme; and no matter how dry and formal the topic in itself, he makes it entertaining. For it is a distinction of Mr. White's that he always interests; he has the secret of pleasing. His style is wonderfully firm and close-knit; his facts are cold as an iceberg and hard as flint; and he strews the mental way of his readers with the native nuggets of Yankee sense. His individuality counts for more than all. He was himself a character, in the special meaning of the word; one of those impenetrable pieces of nature's workmanship which are malleable by no external influence of culture, society, or circumstance. Such persons cannot open their lips without some self-exhibition; whether their solitude is of the village or of the study, they always speak from within, and echo no man. Mr. White, who was as tenacious of his peculiarities as an Englishman, stamped them upon his writings; and it is due to this that when one reads his words it is, to an unusual degree, as if one heard him speaking. When a man of this sort has the gift of literary expression, he will be a readable author, whatever deficiencies he may have; and this Mr. White was.

The literary form and charm of his style, the hardheadedness of his mind, the practical sense he always displays, make his work, within the limitations which he himself assigned it, of great positive utility; and the sturdiness with which he stood for common sense, in opposition to the eulogistic gush with which Shakspeare, in common with all the greatest poets, is overwhelmed in our times of Swinburnian rhetoric, is something to be very grateful for. He had his pet notions, as who has not? and he was a hard hitter—"Let the galled jade wince!" But he spent his life with his favorite author, and made of him his liberal education; would that the universities afforded so good a one!

His labor was one of love, and it has the value and respect of the best work a man can do, being deficient only where nature herself had denied faculty, in this case on the poetic side. He has gone over to the shelves of the "great majority" of acknowledged commentators, beneath the Stratford bust, and with him go the plaudits of true lovers of Shakspeare for such lifelong and honest service to the god of our literary idolatry.—March Atlantic.

BREAD AND CAKE BOXES.

How to Make and Decorate them Artistically.

Bread and cake boxes in many styles and sizes can be bought at house-furnishing stores, but those who like to have more ornamental boxes to grace the shelves of a glass-doored china closet or wide side-board in their dining-room, and who have a fancy for doing such work themselves, can make very handsome boxes by following the directions given below. No artistic skill is needed to make these pretty boxes, and the result is certainly very showy for the amount of work and time required. These boxes should not be too large; if a large quantity of bread and cake is usually prepared at one time, part of it can be kept in stone jars in the storeroom, from which the boxes can be refilled when necessary.

In the first place have a carpenter prepare a well-joined pine box of the desired size, with a closely fitting lid hung by small brass hinges. Pine imparts a very unpleasant flavor to bread or cakes; to avoid this have made a tin box just large enough to fit tightly within the wooden one, and provided with inside

State of New Hampshire.

A PROCLAMATION

By His Excellency Moody Currier, Governor

For Arbor Day.

With the advice and consent of the Council, I hereby appoint

THURSDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF APRIL, INSTANT,

as ARBOR DAY, to be devoted by the people of this State to the planting of trees, shrubs and vines about our houses, highways and public grounds, thereby contributing to the wealth, comforts and attractions of our commonwealth. And I earnestly request all our citizens to unite in such a general and judicious observance of the day as may be fruitful in restoring the forests to such portions of our lands as are now waste or not needed for cultivation; to aid in beautifying our homes, highways and public grounds with shade and ornamental trees; to encourage the planting of groves, lawns and public places with such trees and shrubs from abroad as may be congenial to our soil and climate and valuable for timber and ornament, so that we may render our State inviting to strangers and pleasing to ourselves; and, finally, to instil into the minds of the living the sacred duty of adorning and making beautiful our cemeteries, by planting them with such trees and shrubs as may throw a tender and grateful shade around these last resting places of our dead.

Our State has established ARBOR DAY by law as a spring holiday and rural festival. Let us then devote this one day to the planting of trees It is a duty we owe to the future. Those who come after us will bless us for the inheritance of comfort and beauty we shall leave them.

Given at the Council Chamber in Concord this fifteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty six. and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and tenth.

MOODY CURRIER.

By His Excellency the Governor, with advice of the Council.

A. B. THOMPSON,
Secretary of State.

The Stomach as a Gasometer.

In the dyspeptic stomach inpure gasses are generated, after meals, that distend and distress it, as well as the bowels. The best carminative for cramps, colicky pains and heartburn or bilious eructations, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Carbonate of soda and effervescing aperients are far inferior to it in efficacy, and as physicians now understand, impair the tone of the stomach. Copious libations of any sort are injurious to the stomach, and to dilute its juices is certainly not the way to increase their digestive usefulness. Aided by the bitters, the digestive organs, when enfeebled and disordered, regain their lost tone and regularity, not, of course, immediately, but with a degree of rapidity highly indicative of the excellence of the remedy. It has the further effect of regulating the bowels and liver, protecting the system against malaria, relieving rheumatism and neuralgia, and increasing constitutional vigor.

England has sent a circular to the powers proposing that, if Greece does not disarm, the powers cease diplomatic relations with her and blockade the Greek ports.

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

The Naval Officer at Boston.

The administration is a little mixed in regard to the question of changing the naval officer for the port of Boston. Mr. Jones, instead of having Col. Hall quietly step out and give place to Col. Kent, had Kent appointed during the recess of the senate "vice Hall removed." The officials omitted to notify Daniel to get out, and after some fuss, Kent being recognized by the collector as the de facto officer, Hall left under protest. Now it appears that Hall's suspension was illegal, and he is entitled to the salary. A new nomination of Kent will have to be sent to the senate. This filling the naval office at Boston with a new man has caused the president and his friends a deal of trouble.

[P. S. Washington advices received since the above was in type announce that Kent's nomination was sent to the senate a second time on the 20th, "vice Daniel Hall, whose term has expired."]

"Bad Latin."

Under the heading "Bad Latin" the New Orleans Picayune says:

Numerous fresh society writers should go down on their knees at sight of a Latin dictionary before they write such a sentence as "Mrs. John Jones nee Emma Smith." Whoa, Emma! The word nee means to be born, and Mrs. Jones may have been born a Smith, but she was not born Emma Smith.

Very good; but wouldn't it be as well to consult a French dictionary in the case?

Wild Indian Views.

There has just been published a set of six stereoscopic views of wild Indian scenes among Red Cloud's Ogallalla Sioux Indians in Dakota. They are the only views published that give the Sun Dance scenes as they were taken on the spot at the last Sun Dance held in 1883, and which were afterward forbidden by the government. The different titles that make up this rare set are as follows: "The Indians at Home;" "The Indians After Rations;" "The Sun Dance Encampment" of 10,000 Indians; "Preparing for the Charge on the Sun Dance Pole;" "Outside View of the Pole and Circle;" "Inside View of the Sun Dance Circle," with dancers in operation. A full and interesting description accompanies each set. The set of six sent by mail for $2; three for $1; or fifty cents each. Address E. A. Fry, Publisher, Creighton, Neb.

The Knights of Labor.

In Washington, April 20th, the examination of Grand Master Workman Powderly of the Knights of Labor by the house committee to investigate the labor troubles drew a very large crowd of spectators. His exposition of the plans and purposes of the Knights of Labor was admirable, and made a fine impression upon all who listened to it. He disclaimed for the Knights as an organization all responsibility for violence or depredations, declaring these not in their line, but that their object was just as much to protect capital in the legitimate exercise of its functions as to promote the cause of labor. All strikes and boycotts were the outgrowth of a failure on the part of members of their body to comprehend its principles. The order was not more accountable for them than the government of a state is accountable for the wrong-doing of citizens who do not comprehend the laws or feel a proper sense of the responsibilities of citizenship.

Naval Intelligence.

The Shenandoah left Panama for Payta, Peru, on the 7th inst.

The monitor Puritan, now at Chester, Pa., has been ordered to proceed to the navy yard at League Island.

The Pensacola sailed from Naples on April 7th for Malta and Alexandria, whence, in company with the Kearsarge, she will cruise along the coasts of Syria and Asia Minor. The Quinnebaug will proceed to Malta and the Barbary coast, and then to the English channel.

The New Departure in Judaism.

The twelve lectures delivered last winter by the Rabbi Solomon Schindler in Boston, and which have been published, mark emphatically the complete abandonment of the ancient Jewish expectation of a political Messiah. These lectures may be regarded as a commentary upon the declaration of the late Rabbinical conference at Pittsburg, Pa.:

We recognize in the modern era of universal culture of heart and intellect the realization of Israel's great Messianic hope for the establishment of the kingdom of truth, justice and peace amongst all men. We consider ourselves no longer a nation but a religious community; and therefore expect neither a return to Palestine, nor a sacrificial worship under the sons of Aaron, nor the restoration of the laws concerning the Jewish state.

This confession of faith is not accepted by all Israelites, but it has the concurrence of the best minds among them; and the exposition of the grounds for this belief goes far to bring Jews and equally liberal Christians into accord and substantial unity. Five lectures on the same subject, delivered on other occasions, are appended to the Boston course.

"Salambo" of Gustave Flaubert, Englished by M. French Sheldon; 8vo, 421 pp.; price $1.50.

This translation, authorized by the heirs of Flaubert, is published by Saxon & Co. of London. The publishers' American agents are the American News company of New York. An introduction by Edward King precedes the translation of this masterpiece of Flaubert. This story of love and war, in itself so superior to the mass of published matter going through the press, is grand and enjoyable in the extreme. Its appearance in the English language will be marked by the enjoyment of thousands of readers who will revel in its richness and appreciate its excellencies. The translator, it is claimed, has achieved a notable success in preserving the vigor of style for which the author is so much noted. The book is dedicated to Henry M. Stanley, the celebrated traveller, a dear friend of the translator. The demand for the book is already almost in excess of the supply at the command of the publishers, to whom orders may be addressed at No. 18 Tribune building, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

The arbitrators between Martin French & Co., shoe manufacturers of Dover, and Mrs. Burgess, late forewoman of their stitching room, decided that the firm were justified in discharging Mrs. Burgess, she not being competent to do the work attempted by her.

The Dover people are agitating the subject of having a reunion of the sons and daughters of Dover resident abroad, on the coming 4th of July.

The base ball nine of the Dover high school will play a game with the Portsmouth high school nine, April 30th.

D. R. Smart, an employe of George Fowler & Son, packers of Kansas City and Liverpool, is missing from New York, and so are $35,000 belonging to the firm.

The lasters employed by T. A. Whicher & Co., of Quincy, Mass., have struck. The men agreed, a few weeks ago, to work for this firm at a certain price. They afterward joined the union, and now demand an increase of wages, which the firm refuses to pay.

Most of the master painters in New Haven, Conn., have agreed to the demand of the Painters' union that nine hours instead of ten be counted a days work, at the same pay that has been given for ten hours.

Three brothers named Weaver were shot to pieces by a mob at Anthony, Kansas, early Monday morning, the 19th inst. They were under arrest for killing Adel Sheard in a fight.

The warm days experienced during the past week were a gentle reminder that winter clothing will soon have to be packed away. Buy champhor at Preston's.

The ladies' committee of the Universalist society would like to have all members of the parish, also all friends who are interested in the re-opening of the church, meet them at their vestry on Monday evening, April 26th, at 7:30 o'clock. PER ORDER.

SUPREME COURT--BLODGETT J.

Charles Douglass, the tramp who broke into Plumer's bake shop in this city, was sentenced to five years in state prison.

John Garrison and James Henderan, the two tramps arrested on Lafayette road, having begged at several houses along Middle street and Lafayette road, were each sentenced to fifteen months in state prison.

Charles Thompson and John Kelly, tramps, each got a year and a day in state prison.

John Daily, tramp, got fifteen months, and Frank Smith, tramp, six months, in jail.

WEDNESDAY, April 21st.

An ineffectual attempt was made to convict a person from Newmarket charged with selling lager beer. The state failed to make out a case, and the accused was acquitted. Page for deft.; Eastman for state.

The court in the afternoon adjourned to Tuesday, the 27th, when all cases for "trial by the court" will be in order.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, April 21st.

Michael J. Geoghegan, James Grogan and William Burke, three itinerants, were before the court for brawl and tumult. The charges against the first-named two were nol. pros'd; Burke was fined $3, costs $6.90, and ordered to the county farm in default of payment.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., April 20th.

Mr. Charles Parsons has moved his family to Nahant, Mass., where he has secured permanent employment with J. T. Wilson, Esq. We are very sorry to note that since the advent to power of the great reform party so many of our good people are obliged to leave town in order to obtain employment.

Rev. Perry Chandler will preach his farewell sermons at the 1st and 2d Methodist churches on Sunday, the 25th inst.

The Good Templars of Kittery are invited to attend the annual session of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, to be holden in Portsmouth on Wednesday, the 28th inst. Col. Geo. H. Bain of Kentucky will address the evening meeting, which will be public.

Mr. Samuel Dixon of Eliot has just received a car-load of selected Rose and Hebron potatoes from Aroostook county, Me., which he is selling to the farmers in this vicinity, especially for seed. The car is at the Green street crossing in Portsmouth. All in pursuit of a really good article should give him a call.

Miss Nellie F. Todd has accepted the position as teacher of the primary school in district No. 9; we congratulate the agent of that district for having secured the services of such a promising young teacher.

Mr. Samuel Carter has been elected agent of school district No. 3, North Kittery.

Mr. Edward R. Fuller, formerly a successful teacher in several of our town schools, has bought out a provision business in York village.

Our roads are now dry and in good condition.

Some of our farmers have their early peas and potatoes planted.

Miss Augusta M. Pettigrew, daughter of T. J. Pettigrew, Esq., of Washington, D. C., will graduate from Comer's Commercial college in that city in May next. Miss Pettigrew is a graduate of our Free High school, class of '84.

SUB ROSA.

PORTSMOUTH TALENT.

We clip the following paragraph from the Boston Home Journal, by its New York correspondent, which we feel sure will interest our citizens, with whom the person therein referred to has long been a great favorite. The paragraph while it shows that her fine talent is as highly appreciated abroad as at home, and more, demonstrates that even among the artists of New York she takes a prominent place.

Miss Edith Wendell of Portsmouth has been creating quite an enviable reputation for her singing. She has been heard at several receptions. Sorosis, and other places, and at each she is considered the particular attraction. She possesses a clear soprano voice, which is bird-like at times. She is a modest young lady, who seems devoted to her study of music, and has evidently received good and careful training. She is a pupil of Mrs. Edna Hall of Boston, and both pupil and teacher have cause for mutual congratulations.

Miss Wendell also sang at a reception of the Philokalia Club April 8th, held in one of the palatial up town residences of the city, where she received many congratulations for her fine singing, the entire company of brilliant society people being very enthusiastic in their applause and highly pleased with her success. During her recent stay in New York, Miss Wendell was the guest of Mrs. Harriet Webb, and was by that lady introduced into the best of New York society. We learn to-day that Miss Wendell has just accepted a very flattering offer to become a member of the choir in the church of "Our Father" in New York, and will commence her engagement there May first. Her many friends in this city will be much pleased to hear of her prosperity, but all will unite in regretting the fact that Portsmouth loses one of its greatest favorites, for in accepting this offer, she will be obliged to take up her residence in the city at once.—Times.

MUSIC HALL.

Miss Hattie Newell, who was the "Pitti-Sing" in John Stetson's Mikado Co., and Miss Julia Wilson, the "Tot" of Dan Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb Co., will both appear at Music hall this evening with Bloodgood's Happy Thought Co., in "Rose and Coe," which is said to be the most mirth-provoking piece ever written by the late brilliant and lamented Joseph Bradford. Bloodgood's name is a guaranty of hilarious fun, and many of the latest and most popular songs and dances are introduced. Reserved seats at Goodrich's.

THE ORPHANS' HOME.

Chaplain Mack, who for so many years made an annual and successful tour of the state soliciting funds in support of that most worthy charity, the New Hampshire Orphans' Home, having passed on to his reward, the trustees of the establishment have urged and induced Hon John D. Lyman of Exeter to take up the good cause, and ask for the home the liberal support it merits. The citizens of Exeter have within a year and a half contributed about $1,400 to the home, and it is hoped the citizens of Portsmouth will respond with at least equal liberality. Mr. Lyman will be in this city very shortly, to canvass for subscriptions.

MARGARET MATHER.

Margaret Mather comes to Portsmouth this season with the added honor of a metropolitan success. New York has nodded its head affirmatively, and recognized the genius of this young American actress. A writer says "there is no doubt that the critics of New York were all ready to utterly annihilate this presumptuous actress, and her bold manager, who dared to go and gain the hearts of the people, and to be acknowledged as a great artist in every other large city in the Union, without first receiving the endorsement of the writers of the metropolis, and when he announced, last fall, that he was ready to allow New York to see his talented star, there was considerable doleful head-shaking among the powers that be, and a failure was prophesied, both artistically and financially, for the star and her manager. But her success is yet fresh in the minds of everyone."

She will appear at Music hall next Wednesday evening as Leah, in "Leah, the Forsaken." Tickets on sale at Goodrich's, Saturday morning.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

To the members of the Assembly of the Knights of Labor of Portsmouth:

Gentlemen: There will be a meeting Thursday evening, April 22d, at 7:30 o'clock. All members are requested to be present, as business of importance will be before the meeting.

Per order of the M. W., O. H. COOK.

A large number of the members of Henry L. Richards camp, S. O. V., of this city, went to Dover in carriages on Tuesday evening of this week, to attend the organization of a camp of the order in that city.

Dr. F. E. Potter is absent on a brief visit to Colorado.

Hon. Calvin Page has been confirmed as collector of internal revenue for this district.

The steamer Clara Bateman is manned as follows: Albert Rand, master; James Magraw, mate; Levi Woodbury Lord, engineer; John Huntley, fireman; William Rand, boatswain. The older persons of the boat's company have seen many years active service in the merchant marine and navy of the United States, and consequently fully understand their business; Mr. Lord was one of the crew of Lieut. Cushing's torpedo launch, which destroyed the confederate iron-clad Albemarle. The steamer has been neatly repainted, and having completed her spring overhaul and repairs had her boiler inspected on Tuesday, the 20th inst., and that night at midnight stated for Boston, having in tow the schooner yacht Una, which has for several years been a piece of floating lumber at this port.

Forepaugh's circus is announced to be in this city July 8th. C. H. Sides' field has been hired for it.

The Portsmouth polo club went to Exeter on the evening of the 20th inst., and got beaten by the Exeter club.

Cod fish of large size are reported as being very plentiful in the waters off Dover point now.

Lewis Holmes' flotilla of letting boats is being got ready for sea. His new yacht Zephyr is completed, and will be launched in a few days.

At York the schooner Gulnare, formerly commanded by Capt. Samuel Goodwin but now by Capt. Hurd, has commenced her summer trips. Capt. Goodwin remains agent for her, but is now in charge of the Emily A. Staples, running from this river. The Karen Happuch, Capt. Philbrook, has also commenced her trips from York river.

Mr. Alfred R. Goodwin has just added to his stock of boats six row boats built at Kittery Point.

The school at Beech ridge, York, recently closed. The winter term was taught by Miss Fannie Grant of South Berwick, who is mentioned with much praise by the officers of the district. This was the 43d school of Miss Grant's teaching. She was only fifteen years old when she commenced her profession, and some years has had charge of four different schools, which accounts for her youthful appearance notwithstanding the number of her schools.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Bureau of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

ring handles on each end, so it may be easily lifted out for the purpose of washing and sunning. The upper edge of the tin box should be even with the edge of the outside box, and the tin rounded over so as to leave no sharp edges. The box is now ready to be decorated. The reader can best get an idea of the result aimed for, from a description of a box which now does duty as a holder of a certain kind of spicy nutcakes in a china closet which was old when the present century was yet new. The box is smaller than it would have been, had the particular corner for which it was made been larger; it is ten inches deep, eleven inches wide, and sixteen inches long. The body of the box is a dark walnut brown, with a design of crocuses on it the color of the natural pine. The crocuses start up from the lower edge of the box as if growing out of the ground. Along the upper edge is a narrow Greek border in the same color; a similar border is around the edge of the lid and in the center is a group of five long-stemmed crocuses irregularly arranged. A quaint shaped brass catch with a padlock makes a secure fastening.

To decorate a box like the above, take it, when the carpenter and tinner have finished their part of the work, and proceed as follows: Select a suitable design of crocuses, or a somewhat similar flower. Such designs as are given for outline or Kensington embroidery can be used by leaving off the lighter parts of the design that cross and recross the more prominent parts. Various art magazines, during the past two or three years, have given a number of very handsome designs which may be easily adapted to this work. Transfer the patterns to white writing paper, then cut it out close to the outline. In many designs, as in the one on the box just described, the patterns will be in many separate pieces. Fasten these pieces on the box in correct positions, using flour paste, mixed smooth without boiling, and not too thick. Next cut and paste on the border around the upper edge and the border and crocuses on the lid. Examine the pattern carefully and if it does not adhere to the wood in any place, put a little more paste under it and press it down until it does, for if any of the staining fluid gets under the pattern the outlines will be blurred instead of clear and distinct and the effect spoiled. Wash the whole outside of the box with a weak alum water, taking care that little goes on the pattern.

To a pint of linseed oil add enough burnt umber mixed with a very little red lead to make a good walnut color. Apply this to the exposed wood with a brush; when dark enough rub well with a woolen cloth. Go over the paper with a brush dipped in clear, boiling water until it can be peeled off. The design will then stand out clearly against the dark ground. With a fine pointed brush dipped in the staining fluid, a few lines of shading are added to the flowers and leaves, but only a few really needed strokes must be attempted.

Instead of flower designs, the quaint old-fashioned boys and girls which have been given in the magazines from time to time for outline work, may be used with good effect. The outlines of many of these figures are so simple that they can be cut out with little trouble, and the few touches necessary to bring them to perfection can be easily added with the brush. Single figures can be drawn off and, after being cut out, re-arranged into new groups appropriate for the place they are to ornament. Thus it is little trouble to arrange for the front of the box a group of two figures carrying a large tray of bread or cakes, or to make a procession of such figures, each with a basket of bread.

The boxes may be made any color the worker prefers, but a dark walnut brings out the figures as well as any color. A good red stain is made by boiling half a pound of Brazil wood and one ounce of pearlash in two quarts of water for nearly three hours; it must be used hot and, as soon as applied, be brushed over with alum water. A strong solution of logwood and redwood makes a very satisfactory imitation of rosewood.

The box may be varnished or not, according to taste. Generally, varnish gives the best effect, but when walnut stain is used the varnish should be dispensed with and oil used in its place. Wooden or brass handles are fastened securely to each end of the box, and round knob-like wooden feet are screwed under each corner.—Mrs. L. A. France, in Good Housekeeping.

Perpetually "On the Boil."

Coffee is brought every morning to you when at a Mexican hotel, while you remain in it. It is only to the departing guest that it is denied. At eight o'clock, the waiters begin to bestir themselves, bringing trays to every room, as soon as they are rung for, with cups and saucers, and all the requisites for coffee. You can have boiled eggs if you like. Then, enter Francisco with the huge tin pots; simultaneous streams of coffee and boiled milk fill up the cup with their equal excellence. Sometimes Francisco comes from a restaurant a couple of squares away, but he runs, and the coffee is not cold.

Very well, so much for boiled milk in Mexico. My party came home by rail, over the Mexican Central to El Paso, and then by Atchison and Topeka, and so on, back to our little New England. On the terrors of railway restaurants between the City of Mexico and our boundary I will not here dwell, the strange food, the bad service, the clumsy boxes which served as dining rooms. For this paper I have only to say about these cases in the Mexican desert, that there was always excellent coffee, and milk perpetually "on the boil" and to be had at a moment's notice.—Susan Hale, in Good Housekeeping.

How to Make Money While Doing Good.

The many visitors to the City of New Orleans during the past winter months, have frequently, both in their letters home and their recounting the incidents of their travels dwelt upon the celebrated Charity Hospital, which has been a refuge for many years to the sick and injured, and which is sustained by The Louisiana State Lottery, about which, and its Monthly Grand Distributions of Fortunes, anyone can learn more on an application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La. Here is a rare case where a person may make much money by doing good to strangers.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, substantial tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that excellent discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are delicately served. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to Minneapolis and St. Paul, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Chicago, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

For twenty-four years I have been a great sufferer with inflammatory rheumatism. Athlophoros is the only medicine I ever found to do me any good. I am seventy years old and wish to testify to the benefits I have received from it. Amos Gilbert, Fair Haven, Ct.

On April 19th the church at Bryan station, Ky., celebrated its centennial anniversary. It was founded in April, 1776, by the father of its present pastor, Rev. Thomas B. Dudley, and during the one hundred years of its existence has had but the two pastors, father and son. The present pastor is the stepfather of Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago, and is ninety-four years old.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from biliousness, headache, constipation, and all liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. Forty in a vial. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. A LETTER-CARRIER'S STORY.

"A letter-carrier has his ups and downs as every one else has, I suppose," said one of these messengers of Uncle Sam the other day, in speaking of his experiences, "but take it all in all I would rather be a carrier at $1,000 a year than a clerk at $1,200. In the first place our position is assured as long as we are honest and attentive to our duties, and then we have our little perquisites that net us more than people generally think. I used to have a route along Beacon street near the Public Gardens, and it was a very cold Christmas indeed when the rich nobs didn't remember me to the extent of $300 or $400. For letters that brought good news I have often been given crisp $5 notes from the pleased recipients. And then the little romances, and sometimes deep disappointments and heart-burning that we know off! I shall never forget the pale, anxious face with which an old millionaire used to greet me every morning for a long time, as he opened the door himself in answer to my whistle, and nervously reach for his letters. His hands would tremble as he tore open the envelopes, and then would come a long sigh of relief when he found there was no bad news. At last there came a letter that blanched his face whiter than the paper on which it was written, and he fell down senseless all in a heap at my feet. I helped to carry him up to his room, but never saw him again. Pretty soon a new family moved into the house. It was some financial trouble, I suppose, and the letter had brought ruin to the old gentleman, who had a big family to support."

Letter-Carrier W. B. Goodale, of Hartford, Conn., tells a not less interesting story, though happily its ending is not so tragic. Mr. Goodale is well known in Hartford, and his many friends to whom he had often as a carrier brought tidings of sorrow and of joy, were much pleased to receive his present message:

"For three months," he says, "I was confined to my house with inflammatory rheumatism. So severe, indeed, was my affliction that the doctors took such heroic measures as to prescribe forty grains of morphine a day, beside steaming me five hours and dosing me with all sorts of medicine. I had three doctors, but their combined skill failed to give me any relief. Finally I became discouraged and determined to let the disease do its work. I had a pair of crutches made and was nervously awaiting the worst, when a friend came to see me and advised me to try Athlophoros. After much persuasion I consented. I took the first dose at six o'clock in the evening and two more during the night. The next morning, for the first time in three months, I was able to go to work, greatly to the astonishment of my friends, who all thought I would never get around again. As Athlophoros cured me I believe it will cure anybody suffering with rheumatism. It has many friends in Hartford since the people have seen that it will do all that is claimed for it."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

TRICKS OF MICROSCOPE VENDERS.

The Manner in Which Intelligent People Are Fooled Into Making a Purchase.

Venders of cheap microscopes continue to play tricks upon the unwary. I will give you the secret. They use a small particle of sour paste, pretending it is a drop of water, and the objects shown are anguilulæ, or paste eels. The following is the method of working the trick:

The vender has standing before him on the stand with his instruments a glass of clear water, usually containing a bit of ice. The instruments consist of a short fenestrated brass tube carrying two plano-convex non-achromatic lenses, one of which is about 1.0 seconds and the other 0.5 seconds focal length, and so arranged that the visual focus falls on the plane surface of the smaller lens. Besides the instruments and a glass of water, a number of clean wooden toothpicks lie carelessly scattered on the stand. On a little bench under the table, and concealed from public view, there is a small box of sour paste, plentifully supplied with anguilulæ.

When a customer steps up, the chances are a hundred to one, as every microscopist knows, that the question will be, "Does this here show the animalcules in water?" The ready answer is, "Show 'em? Certainly! Fact is, I don't dare to look at the water. I keep melted ice water for my use. That generally ain't got any." "Has that water got any in it?" continued the querist. "We can see," says the vender, and he picks up a clean toothpick, dips it into the glass, and prepares to put a drop on the front lens. His hand, however, is shaky, and the toothpick drops, falling generally on the little shelf which projects slightly from under the table. He picks it up again, and under the pretense of wiping it sticks it into the paste, gets a very minute particle to adhere, again touches it to the water, and smears the front of the field or objective lens.

The victim then looks, and is amazed and delighted, and straightway invests in a 'scope, paying from $1 to $2 for what costs the vender less than 15 cents ($1.75 per dozen).

This ingenious piece of rascality was the invention of a man who formerly made his headquarters in Fitzburg, Pa., and who for years has derived a large revenue from this and similar "fakes" gotten up for the use of street venders, who either pay him a royalty on their use or buy outright the privilege of using them. I was told by three different individuals that they paid the man $50 each for the secret of this "fake," but that not being able always to find paste which contained eels, they were compelled to purchase from him at a large price some "starting" or cultivating fluid. All sour paste does not contain the anguilulæ; vinegar eels are sometimes used, but only when the cultivated paste eels cannot be gotten, as they are too large—one of them frequently stretching entirely across the field of vision. The eels raised in paste without the use of this fertilizing fluid are much larger than those obtained by its aid.—Dr. Frank L. James in Scientific American.

The "Rogues' Gallery" of Scotland Yard.

There is almost a library of photographic albums of malefactors. They are all represented with their hands laid flat on their breasts, it having been ascertained by experience that the hands often furnish unalterable clews to identification. As these likenesses are safe-guarded in testimony against them, the habitual criminals betray an extreme antipathy to having them taken. It was a week's labor to get a correct "counterfeit presentment" of the modern and more artful Jack Sheppard, the late Charles Peace. He wriggled, grimaced, changed his expression and distorted his features with such monkey-like quickness that it was well nigh impossible for the man with the camera to catch him. He was fixed in the plate at last as he was intently watching the flogging of a comrade.

Whether it was the effect of preconceived notions or not I can not say, but there did not appear to me to be a solitary good countenance in the complete law-breakers' gallery. All were sulky, vicious, semi-idiotic, with vizor of wolf or weasel, with low foreheads, contracted brows, eyes glassy or greedy, villainous jowls, and the tokens of mean or brutish animality. When I quitted the "black museum" I felt as if I were shaking off charnel smells and the contact of things slimy and loathsome. In the corner of the yard I observed an incongruous group of cigarette-smoking mashers, country yokels, jolly jack tars, lame peddlers, and roughly-dressed mechanics with grimy cheeks engaged in conversation. They were detectives on the eve of the sallying out on the warpath.—Thomas P. Gill, M. P.

Betting on the Old Clock.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press tells of a certain office in that city where the old and sadly demoralized clock is made to do service as a roulette gambling apparatus. The clock is out of repair, and when wound up the hands have a habit of striking at a two-forty gait, and revolving about the face until the main-spring is exhausted, when they come to a standstill. The employes in the office make bets on the number nearest which the minute hand will stop, and also wager on the odd or even character of the resting-place of the minute-hand.—Exchange.

The Stomach as a Gasometer.

In the dyspeptic stomach impure gasses are generated, after meals, that distend and distress it, as well as the bowels. The best carminative for cramps, colicky pains and heartburn or bilious eructations, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Carbonate of soda and effervescing aperients are far inferior to it in efficacy, and as physicians now understand, impair the tone of the stomach. Copious libations of any sort are injurious to the stomach, and to dilute its juices is certainly not the way to increase their digestive usefulness. Aided by the bitters, the digestive organs, when enfeebled and disordered, regain their lost tone and regularity, not, of course, immediately, but with a degree of rapidity highly indicative of the excellence of the remedy. It has the further effect of regulating the bowels and liver, protecting the system against malaria, relieving rheumatism and neuralgia, and increasing constitutional vigor.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, In Incipient Consumption seems to possess remedial powers of great efficacy. It heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Makes pure blood and builds up and fortifies the system against further inroads by disease.

Didn't Need It Then.

There is a old story about a party who took shelter in a woodman's hut during a drenching shower, and finding that the rain came through the roof in all directions, asked the woodman why he did not make repairs. "How do you suppose I can fix this roof while it's raining as it does now?" retorted the woodman. "But you can fix it when there is no rain," replied the guest. "It don't leak then," was the reply.

This is a parallel to the explanation given by Capt. Cotler, of the Oregon, of the manner in which the water-tight bulkheads of the steamer were looked after. When there was no water running into the ship there was no necessity for shutting the doors between the compartments, and when the water began to run in it was impossible to shut them.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents, granted April 20th, to citizens of New Hampshire, is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, solicitor of American and foreign patents, No. 925 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

No. 340,120. J. P. Husey, Gilmanton iron works, water-motor.

No. 340,338. J. A. V. Smith, Manchester, flier.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending April 20th, was 456.

Miss Alice F. Winslow of Haverhill, Mass., aged twenty-two years, a native of Kingston, N. H., died in Haverhill on the 21st inst. from the effects of an illegal operation. Miss Winslow and her lover, Albert Brown, aged twenty-one, went to Exeter on the 20th, where it is alleged the operation was performed by Dr. E. Bartlett. The girl before her death, and her lover, made full confession. Brown says he wished to marry Miss Winslow, but she refused to become his wife.

The steamer Clara Bateman, Rand master, arrived back from Boston, whither she had towed the schooner yacht Una, at seven o'clock in the evening on the 21st inst.

There was not a coal vessel of any kind at any of the wharves of this city on Thursday forenoon. Thursday afternoon the steamer Allentown arrived at the Concord railroad wharf with 1660 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Z. S. Wallingford, of Dover, has been chartered to take ice from Saco to Philadelphia at sixty-five cents per ton.

The steamer James Sampson, having been thoroughly overhauled and refitted, has commenced running on the route between this city, Newcastle and Kittery Point.

The steamer Mystic on Wednesday of this work towed E. F. Sise & Co.'s coal barge across the river from Kittery, where it had been on the railway to be caulked. On Thursday the tug Ann towed to Kittery the Appledore landing stage, to be hauled out on the railway and repaired preparatory to being towed to the Shoals for summer duty.

The first shipment of the season by water to South Berwick was made by J. Albert Walker on the 16th inst., when Capt. Chenay's gondola Hard Chance took up forty tons of coal for Agent Hale of the Portsmouth Manufacturing Co. of South Berwick.

The steamer Ann towed to Portsmouth bridge on the 20th the schooner Gurnet, Clark master, bound for the up-river brick-yards to load, and on the 21st the schooner Lucy Wentworth, bound for Dover with a load of plaster for Converse & Hobbs.

Charles W. Butler & Co. were tenants of Brooklyn, N. Y., property belonging to Nathan Cushing, a Boston capitalist, until May, 1875, when the building collapsed, and machinery and stock were ruined. In the Brooklyn supreme court on the 20th inst. a verdict for $7,500 damages was given Butler & Co. against Cushing.

Mrs. H. E. Nason, of Rutland, Vt., has been arrested on a charge of poisoning her son-in-law, Mr. D. C. Parker. Mrs. Nason's husband died four years ago under suspicious circumstances, and Mrs. C. S. DeBritton, who boarded with Mrs. Nason, died six months ago very suddenly; and she is suspected of having poisoned them both.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

At Home

Thursday was Fast day in Maine, and several of the solid men of Portland, including the mayor and aldermen, went over the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad through the White mountain notch, to inspect the road and ascertain how much of the city's security had washed away during the spring freshets.

A meeting of the bond holders of the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad Co. is called to take steps to organize a new corporation. The meeting will be held at the company's office in Portland on the eighth day of June next.

The Flying Yankee, which runs over the Maine Central railroad after the first of July, will make better time by half an hour between Bangor and Portland than the former running time.

It is said that the senate will proceed at once to confirm the appointments made by the president, except in cases where the appointees are so bad that the consent of the senate should be withheld.

CITIZENS' MEETING.

A meeting of citizens was held in the common council room on Thursday evening at seven o'clock, in response to a call signed by Marcellus Eldredge, John J. Pickering and others, to take such action in regard to the erection of a Soldiers' and Sailors' monument as should be deemed advisable.

Hon. Marcellus Eldredge was chosen chairman, and William G. Billings secretary.

Voted that a committe of three be appointed by the chair, to recommend a committee of thirty to act with a like committee from the Grand Army of the Republic in making general arrangements for the erection of a monument, and to report at an adjourned meeting to be called by the chair.

The chairman appointed John H. Broughton, Ed. S. Fay and Andrew P. Preston as that committee. The committee retired, and shortly reported the following list of names:

Marcellus Eldredge, J. J. Pickering, Frank Jones, Charles A. Sinclair, Fred E. Potter, William H. Sise, Francis E. Langdon, E. H. Winchester, C. M. Gignoux, John S. Treat, John Laighton, W. Freeman, William H. Rollins, H. F. Eldredge, Henry M. Clark, Calvin Page, C. C. Jackson, J. Albert Walker, T. Salter Tredick, John Conlon, E. P. Kimball, John Sise, James P. Bartlett, Charles H. Rollins, Daniel Marcy, Wallace Hackett, Samuel J. Gerrish, Benjamin F. Webster, John S. Pray, Joseph W. Peirce.

The list was approved by the meeting, and it was voted that the committee as appointed have power to fill any vacancy that may occur.

The meeting then adjourned.

The citizens' committee were notified that there will be a meeting of the joint committee on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the common council room.

MILLINERY OPENING.

The millinery opening of Mrs. J. M. Tebbetts, which commenced on Thursday, lasting to Saturday night, proves very attractive to the ladies, many of whom find it convenient to call at her store and examine the Easter and spring styles. Her stock is very large, varied and rich. Small round hats are more fashionable this year than large ones, and the trimmings are mostly high in front, with very little on the sides and back. Bright colors are popular, and the trimmings consist of flowers, ribbons and velvets, without feathers of any kind, or murdered birds.

FRANK JONES' VIEWS.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Herald sends that paper the following bits of gossip concerning one of our noted citizens:

Frank Jones, ex-congressman from New Hampshire, a democrat, but an ardent admirer of Gen. Grant, has been in the city for a day or so, and he took occasion to drive up to Riverside park. "I never was more surprised in my life," he exclaimed; "to think that a miserable cave like that should have been chosen as the resting place for the bones of a hero; a man who has been twice president of the United States and who was honored by all nations when he went around the world. I would engage to build that place in three days for $600, or I would eat it before breakfast."

Speaking of the hubbub over the Louisville post-office appointment, Mr. Jones observed: "It was tolerably certain that if Representative Willis of Louisville recommended Mrs. Thompson for the place there were some good reasons for his choice, in spite of the fact that she was originally appointed by Mr. Hayes. It seems that the appointment was approved by nearly all the prominent banks and business firms of Louisville. Willis does not make many mistakes. He is about the brightest fellow in the southern delegation."

MARGARET MATHER.

The able dramatic critic of Turf, Field and Farm pays the following high compliment to Miss Mather:

Such an impersonation, and such acting as Miss Mather gives the public in "Leah" is of rarest excellence; and it is certainly appreciated, if crowded houses and applauding audiences are of any value as indications. In the pathetic scenes, tears are involuntarily brought to many eyes—not only to those of delicate and tender ladies, but of rugged and hardy men, by the intensity and truth of Miss Mather's depiction. It is the quality of nature, heightened and beautified by art that indubitably marks the genius of this young actress. Her composition is of genuine metal, and has the true ring. Of the versatility of her talents, and of the vigor and constancy of her nervous power, her many and forcible performances of the very trying character of Juliet, followed by an equally vivid, forcible and graphic series of performances of the role of Leah, which she impersonates with a picturesque grace that makes it as beautiful to the vision as it is true to the life in its histrionic embodiment, are proof.

The beholder cannot but become deeply interested in the fate and character, the sincerity and lovliness of the Jewish maiden, as Miss Mather pictures her, and through her, in the fate of the nation of which she is a most worthy and honorable representative. That is to say, of its noblest qualities and most admirable impulses. From this performance both pleasure and profit is to be derived. For, although we sympathize with her distress, we admire and are more moved by the magnanimity of the generous Jewess. As for the play, in our judgment, it is commendable in construction, entertaining in conduct and instructive in purpose. At all events, it is all these as presented by Miss Mather and J. M. Hill's splendid company.

Seats go on sale at Goodrich's to-morrow morning, for Wednesday's performance in Music hall.

Charles G. Holbrook of this city, formerly in the employ of the Naumkeag clothing store in this city but for some time past a salesman with C. F. Hovey & Co. of Boston, died April 22d of rheumatism of the heart. He was a grandson of the late John R. Holbrook, and aged about twenty years.

The advent of Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Putney with United States Commissioner Hackett at Exeter, where they met United States Attorney Frink on Thursday morning, gave rise among the quid nunes of the town to the rumor that some one had omitted to take out a license to sell commodities for which a special tax ought to be paid. It is not stated that any arrests have been made as yet.

Col. D. Horace Holman of Lewiston, Me., formerly of this city, has declined several invitations to deliver Memorial day addresses in different parts of Maine. The belief that in some instances the orator for these occasions has sought the invitation, and the honor not the man, has induced several eloquent gentlemen throughout the country to report that they would be unable to give addresses on such occasions.

The drivers of the city carts are constantly reminded that this is the season of house cleaning.

Many of the farmers in this vicinity, on both sides of the river, have got early peas and potatoes in the ground already. The fine weather of the past two weeks may "be a weather breeder for May," as the croakers prophesy, but it has put the season farther ahead than it has been before at this date for a number of years.

The Haven mansion on Pleasant street is having a new roof put on.

One part of Daniel street is presenting quite a busy appearance this week, Messrs Anderson & Junkins being engaged in framing Mr. J. O. Downs' new residence on the corner of Linden street, while a gang of carpenters are at work on the old Methodist chapel opposite, recently bought by Mr. George B. French, engaged in transforming it into a two-tenement house.

Work has been commenced on the new tide-gates at the north millbridge.

There was a smaller audience in Music hall on Thursday evening than we anticipated, when Bloodgood's Happy Thought Co. performed their "musical comedy conceit, Rose & Coe." There is plenty of the mirth-provoking in the piece, and not a little good singing and dancing; and with those who enjoy an evening's fun it will become a favorite.

Emil C. Pfeiffer of this city will pull an oar in the Harvard freshman boat which will race with the Columbia freshmen the coming summer.

Mr. William Reding of Massachusetts, brother-in-law of George F. Putnam, for a long time chairman of the Massachusetts democratic state committee, and nephew of Hon. John R. Reding of this city, has been appointed a clerk in the naval office of the Boston custom house.

The guide boards for the roads on the outskirts of the city are being repainted by E. D. Coffin.

The semi-annual session of the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T., will be held in this city, in Rechabite hall, on Wednesday, April 28th, commencing at eleven o'clock A. M. In the evening there will be a grand temperance rally in the North church, to be addressed by George W. Bain of Kentucky and others.

There was no work on the navy yard Thursday, on account of it being Fast day in Maine.

It is rumored that the twelve pairs of fine oxen on the navy yard are to be sold by the government, owing to lack of use for them.

Work on the removal of Gangway rock has recommenced.

Local merchants and business men were on Thursday called upon by members of the Knights of Labor, for contributions in aid of the southwestern strikers, and it is said the canvassers met with much success. There was a special meeting of the assembly Thursday evening, at which it is reported resolutions were adopted pledging all practicable assistance to the order in the west in the fight with Gould.

The schooner Elma M. Wright, Benson master, owned in New Bedford, Mass., arrived at Montevideo from Boston on the 20th of January in a leaky condition, and has been condemned and sold. She was built at this port in 1864, and registered 403.32 tons.

The steamer Pinafore, Capt. Laighton, with a load of lumber and cement, towed to the Shoals on Thursday a barge loaded with Plum island sand. The Laighton Bros. contemplate having a new steamer built, to be of nine feet beam and about fifteen feet longer than the Pinafore, and to have large power for her size.

The warm days experienced during the past week were a gentle reminder that winter clothing will soon have to be packed away. Buy champhor at Preston's.

John Keen, who died in Dorchester, Mass., April 16th, was a native of York, and in early life went to sea. Between 1850 and 1860 he kept the Dorchester poor house for seven years. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

The ladies' committee of the Universalist society would like to have all members of the parish, also all friends who are interested in the re-opening of the church, meet them at their vestry on Monday evening, April 26th, at 7:30 o'clock. PER ORDER.

Walter Eaton, aged fifteen years, and Herbert Irwin, aged sixteen, have been arrested for attempting on April 12th to wreck a train on the Bucksport branch of the Maine Central railroad, by spiking over one rail a block of wood, which was split by the locomotive. They confess the crime, and say their object was to hear the crash.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS FOR That Tired, Weary Feeling.

Sick Headache.

GENTS:—I have been subject to Sick Headache for years, and have tried, in vain, many advertised remedies and several physicians, but all to no purpose. At last I tried your B. B. Bitters—without much faith, I admit—but to-day I can truly say, that after taking the third bottle I have not suffered from it. I recommend it to all my friends; several have been cured by it. My little grandson was permanently cured of Billiousness and Sick Headache, which were so severe as to cause convulsions. They have all ceased since he commenced the use of B. B. B.

Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it Godspeed. JOSEPH LANDON, Headache and Billiousness.

GENTS:—I have been troubled for many years with serious Bilious disorders, so serious, indeed, that I seldom was free from the Headache. At night I was restless and nervous and seldom obtained refreshing sleep. A short time since I commenced the use of B. B. Bitters, and found immediate relief, my Headache disappearing and no more sleepless nights.

"Mummies" Which Returned to Life.

In his German garden journal (Deutsche Garten-Zeitung) Dr. Wittmack, professor of botany at Berlin, gives a most striking instance of the longevity inherent in trunks of palm trees of the genus "Cycas." He says; "In the large palmery of the renowned seed and nursery establishment of Mr. J. C. Schmidt at Erfurt (Germany) there have existed for the last eight years two trunks of Cycas media, having a height of thirteen and sixteen feet respectively, and being consequently specimens of such dimensions as were never before brought to Europe. These two trunks, forming a portion of a large cargo brought from Queensland, were on their arrival in 1878 considered to be quite dead, but for the sake of curiosity they were, nevertheless, planted in the ground.

"Imagine the astonishment of everybody concerned at finding that these 'mummies' had suddenly returned to life, their crowns ornamented with wreaths of thick foliage, which is now completely grown and affords a most imposing sight! It is to be hoped that these two scions of the primeval vegetation of an epoch far remote will continue to thrive, with 'stature unbent by age,' and not again relinquish the youthful activity so suddenly displayed, and that a chance may be afforded them for making up for the loss they sustained during the employment of eight years of somnolent beautitude."—Exchange.

To Prevent the Decay of Wood.

The prevention of decay in wood is said to be effectively accomplished by exhausting the air from the pores and filling them with a gutta percha solution, a substance which preserves the wood alike from moisture, water and the action of the sun. The solution is made by mixing two-thirds of gutta percha to one-third of paraffine, this mixture being then heated to liquify the gutta percha, when it is readily introduced into the pores of the wood, the effect of the gutta percha being, when it becomes cool, to harden the pores.—Chicago Herald.

The Area of New York City.

The city of New York embraces an area of 24,394 acres. Within the city limits are 500 miles of public roads, exclusive of parks, and to clean this $1,100,000 was expended in the year 1885. Seventy-five thousand dollars is annually spent in removing snow and ice alone.—Chicago Journal.

Gambetta's Monument in Paris.

Gambetta's new monument in Paris comprises a pyramid, on which is raised a group in bronze representing "Le Triomphe de la Democratie." It is to be given over by its makers to the people of Paris on the French Fourth of July (July 14), next year.—Inter Ocean.

The Available Coal of Alabama.

The available coal of Alabama, collected into one lump, would be forty-five miles long by twenty-five miles thick. A breaking off of 5,000 tons daily from the lump would leave a large part of it untouched at the expiration of 6,000 years.—Chicago Herald.

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST AND GREATEST MEDICINE

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. These Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the SULPHUR BITTERS. Nature will then throughout your entire system, and make you feel like a new person. Your nerves are all shattered, your blood is impure, with rheumatism and pain in every joint, your stomach is out of order, your liver torpid, your kidneys inactive, and you feel generally miserable. Now what does all this mean? It means that Nature is trying to throw off the disease and need a gentle assistant. Nature wants help, and you should give it the best you can find. Sulphur Bitters is a medicine which acts in harmony with Nature, and is a most powerful tonic, yet perfectly harmless

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodtJan

BETTER THAN PROMISES

Is positive proof.

What has been done in many cases can still be done in others. Sufferers from rheumatism and neuralgia can find relief if they wish. In proof of this statement the following letters are submitted:—

East Somerville, Mass., Jan. 26, 1886.

I have been asked to give my testimony as to what good there is in Athlophoros as a cure for rheumatism, and I simply say to those who are suffering from it, try it, and if it does not give relief or a permanent cure it will be a most extraordinary case. In my own case it is a well-known fact among many of my acquaintances it knocked the rheumatism out of me.

GEO. C. BOERUM, U. S. N.
44 Franklin street.

East Douglas, Mass., Jan. 25, 1886.

One-third of a bottle of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. Being a cattle dealer my business compels me to be around in all kinds of weather and by constant exposure I contracted a severe and painful attack of inflammatory rheumatism in the hips and arms, which defied the supposed healing virtues of most every known remedy. Hearing that Athlophoros was doing wonders I tried it with the above gratifying results. Although the rheumatism has not troubled me for nearly a year, I always keep Athlophoros where I can lay my hands on it, and now instead of the disease defying the medicine matters are reversed. I feel perfectly safe for I know Athlophoros will cure rheumatism.

E. P. HEATH.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1886.

Yes, sir; Athlophoros will cure rheumatism and so far as my experience goes it is the only medicine that will make a complete cure, for I have tried most every thing with no effect. Certainly there was no good effect from my long use of the many so-called rheumatic cures, for all proved worthless; but when I saw with my own eyes what Athlophoros had done for a friend of mine—cured him of rheumatism—I tried it, and two doses of it relieved me so much as to permit me to put my feet on the ground, and in twenty-four hours I was standing on my feet, after which I steadily improved and soon was entirely rid of the rheumatism. So I truthfully say to anybody suffering with rheumatism take Athlophoros and you will be cured.

GUSTAF NELSSON, 216 Harrison Av.
Boston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1886.

I was suffering terribly with inflammatory rheumatism and thought I would just try Athlophoros. I did so, receiving immediate relief after taking three or four doses without any deleterious effects from it. I can honestly recommend it to any one suffering from muscular or inflammatory rheumatism.

E. S. RICHARDS.
50 Washington street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 19, 1886.

I desire to express my feeling of gratitude for the benefit I received from the use of Athlophoros, a medicine of genuine worth; being afflicted with that common but painful disease, inflammatory rheumatism, and being laid up because my feet were so swollen I could not stand up, I commenced using Athlophoros. Before half of the first bottle was used I was able to walk to my store. I continued to use it until in a short while my rheumatism disappeared entirely, the cure complete. I recommend Athlophoros because I know it to be an article of merit.

93 Prince St. FRANK SCHILLER.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD ACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

I.

In the fall of 1884 I was at St. Paul. My friend, John Hall, conductor, had persuaded me to go with him over the Northern Pacific road to San Francisco. It was late in the season, and I feared a blockade. However, I provided myself with a basket of provisions, for use in case my fears were realized, and started on my journey.

When I reached the depot, I found a gentleman and lady seated in my sleeper. I had scarcely time to take a good look at the latter—and in fact I could not make much out of my inspection, for she was heavily veiled—when Hall entered, and passing me with a hasty "good-morning," went up to the lady's companion. I was busy storing away my numerous traps, and did not hear what was said, until, as it was getting near the time to start, Hall observed that he must go and see all clear. Then I caught these words:

"Look well after Mrs. Forsyth, Hall, and when you give up the train, speak to the next conductor about her."

"I will do my best for the lady, sir," said Hall, who a moment after left the car.

"You'll have the drawing-room to yourself," continued Mrs. Forsyth's escort, "and need not be bothered with any one."

My back was toward the speaker, and in a little side mirror between the windows I saw that he cast a suspicious and significant glance in my direction as he spoke the last words.

In a moment more he was gone, and we were started on our long journey. My solitary companion retreated to her room, and I was left a rather desolate master of the situation.

With the help of newspapers, books and an occasional word with Hall as he passed through the car, the morning passed quickly enough. We were to carry a dining-car the first day or day and a half—a fact that also added to my sense of general satisfaction.

When the first call for dinner was made, I was not long in answering it, but quick as I was, many others had been before me, and I was fortunate in securing the last table. Scarcely had I comfortably seated myself and settled on the details of my dinner, when Hall entered, piloting the lady who had been spoken of as Mrs. Forsyth. Seeing that all the tables had one or more occupants, he brought her over to the one at which I sat. He introduced me, placed her opposite, and to say that I was charmed with her face would be to give only a very faint indication of my feelings. She appeared to be about 23 or 24 years of age, and was dressed in mourning, though not of a sufficiently distinctive character to tell whether or not she was a widow. I must confess, however, that even at the moment the question occurred to me, I wished that it might be decided in the affirmative.

The meal passed off delightfully, at least to me, and I managed to ascertain that I should have Mrs. Forsyth's company for the greater portion of the journey, her destination being Seattle. I took her back to our car, when she again withdrew into the drawing-room, and I resolved to smoke the soothing cigar. In search of company and a chat, I sought the smoker of the next car, which was occupied exclusively by men, who after a time dropped one or two quiet hints about the enviableness of my position, and their desire to exchange berths. By-and-bye a little game of poker was proposed, and would have doubtless helped to pass a good deal of time, but a clergyman read us such a lecture on the sin of gambling that no one felt quite disposed to materialize as one of his "terrible examples." So, after a while, I went back to my own car and my books. At supper time, as Mrs. Forsyth's door was open, I ventured to ask her if I might have the pleasure of taking her to the table, and was rewarded with a gracious smile and a prompt acquiescence. Although I tried, without seeming to be inquisitive, to skirt round the subject, I did not succeed in gaining any information as to her matrimonial condition. The next day, however, I was fortunate enough to discover that I had two or three times met Mrs. Forsyth's single sister, when she had been visiting some mutual acquaintances in San Francisco. This fact served as a far better introduction than Hall's had been, and in the more intimate conversation that followed I at last learned with delight that Mrs. Forsyth was a widow of over a year's standing, and that she was intending to make her future home with her sister.

We lost our dining-car, much to our regret, on the second day. The third day saw snow incessantly descending, and Mrs. Forsyth began to prophesy all kinds of disasters, and even suggested the advisability of her lying over at the next station of any size. From following this course she was, however, dissuaded by the joint eloquence of Hall and myself. Each hour that I spent in her society added to the charm that was rapidly stealing over me, by discovering new similarities in tastes or ideas, and even by an occasional warmly contested argument on slight points of difference.

When I awoke on the fourth morning the windows were thickly crusted with ice, and though I could not scrape a place through which to observe our rate of progress, I felt sure from the motion that we were making little headway. I began to feel a sensible yearning to reach the breakfast station, and was meditating getting a cracker from my basket, when Hall came in, and expressed some

A Serious Matter.

In Exeter, on the 22d inst., Dr. Ezra Bartlett, a physician of that town and about eighty years old, was before the police court on a charge of criminal malpractice on Alice F. Winslow of Haverhill, Mass., who died in Haverhill on the 21st from the effects of an operation. Bartlett pleaded not guilty, and was bound over to the October term of the Supreme court in bonds of $5,000. Albert A. Brown, Miss Winslow's lover, a young man of twenty, testified to coming with her to Exeter for an operation at Bartlett's office.

News And Notes.

Wiggins & Stevens, sand-paper manufacturers in Malden, Mass., have closed their works. While trouble about wages was the primary cause, the immediate cause is said to be due to the firm's discharging two of the workmen who went to the factory in an intoxicated condition. The men were members of the Knights of Labor, and when they were refused work next day the other hands declined to go to work, so the firm ordered the machinery stopped.

The statement is made that Beacon park is to be closed up.

THE ART OF THE LAPIDARY.

A Walk Through the Workshop of a Maiden Lane Firm.

The lapidary department, which, through the courtesy of the firm, the writer was permitted to visit and under the guidance of the foreman, to inspect, occupies the entire sixth floor of the building and is devoted to the cutting and polishing of every stone except the diamond, the most important work, however, being on rubies, sapphires and fancy gems. Here are treated not only the rough but a large proportion of the cut stones imported by the firm, and here an extensive business is done in cutting, shaping, matching and repairing gems for dealers and patrons. What most impresses one is the apparent simplicity of the mechanical appliances, everything seeming to depend on the knowledge, skill and dexterity of the lapidary. The stone, placed in an iron frame, is first roughly cleaved by being brought in contact with the edge of a rapidly revolving disk of steel charged with oil and diamond dust. After, it is cemented to a handle, then firmly pressed against the flat surface of a horizontal revolving wheel of lead, flooded with water and emery dust, where the proper angles and facets are formed.

The drilling and concaving machinery introduced are extremely simple, that for concave work being a horizontal screw lathe having adjusted to it small lead or iron disks, the convex edges of which have the outline of the concavities they are intended to cut. The drill, awl-shaped and having two diamonds at its point, is set in a spool fashioned handle, and when in use is adjusted with its point resting perpendicularly on the object and held in place by a horizontal bar, one end of which is pinioned to a slotted upright, the other resting under the left arm of the lapidary, who, with his right hand, causes the drill to revolve steadily and rapidly by means of a bow and string.

Here were seen in every stage of treatment the "yellow diamond" and green aquamarine of North Carolina; the tourmaline, from Maine; moss-agate, from Colorado, and also the beautiful garnet, comparing favorably with the Indian gem and known as the American ruby; topaz, bloodstones and carnelians, from India; sapphires, chrysolites, moonstones and cateseyes, from Ceylon; jasper and lapis-lazuli, from Russia; and from South America, pink topaz, carnelian, jargoons and peridot, a peculiar bright green stone, all blending in a gorgeous wealth of color such as the eye seldom rests upon.—Cor. New York World.

To Be Done by Somebody Else.

A subscription paper is sent you for the household of some venerable philanthropist or eminent public man. These influential people spent money freely in their day for hospitality, or generosity, or what not. You often wished that you could be as liberal in these ways; because you could not, you put something by, and now you are called on to give that and more to provide for their deficit. In their palmy days these good people had excellent opportunities to lay up something for old age or for their heirs; but as they preferred not to do it, you are expected to pay their debts and support their children. What they lavished on dinner parties or on philanthropy—it makes, for the present purpose, little difference which—would have made for them the provision now expected from you.

It may seem ungenerous to mention such a thing, but is it not worth while to remember that the fact of one's being an artist, or a scholar, or a philanthropist, or a public servant, is no excuse from life's ordinary duties, economies, and forethoughts? If any one fails in these duties, they must simply be done by some one else.—"T. W. H." in Harper's Bazar.

A Huge Piece of Bric-a-Brac.

A British commissioner in Pegu lately had to deal with a very complicated case, involving the sanctity and ownership of a huge piece of bric-a-brac. A Hindu contractor, who had engaged to mend roads, supplied from the jungle cut stones which excited attention. The tracks of his cart led to a quarry, which turned out to be a great stone embankment, on which reposed a recumbent image of Buddha. Deserted, neglected, and covered by a jungle full of snakes and tigers, the image and its platform were being destroyed when the unfortunate Hindu was discovered at his vandalism. The stones were hauled back, the contractor went to jail, and the place became a favorite object of worship, until the tigers began to take an interest in the worshipers so personal that many failed to return from the jungle.—The Argonaut.

The Grave of Alex. Stephens' Servant.

Alexander H. Stephens' grave is still unmarked, but above the grave of Harry Stevens, his colored servant, a stone has been erected bearing the legend: "He was for many years the faithful, trusted and beloved body servant of Alexander H. Stephens. Like him he was distinguished for kindness, uprightness and benevolence. As a man he was honest and true. As a Christian he was humble and trusting."—Philadelphia Call.

A Coffin for a Cardinal.

The longest coffin turned out by any factory is a nine-footer, in which the dignitaries of the Catholic church are buried. Such a coffin was used at the burial of Cardinal McCloskey, the extra length being required for his crown which he wore in death. About twenty-four hours were taken to put this coffin together.—Exchange.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." L. BARRING-TON, 136 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEER, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." B. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

John H. Moran and wife, of this city, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding on the 22d inst. The ceremony fifty years ago took place in the parsonage of St. John's parish, on Chapel street, and was performed by Rev. Mr. Howe, then settled here. There are ten children, nine sons and and one daughter; four of the sons, and the daughter, live in this city, three of the sons in Massachusetts, one in Texas and one in California. In addition to these, there are twelve grandchildren—or were twelve, the last time "Uncle John" counted. The elderly couple were called upon by many friends during the day, and were the recipients of numerous and valuable presents from relations and other well-wishers.

WALLIS' SANDS IN RYE.

In the number of the Bay State Monthly for March, 1885, is a sketch of Hon. Rodney Wallace of Fitchburg, Mass., a native of New Ipswich in this state. The writer of the sketch, Rev. Dr. Blake of Fitchburg, states "It seems likely that the family (Wallace) is of Scotch origin. David Wallace seemed to think so, since he dropped the spelling Wallis, and adopted the form in which the name is now written. In 1639 Robert Wallis was living at Ipswich, Mass." Robert may have been a brother of George Wallis. There always were at least two brothers "who came over," according to ancient tradition.

George Wallis came to Portsmouth in the "Abigail" from London in 1635. He was then a man of forty years. He was accompanied by his son Ralph, a youth of fifteen summers. Ralph married Ann Shortridge of Sagamore, Nov. 18, 1686, he being then sixty-six years old. Their son, Samuel Wallis, of Wallis' Sands, married Sarah Moses, daughter of James Moses of Sagamore. This couple owned two slaves, Phillis and Cæsar, who were given their freedom with the other slaves in New England. They went to Salem, Mass., but came back to the old homestead to end their days, and were buried on the Wallis farm in Rye.

Samuel and Sarah Wallis had five daughters and one son. The latter married Miss Parsons of Rye, and their daughter, Mary Wallis, married the late Isaac Waldron of Portsmouth. Mrs. Waldron inherited the Wallis farm in Rye, which was conveyed by her children, Samuel Wallis Waldron, Isaac P. Waldron, Henry Waldron, Alfred A. Waldron and Mrs. Hall J. Row, in 1846, to the late Eli Dow. This forms a portion of the farm occupied by the late Capt. Albert Dow. Mary Wallis, one of the five daughters of Samuel and Sarah Wallis, married Joseph Tucker of Rye, and one of their descendants was the late William Tucker, who preserved the name Wallis in a modified form in his eldest son. Michael Tucker was another son of Mary Wallis Tucker. George Wallace Tucker was named for the original George Wallis, but his father seems to have changed the Wallis to Wallace, as did the other descendants of the Wallis family.

The Massachusetts Wallis, Benoni, for example, who married in Lynn, July 2d, 1753, Rebecca Morse, and his son David, kept the name Wallis, as did his (David's) son, until after he removed to Rindge in this state. He was the father of Hon. Rodney Wallace, above mentioned, whose brothers and sisters were known under the new mode of spelling.

It is from this, the early Wallis settlement at Rye, that Wallis' sands derived its name. But this name remains unchanged in its spelling.

A GREAT CONVENIENCE.

The police force and night watchmen confer a great obligation on the business public by receiving at the station house letters for the mail by the western bound Pullman early morning train, nightly as late as eleven o'clock. The letters are securely kept under lock, and seasonably sent for mailing to the railroad station. No compensation is received or asked by the officers, this semi-official receiving-station being established solely as a public convenience,—and a very great convenience it is to merchants or others having important correspondence to mail, who fail to catch the late mails as made up at the post-office.

DEATH OF M. B. CANNEY.

Moses B. Canney died at Union Village, Wakefield, on the 19th inst. He drove a stage forty years ago between Ossipee and Dover, and when the Portsmouth, Great Falls, & Conway railroad opened he started an express between Portsmouth and Union Village, which he afterward extended between Ossipee and Boston. For several years past he has lived retired from active business. At one time he was a daily visitor to the business part of Portsmouth. He was a brother of the late Benjamin Canney of this city. Mr. Canney will be remembered by the former employes of the Eastern railroad as an active, whole-hearted man, always energetic and faithful in his business relations. His age was seventy-seven years.

The beautiful estate of the late Gov. Straw, at Straw's point, Rye, is offered for sale or to let.

George J. Glines of this city, who six or seven years ago was discharged from the employ of Mr. John S. Rand because of light-fingered practices, and who later served a six-months' sentence in Portsmouth jail for entering the store of Mr. John L. Randall and stealing therefrom a quantity of tobacco, cigars and money, has of late been in the employ of Shepard, Norwell & Co., of Boston. On Monday, the 19th inst., that firm caused the arrest of Glines on a charge of embezzlement, which he settled in the municipal court, paying a fine and costs. On the 22d Glines was again before the court, charged with forging the signature of J. E. Ham & Co., of this city, to the recommendation with which he succeeded in obtaining employment of Shepard, Norwell & Co. He waived examination and was held for trial. Correspondence with parties in this city after Glines' first arrest developed the fact of the forgery.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS FOR That Tired, Weary Feeling.

Sick Headache.
GENTS:—I have been subject to Sick Headache for years, and have tried, in vain, many advertised remedies and several physicians, but all to no purpose. At last I tried your B. B. Bitters—without much faith, I admit—but to-day I can truly say, that after taking the third bottle I have not suffered from it. I recommend it to all my friends; several have been cured by it. My little grandson was permanently cured of Biliousness and Sick Headache, which were so severe as to cause convulsions. They have all caused since he commenced the use of B. B. B.

Dyspepsia.
GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once and I am now able to do more hard work than before in my years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it Godspeed. JOSEPH LANDON,

Headache and Biliousness.
GENTS:—I have been troubled for many years with serious Bilious disorders, so serious, indeed, that I seldom was free from the Headache. At night I was restless and nervous and seldom obtained refreshing sleep. A short time since I commenced the use of B. B. Bitters, and found immediate relief, my Headache disappearing and no more sleepless nights.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bony formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. D. DRIGGS,

May 9, 1885. 612 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.

MAGGIE HOPPING.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, 50 cts.; CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, 25 cts.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

ITCHING, Scaly, Pimply and Oily Skin beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

surprise at seeing me up and dressed.

"I think it was hunger roused me out," I answed. "That supper last night was pretty queer. Are we near the breakfast station?"

"The Forks are about fifteen miles ahead."

"And how long will it take to get there?"

"I don't think we'll get much further yet awhile."

"Do you mean we're going to get stuck?"

"Guess so," replied Hall with a calmness which under the circumstances was a little aggravating.

"Well, if we can't get ahead, can't we go back?"

"Afraid not. We put on an extra engine and a plow last night. There's no switch near, and the cuts have filled up behind us."

"Then what are you going to do?" I asked, a little hotly.

"Stay till we're dug out. I've got telegraph instruments on board. When we do stick—won't be long now—I'll cut a wire and ask for a relief party."

"What about food?"

"Oh! they'll manage to send some from the Forks, by men on snow-shoes. They did last year."

I silently thanked Providence for my well-stocked basket.

"Don't say anything," whispered Hall, as he heard the door of the drawing-room open. "Let me break it; I'm used to letting 'em down gently." Then turning to Mrs. Forsyth, who by that time had come out, said, cheerily: "Good-morning, ma'am; hope you didn't find it too cold to sleep?"

"Oh no, thank you," she replied; then, after saying "good-morning" to me, she again addressed Hall. "We seem to be going very slowly, and the windows are so frosted I can't see how deep the snow is."

"We're pushing ahead first rate," said the unmoved and unblushing conductor. "You don't feel the motion because the snow dendens the vibration."

Hall looked at me with a certain tremulousness about his left upper eyelid.

"Shall we have breakfast soon?" was Mrs. Forsyth's next question.

"Well, it may be some little time," answered Hall.

"Oh, dear!" she gasped, in the prettiest way imaginable, "and I feel quite faint."

I dived for my basket. "I have some things here. We might manage to make a picnic breakfast."

"No, no; I won't trouble you. I'd rather wait till I can get some tea."

"I think you had better accept Mr. Austin's offer," suggested Hall. "We may be a little late getting to the regular breakfast station."

"Please let me be your host," I urged. "I can even give you tea or coffee. Here's a spirit-lamp and a little saucepan, and I have—let me see—cold beef, curried chicken, foie gras, ox tongue, anchovy paste, a pot of marmalade, lots of crackers, sugar, condensed milk, and all the et-cæterus."

"Quite a larder, I declare," said Mrs. Forsyth, laughingly, as I finished checking off the contents of my basket. "How stupid of me not to bring anything except some fruit, and one can't live on fruit—out of Eden."

"I'll fix up a table," observed Hall, losing no time in putting his intention into action. "The porter's tired out; we kept him up last night. Now you're all comfortable, I'll see how the others are getting on."

"What shall I open for you?" I asked, as I stood, can-opener in hand.

A STONE FOR BREAD.

The Failure of Beef Tea.

(From the Philadelphia Press.)

One by one, in turn, like the nostrums which sicken and deplete the system, the so-called strength-giving devices fall into disuse, to be supplemented by what the common sense of the people has discovered to be simpler and better. Not long since the Chicago "News" published the following: "Chemistry has decided that the food value of beef tea is so small that it can scarcely be classed as a food. Physicians have for some time taught that to give a convalescent beef tea—even the very strength of the meat—is to give him a stone when he asks for bread. What is needed is to add malt to some of the prepared food. This fact is not sufficiently well known to nurses, and hence convalescence is often needlessly prolonged." About the same time another chemist declared that oat-meal, as a food, had about as much value as "chips." Simultaneous with these disclosures, there appeared in the Cincinnati "Times-Star," a discussion, at length, upon the merits of Beef Tea, in which appeared the results obtained by a German scientist from experiments upon two dogs to ascertain its value as a food. The two animals, comparatively, were of equal strength and health, and for a stated time were given, respectively water and beef tea. The one to which beef tea was administered died, the other, sustained on water, lived. One-half the restoratives do not restore promptly, or efficaciously. Nature wants a help to get stronger. Medicine might further weaken. Physicians, without exception, now unite in prescribing pure whiskey absolutely free from fusel oil, and other noxious and poisonous adulterations which are the chief objections to ordinary whiskies. Not until recently, however, was the process discovered of eliminating the active and virulent poison. But upon the introduction of Duffy's pure malt whiskey, which scientists declare to be absolutely pure, it at once became the standard in medical practice, and combining a food and stimulant of equal quality, is the recognized specific, in the place of these discarded nostrums.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 90 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relations to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which delicately cooked meals are luxuriously eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, and connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Possessions. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. sodtJan

THE HOPE OF NEW ENGLAND.

The last census is not altogether pleasant reading in many portions for the sons of New England, but it conveys lessons which they cannot afford to ignore. If it tells that Maine and Vermont stood stationary as regards populations between 1870 and 1880, it also records the rapid growth and prosperity of many cities and towns which are beginning to tread upon the heels of older communities. It seems to say that to manufactures, not to agriculture, must New England apply herself, and that to the skill of her artisans must she look for her old-time supremacy. This changed condition of affairs is recognized in many enterprising cities, a good example of which may be found in Waterbury, the bustling Connecticut city upon the Naugatuck that is so rapidly coming to the front as a manufacturing center. Waterbury has wide-awake citizens who take every opportunity to push it and to welcome new ideas. The advantage of such a progressive spirit is well shown in the case of G. W. Angell, who lives at No. 204 South Main street, Waterbury, and who gives this personal experience:

"For twenty years I have suffered tortures from chronic rheumatism. The doctors said I was incurable, but thanks to Athlophoros, I have now taken a new lease on life. I had tried numerous remedies with the hope of at least allaying my suffering, but all failed until a friend advised me to try Athlophoros. I did so, and as the result am now looking and feeling as though I had never known what rheumatism was."

Mrs. E. Vickers, of No. 46 Pleasant street, says:

"It is owing to Athlophoros that I am now alive. I suffered with inflammatory rheumatism for years, most of the time being perfectly helpless. One bottle of Athlophoros cured me. I can sincerely say that there is nothing like it for the speedy relief and permanent cure of rheumatism and can recommend it to all suffering from that disease."

The testimony is reinforced by that of Mrs. Jane Downey, of No. 24 Pleasant street, a near neighbor of Mrs. Vicker's, in this story of her case:

"Two bottles of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. My family physician advised me to take the remedy, saying that he had done all his could for me, but could give me no relief. Athlophoros drove the rheumatism away, and I am happy to say that it has never come back. My daughter, who suffered terribly from rheumatism, was also cured by taking half a bottle of the medicine."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

"Oh, I don't know; anything you like."

"I like them all. Suppose we have a feast?" and I began to make a reckless assault on the curried chicken.

"No, no!" she exclaimed: "one meat will be plenty."

"Will you be kind enough to make the tea?" I asked, as I handed the necessary implements and material.

"Certainly. What a dear little lamp and sauce-pan! I am sure they'll make delicious tea!"

"I have no doubt of it, with your help. I'm sorry to say I haven't any butter. Didn't think it would keep."

"No matter; I like crackers soaked in my tea."

Infatuated as I was, I could not express my agreement with that essentially feminine predilection. I dished out the chicken as gracefully as I could, and we began our repast while the tea was drawing.

Presently Mrs. Forsyth looked at me and laughed. "This is funny, isn't it?"

"I think it's very jolly."

"Oh! I don't mean the breakfast, but my sitting down as your guest, when, three days ago, I had never seen you."

"I assure you," I said, "I'm an eminently respectable and proper person—that is, for a lawyer. The conductor can vouch for me. He has known me for years."

"Yes, he gave you a good character."

"Then you inquired?" I asked eagerly.

"Oh, no," she answered, with a shade of mischief in her tone; "he volunteered the information."

"How good this tea is!" I observed, tasting some that she had handed me. "I never could have made it so well myself."

"It certainly is nice, but it's not due to my skill, but to the quality of the tea."

I, of course, dissented from this view, and took several cups—or at least glasses, for I had no cups—of that tea, which I was willing to swear was the most delicious beverage ever prepared,

We were just finishing when Hall came back and said, "Glad to see you getting on so comfortably."

"Yes, remarked Mrs. Forsyth; "the road is so smooth we could eat without any inconvenience."

"You give the road too much credit, ma'am. The fact is, we haven't moved the last thirty minutes."

"You don't mean to say we're at the station already?"

"No, ma'am; we're stuck."

"Stuck!" repeated Mrs. Forsyth.

"Yes—in the snow. Can't budge an inch. I've telegraphed for relief."

"Oh, dear me! When shall we get out?"

"I hope to-morrow," answered Hall, who assuredly disregarded truth in his desire to make things as pleasant as possible.

"Can't you back down?" asked the lady, after a brief pause, evidently spent in an inward struggle.

"No, ma'am."

"What shall we do?"

"We can only wait, ma'am. They'll try to send up some provisions from the Forks by this evening."

"And in the meantime there is my basket," I observed, in as cheerful a tone as I could command. I had been yearning to offer my sympathy during Hall's explanation, but thought it best not to interfere with the process which he called "letting 'em down easy."

"I was so anxious to get quickly to Seattle!" said Mrs. Forsyth. "I think I'll go and lie down for a little while. Perhaps I'll be able to get some sleep."

"She took it better than I expected," observed Hall, as the door hid her from our sight.

"She's a regular brick!" I exclaimed, with an amount of enthusiasm that would have done credit to a more fitting and tender designation.

"For all that, she's gone to have a good cry. Best thing for her; will do her lots of good. Come and have a smoke."

I thought Hall was an unfeeling brute, and I didn't consider I should be much better if I smoked while she was crying. Still, I went, and as I puffed at my cigar I regretted that Mrs. Forsyth could not know the consolation of tobacco.

II.

In the afternoon Mrs. Forsyth resumed her usual cheerful demeanor, and even ventured out for a few minutes on the platform to look at the walls of snow by which we were overshadowed. We had recourse to the friendly basket for dinner, and in the late afternoon we had some little excitement attendant on the arrival of the snow-shoe party, bringing up some cold meat and stale bread, which we considered vastly inferior to our tinned supplies. The novelty of the situation and the discussion of the chances of speedy extrication whiled away the day, which to me, at any rate, did not seem a long one. When I got up the next morning affairs did not seem to have changed. There was no sign of Mrs. Forsyth's stirring, so I went forward to find Hall and hear is there was any news. Unfortunately there was not, and after a brief talk I returned, and was agreeably surprised to find my fair fellow-passenger sitting in the car, with an expression on her face which I flattered myself indicated wonder as to what had become of me.

"Good-morning, Mrs. Forsyth. Were you pondering as to what had become of me?"

"Not at all," she answered, coolly; "I am scarcely awake enough to think about anything."

"Well, now for breakfast," I said, endeavoring to hide my chagrin by wrestling with the basket. "What is it to be

The Stomach as a Gasometer.

In the dyspeptic stomach impure gasses are generated, after meals, that distend and distress it, as well as the bowels. The best carminative for cramps, colicky pains and heartburn or bilious eructations, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Carbonate of soda and effervescing aperients are far inferior to it in efficacy, and as physicians now understand, impair the tone of the stomach. Copious libations of any sort are injurious to the stomach, and to dilute its juices is certainly not the way to increase their digestive usefulness. Aided by the bitters, the digestive organs, when enfeebled and disordered, regain their lost tone and regularity, not, of course, immediately, but with a degree of rapidity highly indicative of the excellence of the remedy. It has the further effect of regulating the bowels and liver, protecting the system against malaria, relieving rheumatism and neuralgia, and increasing constitutional vigor.

Deputy Sheriff John S. Walker, who was murderously assaulted by Chas. A. Jennings of Walpole, March 16th, while performing his official duties, died at his home in Langdon on the 22d inst., of blood poison, the result of his injuries. From the first his condition has been critical. Jennings was indicted by the grand jury at Keene for assault with intent to kill, and for maiming and disfiguring. He will now probably be held until October to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter. Jennings was ugly drunk at the time of the assault, and attacked Walker with an ax.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:—

1st: Because the system is now it its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

A Piece of Tyranny.

The sad view of the strike epidemic, seen in such instances as where a little brush factory, started solely as a charity to employ crippled boys who otherwise would beg in the streets and become criminals through idle habits, was boycotted by order of the Knights, is in striking contrast with the imitative proceedings by youth of several cities who have caught the fever; in the public schools where liberal outlays are made for the education of youth, the boys thought they knew better than the board of instructors as to what should be the hours of study, etc., and actually ceased all attempts to receive the knowledge freely given to them, to aid in their future career, because (as they in their youthful minds imagined) they were being more liberally supplied than they should be. It is simply the young cock learning to crow from the older one. The boys hear that men for some cause "go out" from their working places, and they follow suit. The men at the order of their superior officers, and often against their better judgment, give up employment and become idle, for some reason that is not apparent. The boys think it a nice thing to strike and have a good time. Every day's work lost impoverishes and retards the growth of the country. It is asserted that the strikes, like certain diseases, in the end will prove beneficial, because the effect will be to reduce the surplus production to which the commercial world has attributed decline in business. Certainly the manufacturer and the producer have seemed to regard the enforced idleness of the mills and manufactories with a degree of complacency which a stoppage from no other cause than that of the voluntary act of the employed could produce. In the boycott above referred to, the unfortunate maimed boys, one of whom had lost both legs, four had each lost one, and twelve others were quite lame, did not belong to the trade's union, and against these unfortunates grown men made war—in the name of labor! It is a pity that such unions in their tyranny can have such power to interfere, not with the contracts between employer and employed, but to disturb a well intended charity which was attempted to be administered solely for the benefit of the poor and crippled boys who so desired to be unmolested in the enjoyment of its benefits.

A New Jersey Tragedy.

Mrs. Fannie Smith, wife of J. Monroe Smith of Keyport, N. J., early in the morning on the 23d inst. took a dose of "rough on rats," and then with an axe killed her daughter Edna, aged four years, Rufus and Bessie, aged thirteen, and Alida, aged fifteen. A daughter of eighteen years escaped, and saved her sister aged two. When Mr. Smith arrived the maniac cowered and dropped the axe, and on his asking her why she killed the children, replied: "Why, Monroe, I could not help it. I was told by God to do it, and I had to do as He commanded. I know it is wrong, but it was the only thing that could save them from hell." The wretched creature died from the effects of the poison.

Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

At Home

AYER'S

and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

Clear.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, April 24th.

Jerry Murphy, charged with drunkenness, was allowed to go on probation, he signing the temperance pledge. Jerry on a previous similar occasion signed the pledge, and although unbelievers in his virtue scoffed at the suggestion of his keeping it, he did keep it for fourteen months.

SLIGHT FIRE.

The alarm of fire about half-past five o'clock Saturday morning was caused by the burning of a barrel of rubbish in the shed of Samuel W. Cottle on Russell street, which probably took fire from a spark from the chimney. Kearsarge engine, No. 3, was quickly in position and ready for action, but the fire was put out by chemical engine No. 6, which arrived very shortly after the alarm. Just as the "soda fountain" got well under way the hose burst, and one of the heavy dealers of the northerly part of Market street displayed some tall "sprinting" to escape the soda bath. The damage by the fire was trifling, and covered by insurance. Extinguisher No. 6 is a reliable machine, and has a first-class company; and the city should see that she is supplied with hose that can be relied upon in case of need.

A CONTRAST.

Twelve years ago this day, on April 26th, 1874, a snow storm set in, the wind blowing a heavy gale from southeast around to northeast, and on the 27th there was snow on the ground to the depth of six or seven inches on the level. In the Chronicle of April 28th, '74, we find a communication appealing to the public to help the birds while the snow covers the ground, by making it bare in spots so they can get food. On the last day of April in that year the thermometer stood at six degrees below the freezing point, at six o'clock in the morning—but then there is plenty of time yet for it to get down as low as that, or lower, before the present month expires.

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.

A week or so ago we copied from the Eastern Star, of Kennebunk, Me., an item regarding the recent appearance of the sea serpent off Wells beach, to two fishermen.

Happening on Friday last to pull out of a pigeon-hole an old paper that had been there for years, we found it to be the Kennebunk Gazette for July 1st, 1826—sixty years ago; and the first item that caught our eye, headed "Sea Serpent Again" and credited to the New York Daily Advertiser, was as follows:

Capt. Holdredge, of the ship Silas Richards, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool, states that in passing George's Banks, five days since, he had a fair view of the Sea Serpent. It was about ten rods from the ship, the sea perfectly calm, and that part which appeared out of water about sixty feet in length. The head and protuberances were similar to the representations which have frequently been given of him by persons who had seen him near Cape Ann. He was going at a very slow rate and appeared unmindful of the ship. He was visible about seven minutes to the passengers and crew, who were on deck at the time. A certificate has been drawn up and signed by the passengers, which with a drawing made by one of the gentlemen, gives a minute description of the Serpent as seen by them. The number and credibility of the witnesses, place beyond all doubt the existence of such an animal as a Sea Serpent.

In another column of the old paper, under the heading of "The Burmese War," was the following item credited to the Salem Gazette:

From information derived from Capt. Endicott, last from St. Helena, and bringing the latest intelligence, there is reason to believe that the war between England and the Burmese has been renewed, under circumstances very unfavorable to the English.

Picking up an exchange of the 22d inst., we clipped from it the following:

LONDON, April 21, 1886. Advices from Mandalay, Burmah, say that a British expedition sent against the Kacahcyn tribe has been compelled to retreat. The rebels in overwhelming force made a desperate attack on the British, charging into a battery of mountain guns and driving the expedition back. Reinforcements for the expedition have been ordered from Mandalay. The rebels have captured the Megandet police station. They bound the garrison with cords, and massacred twenty-three persons.

An item of local interest, taken by the Kennebunk paper from the Portsmouth Journal, recites the capsizing of a boat "by striking against Portsmouth bridge, four women (all the persons on board) being precipitated into the water. They were all brought to shore by their own efforts and the assistance providentially at hand, but one of them, Mrs. Betsey Foster, wife of Mr. Parker Foster, of El ot, aged fifty-one, was so exhausted that she died shortly after." The following item we find in the Gazette's general news columns:

A seaman named John Kee, of Saco, Me., belonging to the Portsmouth ship Marion, Capt. Goodwin, from Charleston, who shipped in that port, unfortunately fell from the main yard to the deck, at Savannah on Friday, 9th inst. He was carried to the Hospital where he died on the same night.

Even in those days some attention was being paid to the protection of fish, as the Gazette publishes "An act to prevent the destruction of fish in Sebasticook river," which provides that every owner of a dam on that river shall provide a sluice way "for the fish called salmon, shad and alewives to pass up and down with ease and convenience," and that "no person shall construct or keep up any wear that shall extend more than one-third of the way across said river." Also providing that if any person should "take any of said fish on the Saturday, Sunday or Monday of any week" he should "forfeit for every salmon so taken a sum not exceeding two dollars;" for every shad, one dollar; and for every hundred alewives, two dollars.

The paper was well edited and nicely printed, and was well patronized by advertisers. It was of about the same size as the Eastern Star of to-day, and was "Published by James K. Remich, opposite the meeting-house."

Don't fail to hear Col. Bain, of Kentucky, deliver his great lecture at the North church on Wednesday evening, April 28th, at quarter to eight o'clock; subject, "Our Country, our Homes and our Duty." Free to all.

Mr. DeCourcey, the merchant tailor, announces the finest selections of foreign and domestic suitings for spring and summer wear, and guarantees a perfect fit to all who call at No. 37 Congress street, Mechanics' block.

Kearsarge Encampment, I. O. O. F., of Lawrence, Mass., will arrive in this city this forenoon, and will be received by the two local encampments. The visitors will dine at the Rockingham house, and a collation will be served in Odd Fellows' hall at four o'clock. A steamboat excursion down the river is talked of, should the weather be warm and pleasant.

The two-story shed-roofed temporary building erected on the southerly end of the Jones brewery several years ago, and used as a tun-room until the completion of the new tun-room year before last, is to be moved, to make room for the new brick extension of the brewery for which plans have been made.

It is reported that a proposition to surrender the charter of Mt. Sinai Encampment, No. 19, I. O. O. F., is being considered, and that in case this is done the members will affiliate with Strawberry Bank Encampment, No. 6.

The Portsmouth cricket club has arranged to play three games on their own grounds this season as follows: With the Boston club, of Boston, June 17th; with the International club of Lowell, Mass., July 5th; with the Quincy club of Quincy, Mass., Aug. 28th. The Sanford club of Sanford, Me., which defeated the Portsmouth club on the home grounds last year, will play the Dover club in Dover on May 31st.

There were not so many country teams in the city on Saturday as is usual on that day of the week, the farmers generally being busily engaged in preparing for spring work, to take advantage of the advanced season.

Sunday was a pleasant, moderately cool day, and the attendance at the several churches was much in excess of the average. Almost every lady had on an "Easter" head-dress—mostly high, steeple-crowned hats, made still higher by trimmings of flowers, velvet and ribbon bows, the almost total absence of birds and feathers being noticeable even to the masculine eye. It is rumored that the makers of artificial flowers and the leading modistes joined forces to effect this great change in the fashion, and by boycotting the dead bird, give the living bird some kind of a chance to keep alive. This rumor is very likely well founded, as undoubtedly fashion is more potent in such matters than law, morality, reason, religion, humanity and all other agencies and influences combined.

Mr. John M. Davis of Boston, formerly of this city, was in town on Saturday.

Water street was very dull on Sunday, there being but few fishermen preparing their trawls at Commercial wharf. It is understood that the cold-term fishing is nearly finished. Daniel Clark bought a few fares last week.

St. Mary's Benevolent Association have their annual Easter ball this evening in Franklin hall.

Miss Georgia Cayvan will appear in Music hall next Saturday evening as "May Blossom."

Charles M. Laighton, Esq., is having quite a large stable erected on the Richards avenue front of his handsome lot on Miller and Richards avenue.

A suburban farmer on Saturday brought into this market some asparagus raised on his farm. Only once before in many years has asaparagus raised in this vicinity appeared in the market so early.

Mr. Edwin Small, who advertises to do gardening and setting out trees, has recently taken down large trees from in front of the Barnes estate and Mrs. Akerman's residence on Islington street. Mr. John S. Hubley, an experienced rigger, works with Mr. Small in the removal of big trees where tackle is required.

The warm days experienced during the past week were a gentle reminder that winter clothing will soon have to be packed away. Buy champhor at Preston's.

The ladies' committee of the Universalist society would like to have all members of the parish, also all friends who are interested in the re-opening of the church, meet them at their vestry on Monday evening, April 26th, at 7:30 o'clock. PER ORDER.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. You see after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bony formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. S. DRIGGS,

May 9, 1885. 612 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.

MAGGIE HOPPING.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, 50 cts.; CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, 25 cts.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

ITCHING, Scaly, Pimply and Oily Skin beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter decomposes and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON.

this morning?—you know the menu."

"But I can't go on living on your provisions. Suppose we should have to stay here another day or two. Why, they would be all gone."

"You have no choice, unless it is the tough salt beef and very stale bread the snow-shoers brought. The only things worth their bringing were the beer and whisky."

"That's just like a man."

"I wouldn't like to be like anything else. What do you say to some ox tongue? I'll open the tin while you make some tea." Then, as she gracefully began the necessary preparations, I ventured to add: "Upon my word, it begins to seem quite natural having you sit at my table and make my tea."

"Does it? Well, I sincerely hope I sha'n't have to do it much longer. What's the prospect of our getting out?"

"Not very brilliant. The snow is packed tight in the cut for two miles solid."

"How awful! Wouldn't it be possible to get to the next station over the snow?"

"Only on snow-shoes. There is frozen crust that will bear anything. The relief party had the greatest trouble in getting there."

"How stupid of me to venture at this time of the year! But Fanny urged me so! She's been expecting me ever since I finally arranged my poor husband's affairs."

The widow's handkerchief went up to her eyes. I silently anathematized the deceased, and wished she wouldn't refer to him, especially at meal times.

III.

By the aid of cards, talk, a very little reading, and two more assaults on the basket, we got through the second day of our imprisonment. Each passing hour saw my subjugation grow more and more complete, and I had to keep careful guard over my tongue for fear I should prematurely betray my feelings, and perhaps, through my impetuosity, lose all hope. It was true that Mrs. Forsyth grew more friendly and confidential, but she possessed a quiet though very effective way of checking any attempts to digress into tenderness.

The third morning again showed no apparent change in the outside situation. When Hall came in he, however, appeared unusually cheerful.

"You look as if we were going to get out," I remarked.

"Not yet awhile. But that frost last night was splendid, I've got a message this morning that the Forks Snow-shoe club will come down early this afternoon, with extra snow-shoes, and that any of the men who think they can manage it may try to get to the Forks. I suppose you've been on shoes often?"

"Yes; but to tell you the truth, I'm not particularly anxious to get away."

Hall broke into a quiet laugh. "I thought I saw which way the wind was blowing."

I did'nt quite relish his amusement, and was about to remonstrate and explain, when suddenly a brilliant idea struck me."

"Hall," I exclaimed, "I want you to do something for me, and I'll be grateful all my life."

"What is it?"

"When Mrs. Forsyth and I are at breakfast, I want you to—" At this moment the latch of her door clicked. I stopped, and pulling him along, said: "Come outside; I can tell you in a minute or two, but she mustn't hear."

On the platform I confided to him my scheme. What it was, and how it worked, the reader will soon learn.

A MAP

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY? WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THE TRUE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast, and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and the unsurpassed discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and Luxurious Dining Cars, in which are Liberally cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the waterfall places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and intermediate points.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodlJan

THE WRONG WAY TO GO UP STAIRS.

Going up stairs on one's hands and knees is a method of ascent not uncommonly seen among infants who are just learning the mysteries and perplexities of ambulation, but fortunately it is seldom that those of mature years have to resort to such means of progress. Mrs. J. C. Chapman, a well known resident of Mansfield, Mass., says that she once tried it and failed, and that others may be deterred from a similar experience it is perhaps worth while to give her experience. Mrs. Chapman now walks as upright as any one, and gives this account of her attempt:

"I was perfectly helpless with an attack of acute rheumatism, and was all doubled up. I could not sit upright even long enough to eat a meal. I tried once to get up stairs on my hands and knees, but failed. After taking everything recommended by my friends, and not getting the least benefit from anything, I despaired of ever getting around again. I had lost all hope of being cured when, like a gleam of light, Athlophoros was recommended to me by a friend who had used it with entire success. I took it and have never been troubled with rheumatism since, now three years. I can cheerfully recommend Athlophoros to any body suffering with rheumatism, for I know from experience that it will make a complete and permanent cure."

From J. A. Crane & Co., prominent druggists of Orange, Mass., comes this statement of a case that came under their observation:

"Mr. Shubel Briggs, of this place, has bought Athlophoros of us. He stated to us to-day that his wife before taking it could not move herself in bed, as she was suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism. After taking a few doses of Athlophoros she could move easily, and before two bottles were finished she had recovered completely and has not been troubled since. Mr. Briggs himself, who was troubled with stiffness in the joints, used some of the Athlophoros and experienced decided relief."

Charles H. Minchew, of Taunton, tells this story of his wife's cure, which was not unlike that of Mrs. Briggs:

"My wife had been afflicted with rheumatism for some time, and I employed a doctor who failed to do her any good. I happened to see Athlophoros advertised and concluded to get and try it. It worked like a charm, curing my wife completely, and I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. George H. Surgens is foreman of the cloth room of the Flint mill, Flint Village, Fall River, Mass. He lives at No. 140 County Street, Fall River. Of his wife's case he says:

"My wife was treated by four different doctors for a severe case of neuralgia of six years' standing. Her sufferings were terrible and the physicians could not allay them, though using the most powerful medicines all the time. As she was getting worse and worse I bought a bottle of Athlophoros, and that brought the first and only relief my wife had. Now she can attend to her household affairs and other duties as though she had never experienced the tortures of that dread disease, neuralgia. When Athlophoros can be had at the nearest drug store nobody should suffer from neuralgia or rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

On my return I lighted the lamp, put on the water, and soon had the simple breakfast ready. Mrs. Forsyth did not keep me long waiting. When she came in she took her usual seat, and did not make her customary protestations about deplenishing my stock. I took this to be a good sign, and my spirits rose accordingly. She cast an amused glance at my preparations, and said: "You're getting to be quite a domestic man. Suppose I had been shut up here with disagreeable people, and with scarcely anything fit to eat. I really don't know what I should have done without you."

"Don't you?" I cried; "please say that again."

"You musn't spoil your palate with too many sweet things. Any news this morning".

"Hall is expecting some every moment. He was going to the wire when I left him."

"I wish he could send us through by wire."

"I am not in any hurry."

"But I am. Think of my sister.

"I prefer to think of her sister."

At this momept Hall came in. His preternaturally solemn expression caught Mrs. Forsyth's eyes, and I believe spared me a rebuke.

"Why, conductor, what a long face you wear this morning! Surely things can't be wore than yesterday."

"I am afraid you won't like it, ma'am. The fact is, the difficulty of getting food here is so great, the company has ordered that all the single men among the passengers are to try to push through to the Forks this afternoon."

"I am sure," I exclaimed, "I could never manage it on those awkward snowshoes."

"Very sorry, sir," said Hall, with well-assumed imperiousness.

The full meaning now seemed to dawn on Mrs. Forsyth. She began to weep.

"Do you mean to say," she expostulated, "that I am to be left here all alone? It's an outrage!"

"I shall be here, ma'am," said Hall, consolingly, "and there's an old clergyman in the next car."

"I don't want any old clergymen," she exclaimed from behind her handkerchief.

I made a sign to Hall, and he disappeared. As the door closed on him, Mrs. Forsyth took down her handkerchief and asked, "Has that brutal conductor gone."

"Yes, dear Mrs. Forsyth. But it is really not his fault. He has no discretion in the matter."

"Oh, I suppose you're glad to get away."

"Indeed no. I'd much rather stay."

"Then stay."

"They won't let me."

"What is to become of me?"

"Hall will take good care of you."

"I don't want to be taken care of—at least not by him. Can't I go too?"

"Impossible! It's even a great risk for me."

"It's disgraceful!" she exclaimed, again having recourse to the handkerchief. "They've no business to start trains in this weather. I know I shall die here, with nobody to care a bit."

My time had come, and I made a headlong plunge.

"Dear Mrs. Forsyth, there is a way by which I might stay."

"In Heaven's name, what is it?"

"I hardly dare to tell you. That order applies only to single men, or men without their wives."

"Well?"

"If—if—you would only—well, it's no use, Kate—yes, I know your name—saw it on one of your books. Kate, I love you. Don't say anything, but hear me out. It is true I have only known you a few days—"

Her face was hidden by the wretched handkerchief, but from behind it she sobbed, "Only *t-t-*five."

"Excuse me—nearly six; but we have seen so much of each other that it seems we have been acquainted for months—you said so yourself yesterday."

"No; it was you who said so."

"You didn't contradict me. And then I've met your sister."

"Yes, that is true," she assented, as she again permitted her face to be seen.

"I know enough of you," I continued, "to feel sure of my love for you. Cannot you care for me a little? There is a clergyman on the train; he can marry us at once, and then I can remain with you, not only here, but all my life."

"What!" she cried, in dismay; "be married all in a hurry, without any warning, and to you, whom I— And then I have no trousseau. No, it's impossible! Leave me, and let me die."

I don't know what form of consolation I should have tried as she sank back weeping, but at this juncture Hall came in.

"Mr. Austin," said he, "you'd better be packing up the trifles you want to take with you." Then turning to her: "It's no use crying, ma'am; we have to make the best of it."

"Have you ever been snowed up before?"

"Yes, ma'am, last year—twenty-two days."

And with that tremulous eyelid again noticeable, he went out.

"Twenty-two days alone," ejaculated Mrs. Forsyth, "in a snowy tomb, with a conductor and an old clergyman!"

"Kate, dear Kate, won't you listen to me? Together the time will not be half so long, for we will share it. Think, too, of what you may save me from. I am not used to show-shoes, and may perish on the way."

The Stomach as a Gasometer.

In the dyspeptic stomach impure gasses are generated, after meals, that distend and distress it, as well as the bowels. The best carminative for cramps, colicky pains and heartburn or bilious eructations, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Carbonate of soda and effervescing aperients are far inferior to it in efficacy, and as physicians now understand, impair the tone of the stomach. Copious libations of any sort are injurious to the stomach, and to dilute its juices is certainly not the way to increase their digestive usefulness. Aided by the bitters, the digestive organs, when enfeebled and disordered, regain their lost tone and regularity, not, of course, immediately, but with a degree of rapidity highly indicative of the excellence of the remedy. It has the further effect of regulating the bowels and liver, protecting the system against malaria, relieving rheumatism and neuralgia, and increasing constitutional vigor.

A missing chapter house, which was buried at the time of the great fire in Dublin, Ireland, in the 13th century, has just been discovered under Christ church cathedral. In the chapter house were beautifully-carved effigies, coins, tiles, and marvellous specimens of architecture.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. TO THE BRAINERD & ARMSTRONG CO.—Dear Sirs: Having tested your embroidery silks, and finding them in color and texture eminently satisfactory, the managers of the Society of Decorative Art believe that you have found the secret of fast dyes. They believe it is no longer necessary to the Society to be dependent upon foreign manufactures. I have pleasure in telling you that it has been decided by the board of management to give you the silk thread business of the Society of Decorative Art. Congratulating you that your dyes stand "fast" under the severest test, I am,
Very truly yours, A. B. BLODGETT,

Was built by Edward III in 1386. The dedicatory exercises were a complete success, with only one exception, which Edward very much regretted; he forgot how pleasing to the guests would be a quaff of the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, which is of standard excellence and established purity. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer and druggist have it.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

One Reason Why the President Goes Slow.

A portion of the Democratic State Committee of Maine met at Portland last week, and among other pleasant sights the visitors from other parts of the state went into the custom house to take a look at the "ins." William A. Cromwell, in language of a Quamphegan plainness, declared that he wished for no empty honors as a congressional nominee, but wanted a position of profit in the treasury department, and the sooner his case was attended to the better it would be for the administration and the party.

The president seems to be very much misunderstood by his political friends, and consequently misrepresented at times. He has been so frequently imposed upon by democrats who have recommended men for appointments which ought never to have been made, that it has become quite the rule for the president to attempt at least to be personally cognizant of the characters and history of applicants, lest he might be compromised by appointment of men to places they were entirely unfit to fill.

Take, for an illustration, the instance of the rebel officer whose brutality in murdering several prisoners without any warrant of law or form of trial, and who was held in detestation by his fellow secceders to such an extent that he could not be assigned to any military duty after his atrocities became known, and who has been under a cloud until appointed to an important postmastership; or the many cases which are brought to the notice of the senate by protests and letters sent by democrats who know the history and can show the record of these men, as defaulters or in some kindred species of unfitness for "public trust."

Now, we take it that not even the critical editor of Foster's Democrat would venture to suppose, much less assert, that the president knowingly appointed men with such records as these, but that as in other selections, the president has been egregiously imposed upon. Is it to be wondered at, then, that Mr. Cleveland, who seems to be actuated by a desire to serve his country first, and his party next, should at times become disgusted with what proves to be the true history of some of the men who are properly vouched for by his party friends, and determine to go slow in the work of removals and appointments during the session of the senate?

A Mystery in Manchester.

Sunday morning, the 18th inst., a girl named Lizzie Donohue, aged sixteen years, was found dead in a room at the Monument house, Manchester. The circumstances of the death seemed suspicious, but the city physician decided that her death resulted from alcoholism, the coroner thought an inquest unnecessary, the parents of the girl opposed a post mortem examination, and the body was buried on the 20th. But some ugly rumors gained currency, and the clergymen of the city took hold of the case and prepared to hold a big meeting in Smyth's hall for the expression of public opinion. Friday evening, the 23d, the mayor called the aldermen together, and they ordered the coroner to make an autopsy and complete investigation, which was done on Saturday, with the result that no trace of alcohol was found in the girl's stomach, but instead a fracture of the skull which caused her death. The citizen's indignation meeting was held Sunday evening, among the speakers being nine clergymen.

Bitter Bread.

Complaint is frequently made by those who use baking powders that they leave in bread, biscuit, or cake raised by them a disagreeable, bitter taste. This taste follows the use of all impure baking powders, and is caused either by their containing alum (introduced to make a cheap article,) by the impure and adulterated character of other ingredients used, or from the ignorance of their manufacturers of the proper methods of combining them. These baking powders leave in the bread a residuum formed of lime, earth, alum, or other deleterious matters, not always, though frequently, tastable in the food, and by all physicians classed as injurious to health. The Royal Baking powder is free from this injurious defect. In its use no residuum is left, and the loaf raised by it is always sweet, light and wholesome, and noticeably free from the peculiar taste complained of. The reason of this is because it is composed of nothing but absolutely pure materials, scientifically combined in exactly the proper proportions of acid and alkali to act upon and destroy each other, while producing the largest amount of raising power. We are justified in this assertion from the unqualified statements made by the government chemists, who after thorough and exaustive tests recommended the "Royal" for government use because of its superiority over all others in purity, strength and wholesomenes. There is no danger of bitter bread or biscuit where it alone is used.

Fiametta: a summer idyl; by William Wetmore Story. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers; 16mo, 284 pp.; price $1.25. For sale in Portsmouth by M. Goodrich.

This tale by the poet and sculptor is the old story of the artist on a summer's ramble unthinkingly falling in love with his model, and as unthinkingly winning the love of the simple country girl; his return to town at the end of the summer, the fading away of the girl, the artist's notification by a kindly priest that her end is near, his hastening to her side, and her death, with a smile on her lips, in his arms. The simple, pathetic story is told in beautiful terms, and the several characters are distinctly and pleasingly drawn. The book is a choice one for the satchel of the summer traveller.

"Snowbound at Eagle's" is one of Bret Harte's interesting stories of Californian adventure, in which gentlemanly highwaymen, ruffianly robbers and gentle dames are some of the characters, the good being properly rewarded and the bad defeated in their aims, at the end. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; price $1.00; for sale by Goodrich.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Found

At Home

There was a rumor on Monday to the effect that a wholesale raid on the liquor dealers of the city was in contemplation, and that spotters were in town in pursuance of the plan.

The democratic residents of the upper part of Market street have been taunted for many years past with having to live on salt fish, while their political opponents were faring sumptuously on roast turkey; but now all alike are eating dirt under a democratic administration. Great clouds of dust are rising there with every breeze; the street has not been cleaned for months. DEMOCRAT.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

ODD FELLOWS' VISIT.

Kearsarge Encampment, No. 36, of Lawrence, Mass., C. B. Smith major, sixty-seven men, accompanied by the Lawrence band of twenty pieces, arrived in this city at ten o'clock Monday forenoon, and were met at the railroad station by Strawberry Bank and Mt. Sinai Encampments of this city, David Uuch major, with the Newcastle drum corps, and escorted to Odd Fellows' hall, where a brief stop was made, after which the visitors were escorted to Broughton's wharf, where they embarked on the steamer Mystic, and were taken out as far as Whalesback, returning shortly after twelve o'clock, when the line of march was taken up for the Rockingham house, where the Lawrence patriarchs dined. After dinner the visitors were escorted on a march through some of the principal streets until four o'clock, when a collation was served in Odd Fellows' hall, the visitors leaving for home at five o'clock.

DROWNED.

Alpheus Deering of Kittery Point, over eighty years of age and quite feeble, was found drowned in Chauncey's creek on Sunday morning. Mr. Deering boarded with Martin Williams, and left the house about six o'clock Sunday morning. Not returning as soon as expected, several parties went in search of him, but he was not discovered until between eight and nine o'clock, when Mrs. Walter Amee, who lives on Hall's Island, while feeding her hens saw the body of a man lying in the water near the shore, and at once pulling it out, recognized Mr. Deering. It is supposed the old gentleman stumbled as he was walking along the shore of the creek, and falling in such a manner that he could not rise, was drowned. The water where he was found is shoal; only his head and shoulders were covered, the clothing on his body and legs not being wet. He was a native of Kittery, and for years sailed as master of fishing vessels. He leaves a son and two daughters.

CHANGE IN STORM SIGNALS.

The chief signal officer having requested observers in charge of the various seacoast stations to interview ship masters, and to solicit suggestions from them and others in shipping circles with a view to improving the present mode of publishing and displaying storm warnings, has adopted a new code for the use of the weather bureau, which will be substituted for the present one on and after Saturday, May 1st. The signals adopted for the wind storms are of three kinds, viz.:

1. The cautionary signal.
2. The direction signal.
3. The on-shore signal.

The cautionary signal, by day, remains as at present, a square red flag with a black square centre, and a red light at night. It is hoisted when a wind with a velocity of thirty-five miles per hour or over is expected within 100 miles of the station where displayed. This velocity is considered dangerous to all classes of shipping.

The direction signal is a square flag composed of two horizontal stripes, one black and one white. It is never displayed except with the cautionary signal flag, and indicates from what quadrant the dangerous wind is expected. For this purpose the compass is divided into northeast, southeast, northwest and southwest quadrants. There is no night signal for the direction signal.

When the direction signal is hoisted above the cautionary signal, and with the black bar uppermost, it indicates a gale from the northeast; with the white bar uppermost, a gale from the southeast.

The direction signal under the cautionary, black bar up, a northwest gale; white bar up, a southwest gale.

The on-shore signal is a square flag composed of two white and two black squares, and is to be displayed only at stations on the lakes.

PARISH MEETINGS.

The parish meeting of St. John's church was held in the church on Monday evening, and adjourned to meet Tuesday evening, May 4th, in the chapel.

The parish meeting of Christ church was held Monday evening, Rev. H. E. Hovey presiding. John H. Slater and Edwin B. Prime were elected wardens for the ensuing year; John H. Knox, parish clerk; Frank J. Philbrick and William Bates, vestrymen; E. B. Prime, treasurer.

The North parish Sunday school had an Easter service in their chapel on Middle street, Sunday evening, the room being packed; the exercises, consisting of speaking, recitations, and vocal and instrumental music, were very interesting and pleasing. For instrumental music the pianist, Mr. W. W. McIntire, was assisted by an orchestra composed of the following-named members of the school: Thomas D. Noyes, violin; Samuel L. Kingsbury and Harry Hutchinson, flutes; Thomas D. Noyes, 'cello. The chapel auditorium was adorned with many of the beautiful growing plants, cut flowers, pussy willows, etc., with which the church was decorated for the forenoon service.

Men were on Monday engaged in clearing away the wreck made by fire in the upper part of the building near the North church a few weeks ago. The slight damage sustained by the church at the same time was also repaired on Monday.

Do not fail to hear Col. Bain of Kentuckey deliver his famos lecture at the North church on Wednesday evening; subject, "Our country, our homes and our duty." Free to all.

Monday forenoon a horse belonging to Anderson & Junkins, attached to a wagon and standing in front of the former skating rink on Vaughan street, took fright from the music of the band, (so seldom heard in this city,) and ran, turning into Congress street and colliding with one of Hett Brothers' express wagons which was standing near Abbott' s store. The runaway stopped at this point, the light wagon being considerably wrecked, while the big one was but slightly injured.

The general committee on soldiers' monument met in the city rooms on Monday evening, Mayor Eldredge presiding, and C. H. Tracy secretary. The mayor, Dr. Parsons and E. H. Fay were appointed a committee on procuring designs, and H. F. Eldredge, J. Albert Walker and another a committee on finance.

The schooner Albert Woodbury, Capt. Ephraim H. Downs, on Monday took to Star Island, Shoals, Mr. John B. Downs and wife, Mrs. Olive Downs, parents of Capt. Downs, and their household effects, they intending to pass the summer at their homestead on Star island. The schooner was towed to sea by the steamer James Sampson.

The fleet of shore-fishing boats — or some of them, for some are not yet fitted out— are going out now, and generally bringing in very good catches.

MARGARET MATHER.

It is very rare that an actress reaches the top round of the ladder at almost a single jump, but such has been the case with Margaret Mather. She has in three years accomplished more than a large majority of even the most promising actresses have been able to accomplish in a lifetime. She has stood the critical test in all of the leading cities of the country, and everybody who reads the newspapers knows what a distinct triumph she made in New York this season. The leading critics there were all ready to detect and point out any blemishes in her professional work, but they came away from her performances so enthusiastically in her favor that they wrote column after column in her praise. Miss Mather makes very few acquaintances, for the reason that she is so bound up in her art that she has little time for anything else, but those who do know her, know her to be ladylike, intelligent, an agreeable conversationalist, and a woman who does many charitable deeds without letting the world know it.

She will appear in Music hall to-morrow evening, and for the first time here in one of her favorite characters, that of Leah in "Leah, the Forsaken."

Schooner Comet, 22.95 tons register, has been purchased at Newburyport by Capt. Nathaniel W. Yeaton of Newcastle, and will engage in fishing from Newcastle during the season under the command of Capt. Yeaton.

Jeremiah D. Carlton has commenced setting his lobster pots between "Sunk rocks," off Rye beach, and Pocahontas point. He is also preparing nets for cod fishing between Odiorne's point and Jerry's cove.

The warm days experienced during the past week were a gentle reminder that winter clothing will soon have to be packed away. Buy champhor at Preston's.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally press them out and they would take out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bony formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are stunted, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. S. DRIGGS,
May 9, 1885. 619 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.
MAGGIE HOPTING.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, 50 cts.; CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, 35 cts.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate membrane of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

"I would not keep you here for selfish reasons," she said, after a brief pause; "but to save your life, I might be tempted—"

"Then you consent?" I cried.

"Are you very sure you love me?"

"As certain as that I breathe."

"Then, Robert—yes, I know your name—that nice conductor told me—you—you may ask the clergyman if he will. But oh! it's awful to be married without a wedding dress."

"You shall have the handsomest that is to be got when we reach the coast."

"That won't be like being married in it. Remember, if you ever repent this, that I only marry you to save your life."

"I shall never repent. I love you too much." I started toward the door to see the clergyman.

She called me back, and as I held her in my arms she whispered, "Robert, I think I am a little selfish, after all."—Adapted from Julian Magnus in Harper's Bazar.

MAKING A HEADFOREMOST LEAP.

An Ingenious Arrangement in Use on the Stage—Jumping Into the Water.

In play now running in the east an actor leaps headlong from the walls of a prison into apparent water. He actually falls twenty-three feet clear in the sight of the audience. The device by which he escapes injury is ingenious. A canvas cone is fixed under the stage, with its large end even with the stage, which is arranged to represent water. This end is covered with rubber cloth, also painted to represent water. The rubber cloth is cut across in its center, the cuts reaching half way from the center to the edge. The ring or edge of this circle is hung on thick rubber springs. As the cone narrows to its apex three other rings are disposed at proper intervals, affording only a slight resistance.

Now, when the headforemost leap is made, the leaper covers first twenty-three feet of clear space unresisted. He then strikes the center of the diaphragm, and the rubber cloth, partially giving way, still offers some resistance, and, clinging around his shoulders, retards his progress without harming him at all. The next and the next, and still the next, or last, ring in turn offer enough resistance to check the fall until the apex of the cone, by its narrowing, holds the diver in a close embrace about the shoulders, with his head protruding from the opening. Thus far the diver has not hurt himself.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Favorite Dance of the Mexicans.

The jarabe, more familiarly known as the fandango, is the favorite dance of the native Mexicans. A man or woman stand opposite to each other—or if the women are scarce the men pair off—and dance, or rather stamp, a kind of smothered shuffle, which is neither clog dance nor reel. The dancers do not need much space to execute it successfully, and hence the large, flat-bottomed freight boats, which ply between the city and Chalco, afford ample accommodations for their simple revels. The music on these occasions is usually a harp and a bandolon, the latter being an instrument much like the guitar, with twelve metal strings, and the dancers generally chime in their voices, making a wild chorus, which once heard, can never be forgotten. There can be nothing more picturesque than a fleet of these noisy, flower-decked boat people out for a feast-day lark.—Overland Monthly.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relations to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important and continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which delicious cooked meals are charged extra. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, and close connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and Brilliant Province of Dakota. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Northern Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Iowa.

Still Another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodtJan

McCLELLAN AND BURNSIDE.

The recent death of General McClellan leaves but few living of those unfortunate commanders who found themselves unequal to the great responsibilities placed upon them during the civil war. Burnside, Halleck, "Fighting Joe" Hooker, and others, had passed away before him, honored by the nation they had served, after having lived down the hostile criticism their official acts had excited. Equal justice will be done to General McClellan, and a true estimate of his abilities as an organizer and a soldier will be recorded. In his political ambition the genial Burnside was far more successful than his old commander, and death found him a senator from Rhode Island. McClellan might have been a cabinet officer but for factional quarrels in New Jersey which made his appointment inexpedient.

Rhode Island's devotion to her handsome senator illustrates a happy characteristic of the smallest State which still distinguishes her. General Burnside was not a native of "Little Rhody"—having come east from Indiana—but he had the right timber in him, and was made governor and afterward senator of his adopted State. The same spirit may be seen in her citizens to-day in their hearty reception of that which will be of benefit to them. A case in point is that of Mr. John A. Bishop, of Central Falls, R. I., who tells this story:

"For eighteen years I suffered with neuralgia and never got any relief until I took Athlophoros. After that had cured me of the disease I became afflicted with sciatic rheumatism, for which I was treated by two doctors. Neither of them did me any good, in fact I grew worse under their treatment. Again I began taking Athlophoros, and, strange as it may seem, relief came almost instantly. The pain abated so that I was able to get around in less than three days, and as I daily grew stronger the rheumatism left me altogether."

Mrs. S. T. Goss, of No. 42 Dudley Street, Providence, can confirm this seemingly wonderful cure out of her own experience. She says:

"For thirty years I suffered with muscular rheumatism, during which time I used every known remedy and all sorts of prescriptions from physicians. At times I would gain a little relief, but only for a short period, after which the disease would attack me with renewed violence. It was while I was suffering one of these very severe attacks that a friend spoke to me of the wonders Athlophoros was doing and advised me to try it. I did get a bottle and in two days after beginning to use it was on my feet. Athlophoros is now kept in my house and is looked upon as indispensable. It is the greatest preparation I ever knew of and will cure rheumatism just as it is claimed it will do."

Mr. J. D. Payne, one of the most prominent citizens of Westville, Ct., where he has pleasant home on Fountain street, is outspoken in his praise of Atlophoros.

"I did not think there was any cure for rheumatism," he says, "but I am pleased to say that there is and that it is Athlophoros. Three doses of it cured my wife of rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

JUST LIKE ARGENTINA.

"Heroines are always gliding and hiding," Nelly Fairfield thought, laying down the three volumes of "A Dead Mystery." She had read "Lady Dampstick's Doom," and "Lurid Lightnings," and "Green-Grey Eyes," and "The One-Legged Witch," three volumes each, of the most blood-curdling description that the village library could supply.

Nelly's taste in romance was not of the highest. She liked to have her blood curdled. And as the four weeks of her country visit had been incessantly wet of course, immediately, but with a degree of rapidity highly indicative of the excellence of the remedy. It has the further effect of regulating the bowels and liver, protecting the system against malaria, relieving rheumatism and neuralgia, and increasing constitutional vigor.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

The Stomach as a Gasometer.

In the dyspeptic stomach inpure gasses are generated, after meals, that distend and distress it, as well as the bowels. The best carminative for cramps, colicky pains and heartburn or bilious eructations, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Carbonate of soda and effervescing aperients are far inferior to it in efficacy, and as physicians now understand, impair the tone of the stomach. Copious libations of any sort are injurious to the stomach, and to dilute its juices is certainly not the way to increase their digestive usefulness. Aided by the bitters, the digestive organs, when enfeebled and disordered, regain their lost tone and regularity, not, of course, immediately, but with a degree of rapidity highly indicative of the excellence of the remedy. It has the further effect of regulating the bowels and liver, protecting the system against malaria, relieving rheumatism and neuralgia, and increasing constitutional vigor.

Valuable wood lands at Weirs were burned over on the 26th inst.

A bush fire at Red Ledge, near Concord, burned over 700 acres of valuable wood land on Sunday and Monday, and the fire was still raging.

Windsor Castle

Was built by Edward III in 1386. The dedicatory exercises were a complete success, with only one exception, which Edward very much regretted; he forgot how pleasing to the guests would be a quaff of the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, which is of standard excellence and established purity. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer and druggist have it.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

Frank J. Brown was arrested at New London, Merrimack county, April 25th, for stealing a horse in New York state.

Steamer "City of Mexico" Forfeited.

A despatch of April 26th from Key West, Fla., says that in the case of steamer City of Mexico, libelled by the government as a prize, and also for forfeiture for violation of the neutrality laws, Judge Locke dismissed the prize libel, as there could be no prize without the existence of a specific law, but decreed the forfeit of the vessel on the ground of probable intention to violate the law, referring to the outfit of arms and men and intention to secure other cargoes at points in the Caribbean sea.

Fight With Moonshiners.

About two weeks ago a United States deputy marshal named Webb Purdon, living in Manchester, Tenn., went on a raid against the illicit distillers in Grundy county, and destroyed several stills. Between twelve and one o'clock in the morning on the 26th inst. fifteen moonshiners rode into Manchester, determined to have Purdon's life. Seven broke into his house, and the balance surrounded it. Purdon met them with a cocked revolver, and a terrible battle ensued. Two moonshiners fell to the floor mortally wounded, and the gang retreated, but not until they had succeeded in fatally wounding Purdon. Disabled as he was he seized a double-barrelled shotgun and fired into the retreating gang, and two more fell mortally wounded. Purdon then fell dead beside the body of one of his victims. The gang carried off three of their wounded companions. A large posse went in pursuit of them.

Contract Labor.

Eighty-five masons, stonecutters and blacksmiths who arrived at New York by steamer from Europe on the 26th inst., were detained on the ground that they are under contract to work on the new state capitol at Austin, Texas. Suit will be brought against the contractor for violation of the United States law.

MARITIME NOTES.

Steamer James Sampson towed to Boane's wharf on Tuesday a schooner from Virginia loaded with 2,500 bushels of oysters to W. Freeman, which were discharged by George Danielson and George E. Stover in eleven hours.

The following-named vessels were lying at the southend wharves on Tuesday, and about ready to sail for summer fishing: Albert Woodbury, Bonita, Flying Dart, Grace Choate, Lucy, Mary S. Hontvet, Fleur-de-Lis and Flying Cloud.

It is reported that an American vessel has been seized off Cape Breton for breach of the fishery laws. She was in a bay less than six miles wide, and therefore at every point within the three-mile limit.

Herring are reported as having appeared off shore in large schools all along the New England coast, so there is no need of our fishermen going into the ports of the British provinces to buy bait.

The fish and game commissioners of Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts have apparently commenced in earnest to enforce the law prohibiting the catching, having in possession or selling lobsters under a certain length. In Boston last week, 236 "short" lobsters were seized, they having come by steamer from Deer Isle, Me., tagged to W. Trefethen, who is said to be the same dealer that was so severely mulcted in Portland not long ago for dealing in short lobsters. The fine in Massachusetts is $5 for each lobster, so Mr. Trefethen's venture will cost him $1,180—if he is caught and convicted.

The lobster fishermen who have their pots set around the Isles of Shoals report the crustaceans as discouragingly scarce and small.

The trial of Capt. Jeffrey Gerrior, charged with scuttling and destroying the fishing schooner Racer, off Gloucester, off Portland, Me., last year, he being then master of the vessel, began in the United States circuit court in Boston on the 27th inst., before Judges Colt and Carpenter. The punishment for the crime which he is charged with is death.

The fishing schooner Eureka, Simpson master, struck on Round shoal at nine o'clock in the evening on the 23d inst., drove over it, and had her stern-post knocked out. She anchored to stop drifting, and sunk in ten fathoms of waters off Cape Henlopen. She was engaged in southern mackerel fishing, was built in 1866 at Kennebunk, Me., registered forty-nine tons, was owned by Benjamin Low of Gloucester, and was insured for $3,200 in the Gloucester mutual company.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Commodore Russell, commanding the Mare island navy yard, will probably be ordered at an early day to command the South Atlantic squadron, to succeed Rear Admiral English, retired. It is thought that Commodore Belknap, at present superintendent of the naval observatory, will be ordered to succeed Commodore Russell in command of the Mare island navy yard.

The report of the board of naval officers appointed to determine what additional tools of modern patterns are required at certain navy yards has been approved by the secretary of the navy, and the heads of departments of steam engineering at the New York, Norfolk, and Mare island navy yards have been directed to make requisition for the tools specified in the reports. It is roughly estimated that these will cost about $75,000, of which $45,000 goes to New York, and $15,000 to each of the other yards named. The navy yards at Boston and on the Piscataqua were not considered at all, in pursuance probably of Mr. Whitney's scheme of putting all the naval work at New York, as far as possible.

Mr. Thomas A. Whittle, formerly of York but now a resident of Vinton, Benton county, Iowa, writing on the 9th inst. says: "We have had a very severe winter in Iowa, but it is fine weather now. Farmers are very busy sowing wheat and oats. We sowed twenty-four acres of oats to-day in three hours with a broadcast seeder, and have nine acres more to sow. This part of the country is generally healthy; we have been here three years, and have required no assistance from any physician yet."

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

Found

At Home

AYER'S

and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 136 Bank Street, New York City.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. FREE, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LAWS, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

CHERRY BLOSSOMS.

Ex-Alderman A. K. W. Green sent in to us on Tuesday, April 26th, some fully-opened cherry blossoms plucked from a tree in his garden. This is earlier than the cherry trees have blossomed for many years, from the 10th to the 20th of May being about the average. We give the dates of the first blossoms reported in this city for several years past: 1879, May 18th; 1880, May 11th; 1881, May 10th; 1882, May 25th; 1883, May 18th; 1884, May 16th; 1885, May 15th.

PISCATAQUA ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The Piscataqua Association of Congregational ministers met last week with Rev. Geo. E. Street of Exeter. Brethren present, Messrs. Boynton of Rye, Fitts of South Newmarket, Hall of Dover, Lewis of South Berwick, Me., Robie of Greenland, Chapman of Exeter, Haynes of North Hampton, Stone of Plaistow, Dow of Portsmouth, Dutton of Great Falls, Titcomb of Kensington, Byington of Exeter, Kingsbury of Deerfield, Rand of South Seabrook, Thompson of Newington, Otis of Exeter, White of Newmarket, Patten of Kingston, Fay of Hampton, Minaice of Kingston, Pike of Brentwood, Mills of Raymond, Norcross of Conway, Stearns of Epping, Savory of Stratham, Scott of Exeter.

Concio by the moderator, Rev. Isaac White, on the text, "Who is sufficient for these things?"

After thirty minutes devoted to a statement of the state of religion and practical questions, Rev. Mr. Boynton read his Christian experience.

After dinner the annual meeting of the Piscataqua missionary society was held; Rev. E. Robie chairman, Rev. J. W. Chapman secretary.

A committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. Street, Lewis, Robie, Dutton, Stearns and Hall was appointed to take into consideration the question of the formation of a Congregational club.

Sermon by Rev. J. W. Kingsbury, from text "Honor thy father and thy mother."

Essay by Rev. John M. Dutton; subject, "Christ in history; or, when and how has Christ appeared in the history of the world?"

The next meeting of the association will be held at South Newmarket.

Citizens Meeting.

A meeting the citizens committee appointed to forward the soldier's monument scheme, held at the city rooms Monday evening, was largely attended and quite enthusiastic. Mayor Eldredge presided, and C. W. Tracy acted as secretary. Letters were received from several gentlemen appointed on the committee at a previous meeting accepting a position on such committee, while some other gentlemen, similarly appointed, declined on account of business cares, and Messrs. John H. Broughton, Andrew P. Preston, Ed. S. Fay and Thomas E. Call jr. were selected to fill vacancies occasioned by the declinations of Messrs. E. H. Winchester, Calvin Page, John H. Pray and John J. Pickering.

The Mayor, Dr. John W. Parsons, E. S. Fay and James P. Bartlett were appointed to lay before the general committee, plans, designs, and submit estimates of the cost of a suitable monument. Messrs. H. F. Eldredge, J. Albert Walker and Samuel J. Gerrish were subsequently appointed to present at the next meeting the names of gentlemen to serve as a finance committee for the collection of funds.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, April 26th.

Rev. R. A. DeLancey, D. D., is suffering from internal injuries received while trying to remove some fence posts, and now lies in a critical condition; great sympathy is felt for him.

The roads throughout the town, noted as the best in the county, are being put in thorough repair for beach travel.

Easter Sunday was very appropriately observed at the Congregational church, which was beautifully decorated around the pulpit with rare flowers and plants. A most excellent sermon, from John 20th, 1st, was preached by their pastor, Rev. W. W. Fay. A. D.

"MAY BLOSSOM."

The great Madison Square theatre success, "May Blossom," is to be presented in Music hall next Saturday evening, with Miss Georgia Cayvan in the title role, and Mr. Ben Maginley as Tom Blossom, an old fisherman and May's father. The following is a synopsis of the play:

May Blossom is the daughter of a fisherman in a Virginia coast village during the war. She is beloved by two young men, one of whom, Richard Ashcroft, she accepts, and discovers immediately afterward that her father had practically pledged her hand to the other suitor, Steve Harland. The latter presents his claim, and May, with simplicity and frankness, breaks the truth to him. Steve wishes her happiness, and is seemingly resigned, but soon finds himself exposed to a great temptation. Richard is arrested as a confederate spy, his rival being sole witness of his capture. His promises to explain Richard's disappearance to his betrothed, but instead of doing so, permits her to think that he has been drowned. May sorrows for a year, and then weds her rejected lover.

When the second act begins they are living happily together, and a child has been born to them. A surprise party is about to be given them by their village friends, to celebrate the second anniversary of their wedding. Just before the festivites Richard returns, having escaped from prison. From his lips May learns the story of her husband's treachery. Steve is confronted by the man and woman he has wronged, and, in an agony of shame, acknowledges his guilt. Richard, in despair, attempts to carry off May by force, but she rupulses him, and Steve, rallying from his stupor, defends her.

In the third act the surprise party is held, the participants being in ignorance of the sorrow which they are invading, as the husband and wife have agreed, for the time being, to hide their anguish from their friends. This device leads to a very effective scene, in which the village preacher invokes a blessing upon the miserable young couple, who are forced to kneel reverently at his feet and kiss each other. Then the revellers retire, and the husband bids farewell to wife, child and home.

The last act deals with the reunited, after six years, of the separated couple, the reconciliation being effected in a charmingly simple manner. This brief outline gives but a slight idea of the elaborate manner in which the story is worked out. The drama is rich with varied effects and bright with dialogue.

The sale of seats commences at Goodrich's this morning.

Remember that Col. Bain, the silver-tongued orator of Kentucky, will deliver his powerful temperance lecture in the North church to-night; don't fail to hear him. Subject, "Our Country, Our Homes and Our Duty. Free to all."

Again we remind the readers of the Chronicle that one of the best spring medicines is the old reliable Preston's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh mackerel, caught to the southward, were on sale on the streets in this city on Tuesday.

Capt. John H. Willey, a native of this city and up to manhood a resident here, was in town on Tuesday, and called on some of his old friends. Capt. Willey's last command was the ship Paul Revere, which he was obliged to give up on account of a serious illness. He has so far recovered that he will go out as master of the ship Continental, of New York, when she is ready to sail.

Edward Lolley, otherwise known as "Juba," who was charged with confiscating oil clothing belonging to Mr. Bapp Randall some time ago, was sentenced last week in Exeter to one year in the county jail.

When the procession of Odd Fellows was passing through Cabot street, Monday afternoon, Bro. John Clark, who has been an invalid five years, appeared at the window, and received a marching salute.

The "Hoop of Gold," which has been played for two seasons in New York and the west, with great success, will be presented in Music hall on Tuesday evening, May 4th. It is a spectacular melodrama of the decidedly sensational sort, but with a good deal more fun in it than pieces of its class usually have.

Capt. J. Albert Sanborn has purchased the old Currier property on South street, and will shortly erect a residence there.

At the annual meeting of the South parish, Monday evening, Messrs. William H. Sise, William W. Cotton, A. Coburn Hoyt, John W. Parsons and Justin V. Hanscom were elected wardens for the ensuing year, and G. Ralph Laighton parish clerk.

There was a heavy white frost, Tuesday morning, and some ice formed, but there seemed to be no damage done to the fruit buds, which are quite promising.

A meeting having been called for Friday evening, the 23d inst., by dissatisfied voters of school district No. 7 in Eliot, (Eliot neck,) who considered the former meeting in that district informal, a large number of the citizens appeared, but the official holding the key of the building refused them admittance, consequently no further election was held.

Mr. George Simpson of Brixham, York, brought in to Landlord Goodwin of the Kearsarge house last week a coset sheep weighing 115 lbs.

Landlord Safford of the Pepperell house, Kittery Point, was in this city several days of last week making arrangements for the opening of his hotel early in the season.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every six years. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a long matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal. CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, as strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. F. S. DRIGGS,

May 9, 1885. 618 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandfather, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.

MAGGIE HOPPING.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, 50 cts.; CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, 25 cts.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL Co., Boston.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

will not exile me—you are too good—I shall be free and at your service in one half hour."

Mr. Marsh carried on the talk about stories from the point where his daughter had left it.

"Ah!" said that merry little man, the kindly host, "my Robin is not what I was long ago. I set beans to grow a stalk like the famous Jack; and even now, if I will read a story I like to believe it. Once in the six months, may be, I get hold of one worth reading, and then all the men and women I have met in it live for ever-more. What's the good of a story that a fellow feels is a hoax and a yarn? Now, there's that book that every one is talking of, 'Brightley Court;' that girl Ruth Moss is somewhere in the world; she is living like a violet in a wood, and the air is better for her presence—happier—and that's all one knows. 'Let us love much because life is short; let us do much because we love much!' That girl is alive for me now almost as much as Nelly there and my Mary. She marries no one in the novel; why, there isn't a fellow I ever met fit to put his hand under her foot to send her up to the saddle. I beg your pardon, Harry, but you won't mind. I don't think you are good enough for Ruth either."

"All right, sir! Shan't break my heart for that," said Sir Harry. "I'd rather have a real live girl than a dream, though that is a very true character—very real—very! In fact Ruth Moss reminded me of somebody I have met. Have you read 'Brightley Court,' Miss Fairfield?"

Nelly had not; Mary had suggested it, and she had rejected it as too unromantic.

"Ah! you should read that!" cried both the men in duet—Mary's father and Sir Harry Clive.

"Who is it by?" said the voice of Mr. Gobblecock.

"Hyacinth Grey."

Mr. Gobblecock, with a grunt, returned to his papers.

"A lady, I should think," said the young baronet.

"Ah! I'm sure of it. Who else could have told us about Ruth's dresses and the color of her hair? Yet there's an amazing amount of knowledge of horses in that book, and of barrack life," said Mr. Marsh, "and Hyacinth Grey has one novel about London city life, and another about yachting."

The voice of Gobblecock interrupted. "In my time at school Hyacinthus was a Greek boy, but these ladies that write novels don't trouble their heads about classical accuracy."

Soon he wrote a long letter, sent it to the post, folded his newspapers into the black bag, and came with a thousand more apologies, and made up for his absence by talking with the volubility of a dozen. His stories made everybody laugh; his gentleness with the girls made up for his lack of good looks; his talk of foreign cities made them wonder how (as our friends beyond the channel would say) he was most at home when he was abroad. In a word, Gobblecock was a pleasant man, good company—a success. Even Hubert came back, heart-aches and all, and joined the circle. And then the candles gleamed round the drawing-room, and Nelly looked her prettiest, and Mary Marsh was her sweetest, and Robin was his noisiest. Harry Clives was pleased with himself and all the world; Hubert was only heard once (overheard by Nelly) to murmur to his sister that he wished Harry was "far enough;" Mr. Marsh made a happy paterfamilias, and felt like a boy again when he detected Harry Clive waiting on Nelly, and poor Hubert getting angry. In short, it was a pleasant family circle, and Gobblecock had become a favorite with everybody, except little Robin, whose mind had been disturbed about Bluebeard.

At Darkleigh Court the ladies had always an hour to themselves, while the men finished the late evening in the smoking-room or at the billiard-table. To-night Nelly took up the book that was the talk of the season, and read a few chapters while Mary worked.

Presently Mr. Marsh came in. "So glad you are reading that, Nelly! It is beauty and poetry from cover to cover, no matter what it talks about—the hunting-field, or the camp, or the barrack-yard, or anything."

Mary did not look up from her work, but she said gently," Hyacinth Grey's books are all delightful. He must be a man with a noble mind."

Mr. Marsh paced up and down the room thinking: his thoughts had darted off to a subject nearer his heart.

Daniel Day's steam saw mill, situated in Cat Mousam, Kennebunk, was burned April 22d, together with a large quantity of lumber. The fire spread into the woods and burned over considerable territory before being extinguished. Loss, $2,500; uninsured.

John R. Bean, second lieutenant of the First New Hampshire Battery throughout the war of secession, an honored member of the Grand Army, a prominent Odd Fellow, worthy district councillor of York county, Me., Good Templars, member of the Kennebunk republican committee, and for the past twenty years overseer in R. W. Lord & Co.'s twine manufactory in Kennebunk, died on the 23d inst., aged fifty-four years.

Mrs. Sarah Lord Jordan, widow of the late Hon. Ichabod G. Jordan of Berwick, Me., died at Cliftondale, Mass., April 21st, at the age of seventy-two years, lacking two days. She was a daughter of Hon. Jeremiah Goodwin, long a prominent and widely-known citizen of Alfred, Me., and subsequently of Great Falls, N. H. She was a woman of culture and refinement. Two daughters survive her, one the wife of Franklin J. Rollins, of Portland, Me., the other the wife of Albert H. Sweetser of Cliftondale, Mass.

A remedy resting on the basis of intrinsic worth demands the confidence of all. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is known and used most satisfactorily throughout the land, as is attested by its great sales. Your druggist keeps it.

Mrs. Sterling, landlady of the Sterling House, and her daughter Emma, were fatally burned at Chicago, Ill., by the explosion of a kerosene lamp, April 24th.

The warmer weather often has a depressing and debilitating effect. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes all languor and lassitude.

In a fight at Mercer, W. Va., April 23d, one man was killed and three dangerously wounded.

Take Warning

And don't let the germs of that vile disease, catarrh, take root and flourish in your system. Sulphur Bitters will prevent this and will make you strong and healthy.—Editor Weekly Press.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at Initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important and continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock of near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the efficient operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are temptingly served. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

AS INVALUABLE AS FLOUR.

Ansonia and West Ansonia are two thrifty towns in Connecticut that have become famous for their brass works. These are not their only claims to distinction, however. Apart from many pleasant features common to progressive New England communities, they possess a number of citizens of advanced views who are at present engaged in a work of peculiar interest. One of these is Mr. Reuben Locke, whose home is on Hill Street, West Ansonia, and who is highly esteemed by his fellow citizens. Why he is active in his present work he thus explains:

"Five spoonfuls of Athlophoros cured me of a very severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I cannot express my feelings of joy at having at last found a medicine that did what the doctors failed to do for me. I esteem Athlophoros as I would my dearest friend, and recommend it because I know that it will do all that is claimed for it."

Mr. J. V. Wightman, of Ansonia, is no less enthusiastic and positive in his belief in the efficacy of this great remedy. He says:

"I believe, in fact I know, that there is nothing like Athlophoros. It cured me permanently of a very severe case of muscular rheumatism. I have recommended it on the strength of my own case to a number of people suffering with rheumatism and neuralgia, and they have one and all been cured by it, and the good work still goes on. On every side I hear the highest praise of Athlophoros."

From Providence, R. I., the same good news is reported. The happy messenger of glad tidings in the present instance is Mr. Isaac Crocker, who is well known to many people in Providence as the paper carrier who brings them their daily papers. Mr. Crocker rejoices over the cure of his son which he describes as follows:

"In the winter of 1882 and 1883 our son, who was then fourteen years old, was very sick with inflammatory rheumatism. He was confined to his bed and suffered greatly. He was very sick until the spring, and his trouble continued up to February of the present year (1885), when he saw Athlophoros advertised. At that time he was unable to move his feet. After taking two doses he could move them without pain, and by the time he had taken half a bottle he was cured. We have recommended Athlophoros to a neighbor who is 75 years old and it has helped him more than anything he ever tried. We would as soon think of being without flour as without Athlophoros."

Mrs. Millie M. Davis, of No. 193 Whalley Avenue, New Haven, says:

"For three months I suffered dreadfully with muscular rheumatism. In that time I was treated by four different physicians none of whom relieved me of the pain and distress. They said I had waited too long, and their medicine had no effect. I did not experience the much-sought relief till I took Athlophoros, the very first dose of which eased me so much that I could, for the first time in a great while, sit down to eat my meals. I steadily improved and in a short time was completely cured of rheumatism. I gladly add my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by Athlophoros."

JUST LIKE ARGENTINA.

"I wonder what that boy of mine has on his mind?" he said. "He stumps about over my head, up and down, up and down, till 2 and 3 in the morning. I wish you would find out what is troubling him, Mary. Poor Hubert! It worries me to think he may have some trouble and won't tell me. Find out, if you can."

"He has a little sitting-room too in the west tower, has not he?" Nelly asked, when Mr. Marsh was gone. "The light is burning there till 1 every night. I have looked out and seen the bright window, and wondered."

The light burned in the upper window of the west tower that night till the clock struck 1. Afterwards Hubert walked up and down in the room over his father's till half-past.

"He must have some great trouble on his mind," thought Nelly, peeping from under the corner of her window-blind and seeing the lonely light.

"He is like the Polar bear in the zoological gardens!" thought his sleepless father, listening to the footsteps for half the night.

On the next evening Hubert had carried off "Brightely Court" to that snug little sitting-room of his in the tower. Mary Marsh asked Nelly to run up for it, as her brother, and her father, and the great Mr. Gobblecock were all far away at billiards.

Nelly, in Hubert's own dominions, delayed to look round her before she took the open volume from the table. All at once footsteps, and Hubert's voice, and the voice of the dread Gobblecock were close outside the door. Seized by a silly fear of being found, she thought of Argentina in the last romance; and, resolved to be a heroine for once in her life, she did just what she should not have done, she stepped behind a screen. True, she might have stepped out at once bravely and made a joke of it; but by hesitation that chance was lost. Should she faint, or should she cough, for the smoke was choking her? She stopped her ears with a pair of fingers, and stood there in an agony of fear.

When she took her fingers out of her ears to hear if they were going away, Hubert was saying:

"It is absolutely necessary to put the baronet out of the way. My idea was poison."

Nelly shuddered and turned cold.

"No, not a murder—not a murder, if it can possibly be avoided. I have shrunk from that for years—always," said Gobblecock.

Nellie could not put her fingers into her ears again. Should she scream out loud? Should she fall down with a bang on the floor?

"It is rather a horrid idea," said Hubert, reflecting. "But I shall have nohorrors! It shall be poisoning—or drowning, if I could manage taking him abroad and doing some boating; perhaps he might be lured into a Mediterranean falucco."

"Very good," said the other.

"That man is a monster!" thought Nelly. "Hubert is excited, but he is cold. He is goading Hubert on, and pretending to think ill of it."

"I mean to put some money in my pocket, I can tell you!" said Hubert. "I want you to put me up to the legal formalities of arranging the will. Forgery is rather worked out, but I don't see anything else."

"If I were you," said Gobblecock, "I should send the old man to a lunatic asylum, and—"

More and more Nellie was like Argentina. She had tried gliding and hiding, and had stepped into the middle of an entanglement of crime and mystery. She knelt down, wringing her hands.

"I shall make him a lunatic at large," said Hubert.

"Very well; then stop at that. Over-excitement—piling on the agony—is altogether a mistake. I don't like the idea of murder, but I shall gladly provide you with all the information about the will. To avoid horrors, I should get rid of the old man into a lunatic asylum. I am not sanguine, but I wish you luck, my lad; and plots of this kind have succeeded before now, though I tell you it is not to my taste."

There was a pause of smoking and of choking for Nelly, who had sunk on the floor. Then that horrible monster Gobblecock said, "And the girl—is it to be Nelly?"—she could hear the laugh in his voice, as if he had made a shrewd guess. "What is to become of her?"

Hubert hesitated. "Ought she ever to know who the murderer is?"

By this time the poor heroine, who was just like Argentina, felt as if the human heart—that Argentina had not—were being smashed by a blow and torn in two. Hubert, the man whom she had begun to love and trust, was loaded with guilty secrets—a villain of the deepest dye. It was Gobblecock that had ruined him—of course, it was Gobblecock who had done all the mischief! Gobblecock was an unmitigated monster. Nelly screamed out loud—a shrill, piercing scream, that rang through every lamp and glass, and echoed as if the ground itself had shrieked, till walls and ceilings thrilled with it.

* * * * * * *

Nelly came to her senses lying on a couch in the drawing-room, surrounded by the whole household. She was afraid of Gobblecock, who was gently fanning her—the monster! And she shrank from Hubert, who was so glad to see one conscious look in her eyes. Poor Hubert! She burst into tears at the sight of him. That villain of the deepest dye! Had he not brought "our friend from London" to be a conspirator, a plotter of dark

What Locality is Exempt

From malaria? In city and suburb, village and hamlet, in the mining districts of the west, the bottom lands of the south, in regions teeming with the fruits of husbandry, in trackless wastes inhabited by half naked savages, it exists. But travellers, sojourners, old settlers, all who are liable to it can uproot from the system the diseases to which it gives birth, or prevent them, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake are each and all overcome by this potent and searching specific. It is not less efficacious for liver complaint, dyspepsia and costiveness, ailments not unfrequently complicated with malarial attacks. Rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and a want of vital strength, are also remediable by its persistent use. Appetite and sleep, always seriously impaired by the nervous disturbance and biliousness consequent upon fever and ague, are invariably restored by the bitters.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. An Italian named Lorenzo Coponia has been arrested in St. Louis, Mo., for passing counterfeit money.

Look At Him!

A year ago he was not expected to live. Liver complaint almost killed him. He got great relief from three bottles of Sulphur Bitters, and six bottles cured him.—Editor Weekly Sun.

Incorporated in 1868 for 25 years by the Legislature for Educational and Charity purposes—with a capital of $1,000,000—to which a reserve fund of over $550,000 has since been added.

By an overwhelming popular vote its franchise was made a part of the present State Constitution adopted December 2d, A. D., 1879.

The only Lottery ever voted on and endorsed by the people of any State.

It never scales or postpones.

Its Grand Single Number Drawings take place monthly, and its Extraordinary Drawings regularly every three months instead of Semi-Annually as heretofore, beginning March, 1886.

PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby St., Boston.

Secures Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1879.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1846, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.
TON January 1, 1886. eod1

Mr. J. H. Bates, Newspaper Advertising Agent, 4 Park Row (Times Building,) New York is authorized to contract for Advertisements in the Chronicle at our lowest and best rates.

"Lay thy sweet hands in mine, and trust in me," he said, but she only remarked that she had neuralgia and must hold her head. Then he bought her a bottle of Salvation Oil for twenty-five cents. Now he holds her sweet hands by the hour.

At the inquest in Manchester, April 27th, relative to the death of Annie Donohoe on the morning of the 18th, Gilman Clough, a rich citizen, testified to being in company with the Donohoe girl and one Lulu Fay on the night of April 17th; that they all drank whiskey, and smoked; and that the Donohoe girl fell, striking heavily on her face. He said the girls had no quarrel. The Fay girl, who had previously told many different stories concerning her companionship with the deceased, was placed under arrest. The landlord of the Monument house, the low den where the carouse and death occurred, seems also to have told a large lot of able-bodied lies.

Purify Your Blood.

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

A fine portrait of Rev. Henry E. Parker, D. D., senior professor in Dartmouth college, has just been painted by Tenney for the college gallery.

Windsor Castle

Was built by Edward III in 1386. The dedicatory exercises were a complete success, with only one exception, which Edward very much regretted; he forgot how pleasing to the guests would be a quaff of the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, which is of standard excellence and established purity. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer and druggist have it.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

Worthless as War Ships.

The Admiralty Gazette, a British authority on naval affairs, says: "The sinking of the Oregon by an American schooner should serve to show how structurally weak are the enormous mail steamers built to attain a high rate of speed. This structural weakness, the exposed position of their engines, their enormous saloons and elaborate fittings, but, above all, their great length and unhandiness, render these ships utterly worthless as men-of-war. This was ascertained beyond doubt during the experimental cruise of the Oregon under the pendant to Gibraltar, and subsequently with the squadron of exercise. She was condemned as a man-of-war by all on board." We submit this criticism to those gentlemen who are lost in amazement because we cannot obtain off-hand a vessel which will answer all the requirements of a man-of-war, and have at the same time the speed of a first-class ocean steamer.

The first two chapters of William Henry Bishop's new serial, "The Golden Justice," appear in the Atlantic for May. The scene of the story is laid in a western city, and the novel opens in an original manner. Charles Egbert Craddock's installment of "In the Clouds" is in her best manner. Henry James continues his "Princess Casamassima" in characteristic style, transporting his hero to Paris, of which he gives some interesting incidental descriptions. The fiction of the number is completed by a tender little sketch of New England life, "Marsh Rosemary," by Sarah Orne Jewett, which to our mind far exceeds the writings of all the others. John Fiske continues his papers on American History by one treating of "The Weakness of the American Government under the Articles of Confederation." E. P. Evans has an instructive paper on "The Aryan Homestead." W. J. Stillman contributes "Memories of London," in which there is much pleasant reminiscence of English art and artists of thirty years ago, though if it told a little more of art and a little less of the writer it would have been more interesting. Maurice Thompson has an article on "Bird Song;" and there are five excellent poems, one of which is by W. W. Story. Criticisms of the new "Life of Longfellow," and of some recent books of travel and other volumes, with the "Contributors' club" and "Books of the month," complete a number altogether admirable. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Among the contents of the March number of Outing is "Amenities: an animated wreck." The text and illustrations are by Will F. Hooper, a noted artist of New York. The subject seems to open and close in a peculiarly natural manner, the narrative rapidly passing from the gay and decorative period of halcyon youth to the total wreck of matter, that crushed atom to which all tend. When one combines as does Mr. Hooper, talents as an artist with a fund of humor, each of which qualities aids the other, it is needless to remark that his productions are likely to be a success, as is the case with this, the happily executed "Amenities."

Ex-Governor Bell, of New Hampshire, will publish a history of his native town, Exeter, on the occasion of its quarter-millennial celebration in 1888.—N. Y. Tribune.

Exeter may be one of the towns that claims the honor of being a birth-place of the ex-governor, but he has always been somewhat of a historian, and has been led to believe that his native town was Chester.

A son of Capt. Frank P. Coleman, of Newington, sustained a fracture of one leg on Friday, April 23d.

It is reported that the Piscataqua house at Dover point will soon be opened by H. P. Copp.

The fishing schooner Flying Dart sailed on Wednesday morning of this week for Gloucester, to engage in the halibut fishery. The schooner Rambler arrived on Wednesday with 6,000 lbs. of fish to Edward Jameson, Commercial wharf.

Mrs. Annie Cunningham, somewhat advanced beyond eighty years of age, died on Tuesday, April 27th, at her residence on Parker street. She worked for more than thirty years for the Portsmouth Steam Factory company and the Kearsarge mills.

Mr. Jeremiah O'Connell had the bottom of his right foot very badly burned on Tuesday of this week, by melted iron spilt from a ladle at the foundry of the Portsmouth Machine Co. He had the presence of mind to jump immediately into a tub of water, otherwise the damage would have been still more serious. He was suffering very much on the succeeding day.

Boats from the neighboring river towns have of late been catching cod at the confluence of the rivers at Dover point.

Mr. William P. Walker, at No. 8 Market-square, has received his customary full line of choice domestic and imported cloths for dress and business suits for the spring and summer, which he will make up in the latest fashion, or otherwise, as his patrons may desire. Mr. Walker pays special attention to the making of army and navy uniforms, and also keeps a full assortment of the best furnishing goods for gentlemen's wear. Ladies' overgarments made to measure, and the excellence of all garments made at the establishment guaranteed.

The trustee for the bondholders of the Des Moines, Osceola & Southern railroad, who is a prominent banker in this county, has brought a bill for foreclosure in the United States Circuit court for Iowa. The bill was sworn to recently at the clerk's office of the United States court in this city, and has since been filed in the clerk's office in Des Moines. The mortgages are to secure $1,600,000 of bonds issued to pay costs of construction, exclusive of subsidies. There are quite a number of the bonds held in this state. The stockholders of the road, it is stated, will proceed at once to take measures to put the property in good financial condition, and make it capable of paying its bonded interest.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpook, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

Found

At Home

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Sold by all Druggists.

Price $1; Six bottles, $5.

It is reported that two new brick yards are being started at Dover point, and that the other brick yards up the river are actively employed.

Notwithstanding the obstruction that the big sewer has caused at the corner of Vaughan and Deer streets, Ex-Mayor Treat is still able to attend to his increasing business. On the morning of April 27th we noticed his agent, Mr. Lowell Jenness, with a large load of head stones on his way to Rye. Mr. Treat has just finished two handsome tablets for the Wiggin family of Newington, and on the 28th he sent another beautiful tablet to Dover for the father of Mr. Trickey, the ticket agent in this city of the Boston & Maine railroad.

TO-NIGHT WITH BYRON.

The reading to be given this evening at the Unitarian chapel in aid of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals offers an entertainment of unusual novelty and attraction. Stereopticon views of much beauty will fittingly adorn the poem. It is hoped that the good cause which the society upholds will receive a substantial benefit.

"MAY BLOSSOM."

The Philadelphia Times says: "'May Blossom' has achieved a pronounced success. It is strong, quick-moving and well considered. It touches the strongest feelings in a human heart. It introduces a doctrine that is not always strongly laid down, either in the drama or general literature, that in the shaping of human destiny there is something to be thought of and followed before tumultuous passion."

GRAND LODGE, I. O. G. T.

The semi-annual session of the New Hampshire Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T., opened in this city at eleven o'clock A.M. on Wednesday, April 28th, about fifty delegates being present, G. W. C. T. George A. Bailey in the chair. Among the prominent members of the order present were Col. Bain of Kentucky, Col. Twichell of Gorham, Rev. H. F. Wood of Dover, and others.

The work of the Grand Lodge degree was exemplified on thirty candidates, by G. W. C. T. Bailey and the grand officers.

The reports of the officers show the order in the state to be in a good condition, there being sixty-five lodges with a membership of about 4,000.

In the evening Col. Bain delivered an eloquent lecture in the North church to a large assemblage, his subject being "Our country, our homes and our duty." Rev. W. A. McGinley presided, and the Philharmonic society furnished music.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, April 28th.

Albert Ham, for drunkenness, was sentenced to pass sixty days at the county farm, and pay $6.90 costs.

ARBOR DAY.

This day, April 29th, "Arbor day," is by act of the legislature and proclamation by the governor a legal holiday; but about the only notice taken of it in this city will be by the banks and public schools, which will remain closed for the day. The daily papers will not suspend, and the stores will not close during any part of the day.

The High school graduating class of '86 will plant a tree in front of the school building on Daniel street to-day, in honor of the class and the day.

WILLIAM E. EMERY.

Dr. William E. Emery, son of William H. Emery, for many years a resident of this city, died at the City hospital in Boston of pneumonia on Tuesday, April 27th.

Dr. Emery was born in Kittery, Me., Oct. 4th, 1859. He attended the public schools of this city, removing to Eliot, Me., a few years ago. He graduated at the Medical University of Vermont at Burlington about a year ago, and had commenced practicing his profession at Boston, where he was building up a large and successful business. About ten days before his death he contracted a severe cold, which rapidly developed into pneumonia, and to secure the most skillful treatment he was removed from his office to the City hospital, where in spite of the care of expert physicians he expired on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock.

Dr. Emery will be well remembered as a most promising young physician; his warm, generous heart made him beloved by a host of friends in this vicinity, and in the locality where he was practicing his profession he leaves many who will deeply mourn his loss. One of the most affecting evidences of the love borne him was shown in the anxious faces of poor people to whom he had rendered aid in sickness, who daily sought for news as to his condition during his illness. KITTERY TOWN MEETING.

The adjourned meeting was held in Kittery, Tuesday, April 27th, Alexander Dennett moderator, and Dennis M. Shapleigh clerk. The meeting was called particularly for the purpose of considering the request of certain tax payers to have a road to Gerrish's island built, and to decide what, if any, action should be taken in regard to the proposed ferry between this town and Kittery.

It was voted to accept the original report of the selectmen, who recommended that the road be accepted by the town, and it was also voted to raise $1000 to defray a portion of the expense of building the same as laid out by county commissioners. The residents on Gerrish's island offer to bear most of the expense of building the road, provided the same be accepted and kept in repair by the town.

It was stated at the meeting that Mr. Goodwin, one of the residents on the island, would build an iron bridge across Chauncey's creek, if the town would exempt him from taxation for a term of years and would accept and keep the bridge in repair, and it was voted that Messrs. E. F. Safford and E. C. Spinney be appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Goodwin, to see upon just what terms he would do this work, and to make a safe contract with him.

The selectmen were authorized to purchase a road machine.

The question of a ferry landing was brought up and discussed at some length, but was referred to the next annual meeting of the town.

The matter of cutting down the hills in the highways, was left with the selectmen.

It was voted to convey to Calvin H. Lewis a right of way out of the town farm.

The Library question appears to have been satisfactorily settled, as at the annual meeting the town passed the following:

Resolved, That we heartily approve the action taken by the trustees of the Rice Public Library fund in the purchase of a suitable lot for the library, and looking to a speedy erection of the library building, as contemplated by said trustees the coming summer.—Times.

The following we clip from the Portland Press of April 28th: "Mrs. Alice Gerry Patterson, daughter of, the late Hon. Elbridge Gerry, was married Monday evening to David Stuart, Esq., a lawyer of Baltimore, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Hill at the residence of the bride's mother on New High street."

Complaint is made that the teamsters engaged in carrying away the debris of the partially burned building near the North church, carelessly drop numerous pieces of boards with nails protruding from them, all along the streets through which the stuff is teamed, greatly to the obstruction of the road and danger of injury to the feet of horses. CARE.

Arthur H. Deland, postmaster at East Rochester, was brought to this city April 28th, charged with stealing the contents of registered letters. District Attorney Frink and Deputy Marshal Kent being in Exeter, Deland was taken to that town. The accused is a democrat, appointed last fall, and has borne a good reputation.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep cases had been exfoliating, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly sores contained 7 pieces of bone. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, as strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. S. DRIGGS,

May 9, 1885. 612 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Nelly wanted to speak to Mary. The others were all sent away; and to Mary she told all the escapade: how she had slipped into a thrilling situation just like Argentina in "A Dead Mystery," and—

Mary interrupted her by saying quietly, "Hubert is writing a story. His friend is a writer from London. You dear little goose, they were only planning the book. Hubert's friend is correspondent for a foreign paper. You saw him at his letter last night. And he has written stories. 'Brightley Court' is his. He put our home in that—and even poor little me. You need not make your eyes bigger, Nelly."

"Oh, Mary! will Hubert ever forgive me?"

"Poor "villain of the deepest dye." He will ask you never to be the heroine of a dead mystery again."

"But, Mary, did you say that—that—that big man—wrote 'Brightley Court?' You are Ruth!—I know it—you are Ruth!"

"He imagines so. He is Hyacinth Grey. But you look frightened."

"Ruth will marry Hyacinth Grey!" Nelly gasped.

"I do admire him—from my heart," said this calculating heroine; "but I must show you my little pearl ring. Harry gave it to me to-night."

The Habit of Eating Tobacco.

One of the most distinguished citizens of Atlanta—indeed, one of the most distinguished citizens of the state in his calling—has for years been in the habit of eating tobacco instead of chewing it. QUEER ADVICE.

An Old Physician Says Drink Your Whiskey Straight.

TO THE EDITOR: In several of your recent issues, I have observed the articles of a whiskey concern in Baltimore, Md., which, while written from an interested motive, contain some very sensible statements, especially their remarks about so-called bitters, cough syrups, cod liver oil, etc. Now, while I do not agree with them in some of their conclusions, still, as to the three mixtures above mentioned, no truer words could have been spoken. Every day, in my practice I come across people whose maladies are traceable direct to these noxious compounds. Take, for instance, the widely advertised "bitters" of to-day. In nine cases out of ten, they consist of 50 per cent. (the amount the government allows) of what is called "commercial alcohol," that is, an alcohol of the vilest and most poisonous grade. The remaining ingredients consist of some cheap British substances as flavoring extracts. These decoctions are consumed principally by the consumptive, the debilitated, the convalescent and others of weak stomachs. Now, while alcohol, especially in the form of whiskey, is the best known stimulant, and is prescribed really by the profession everywhere, and while whiskey and glycerine is the best thing for coughs, I can't conceive why people will insist upon taking this alcohol in the form of a decoction or a nostrum. It would be far better if they would take it "straight," as in that form, as the articles state, it passes into the blood with the amount of digestive effort on the part of the stomach, and affords more nutriment than any other known alcohol. If the concern in Baltimore have discovered a means of distilling an article of the kind they claim, that is, whiskey, absolutely pure and free from fusel oil (very much doubt), they have solved one of the greatest scientific problems of the 19th century, something that has been the source of more investigation among scientists and chemists during the last half century than any other one article known to the pharmacopœia, and the fortunate discoverers will have in it a greater monopoly than the large quinine operators had a few years ago, which latter monopoly is now gradually falling through the great inroads whiskey is making on it in the cure of malarial troubles. OLD PRACTITIONER.

Regarding the doubt expressed by the eminent doctor as to whether Duffy's pure malt whiskey is absolutely free from fusel oil, as claimed by its proprietors, we would say to our readers that the company submits their article to analysis by any intelligent chemist or physician, and it has already been analyzed by the most eminent chemists in the country, such as Mott, Menke, Arendt, etc.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security attendant only upon a thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially uniform bridges, well equipped Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars in which a laboriously cooked meal is leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, whether connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Possessions, or over the Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, grand hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to Mankato, Sioux falls and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

A LETTER-CARRIER'S STORY.

"A letter-carrier has his ups and downs as every one else has, I suppose," said one of these messengers of Uncle Sam the other day, in speaking of his experiences, "but take it all in all I would rather be a carrier at $1,000 a year than a clerk at $1,200. In the first place our position is assured as long as we are honest and attentive to our duties, and then we have our little perquisities that net us more than people generally think. I used to have a route along Beacon street near the Public Gardens, and it was a very cold Christmas indeed when the rich nobs didn't remember me to the extent of $300 or $400. For letters that brought good news I have often been given crisp $5 notes from the pleased recipients. And then the little romances, and sometimes deep disappointments and heart-burning that we know off! I shall never forget the pale, anxious face with which an old millionaire used to greet me every morning for a long time, as he opened the door himself in answer to my whistle, and nervously reach for his letters. His hands would tremble as he tore open the envelopes, and then would come a long sigh of relief when he found there was no bad news. At last there came a letter that blanched his face whiter than the paper on which it was written, and he fell down senseless all in a heap at my feet. I helped to carry him up to his room, but never saw him again. Pretty soon a new family moved into the house. It was some financial trouble, I suppose, and the letter had brought ruin to the old gentleman, who had a big family to support."

Letter-Carrier W. B. Goodale, of Hartford, Conn., tells a not less interesting story, though happily its ending is not so tragic. Mr. Goodale is well known in Hartford, and his many friends to whom he had often as a carrier brought tidings of sorrow and of joy, were much pleased to receive his present message:

"For three months," he says, "I was confined to my house with inflammatory rheumatism. So severe, indeed, was my affliction that the doctors took such heroic measures as to prescribe forty grains of morphine a day, beside steaming me five hours and dosing me with all sorts of medicine. I had three doctors, but their combined skill failed to give me any relief. Finally I became discouraged and determined to let the disease do its work. I had a pair of crutches made and was nervously awaiting the worst, when a friend came to see me and advised me to try Athlophoros. After much persuasion I consented. I took the first dose at six o'clock in the evening and two more during the night. The next morning, for the first time in three months, I was able to go to work, greatly to the astonishment of my friends, who all thought I would never get around again. As Athlophoros cured me I believe it will cure anybody suffering with rheumatism. It has many friends in Hartford since the people have seen that it will do all that is claimed for it."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he doesn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

IN THE LONE WOOD.

"I knew by the smoke that so gracefully curled
Above the green elms that a cottage was near,
And I said, "If there's peace to be found in the world,
A heart that was humble might hope for it here."

It was noon, and on flowers that languish'd around
In silence repos'd the voluptuous bee;
Ev'ry leaf was at rest, and I heard not a sound
But the woodpecker tapping the hollow beech tree.

And "Here in this lonely little wood," I exclaimed,
"With a maid who was lovely to soul and to eye,
Who would blush when I prais'd her, and weep if I blam'd,
How blest could I live and how calm could I die!"

By the shade of yon sumach, whose red berry dips
In the gush of the fountain, how sweet to recline,
And to know that I sigh'd upon innocent lips,
Which had never been sigh'd on by any but mine. —Moore.

THE PAPAGOS OF ARIZONA.

A Medicine Man's Failure to Cure a Chief —The Penalty He Paid.

I was talking the other day with Capt. Frank Cloud, now living in Arizona, about the Indians out in that territory. Said he:

"We have a race of Indians in Arizona called the Papagos. Time out of mind they have lived at peace with the whites, but in their battles with the other Indians are fully the equal in pluck and courage of the dreaded Apaches. Some months ago, while temporarily residing among them, I became witness to one of their customs, which, if practiced among the whites, would have the effect of decreasing a certain portion of our population quite materially. One of their great chiefs was stricken down with a fever. The medicine man dosed him with herbs and applied all the healing remedies within his knowledge. Notwithstanding his efforts the old man gradually grew worse and finally died.

"The day following his burial I noticed an unusual commotion about the camp. all the men, women and children were gathered together as if to perform some great religious ceremony. There was an air of solemnity about the scene that justified this impression. The mystery was explained when I saw the medicine man, escorted by two young bucks, march from his tent and take a position about fifty feet distant. At a given signal one of the young men raised his rifle and, before I could comprehend what was taking place, fired a bullet into the medicine man's heart, killing him instantly. I then learned that it was the the custom of these Indians where a medicine man failed to cure one of the sachems who died from causes other than wounds received in battle that he must suffer death as a consequence of his lack of skill."

I asked Capt. Cloud how, under these circumstances, they succeeded in finding a person willing to accept such a position. He replied that the office carried with it a great many perquisites and privileges that made it a very desirable one. "Moreover," he added, "every Indian expects to die 'with his boots on,' as they say out there, and as the post of medicine man relieves them from the necessity of bearing arms, the chances of of death are no greater on the one hand than the other. They bear their fate philosophically, and I have never heard of an instance where an attempt was made to evade it by seeking safety in flight."—Jules Guthridge in Chicago News.

Medical Value of a Lacteal Diet.

The other day I went to see an English friend who had been suffering from a sharp attack of gout. He was taken with it here, on his way to Cannes, and thought himself too ill to recover. There were twinges everywhere. Each essential organ becomes in turn the seat of the disease, and his spirits were depressed and his brain foggy. An ordinary doctor mildly suggested a lacteal diet, but as the patient hated milk, he refused to accept this regimen.

A specialist was then called in. He said, "Meat and wine—not excepting Bordeaux—are, in your present state, rank poison. You must take no tea, coffee, or any other stimulant for ten days. Your food is to be milk every three hours. If you find it too heavy mix it with Hauterive-Vichy. Vary it, too, by having it mixed with onion or leek soups, or with eggs done a la creme. I have had patients who were half suffocated with gouty matter in their blood, and others who thought their brains were softening. This treatment cured them in a short time. Milk is food in its most perfect form, and should be regarded as a staple ailment by old and young.—Paris Cor. London Truth.

How Flour Becomes Unwholesome.

M. Bullaud asserts that flour kept in sacks for two or three years is unwholesome, because alkaloids are formed in consequence of the acidity of the old flour during the transformation of gluten under the influence of the natural ferment of wheat. When such flour is treated with ether and the product evaporated on a sand bath, there is found a fatty matter which has an acid reaction, exhales a disagreeable odor and has an acrid taste. If a little but water is added and the mixture permitted to stand over the sand bath a short time and then

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Mrs. Wendell Phillips was buried in Milton, Mass., cemetery, April 28th. Rev. Samuel May, Mrs. Lucy Stone and Julia Ward Howe made remarks at the funeral. The body of Wendell Phillips was on the same day removed from the old Granary burying ground in Boston, and the two bodies were laid in the grave together.

The Business Men's Idea.

The New York Chamber of Commerce having called a special meeting to take action on the labor question in its relation to strikes, a large number of business men were in attendance. Resolutions were presented declaring that minor differences between employers and employes should be settled by minor concessions, without the intervention of third parties; that important differences affecting the public interest and convenience ought to be settled by arbitration; that questions as to rates of wages, hours of labor and the kind of service to be rendered, are proper subjects of arbitration; that the chamber fully recognized the right of all classes of citizens to unite in trade or labor associations, and to use all moral and legal means in furtherance of their interests; that any employe leaving his business and going on strike vacates his place absolutely; that any man resorting to violence to prevent another man working should be visited by the full penalty of the law; and that every association which endeavors by intimidation to abridge the liberty of choice or of action of those who are not its members, deserves the severest censure of every American citizen.

These resolutions were discussed at great length, nearly all of those present making strong speeches in favor of their adoption. A resolution presented by Gustave Schwab, calling upon the citizens of America to support the guardians of the law in maintaining peace and order, was added to the list of resolutions, and the entire list was then adopted by the board with much enthusiasm.

An Old Ship.

The severe storms of the past winter have made great changes in the Cape Cod coast lines. Three miles east of Race Point a hill fifty feet high has been washed away, revealing the outline of an ancient wreck. The craft was about thirty-four feet beam, is imbedded in sand and headed off shore. Sixty feet of the forward part of the hull can be traced. He upper works have either been burned or cut away. The twenty-foot draught mark is still visible on the stem. Her bow planks are sawed to a curve, instead of being steamed. Everything goes to show the ancient style of the ship's carpentry, which is beyond the remembrance of the oldest inhabitants. She is thought to be a revolutionary war ship.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, April 29th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board, except Alderman Hatch.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Michael J. Vaughan's request for relay of sidewalk was referred to committee on streets.

C. H. Mendum was granted leave to encumber Church and Pleasant streets, and C. M. Laighton to encumber Richards avenue, for building purposes.

Petition for fire alarm box corner of Deer and Vaughan streets, was granted.

Petition for street light corner of Market and Russell streets, was referred to committee on street lights, with power.

G. H. Rundlett was granted leave to remove a tree from in front of his premises.

Oliver G. Fernald's request for the removal of the pump on High street, was granted.

Obstructions on Sparhawk street were ordered to be removed.

Voted to widen Sagamore road as petitioned for, and that the board visit the road Friday.

Voted to buy a new stone crusher at $1000.

Voted not to purchase a steam roller at $6,500.

Notice was received that the Gas Co. will hold the city responsible for the breakage of their pipes and loss of gas, on Deer street.

The Rockingham bank asked to be released from payment of $155.92 back taxes on part of Shapleigh's island, on payment of $80; laid over.

Matter of purchasing land for a gravel pit was referred to a special committee, Messrs. Cook, Coffin and Magraw, to report.

Voted to remove the light corner of Market and Daniel streets, also any other unnecessary light.

An ordinance providing for the sale of 250 shares in the Portsmouth & Dover railroad, was read and referred.

Michael Sheridan, Jr. was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Police Officer John Hennessy.

The subject of a new bell for the south wardroom building was discussed, but no action was taken.

The mayor suggested that the city farm and almshouse might be disposed of to the city's advantage, which the board seemed not to disapprove of.

Adjourned.

"MAY BLOSSOM."

Of "May Blossom," which will be played in Music hall to-morrow evening by the Madison Square Theatre Co., the Boston Traveller says "it is a charming mixture of the tragic and comic sides of life, full of tears and laughter as an April day. Miss Cayvan as the heroine, invests her role with a sincerity and magnetism that is very fine and strong." The Philadelphia Bulletin says it is "teeming with pathos, rich in sentiment, and touching, by reason of its very homeliness. The author has created several very strong dramatic situations, and has furnished a number of character parts which fairly overflow with opportunities for the expression of the various emotions." The Philadelphia Press says "the story strikes at every step a responsive chord in the breasts of those who behold it. It is not alone the smiles and tears caused by its representation, but the true picture of life, devoid almost of what is called romance and mock heroics, that take hold of us in the first act, and chain us to the subject to the end."

Of the merits of Miss Georgia Cayvan and Mr. Ben. Maginley, the stars of the May Blossom Co., no information is needed by Portsmouth theatre goers; and the support is worthy the principal actors.

WILLIAM T. FRYE.

Mr. William T. Frye died on Wednesday, April 28th, after an illness of a few days with pneumonia, at Nobleboro', Me., whither he went about ten days before to visit his daughter, Mrs. Hall, widow of Carpenter Eldredge D. Hall of the navy. His remains were brought to this city on the 29th, for interment.

Mr. Frye was born in this city in 1815, and learned the cooper's trade with the late Deacon Day, then carrying on a large business in the brick block on Bow street as a cooper and fish-packer; and in this shop Mr. Frye remained, as apprentice, journeyman and master-cooper for about fifty-five years. Like Deacon Day, he sometimes engaged quite extensively in packing and trading in fish, and for many years dealt heavily in alewives, up to the time that those fish to a great extent abandoned the coasts and rivers of this state and Maine.

He was one of the oldest members of Piscataqua Lodge of Odd Fellows, and belonged to the relief association of the order. In politics he was a democrat of the most pronounced sort, and often served on the ward and city committees of his party. Under Gov. Weston he was appointed inspector of fish, and he was several times elected to minor municipal offices. He was a cheerful companion, and strongly attached to his friends.

Since the death of his wife, some years ago, he has passed his winters in East Boston with relatives. He leaves two sons, James and Samuel, who live in Cambridgeport, Mass.; and two daughters, Mrs. Hall of Nobleboro', and Mrs. Oliver F. Maxwell, of East Boston. Another daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Plumer, died about three years ago.

A CLASS TREE PLANTED.

Arbor day was not totally ignored in this city, the High school graduating class of '86 planting a tree in front of the school building on Daniel street; the exercises took place at five o'clock in the afternoon, and consisted of the reading of an original poem by Miss Grace F. Leavitt, an oration by Master George Stavers, and the singing of appropriate selections.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

Arthur H. Dealand of East Rochester was brought before United States Commissioner Hackett on Thursday, charged with secreting and embezzling a letter directed to Mr. E. H. Fogg, Centre Sandwich, deposited in the post office at East Rochester. The respondent waived an examination, and gave bail for his appearance at the May term of the circuit court.

Hon. John D. Lyman of Exeter, who has been in this city some days in the interest of the New Hampshire Orphan's Home, proposes to hold a meeting on Wednesday evening of next week in one of the churches here, for the purpose of interesting our citizens in the matter, and with the hope of raising more funds for the institution.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern railroad in New Hampshire will be held in this city next Tuesday.

Capt. Winn, late of the ship Paul Jones, reports that he sailed from Melbourne, Australia, on the evening of March 17th, for Calcutta in ballast, having a crew of twenty men. They had light winds all the way down Port Phillip bay, and at noon on the 18th were twenty-eight miles west of Port Phillip heads and about twelve miles off shore, when as he and the mate were sitting down to dinner, a smell of fire was detected, and smoke was discovered coming out of the lazarette. All hands were instantly called, but the fire had got too firm a hold to be extinguished, and the smoke soon becoming so dense as to drive everybody on deck, orders were given to lower the boats, and the ship was abandoned, the captain being unable to save his charts or nautical instruments. Capt. Winn had been in the ship ever since she was built, first as mate, and latterly as master.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, his head was completely cleared, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the Remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of those five deep ones just before healing, which would finally drop out, and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bony formations I preserved. After being a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The scars on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts, any of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them.

MRS. E. S. DRIGGS,
May 9, 1883. 612 E. City St., Bloomington, Ill.

The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who was living with him every day, became accustomed to the disease.
MAGGIE HOPPING.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, 50 cts.; CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Beautifier, 25 cts.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter discharges into and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with full treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

permitted to cool, the alkaloids may easily be recognized on glass slides on employing the usual tests. The reactions may be obtained with flour even but a year to a year and a half old, but they are very marked with flour which has lain two or three years after having been milled.

A Fire Banked for Sixteen Months.

One of the blast furnaces of the Kemble Iron and Coal company at Riddlesburg, Pa., was banked up in November, 1884. After being out of blast nearly sixteen months, it was recently opened for the first time, and the fire found still burning. The coke glowed brightly, and on the admission of the blast soon became hot enough to melt cinder. The furnace was started with as little difficulty as if it had only been standing a week.—Scientific American.

He Dare Not Take the Risk.

Dr. James W. Ranney, of Newark, relates that John B. Gough, not long before his death, told him (Dr. Ranney) that he (Gough) had not sufficient confidence in his self-control, after so many years of abstinence, to partake of mince-pie containing a little brandy.

The Size of England's Colonies.

A recent careful calculation shows that England owns nearly three times as large an extent of colonies as all the rest of Europe together. Her colonies are eighty-five times as big as the mother country.—New York Sun.

Draining the Okefeenokee Swamp.

It is said that Georgia's great swamp, the Okefeenokee, can easily be reclaimed by drainage into the St. Mary's river, only a few miles distant, and a magnificent area of land made ready for the plow. Great sections of swamp land in Florida have been reclaimed by methodical drainage carried out by a company formed for that purpose.—Chicago Tribune.

Because of Numerous Aliases.

Anthony Comstock says it is difficult to trace persons conducting fraudulent schemes because of their numerous aliases. One man whom he had arrested had 145 different names and addresses, another 136, and a third had 80. —Exchange.

It is a curious fact that while the names of all our animals are of Saxon origin, Norman names are given to flesh they yield.

Society of Decorative Art,
23 East 21st St., New York, Dec. 22, 1884.

To Tim Bryant & Armstrong Co.—Your agent: Having tested your embroidery silks, and finding them in color and texture eminently satisfactory, the managers of the Society of Decorative Art believe that you have found the secret of fast dyes. They believe it is no longer necessary in the Society to be dependent upon foreign manufacturers. I have pleasure in telling you that it has been decided by the board of management to give you the silk thread business of the Society of Decorative Art. Congratulating you that your dyes stand "test" under the severest test, I am,

Very truly yours, A. H. ROBERTS,
President of the Society of Decorative Art.

THE GENEVA AWARD.

The Times prints the following communication, which contains information of interest to many persons in this city:

It will be recollected that after our recent unpleasantness, Great Britain, on the 9th of Sept. 1873, paid the United States the sum of $15,500,000 in gold, as indemnity for losses sustained by citizens of the United States by the depredations of certain "inculpated cruisers" of the Confederacy. This amount was a sort of fine, so to speak, which Great Britain felt she had better pay than answer to Uncle Sam in another way for the part she had acted during the said unpleasantness. This amount was invested, and bore interest up to June 30, 1877. Under the act of June 30, 1874, creating a court of commissioners for the distribution of the sum thus awarded, there was paid out to claimants $9,315,753, as shown by the treasury statements June 30, 1877. After these payments there remained in the treasury to the credit of the fund $10,089,004.96 for further distribution.

The act of June 5, 1882, provided for a new court of commissioners, and for the distribution of the fund to two classes of claimants, as follows, viz: "Section 5. That the first class shall be for claims directly resulting from damage done on the high seas by Confederate cruisers during the late rebellion, including vessels and cargoes attacked on the high seas. * * * * The second class shall be for claims for the payment of premiums for war risks, whether paid to corporations, agents, or individuals, after the sailing of any confederate cruiser."

The judgments of the first class will be paid in full, and the balance divided among the 2d class, or war premium claimants, pro rata. Owing to the interest having been stopped on the fund, in June 1877, the second class claimants will only receive about 54 per cent. at present, until future legislation shall reopen this matter. We learn from good authority that the treasury department will commence to pay the 2d class judgments May 1st, which fact, claimants in this neighborhood will no doubt be very glad to learn. X.

BETTER THAN PROMISES

Is positive proof.

What has been done in many cases can still be done in others. Sufferers from rheumatism and neuralgia can find relief if they wish. In proof of this statement the following letters are submitted:—

East Somerville, Mass., Jan. 26, 1886.

I have been asked to give my testimony as to what good there is in Athlophoros as a cure for rheumatism, and I simply say to those who are suffering from it try it, and if it does not give relief or a permanent cure it will be a most extraordinary case. In my own case it is a well-known fact among many of my acquaintances it knocked the rheumatism out of me.

GEO. C. BOERUM, U. S. N.
44 Franklin street.

East Douglass, Mass., Jan. 25, 1886.

One-third of a bottle of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. Being a cattle dealer my business compels me to be around in all kinds of weather and by constant exposure I contracted a severe and painful attack of inflammatory rheumatism in the hips and arms, which defied the supposed healing virtues of most every known remedy. Hearing that Athlophoros was doing wonders I tried it with the above gratifying results. Although the rheumatism has not troubled me for nearly a year, I always keep Athlophoros where I can lay my hands on it, and now instead of the disease defying the medicine matters are reversed. I feel perfectly safe for I know Athlophoros will cure rheumatism. E. P. HEARTY.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1886.

Yes, sir; Athlophoros will cure rheumatism and so far as my experience goes it is the only medicine that will make a complete cure, for I have tried most every thing with no effect. Certainly there was no good effect from my long use of the many so-called rheumatic cures, for all proved worthless; but when I saw with my own eyes what Athlophoros had done for a friend of mine—cured him of rheumatism—I tried it, and two doses of it relieved me so much as to permit me to put my feet on the ground, and in twenty-four hours I was standing on my feet, after which I steadily improved and soon was entirely rid of the rheumatism. So I truthfully say to anybody suffering with rheumatism take Athlophoros and you will be cured.

GUSTAF ROLESON, 216 Harrison Av.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1886.

I was suffering terribly with inflammatory rheumatism and thought I would just try Athlophoros. I did so, receiving immediate relief after taking three or four doses without any deleterious effects from it. I can honestly recommend it to any one suffering from muscular or inflammatory rheumatism. E. S. RICHARDS.

50 Washington street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 19, 1886.

I desire to express my feeling of gratitude for the benefit I received from the use of Athlophoros, a medicine of genuine worth; being afflicted with that common but painful disease, inflammatory rheumatism, and being laid up because my feet were so swollen I could not stand up, I commenced using Athlophoros. Before half of the first bottle was used I was able to walk to my store. I continued to use it until in a short while my rheumatism disappeared entirely, the cure complete. I recommend Athlophoros because I know it to be an article of merit.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing SICK Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured HEAD Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

KEYNOTE TO SUCCESS IN LIFE.

It Is the Specialist Who Succeeds—Bent of a Boy's Talents.

President Riche, in taking leave of the high school boys the other day, gave them the keynote to success in life when he bade them, first, to be true, genuine men, and, secondly, to acquire some special skill or craft.

It is the specialist, the man who can do some one thing, however small, though it be only to make bread or button-hooks better than anybody else, who nowadays is secure of his living. And it is the man who sticks to his own trade, who imitates and courts nobody, who lives simply and sincerely out from his own conscience, convictions and taste who is secure of his social position.

John Burroughs studied birds, and birds only. He knows them as nobody else ever has done, and when he tells us of their habits, their vices, their oddities and the meaning of their song, all the world stands still to listen.

A man of wealth has a conviction that the sap of a certain Indian tree can be made useful to mankind. He gives up his life to experimenting with it; sacrifices two fortunes; reduces wife and children to want; fails again and again; is jeered at by scientific men, but never gives up his belief or changes his work. At last success comes. He has not only earned enormous wealth for his family, but he has given to mankind one of the most useful appliances of life.

It is useless to dwell on this point. The most careless lad beginning life now, in this modern crush and struggle, soon learns that it will never do to scatter his shot. Only the specialist, and the thorough, able specialist, has a chance in the professions, sciences or trades. Parents are beginning to find that the natural bent of a boy's talents or skill must be discovered, and his whole training be directed to stregthen and develop it if success is to be assured to him.

Teachers, unfortunately, have not yet discovered this fact. Or, more probably, they find it impossible to detect any decided bent or talent in the great majority of boys. So in they go, en masse, to the preparatory school, and after that to college, all toiling along together on a dozen different paths of knowledge, on most of which they will not advance a step after matriculation. So wide is the expanse of possible learning now opened before them that the text-books are in fact little better than indices to hint at what there is to learn.—Philadelphia Press.

Crystallization of Fruits in France.

The last volume of the reports from the consuls of the United States as to their respective districts contains several articles on the crystalization of fruits as practiced in France. In the opinion of our consuls stationed in France, this industry could be introduced into the United States to good advantage. They state that very large quantities of crystalized fruit are exported from southern France to almost every country in the world. Among the fruits preserved are oranges, pineapples, apricots, peaches, plums, cherries, prunes, pears, figs and melons. The crystallizing process is in principle simple and nearly uniform for all kinds of fruit, but requires a certain degree of skill, which can only be obtained by experience.

The essential thing to be done is to extract the juice of the fruit and replace it in the pulp with liquid sugar, which, upon hardening, not only preserves the fruit from decay and fermentation, but retains it in its original form and consistency. The fruit to be preserved should be free from blemishes and of the correct degree of ripeness. Fruit long picked and transported considerable distance is unfit for preserving by this process. The "pits" of stone fruit are removed, and those that have thick skins, like pears and peaches, are pared, quartered, and soaked in cold salt water for several days.

The Carp's Tenacity of Life.

Certainly, the tenacity of life shown by pond animals is very remarkable. Our own English carp bury themselves deeply in the mud in winter, and there remain in a dormant condition many months entirely without food. During this long hibernating period they can be preserved alive for a considerable time out of water, especially if their gills are, from time to time, slightly moistened. They may then be sent to any address by parcels post, packed in wet moss, without serious damage to their constitution; though, according to Dr. Gunther, these dissipated products of civilization prefer to have a piece of bread steeped in brandy put into their mouths to sustain them beforehand.

In Holland, where the carp are not so sophisticated, they are often kept the whole winter through, hung up in a net to keep them from freezing. At first they require to be slightly wet from time to time, just to acclimatize them gradually to dry air existence; but after a while they adapt themselves cheerfully to their altered circumstances, and feed on an occasional frugal meal of bread and milk with christian resignation.—Cornhill Magazine.

Subdivisions of the Legal Profession.

The tendency in this country is to the subdivision of professions. Lawyers are recognizing this tendency now more than ever before. Those who willingly take any business that offers are growing fewer every year. It will eventuate in attorneys skilled only in corporation law, others in insurance law, others in commercial law, others in the law of patents, trade marks and copyrights, etc. And all these divisions are capable of almost

What Locality Is Exempt

From malaria? In city and suburb, village and hamlet, in the mining districts of the west, the bottom lands of the south, in regions teeming with the fruits of husbandry, in trackless wastes inhabited by half naked savages, it exists. But travellers, sojourners, old settlers, all who are liable to it can uproot from the system the diseases to which it gives birth, or prevent them, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake are each and all overcome by this potent and searching specific. It is not less efficacious for liver complaint, dyspepsia and costiveness, ailments not unfrequently complicated with malarial attacks. Rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and a want of vital strength, are also remediable by its persistent use. Appetite and sleep, always seriously impaired by the nervous disturbance and billousness consequent upon fever and ague, are invariably restored by the bitters.

A despatch from Rowlesburg, W. Va., states that a mysterious and fatal disease has broken out in that place, and that physicians are powerless, so far, to save the lives of any attacked. The victims are first seized with a severe pain in the head, and are corpses within twelve hours. After death the bodies become spotted.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

The children of James Buckley of Prentiss, Me., found his dead body behind his barn on Tuesday evening, April 27th. It is thought he was murdered by his wife, as they had quarrelled during the day about the sale of a pair of oxen.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. They are not only a positive cure, but a sure preventive if taken when the approach is felt. Carter's Little Liver Pills act direct on liver and bile, and thus remove the cause of disease without first making you sick by a weakening purge. If you try them you will not be disappointed.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1879. R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER. NOW January 1, 1884. eod

The Root of all Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

Herr Most, the anarchist blatherskite and leader of New York, has been indicted by the grand jury for counselling riot.

Windsor Castle

Was built by Edward III in 1386. The dedicatory exercises were a complete success, with only one exception, which Edward very much regretted; he forgot how pleasing to the guests would be a quaff of the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, which is of standard excellence and established purity. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer and druggist have it.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Leighton.

THE "REBUILT" FRANKLIN.

A correspondent of the Boston Sunday Globe, writing from this city, gives the following account of the commencement of the practice of "rebuilding" naval vessels, which ended with the completion of the Mohican at the Mare island navy yard about a year ago:

Whatever else may or may not be done in the line of renewing the navy it is certain that there will be no more "rebuilding" of old wooden ships into vessels of entirely different size, model and power, as has been done in the past. The last one to be so "rebuilt" was the Mohican, at the Mare Island navy yard, California, a 900-ton eight-gun third rate, whose total cost when she put to sea was over $900,000. But if the last rebuilding was done at the extreme western navy yard, the first was done at the extreme east—at the navy yard across the river from this city; and the vessel thus rebuilt is still borne on the Navy Register of the United States as a receiving ship—the old Franklin at Norfolk, Va., still doing duty, though marked in the Register as "requiring extensive repairs—not recommended for further sea service."

The balance dry dock at this navy yard was built by contract, and was ready for delivery to the government in 1852. The test of the dock was to be by the taking up of a man-of-war of the largest size and the hauling her out on the ways, and the old seventy-four gun ship Franklin was towed around to this port from Boston for the purpose of making the test. She was one of the old style line-of-battle ships, about as wide as she was high out of water, and about as high out of water as she was long, her topsides "tumbling home" so that she was ten or fifteen feet narrower on the spar deck than at the water line. She was successfully lifted by the dock, and hauled out; and then, as there was no appropriation for building a new ship, the old one was "rebuilt" under direction of the late Naval Constructor William L. Hanscom, who died in Massachusetts a few years ago, he being then stationed at this yard.

The old ship was torn to pieces on the ways. She was rebuilt in what has ever since been known as the "Franklin shiphouse," in which the present sailing sloop-of-war Portsmouth was built about ten years before. This shiphouse was lengthened some fifty feet to accommodate the new Franklin, and even then a "pigeon-coop," had to be built out on one end about thirty feet, high up in the air, to make room for the new ship's head. Three or four floor timbers from the old ship were put in the new one, and that was all the ground there was for calling them the same vessels, the new craft being a most beautiful steam frigate of twenty-six guns, 3173 tons measurement, and over 5000 tons displacement, and undoubtedly at that time the handsomest man-of-war in the world, and had she been engined and armed according to the plans, would have then been the most formidable as well.

After being completed she remained many years on the stocks before being launched. When the war of secession broke out she had no engines, and vessels of her class not being the most serviceable, she was not launched until the war was nearly over, and consequently took no part in the stirring events of that time. She was faithfully put together, of the best of seasoned live oak, as is evidenced by her still being afloat, though no longer seaworthy. The Iroquois, a large ship which was about two-thirds completed on the same ways after the Franklin was launched, was torn to pieces a few years later, the green timbers of which she was constructed having become one mass of dry rot. This is the true history of the first "rebuilding" of a ship in our navy.

Eight Hours on May 1st.

Boston, April 30. The request of the great Federation of Trades, that eight hours shall be a legal day's work after May 1st, has created a great deal of talk all over the country, so that the usual topics of discussion have been dropped, and the press and pulpit and public have devoted themselves to the subject. In order that the people of Portsmouth may know what the advocates of the cause have to say, a full presentation of the case will be given in to-morrow's Sunday Globe, in which the foremost minds of the country will give their ideas as to why the eight-hour rule should prevail.

With these will be presented complete tables of the ruling prices of labor in this country since 1850, all being a complete review of the case by men who favor the adoption of eight hours for a day's work.

Waldo B. Brigham of Dover started from Boston by a train on the western division of the Boston & Maine railroad, April 29th, having as he claims a through ticket for Dover, which the conductor, Mr. Stevens, took up just out of Boston. Stevens claimed that the ticket was only to Haverhill, and on the train arriving at Exeter ordered Brigham not to board the train again, and after some words made an assault upon Brigham, as he claims. Brigham however rode to Dover on the train, and on arriving swore out a warrant for the arrest of Stevens on a charge of assault and battery; he also announced his intention of entering suit against the railroad for the act of its servant, claiming $10,000 as damages.

The Rockingham Bicycle Club, at a meeting held this week, voted in nine new members. The club now numbers fifth-three.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

Again we remind the readers of the Chronicle that one of the best spring medicines is the old reliable Preston's Sarsaparilla.

Among those who attended the dinner of the alumni of Phillips Exeter academy in Boston on Wednesday, the 28th ult., were Messrs Robert C. Pierce and Charles E. Batchelder of this city.

Dover had two fires on the 29th ult., the barn of Mr. Robert Grimes being destroyed by an incendiary fire early in the morning, and his house damaged. Loss $600; insurance $500. About ten o'clock in the forenoon, as a teamster was unloading kerosene in the rear of Morrill's block, one of the barrels took fire, the flames communicating to some empty piano boxes and other rubbish; the danger was serious for a time, but the fire was finally extinguished with a loss of only about $125.

The tug Knickerbocker has gone from Bath, Me., to New York, the intention being to make search, with the aid of a diver, for the wreck of the Bath schooner Charles H. Morse, which vessel is supposed to have sunk the steamer Oregon. If it can be proved that the schooner had the right of way, as it almost certain she did, the Cunard company will be sued for damages.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SAWYER, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLETT, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, cause by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. FIELDS, Rochester, N. Y.

"MAY BLOSSOM."

The scenery and mechanical effects in "May Blossom" are said to be remarkably fine, the view of the sea and coast in the first act being a wonderful specimen of perspective and coloring, while "Wintergreen Lane," in the last act, where a party of children come for the burial of a dead bird, is an exquisite picture, perfect in tone and treatment. The fishermen in their rude costumes are studies from real life, just as the scenery is painted from models sketched from nature by an artist who was sent from the Madison Square theatre to Old Point Comfort specially for that purpose.

At Music hall this evening. Tickets at Goodrich's.

DOVER RAILROAD STOCK AND CITY FARM.

In our report Friday morning of the meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen the previous evening, we were only able to state briefly that propositions were made as to selling part of the city's stock in the Dover railroad, and the city farm. The following more extended references to these matters will interest a large majority of our citizens:

An ordinance providing for the sale of 250 shares in the Portsmouth & Dover railroad, was read and referred to the committee on bills on second reading. The money thus raised to be used in paying off $50,000 of the bonded indebtedness of the city which falls due in two years and a half. During the discussion of this matter the mayor stated that in his opinion the city would, by the sale of this stock, make a good investment, for if the bonds sold at the lowest possible premium, and if the proceeds, safely deposited, drew the lowest probable rate of interest, the city would make a net profit of from $1300 to $2000 by the transaction, because the bonds are now selling at a fair premium and the money arising from the sale being put at interest would exceed the interest paid on the stock, as above stated.

Alderman Coffin was called to the chair, and Mayor Eldredge took the floor, to suggest that a part or the whole of the city farm be sold. He said that there were many reasons why it would be better for the city to do this, prominent among which were these. There are but a small number of inmates, who occupy only a portion of the building. The building is old and hard to warm in winter. More taxable property would be brought into the city if the farm is sold. It is not a source of profit to the city, but rather an unnecessary expense. The inmates could be better and more comfortably cared for in a smaller building, at less expense. The money received from the farm (if sold) could be put to a far better use than at present. In addition to providing a suitable home for the city's unfortunate poor, a handsome schoolhouse might be built, or a fire station be erected, either of which would be an improvement in the city and of service to its citizens. He concluded by saying that he hoped that at no distant day some member of the board would submit a resolution providing for such a step.

SUPREME COURT--BLODGETT, J.

FRIDAY, April 30th.

Manning Emery vs. Boston & Maine railroad; action to recover damages for detention of Mr. Emery at the Vaughan street crossing in Portsmouth by reason of a train of cars standing on the track for a longer time than is allowed by law. Defence, that the delay was caused by the breaking of a stopcock on the locomotive, which could only be remedied at a certain place where the engine was stopped. J. W. Emery for plff; Frink for the railroad.

Margaret A. Prescott vs. Daniel Littlefield; petition for partition. Plaintiff claims a share in three acres of woodland in Portsmouth, as having been devised to her by Lydia Rollins. Defendant claims it under deeds from Caldwell and A. A. Rollins, residuary legatees of Lydia Rollins. Question is on the construction of the clause in Lydia Rollins' will which gave her wood lot to petitioner. Heard, decision reserved. Frink for petitioner; Hackett for Littlefield.

"Portsmouth and Vicinity" is the title of a series of twenty fine views of buildings and places in this city, Newcastle and York, at the navy yard and at the Isles of Shoals, neatly bound in cloth with stiff covers. The photographs were selected by Mr. D. H. Montgomery, and copied and printed in Germany. Many of them were sold last year, and there is still a supply on hand at his music and art store, Pleasant street. The price is only thirty-five cents, and the little book is an ornament for any centre table.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. To CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist sealed me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health!" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the membrane is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated, and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifest itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

Kerosene Mine in New South Wales.

New South Wales possesses in the Vale of Hartley mine a valuable kerosene deposit. The mine is situated in one of the most picturesque parts of the colony, about eighty-three miles northwest of Sydney, in the center of the Blue mountains, at an altitude of 3,118 feet above the level of the sea. The railway up the mountains has aided greatly in the establishment of a number of important industries there. The iron works at Eskbank are carried on successfully, and the coal deposits are inexhaustible. The kerosene shale found there is said to be the richest in the world. Considerable quantities of it are used in the large cities of the colonies for the purpose of enriching gas. It is also exported for the same purpose to Holland, Java, and the states on the Pacific slope of the United States.

Only the better quality of the mineral is exported, the scraps and inferior portions being retained for the extraction of oil. The seams are from one foot to two and-a-half feet in thickness. It is much more difficult to mine than coal, and is usually got out with iron picks and pointed rods. It does not run down readily into blocks, but has to be separated piece by piece and splintered off into sharp thin pieces. It is easily lighted with a match, and burns with a steady flame like a candle and emits a strong odor of kerosene. The company working the mine, beside their operations at the mine, have extensive oil works at Waterloo, where they manufacture kerosene lubricants, paraffine, etc.—Iron.

Superior Intelligence of the Pike.

There can be little doubt that the pike is decidedly an exception to the rule that fish have little or no intelligence. Even the size of his brain is worthy of respect. Its proportionate size, as compared to the rest of the body, is as 1 to 1,300; in the shark, whose intelligence has so often been vaunted, it is only as 1 to 2,500; while in the tunny it is but as 1 to 3,700. The only thing that dulls the pike's intelligence is his greed; but even this may perhaps only be caused by an overwhelming confidence in his own gastric juices. Like many other voracious animals, to swallow seems to be his only joy; palate he has little or none.—Chicago Herald.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, supported by a continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent couplers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other qualities of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well-ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars in which elaborately cooked meals are furnished to patrons, between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

is the shortest and best line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the connections made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces, are the only ones Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, pictuesque lakes, and fishing and hunting grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route for those visiting Fields and pastures, lands, interior points.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

A despatch from New York last week stated that Ex-President Arthur was improving and would soon be out.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered liver. Only one pill a dose.

Col. A. A. Conger, of Akron, Ohio, has been elected commander-in-chief of the department of Ohio G. A. R.

Rheumatism, backache, crick, sore muscles, quickly go when a Hop Plaster is applied. 25cts.

Chang Yen Moon, the new Chinese minister, last week presented his credentials to President Cleveland, who welcomed him as China's representative.

Gospel truth! the purest, best and strongest on earth is the Hop Plaster. Thousands say so.

John Holland, a St. Louis striker, has been sentenced to thirty days in jail for interfering with men at work. This is the first case of conviction.

The reputation of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood medicine is maintained by cures made and daily making.

"For economy and comfort, every spring, we use Hood's Sarsaparilla," writes a Buffalo, N. Y., lady.

The bank of Marietta, Ohio, has closed its doors. Speculation in real estate caused the failure. Nearly every business man in the city has deposits in the bank.

James J. Mitchell, Supt. Stone Dept. New Capital at Albany, N. Y., writes "316 Lark Street, June 25, 1885. I have been using Allock's Porous Plaster on my own person and in my family for the last thirty years. I deem it a matter of duty to bear public testimony to their exceeding usefulness as an external remedy. Placed upon the pit of the stomach, they warm and tone the digestive organs. On the small of the back, they give vigor to the nervous system, and act as a wonderful diuretic. I think in all cases of dyspepsia they should be worn both on the back and on the pit of the stomach. In this way they act as a stimulus to the whole system."

The St. Louis deputy sheriffs who killed the seven citizens some time ago were last week released from custody on the charge of being fugitives from justice, but were arrested on a similar charge in East St. Louis.

The simplest and far the best regulator of the disordered liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, etc.; prevent and cure constipation and piles; remove sallowness and pimples from the complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

Students of the Grant memorial university at Athens, Tenn., refused to attend college exercises on Gen. Grant's 69th birthday, and there is said to be trouble brewing in consequence.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Gen. Miles has left Wilcox, Ari., for Crittenden, to personally supervise the campaign against the Apache Indians.

HALE'S HONEY is the best Cough Cure, 25, 50c., $1. GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP heals and beautifies, 25c. GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions, 25c. HILL'S HAIR & WHISKER DYE—Black & Brown, 50c. PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 Minute, 25c. DEAN'S RHEUMATIC PILLS are a sure cure, 50c.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. codLan

THE HOPE OF NEW ENGLAND.

The last census is not altogether pleasant reading in many portions for the sons of New England, but it conveys lessons which they cannot afford to ignore. If it tells that Maine and Vermont stood stationary as regards populations between 1870 and 1880, it also records the rapid growth and prosperity of many cities and towns which are beginning to tread upon the heels of older communities. It seems to say that to manufactures, not to agriculture, must New England apply herself, and that to the skill of her artisans must she look for her old-time supremacy. This changed condition of affairs is recognized in many enterprising cities, a good example of which may be found in Waterbury, the bustling Connecticut city upon the Naugatuck that is so rapidly coming to the front as a manufacturing center. Waterbury has wide-awake citizens who take every opportunity to push it and to welcome new ideas. The advantage of such a progressive spirit is well shown in the case of G. W. Angell, who lives at No. 204 South Main street, Waterbury, and who gives this personal experience:

"For twenty years I have suffered tortures from chronic rheumatism. The doctors said I was incurable, but thanks to Athlophoros, I have now taken a new lease on life. I had tried numerous remedies with the hope of at least allaying my suffering, but all failed until a friend advised me to try Athlophoros. I did so, and as the result am now looking and feeling as though I had never known what rheumatism was."

Mrs. E. Vickers, of No. 46 Pleasant street, says:

"It is owing to Athlophoros that I am now alive. I suffered with inflammatory rheumatism for years, most of the time being perfectly helpless. One bottle of Athlophoros cured me. I can sincerely say that there is nothing like it for the speedy relief and permanent cure of rheumatism and can recommend it to all suffering from that disease."

The testimony is reinforced by that of Mrs. Jane Downey, of No. 24 Pleasant street, a near neighbor of Mrs. Vicker's, in this story of her case:

"Two bottles of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. My family physician advised me to take the remedy, saying that he had done all he could for me, but could give me no relief. Athlophoros drove the rheumatism away, and I am happy to say that it has never come back. My daughter, who suffered terribly from rheumatism, was also cured by taking half a bottle of the medicine."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We only ask that you buy it from your druggist, but if he has not it, do not be persuaded to try another article, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

THE JAPANESE PEOPLE IN 1871.

The Phenomenal Colored Servant—The Girded Sword—Temper of the Weapon.

Perry's visit to Japan was as complete an epoch for the people of that country as Columbus' to the native of America. The latter disappeared under the alien visitation. Dai Nippon has profited by it. Events are dated in Japan from the appearance of Perry just as we commence an epoch from the birth of the Saviour. The Tenno lived in the Naisu-Maru, part of the Oyeno or fortified palace grounds of the old Tycoon. Horticulturally, I remember, these grounds were perfect, great camellia trees, beautiful flowers of all kinds, handsome drives and the gardening culture. The inclosure was moated and invulnerable to any attack devoid of artillery, sheltered and guarded against any ancient form of warfare. A great covered central gate—the O-te-go-non, gate of the great hand—was the one we entered by. Shrines, protesque monuments and queer tiled buildings were in plenty, and men and officers, but no women. Not a female face was seen in or about any of the official residences, except at the entertainment at the Homa-goten, Sawa's palace, when singing and dancing girls gave an exhibition during the evening. Japan is changing, so that I presume in a few years all the old will have disappeared and with it much of rare historical and artistic interest.

When I was in the country, in the interior a foreigner was a curiosity, equal to the first Chinaman or Jap seen by us here. On a visit made to the summit of Fuji-yama in the summer of 1871 I went to the famous hot springs at Hakone; at nearly every tea-house our party was as much of an exhibition as Jo-Jo or the woman with big feet is here. A colored servant, dark as Erebus, whom I had with me, was a phenomenal subject to the innocent Japs. The men and women would come up to him, try to rub the black off with their hands and be surprised they could not, and laugh over it with the contagious and hilarious glee the people so much enjoy. My watch would have been a passport anywhere into the interior, as they never tired looking "at the wheels go round." Insolence and suspicion was never met with among the common folk, but only from the Samurai. These fellows are born brawlers and when flushed with saki were dangerous. All wore swords then, now done away with. They set great store by this weapon, and a Japanese noble often wore one worth $1,000. The occupation—alone of all the trades—of swordsmith in old Japan was an honorable one and the members of the guild of gentle blood. Iyeyasu, founder of the last dynasty of Shoguns, left a motto that "the girded sword was the living soul of the Samurai." When forging the edge of the blade the ancient swordsmith put on the robes of the Kuge class or nobles of the Mikado's court.

The temper of these trenchant weapons excels any Toledo or trusty. I recall a visit Iwa-kuru and his official family paid the late Admiral John Rodgers on the flagship Colorado. While in the cabin Admiral Rodgers—Fighting Jack Rodgers he was called in the service, to distinguish him from the present Admiral C. R. P. Rodgers, whose sailor name is Chesterfield Rodgers, on account of the urbanity with which he could ask the deck officer to take a reef in the topsails or set a lower stun'sail—was showing the Japanese San-jo-dai-jin the mettle of a sword presented to him by the emperor of Russia, when it snapped like a whipcord. Iwa-kuru took his long katana, heavily mounted and rich in cunning metal work—probably an heirloom in his family for centuries—bent it hither and thither and almost tied a bow-knot in it. Our admiral was not a little chagrined at the bad behavior of his Russian weapon. Afterwards, however, the San-jo-dai-jin sent him a superb native sword, probably equal to his own in temper. I remember hearing one of the court officers say that it was not considered a good sword that would not at one blow cleave through the dead bodies of three men. Young noblemen were wont to try their maiden swords by bribing the headsman to use them at public executions, and fierce, inhuman Dai-kons tested theirs not infrequently in the dull times on dogs and lazars on the public highway.—Ex-Naval Officer in Philadelphia Times.

Action of Acids on the Saliva.

The influence of acids in retarding or arresting salivary digestion is further of importance in the dietetic use of pickles, vinegar, salads, and acid fruits. In the case of vinegar it was found that 1 part in 5,000 sensibly retarded this process, a proportion of 1 in 1,000 rendered it very slow, and 1 in 500 arrested it completely; so that when acid salads are taken together with bread the effect of the acid is to prevent any salivary digestion of the bread, a matter of little moment to a person with a vigorous digestion, but to a feeble dyspeptic one of some importance. There is a very widespread belief that drinking vinegar is an efficacious means of avoiding getting fat, and this popular belief would appear from these experimental observations to be well founded. If the vinegar be taken at the same time as farinaceous food it will greatly interfere with its digestion and assimilation.—Nineteenth Century.

Symptoms of Pen Paralysis.

There is such a thing as pen paralysis, sometimes called "writer's cramp," and it is a very inconvenient affection. It is a weakness of the nerves of the hand, caused by the constant contact of metal,

[Concluded on 4th page]

I had the rheumatism in my left shoulder for two years, and in three days after using Athlophoros the pain was gone. I had the sciatica in my right leg all winter, and the medicine has driven that pain away also. Chas. Metcalf, North Adams, Mass.

A Wonderful STRENGTHENER

To WALLACE HACKETT, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Rockingham, and State of New Hampshire:

The subscribers, owners of one-twentieth part of the stock and property of the Boston Machine Company, a Corporation existing under the laws of the State of New Hampshire, represent that said Corporation failed to hold its annual meeting for the present year. They therefore request you to call a meeting of the members of said Corporation to be held at the office of William H. Hackett, in Portsmouth, in said County of Rockingham, on Thursday, the 18th day of May, A. D., 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, then and there for the purpose of acting upon the following subjects:

1. To choose a chairman to preside over and in said meeting.

2. To choose such number of Directors as may be determined, and a Clerk, Treasurer, Manager, President and all other officers of said Corporation.

3. To see if the Corporation will vote to change the By-Laws so that any or all the officers and officers may be chosen either by the Corporation at an annual meeting or at any adjournment thereof or by the Board of Directors, and to vote to pass and enact By-Laws providing for the mode of choosing the above-named officers or any officer of the Corporation.

4. To see if the Corporation will vote to close the affairs of the Corporation and dispose of the property and assets of the Corporation, or to take any steps or pass any vote relative to winding up the affairs of the Corporation and selling its property, placing the same in the hands of a committee or a Trustee for the purpose of such disposition of the property and assets and dividing the net proceeds to and among the several shareholders, or disposing of the same as may be deemed practicable and proper.

5. To transact any other business which may properly come before the meeting.

6. To see if the Corporation will vote to divide any and what portion of its present assets, and among its stockholders in proportion to the number of shares held by them respectively, and to fix upon and determine the time and mode of such division and how and when it shall be made.

PORTSMOUTH, April 27, 1886.

THOMAS S. NOWELL, 270,
JOHN A. BROWN, 250,
HENRY N. BIGELOW, 200.

The State of New Hampshire, Rockingham, ss.

To THOMAS S. NOWELL of Boston, in the County of Suffolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

Whereas, Application has been made to me, Wallace Hackett, a Justice of the Peace for said County of Rockingham, as above—

You are therefore required to warn a meeting of said Corporation to be held at the time and place and for the purposes mentioned in said application, by publishing a copy of said application and this warrant ten days at least in the same manner as is provided for warning the annual meeting of said Corporation, and make return of this warrant at said time and place of meeting.

WALLACE HACKETT,
Justice of the Peace.

PORTSMOUTH, April 29, 1886.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1879.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1846, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

The Root of all Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

At Dover, April 28th, the proprietors of the seven shoe factories were served by the Lasters' Protective union with a list of prices, raising wages twenty-five per cent on an average, to take effect May 1st. Lewis W. Nute & Co.'s shoe factory resumed work on the 26th ult., after being shut down four weeks. On the firm getting the new list of prices they telegraphed from Boston to shut down the entire shop for an indefinite period.

To The Pure

All things are pure. Life is too short to waste with adulterations. The best is always cheapest. Adulterated liquors are the abuse of a good thing. The G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey is an absolutely pure alcholic stimulant, unequalled for medical purposes; sold by every leading druggist and respectable grocer as of standard quality. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is guaranteed.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

Secretary Manning has so far recovered as to be able to receive callers.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

Possesses the remedial power of these two valuable specifics in their fullest degree. Is prepared in a palatable form, easily tolerated by the stomach, and for delicate, sickly children, emaciation, consumption and all improvished conditions of the blood is unequalled by any other remedy.

New Orleans Notes.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22d.

Queer town. A quarter of a century behind times. Its old portion carries the visitor back to the memories of the inquisition. Population mixed—New York minus the Irish element, but plus the Pagos. Street conversation, a jabbering jargon. Said to be the gayest city in the Union — cock fights, ball matches and theatres on Sundays. Have seen but two new dwellings going up during five weeks' observation. Business languishing — half the river steamers tied up. Everything imported—excellent field for manufacturing capital. Irruption of northern enterprise, as in Florida, would make things hum.

Pretty women — oh, yes; until they reach thirty years, then their finely developed forms carry too much tonnage. Get ripe too soon. Lack the spice, grace and brilliancy of the New England girl. Too placidly handsome. The dreamy-eyed Creoles abound, gotten up "regardless." Do not lack physical beauty, which fades as time rolls on. Here and there a fine exception, to prove the rule. Citizens courteous to strangers, the southern trait. Newspaper men hospitable to the veriest verge. Ran across some to whom the mention of the names of Capt. W. Quincy Lowd, now of Jackson, Mississippi, and "Jack" H. Miller, now of Boston, proved a shot at their innermost consciousnesses. Rare boys, "Jack" and "Quin"—known as well in 1860 here as in their native land. Any friend of theirs becomes an adopted comrade here without formality.

City full of cemeteries, by companies and platoons. Friends invited to funerals by printed notices, note size, posted on streets posts. Ladies much given to extensive mourning costumes and crape veils. Decoration of tombs universal, by bead work, artificial and natural flowers, miniature calendar saints, and in many cases photos of the deceased, who are buried above ground in catacombs and small marble palaces, as the soil is excessively moist. Streets full of side sewers with contents running from the Mississippi.

Monuments of Henry Clay, Andrew Jackson (similar to that at Washington) and Robert E. Lee loom up in the principal parks. At Greenwood, a monument with marble likenesses of Lee, "Stonewall" Jackson, Sidney Johnston and Bishop Polk, received floral adornments from the G. A. R. Posts on April 6th, the southern Memorial day. The graves of the ex-confederates are quietly visited by friends on that day, while it is only the prominent generals who get anything like public recognition. This is done by a small detachment (say thirty men) without music. The ex-confederates, so far as observation goes, declare themselves glad the Union is preserved and slavery abolished, and good-humoredly refer to the "unpleasantness" of 1861 to 1865 as the occasion when "We tired ourselves out trying to whip the United States."

At Chalmette, six miles below the centre of the city, repose 12,000 Union soldiers in a national cemetery. The handsomest flag in the world floats proudly every day a hundred feet above this "Bivouac of the dead." To get there, the visitor rides four miles in a street car and then walks two miles farther on the levee. Visitors are few. The site of the cemetery is a portion of the battlefield on which Andrew Jackson became a hero. Just beyond the lower wall are the breastworks thrown up by Beauregard's troops, to prevent Gen. Butler marching on New Orleans. They were abandoned when Farragut's fleet went by. Pierre Beauregard's "mortar, paixhan and petard" abilities are now concentrated on the drawing of the state lottery, by which the investor stands less than one chance in fifty of getting back his money. Jubal Early, who moved up and down the Shenandoah valley in war-times until he grew dizzy, is Pierre's most worthy associate.

A quarter of a mile up the river from the National cemetery is the scene of the famous battle of New Orleans, fought Jan. 8, 1815. A half-finished and very dilapidated monument is here tumbling to pieces on a mound said to be the locality of Gen. Packenham's fall. The monument is erected on a base of brick, and is a travesty on decency. A Granite State democrat of the olden time when democracy meant loyalty to country, would grate his teeth in keenest anguish after inspecting the structure, if he escaped down the foundation stairway of four inches width without a broken neck. The royal Jackson democracy should make a pilgrimage to the ex-headquarters of their demi-god just to see how their southern allies neglect the field of his greatest triumph.

The Mississippi river here is up thirteen and a half feet above low water mark, and still rising. This is three inches above the danger line. Disaster to the levees is predicted, but it is hoped an inundation will be prevented. The city is in a filthy condition, but it would take a half million dollars to repair the streets and clean them.

Many of the papers of the south, notably those of Louisiana, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama, are frantically espousing the protection of American industry, which the party at the north which the solid south furnishes with most of its electoral votes, is endeavoring to crush. It is noticeable too, that the Carrollton (Miss.) massacre was most vociferously condemned by the leading southern press. Louisiana is red-hot with denunciation of the Morrison tariff bill, which proposes to abolish the duty on sugar; and planters are now putting in cotton and corn where they have heretofore depended on the cane crop. A mighty influence, self-interest, is leavening the south, and its results will be resistless. This people will yet leap from the bondage of prejudice, help themselves by rational and common-sense methods, and join heartily in all efforts at progression, convinced at last that despite their past complaints, their cowardly and fruitless northern allies to whom they looked for succor in the fight for "the lost cause," have nothing to offer better than or as good as the policy which brought at the north amazing prosperity under the administration of a party which maintained the integrity of the nation. Under the new regime they now acknowledge the fear that they are likely to be deprived "even of that they hath."

The Greek minister of war has resigned.

The fishing schooner John H. McManus won the race between ten crack schooners off Boston harbor on Saturday. The pilot boat Hesper, which was also in the race, beat all the fishing boats and took the $100 cup presented by Capt. Forbes. The McManus takes the purse of $300.

Secretary Manning has notified the president that he will not go back to the treasury department, even if he regains in a measure his health. Mr. Cleveland has accepted the resignation.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 20 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are so much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEEK, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Generally fair weather, nearly stationary temperature and barometer.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 39 degrees above zero

Clear.

THE EVENING WITH BYRON.

Those present at the reading from Childe Harold by Rev. Alfred Gooding, in the Unitarian chapel on an evening of last week, were given an hour of rare pleasure. To the charm of the voice of the reader was added the effective picturing by the stereopticon of the fairest scenes in Italy. It is hoped that another opportunity may be offered of enjoying this most harmonious union of poetry and art.

FIX IT, MESSRS. ALDERMEN.

Dr. J. W. Parsons has effected a great improvement in the appearance of the corner opposite Music hall, by putting up a new fence, somewhat lower than the old one, and a new and rather ornamental building in place of the shed that was scorched by the Rockingham house fire. Dr. Parsons' request for a sidewalk from Warren street to meet that extending from State street to his office, and for a crosswalk on Warren street to connect the asked-for walk with that in front of Music hall, is before the board of aldermen, and as a matter of public convenience should be at once granted. A large percentage of the attendants at Music hall entertainments, on leaving the building go toward State street on their way home; and in bad weather they have to paddle through mud as best they may to reach the one sidewalk on Chestnut street leading to State, which after being reached is usually over-crowded. The crosswalk and bit of new sidewalk asked for would go a long way toward obviating this inconvenience, and the grading up of the street which it would necessitate would be another improvement. The cost would not be great, and we do not know of any way in which the money needed could be more profitably expended.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, May 1st.

Peter Johnson, drunk, $3, $6.90; paid.

SOLEMN SCENES.

There was nothing cheerful in the two theatrical entertainments at Music hall last week. Leah the Forsaken appears likely always to be forsaken by a Portsmouth audience, which fails to appreciate such solemn and sombre scenes as Leah contains, and prefer by far something enjoyable as a recreation, rather than dramatic and dreary. The Saturday night attendance did not blossom very extensively. May Blossom is designated in the bills as a comedy-drama. Its lugubrious character is slightly mitigated by the canary funeral, but it is an unenjoyable, unreal representation, with unsuccessful attempts at times to show a comic oasis in the desert of solemn discomfort, relieved only by the welcome the audience gives to the children's procession. We want, in these days of strikes and east winds, to be amused with light, hearty, cheerful representations, after which we can go to sleep—not in the hall, during the "six years between the acts," but after we reach our homes, full of pleasing recollections.

It is possible that in large cities there might be gathered nightly audiences who appreciate such discomforts as are evoked by "Leah" and "May Blossom," but we, the provincials, are far better pleased with Neil Burgess and Josh Whitcomb in their homely portrayals of the New England man and woman, than with Margaret Mather's Jewess, however artistically portrayed, or Georgia Cayvan's Virginia fisherman's daughter, who is placed by the whim of the author in such unnatural relations, from which the deliverance is artificial and clumsy, while the play itself lacks that powerful contrast in situation which is so needed to relieve the uncomfortable strain which its beholding gives to the auditor.

AROUND HOME.

Mr. Michael Sheridan, Jr., declines to accept the position of police officer, to which he was appointed by the late meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen.

Mrs. Maria D. Ayers, widow of Franklin Ayers, who has for some years kept a boarding house on McDonough street, died very suddenly at her home last Friday night, of heart disease. She was sitting in a chair apparently as well as usual, talking with a friend, when without the least warning she fell forward out of the chair to the floor, dead.

George Hunnefield, a boy twelve years old, an inmate of the Children's Home, was badly bitten on the cheek by a dog on the 30th ult. The dangerous brute was killed by the city marshal.

Mr. Herbert White, who has for a long time been clerk in M. M. Collis' Boston 99-cent store on Market street, is intending to go to Haverhill, Mass., to start a five and ten cent store.

Judge Leavitt has appointed Hon. Thomas E. O. Marvin, president of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, guardian of Woodbury T. Langdon of this city, a boy seven years of age.

De Witt Clinton Commandry, Knights Templar, have received an invitation from Sir Knight Henry E. Hovey, rector of Christ church, to attend at that church on Whitsunday, or some other Sunday afternoon that they may designate, when services appropriate to the order will be held.

The employes of the Eldredge Brewing Co. were agreeably surprised, last pay day, to learn that their wages had been raised, the increase dating back to the first of April. Some of the men in the employ of the company have been with them over twenty years.

Eight or ten converts were baptised at Newcastle on Sunday by Rev. C. R. Crosseit, pastor of the Advent church in this city, and Rev. Wm. P. Israel.

Capt. George F. Towle, 19th Infantry, arrived in Chicago last week, and entered upon duty on Gen. Terry's staff.

Hay was selling on the Parade, Saturday, at from $15 to $18 a ton.

Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury, 33°, has consented to deliver the address on the occasion of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., of this city, which occurs on St. John's day, June 24th, prox. The address will probably be given in Music hall. The committee having the celebration in charge are meeting with every encouragement, and are confident of having a celebration worthy of this ancient organization.

The electric fire-alarm was tested by the superintendent on Saturday, that being the first day in the month.

Boat Leonora Lee, Capt. Henry Smith, came up to the Spring market wharf, Sunday morning, having sold 500 lobsters, taken off Cape Porpoise, to Capt. Preble of Newcastle.

The ship Gov. Goodwin, Lester master, sailed from Astoria, Oregon, April 22d, for the United Kingdom.

The thirty-ninth session of the East Maine conference will be held at Winterport Me., commencing Thursday, May 6th.

Commodore Johnson, commandant of the navy yard, started for Washington on Friday of last week in obedience to orders from the department.

The United States tug Leyden, at the navy yard, is having a new foremast put in, some bad planks in her deck replaced, and receiving other minor repairs.

Paymaster Frank H. Hinman is detached from the Portsmouth navy yard, and ordered to settle his accounts.

Paymaster George A. Lyon is ordered to duty as inspector of provisions and clothing at the Portsmouth navy yard.

Paymaster John MacMahon is ordered to the Ossipee, Asiatic station, by steamer of May 10th from New York.

Chief Engineer John W. Moore is ordered to experimental work at the New York navy yard.

Rear Admiral Alfred Taylor, on the retired list of the navy, has been granted leave of absence for one year, with permission to leave the United States.

Labor Matters.

The great movement among the labor organizations of Chicago for the eight-hour day began on Saturday, and hundreds of factories were idle. A wholesale strike of the railroad freight handlers in that section was anticipated. The Chicago pork-packers, who employ 25,000 men, it is said would grant the eight-hour demand, as would also some of the great iron and steel shops. Three or four thousand lumber yard and planing mill hands left work; and the mills, and eight wholesale furniture factories, closed their doors.

The weavers of No. 1 woollen mill at Dexter, Me., thirty in number, struck Saturday morning, throwing 200 hands out of work. No demand had been made by them.

The stone cutters of Springfield, Mass., now work nine hours a day except on Saturday, when they work eight hours, for ten hours pay.

The master carpenters of Salem, Mass., have agreed to nine hours as a days work.

Over 3000 brewers' workmen in Milwaukee threaten to strike unless they receive $10 a month advance in wages.

The contractors for new county buildings at Pittsburg, Pa., have reduced the day's work to nine hours.

The Iron Age, of Pittsburg, Pa., the recognized organ of the iron manufacturers, in its last week's issue intimates that the employers in all branches of the business are organizing as a body, "to meet labor on its own grounds, and dictate terms and conditions," and that in such a conflict "the surrender of labor is inevitable."

The Master Builders' Association of Boston, which includes masons, carpenters, painters, and all branches of building trades, and employs from 15,000 to 20,000 men, on Friday, the 30th ult., positively refused to accede to the demands of the labor organizations, and a great strike was anticipated to occur this morning.

In Washington, D. C., the building trade, about the only business of importance carried on there, and employs 20,000 men, has almost wholly ceased on account of the eight-hour demand.

Mob Violence Feared.

E. S. Harris, proprietor of the woollen mills at Penacook in which the Knights of Labor caused a strike recently, has notified the town of Boscawen that he considers his property in danger from mob violence, and shall hold the town responsible for its protection. A large number of special policemen have been appointed, who will be on duty day and night until the danger has passed, and the selectmen have notified the officers of the Knights of Labor who ordered the strike that they will be held answerable in the courts for any damage suffered.

Again we remind the readers of the Chronicle that one of the best spring medicines is the old reliable Preston's Sarsaparilla.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry down to the orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging a large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. TO CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I feel delighted at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every "Land of the West," for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hawking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvellous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

CAPT. KIDD'S BURIED TREASURE.

Hunting for a Box of Jewelry—Startling Experience of a Couple of Negroes.

Some of the inhabitants of Old Lyme have got the "buried treasure" fever bad, and a party is being formed to hunt for a box of jewelry which is generally believed to have been buried by Capt. Kidd, near Lion's rock. This is a great overhanging bowlder located on the shores of Roger's lake, a beautiful sheet of water some two miles long among the hills in the northern part of the town. Tradition says that many years ago two negro slaves owned by Governor Matthew Griswold stole away one dark night to hunt for the box. They had digging tools and a Bible, which they took along because they had been informed that it was necessary to read aloud from it whenever the devil, who guards the property, should make his appearance.

Some of the young men of the town followed them and hid in a convenient thicket to take observations. For a long time they heard no sound save the steady stroke of the pick-ax and the suppressed breathing of the darkies. Suddenly there was a click as if the ax had hit some metal substance. "Quick, Sambo," cried Pete, "read de Bible. I hear the debil down there sure." Sambo sprang for the book and began to turn over the leaves, when the terrified Pete cried again, "Read, Sambo, read quick, the debil is getting hold of the box." Thoroughly frightened now, Sambo exclaimed: "I can't find de place, de debil he shake me so," dropped the book and ran for home followed closely by Pete.—Hartford (Conn.) Times.

Average of the American Family.

The American family is falling off in numbers. In 1850 it contained 5.86 persons; in 1860, 5.28; in 1870, 5.09, and in 1880, only 5.04. At present the average may be taken to be barely 5.—Exchange.

A Beautiful Easter Card.

The Virgin Salt Co., of New Haven, Conn., are making a grand offer to introduce their salt. Go and ask your grocer for Virgin Salt and get an elegant Easter card. In addition we offer an extra inducement, a pair of doves beautifully lithographed in ten colors, as natural as life, on a large card 9x10 inches. Virgin Salt is the cleanest, purest and whitest salt ever seen or used. A large package costs only ten cents.

The bill to establish a port of entry at Mount Desert, Me., has passed the house, and now awaits the president's approval.

Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic for correcting irregularities of the stomach and bowels. Gentle, yet thorough in their action they cure constipation, stimulate the appetite and digestive organs, and strengthen the system.

The special committee of the house, charged with the duty of investigating the labor strikes on the southwestern railroads, left Washington for St. Louis April 29th.

That feeling of weariness, so often experienced in the spring, results from a sluggish condition of the blood, which being impure does not quicken with the changing season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by vitalizing and cleansing the blood, strengthens and invigorates the system.

A meeting to express sympathy for Ireland was held in Washington on the evening of the 29th ult. Congressman Randall presided. There were speeches and letters from prominent men of both parties.

Ministers, lawyers, teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and billousness. One is a dose.

The house committee on territories has ordered an adverse report on the senate bill to admit the southern half of the territory of Dakota into the Union as a state. This was expected.

Derangement of the liver, with constipation, injure the complexion, induce pimples, sallow skin, etc. Remove the cause by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose.

In the senate, April 29th, Mr. Mitchell of Oregon took the opportunity afforded by the presentation of a petition praying for the protection of the Chinese, to deny that there had ever been outrages upon the Chinese in Oregon. Mr. Mitchell is a republican, but it is possible he can't read.

Ely's Cream Balm has cured me of catarrh of several years standing. I have recovered my sense of taste and smell. The Balm has no equal as a cure. Frank C. Ogden, Elizabeth, N. J. Apply with finger.

After using a large number of preparations for catarrh, I have become satisfied that of them all Ely's Cream Balm gives me the most relief. I can recommend it to any one who may have catarrh, cold in the head or hay fever.—S. B. Lewis, Principal Graded School, Clinton, Wis. Easy to use. Price 50 cents.

The official proceedings of the city of Boston on and after July 1st will probably be printed in a job office, and not in a newspaper.

Take Warning

And don't let the germs of that vile disease, catarrh, take root and flourish in your system. Sulphur Bitters will prevent this and will make you strong and healthy.—Editor Weekly Press.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important and continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed; smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Best Vestibule Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Palace Sleepers of latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are served at reasonable rates. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Its connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and Dominion of Canada. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, interesting localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat, stock and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

James J. Mitchell, Supt. Stone Dept. New Capital at Albany, N. Y., writes "515 Lark Street, June 25, 1885. I have been using Allock's Porous Plaster on my own person and in my family for the last thirty years. I deem it a matter of duty to bear public testimony to their exceeding usefulness as an external remedy. Placed upon the pit of the stomach, they warm and tone the digestive organs. On the small of the back, they give vigor to the nervous system, and act as a wonderful diuretic. I think in all cases of dyspepsia they should be worn both on the back and on the pit of the stomach. In this way they act as a stimulus to the whole system."

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodJan

THE WRONG WAY TO GO UP STAIRS.

Going up stairs on one's hands and knees is a method of ascent not uncommonly seen among infants who are just learning the mysteries and perplexities of ambulation, but fortunately it is seldom that those of mature years have to resort to such means of progress. Mrs. J. C. Chapman, a well known resident of Mansfield, Mass., says that she once tried it and failed, and that others may be deterred from a similar experience it is perhaps worth while to give her experience. Mrs. Chapman now walks as upright as any one, and gives this account of her attempt:

"I was perfectly helpless with an attack of acute rheumatism, and was all doubled up. I could not sit upright even long enough to eat a meal. I tried once to go up stairs on my hands and knees, but failed. After taking everything recommended by my friends, and not getting the least benefit from anything, I despaired of ever getting around again. I had lost all hope of being cured when, like a gleam of light, Athlophoros was recommended to me by a friend who had used it with entire success. I took it and have never been troubled with rheumatism since, now three years. I can cheerfully recommend Athlophoros to any body suffering with rheumatism, for I know from experience that it will make a complete and permanent cure."

From J. A. Crane & Co., prominent druggists of Orange, Mass., comes this statement of a case that came under their observation:

"Mr. Shubel Briggs, of this place, has bought Athlophoros of us. He stated to us to-day that his wife before taking it could not move herself in bed, as she was suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism. After taking a few doses of Athlophoros she could move easily, and before two bottles were finished she had recovered completely and has not been troubled since. Mr. Briggs himself, who was troubled with stiffness in the joints, used some of the Athlophoros and experienced decided relief."

Charles H. Minchew, of Taunton, tells this story of his wife's cure, which was not unlike that of Mrs. Briggs:

"My wife had been afflicted with rheumatism for some time, and I employed a doctor who failed to do her any good. I happened to see Athlophoros advertised and concluded to get and try it. It worked like a charm, curing my wife completely, and I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. George H. Sorgens is foreman of the cloth room of the Flint mill, Flint Village, Fall River, Mass. He lives at No. 140 County Street, Fall River. Of his wife's case he says:

"My wife was treated by four different doctors for a severe case of neuralgia of six years' standing. Her sufferings were terrible and the physicians could not allay them, though using the most powerful medicines all the time. As she was getting worse and worse I bought a bottle of Athlophoros, and that brought the first and only relief my wife had. Now she can attend to her household affairs and other duties as though she had never experienced the tortures of that dread disease, neuralgia. When Athlophoros can be had at the nearest drug store nobody should suffer from neuralgia or rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once, from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

IN THE LONE WOOD.

"I knew by the smoke that so gracefully curled
Above the green elms that a cottage was near,
And I said, "If there's peace to be found in the world,
A heart that was humble might hope for it here."

It was noon, and on flowers that languish'd around
In silence repos'd the voluptuous bee;
Ev'ry leaf was at rest, and I heard not a sound
But the woodpecker tapping the hollow beech tree.

And "Here in this lonely little wood," I exclaimed,
"With a maid who was lovely to soul and to eye,
Who would blush when I prais'd her, and weep if I blam'd,
How blest could I live and how calm could I die!"

By the shade of yon sumach, whose red berry dips
In the gush of the fountain, how sweet to recline,
And to know that I sigh'd upon innocent lips,
Which had never been sigh'd on by any but mine. —Moore.

MY FIRST SITTER.

I had emerged from the Slade school after several years of art study, which chiefly consisted of drawing and painting the human form in every conceivable position. One day I made up my mind to go and worship at the shrine of the old masters in the National gallery, to see if these high priests could inspire and rekindle in me the sacred fire that was dying out. I wandered through that temple of art, filled with awe and wonder at the magnificent works that surrounded me. Yes; I would try to copy one these chefs-d'œuvre, whichever of them just then most struck my fancy. I found it difficult to decide; at last I fixed on the portrait of Andrea del Sarto, painted by himself; the melancholy, handsome face with the sad eyes fascinated me; of all this splendid collection it was the portrait that attracted me most.

I began to paint. I soon became conscious of the presence of some one behind me, and through the corners of my eyes I saw clumsy pair of muddy boots evidently belonging to the masculine gender. The wearer of the boots coughed; it was not a big cough, but a series of little husky sounds that irritated me. I longed for him to choke and expire on the spot; if he were to remain much longer I felt I must certainly inflict some stains of paint on his person.

"Admirable, beautiful!" exclaimed a voice with a Scotch intonation.

I turned round, my face flushing. Was this individual making fun of my efforts, or was he in earnest? If the latter, then he must in art matters be an ignoramus.

I beheld a stout, elderly man, with a red, jovial countenance; a large vermillion nose, with a couple of buds of noses springing from the main stem, looking as if later on they might develop into other full-grown noses; his small blue eyes twinkled pleasantly; his whiskers were gray, long and bushy—the old Piccadilly weeper. He was attired in a tweed, heather-colored suit, and looked like a Scotch tourist out on a holiday.

"Excuse me for interrupting you," he exclaimed, taking off his hat, and displaying a bald head with a fringe of gray hair that stood erect; "but I cannot refrain from expressing my admiration of your clever work. Already I like it better than the original; it is not so dark, and it is smoother; you are a gifted lassie. Now, would you mind undertaking a portrait? I am rather desirous to have my old phiz painted for my only relation, a sister who lives in America."

I was so taken back by the suddenness of this request that I could scarcely answer; I had never before received a commission.

"I have never painted a portrait," I muttered, leaning on my mahl-stick, palette and brushes in hand; "but I've been studying art for several years."

"Well, will you make beginning with me?"

"What size portrait would you like? Head and shoulders, or one with the hands included?"

"Down as far as the knees," he answered, stroking his trowsers. "While I am about it, I may as well go in for a big picture. Now, business is business; may I ask what your terms are for a portrait? I wish I was younger and better-looking, but that is no fault of mine;" he said this with a genial smile which improved his plain countenance.

"My terms for a portrait? Allow me to consider."

"Yes, take your time. I've been looking round the gallery, and I really don't much like the old masters—they are so dark. Now, just look at this old woman by Rembrandt. I am sure you paint better than that. Your work is nice and smooth and shiny; this is thick and dull. My picture must be smooth, shiny, with a clean white shirt, and all my ornaments neatly painted; my coral studs, and"—taking off a bright yellow kid glove—"this ring; it is a carbuncle with associations. I want it painted—in fact, represent me just as I am, so that all my friends may know me."

I felt this picture would give me trouble, and never could enhance my artistic reputation. But I was an orphan with small means; and this Scotchman looked prosperous.

"If you wish the hands included, it will be 60 guineas." I said this with aplomb

What Locality is Exempt

From malaria? In city and suburb, village and hamlet, in the mining districts of the west, the bottom lands of the south, in regions teeming with the fruits of husbandry, in trackless wastes inhabited by half naked savages, it exists. But travellers, sojourners, old settlers, all who are liable to it can uproot from the system the diseases to which it gives birth, or prevent them, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake are each and all overcome by this potent and searching specific. It is not less efficacious for liver complaint, dyspepsia and costiveness, ailments not unfrequently complicated with malarial attacks. Rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and a want of vital strength, are also remediable by its persistent use. Appetite and sleep, always seriously impaired by the nervous disturbance and biliousness consequent upon fever and ague, are invariably restored by the bitters.

Near St. John, N. B., April 30th, John Wood, sixty years of age, with his nine-year-old son, tried to ford the Nerepsis stream with a span of horses. They were carried away by the swollen current, and both drowned.

To WALLACE HACKETT, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Rockingham, and State of New Hampshire:

The subscribers, owners of one-twentieth part of the stock and property of the Jennings Machine Company, a Corporation existing under the laws of the State of New Hampshire, represent that said Corporation failed to hold its annual meeting for the present year. They therefore request you to call a meeting of the members of said Corporation to be held at the office of William H. Hackett, in Portsmouth, in said County of Rockingham, on Tuesday, the 18th day of May, A. D., 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, then and there for the purpose of acting upon the following subjects:

1. To choose a chairman to preside over and in said meeting.

2. To choose such number of Directors as may be determined, also a Clerk, Treasurer, Manager, President and all other officers of said Corporation.

3. To see if the Corporation will vote to change the By-Laws so that any or all the above-named officers may be chosen either by the Corporation at an annual meeting or at any adjournment thereof, or by the Board of Directors, and to vote to pass and enact By-Laws providing for the mode of choosing the above-named officers or any officer of the Corporation.

4. To see if the Corporation will vote to close the affairs of the Corporation and dispose of the property and assets of the Corporation, or to take any steps or pass any votes relative to winding up the affairs of the Corporation and selling its property, placing the same in the hands of a committee or a Trustee for the purpose of the distribution of the property and assets and dividing the net proceeds to and among the several shareholders, or disposing of the same as may be deemed reasonable and proper.

5. To transact any other business which may properly come before the meeting.

6. To see if the Corporation will vote to fix the amount of the present assets to and among said stockholders in proportion to the number of shares held by them respectively, and to fix upon and determine the time and mode of such division and how and when it shall be made.

Biliousness

is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, offensive breath, coated tongue, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may result. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

Walter Mountain, an eight-year-old boy of Providence, R. I., who was tried a few days ago for setting fire to valuable wood land, was on Friday last caught setting a brush fire, which was soon beyond control, and burned over 150 acres of land, consuming wood valued at over $1,000.

To The Pure

All things are pure. Life is too short to waste with adulterations. The best is always cheapest. Adulterated liquors are the abuse of a good thing. The G. O. Labor Matters.

About 600 men employed in Allison's car works at Philadelphia were paid off at noon on Saturday, with the notice that their services were no longer required. The men had obtained an increase in wages, and struck for more.

On Saturday five thousand employes at Ferrillard's tobacco factory in Jersey City resolved to strike.

The Woodburn-Sarven Wheel company at Indianapolis, Ind., have shut down their works, rather than grant the advance in wages asked by their employes.

About 4,000 workmen connected with the building trades in Boston left work on Monday. At Worcester, Mass., all the masons and their laborers struck for higher pay. The 100 employes of the Somersworth stove foundry at Salmon Falls, N. H., struck for higher pay and fewer hours, and the foundry was closed.

Carpenters at Malden, Mass., have had their wages increased to to $2.60 per day, and will now strive for eight hours.

Knights of Labor in Troy, N. Y., have purchased from the state for $18,800 the old armory building. The knights number, male and female, at least 10,000.

Archbishop Tashereau of Montreal has issued a pastoral denouncing the Knights of Labor, and prohibiting Catholics in the Dominion from joining or remaining in the order. All the Canadian bishops will issue similar pastorals.

The Fishermen's Regatta.

The crack fishing schooners had a race on Saturday off Boston harbor for a $100 silver cup, offered by Commodore J. Malcolm Forbes; a $100 cash prize, given by the same gentleman, and other prizes taken up by subscription among yachtsmen and merchants interested in the fishing industry. The contest was the first of the kind ever sailed in these waters, and brought out a fleet of noble boats; the course was thirty-three miles in length, as follows: From Boston light to Davis ledge, off Minot's light (seven miles); thence to Half Way rock (fourteen miles), back to starting point (twelve miles). The following schooners were entered for the race:

Name.	Tonnage.
Sarah H Prior, Capt Tom McLaughlin	97
John H McManus, Capt John O'Brien	105
Gertie Winsor, Capt Maurice Powers	73
William Emerson, Capt Batty Whelan	81
Belle J Neal, Capt John Driscoll	96
Julia E Whelan, Capt Sirie Whelan	97
Hattie I Phillips, Capt Edward J Plunkett	94
Emily P Wright, Capt James Carney	90
Edith Emery, Capt Patrick Sullivan	79
William Parnell, O'Hara, Capt Thomas Connell	90
Hesper, Capt George Lawlor	94
A E Herrick	108

By express agreement the Hesper (pilot boat) and A. E. Herrick competed only for the cup offered by Commodore Forbes. At 12:30 o'clock all the schooners were on hand, and at 12:50 the signal was given for a flying start, each boat being allowed ten minutes to cross the line. When the whistle was blown the fleet was heading for the stake boat, all being on the starboard tack. The wind was light, and the vessels did not have much way on. The vessels crossed the starting line as follows:

	H.	M.	S.
Pilot boat Hesper	1	0	17
John H McManus	1	0	25
Sarah H Prior	1	1	13
Edith Emery	1	1	29
William Parnell O'Hara	1	1	40
Hattie I Phillips	1	2	05
William Emerson	1	2	05
Gertie S Winsor	1	2	05

The Emily P. Wright and the Belle J. Neal did not cross the line, but went to leeward of it, the skippers evidently not understanding which way to sail over it. All carried mainsail, foresail, maingaff topsail, staysail, jib and flying jib. The wind was very moderate over the entire course. The McManus and Hesper had a hot contest to see which would get to windward, and the struggle was won by the McManus which soon had a good lead over the rest of the fleet. The pilot boat, however, began crawling up to the McManus, and at the end of a mile the two flyers were abreast. The Hesper then sailed away and turned Half-way rock at 4:33:32, and started for home with the wind just forward the beam. She went along nicely, drawing away all the time from the McManus. The latter held second place and rounded Half-way rock at 5:00:27. The Prior was third, at 5:10:45; Neal fourth, at 5:22:30; Winsor, Wright and Parnell in a bunch at 5:32:15. The Emerson was well astern of the above and came about and stood for home without turning the stake. The vessels, after rounding Half-way rock, all stood on the port tack, the Hesper showing the fleet the way, and crossing the line a winner at 5:52:12, the McManus being over four miles astern. The McManus crossed the line over two miles ahead of the Prior, the other vessels being behind the Prior over a mile.

The Forbes cup goes to the Hesper, by the terms of Commodore Forbes' gift—"to be awarded to the captain of the vessel that crosses the finish line first." The money prizes all go to the fishermen.

Following is the summary of the race:

Craft.	Davis ledge. h. m. s.	Half-way rock. h. m. s.	Finish. h. m. s.
Hesper	2 39 42	4 33 36	5 52 15
McManus	2 52 47	5 00 27	6 31 00
Prior	3 03 32	5 10 45	6 46 00
Winsor	3 06 00	5 22 30	6 53 30
Neal	3 02 41	5 22 32	6 57 00
Phelps	3 07 28	5 22 33	.....
Emery	3 12 31	5 22 49	.....
Wright	3 15 45	5 32 32	.....
Emerson	3 25 30	.....	.....
O'Hara	3 25 30	.....	.....

Many prominent yatchsmen witnessed the regatta, and it is proposed to make the "Fishermen's race" an annual feature of the nautical sports of Boston.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

Col. Winthrop N. Dow is to erect a fine residence for his own occupancy on the lot in Front street, Exeter, whereon for many years stood the house occupied by the family of the late Major Waddy Vine Cobbs. Major Cobbs was a native of Virginia, and entered the United States army as an ensign in August, 1813. At the close of the war of 1812 he was retained in the service in the 8th infantry, and was promoted to be captain in 1819, and made a major in 1838. Ten years after that he died at Exeter. Around the hospitable board of Mrs. Cobbs gathered, in times past, many well-cared-for guests. During the sessions of the court at Exeter, lawyers from Portsmouth and elsewhere found here a far better bill of fare than the Swamscot could boast of. County Treasurer Dow enjoys a salary of three hundred dollars per year, and receives about a hundred thousand dollars for which he is accountable. The duties of the office require him to pay the jurors and witnesses for the state, at the terms of the court, and one would infer the official earned all his salary. But the county is liberal in financial matters. It allows a generous balance to remain in the "treasury," which is a synonym for the treasurer's pocket, and in this way the official is liable to turn an honest penny for himself. The temptation to handle the county's money proved too much for a former treasurer, and when the office, by the misfortune of this predecessor, became vacant, Mr. Dow was appointed by the court to fill the unexpired term, and at the succeeding election of county officers was chosen treasurer. The treasurer gives a large bond, and is responsible for a very considerable sum of money. For this responsibility no adequate compensation is paid, and the county is exceedingly fortunate in being able to avail itself of the services of a man of Col. Dow's integrity and ability in this important position.

It is announced that the historic Wentworth mansion at Little harbor has been bought by Mr. J. T. Coolidge 3d, an artist of Boston.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEER, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

EASTERN RAILROAD MEETING.

The Eastern railroad company's adjourned annual meeting was called together again in Boston at noon on Saturday, but as the decision of the Massachusetts supreme court relative to the validity of the election of the directors at the first meeting has not yet been given, another adjournment was voted.

The stockholders' train when it left this city Saturday morning for Boston had fourteen passenger coaches and two engines, and "standing room only" was the announcement long before Boston was reached; yet it is a fact, albeit a remarkable one, that of all the hundreds of "stockholders" who attended the meeting from this city, we were unable to find one who could remember where or at what hour the meeting was held, or what was done at the meeting, or indeed whether there had been a meeting at all.

From other sources we learn that the next meeting of the Eastern railroad corporation in the Boston dry goods stores will take place on Thursday, the 20th inst., that being the date to which adjournment was taken.

THE ORPHANS' HOME.

Hon. John D. Lyman of Exeter is to be in town this week for the purpose of endeavoring to obtain donations in money in aid of the New Hampshire Orphans' Home, located on the Webster farm in Franklin. There is of course no doubt that this institution has accomplished great good in our state. There have been expended $17,000 to secure and improve the place, and since the founding of the Home in October, 1871, it has cared for over 400 orphan children. There are several children waiting in like manner to be cared for, and the proper reception, clothing, educating and protecting these deserving wards of the state is dependent upon contributions now sought to that end.

There are various ways in which the proper consideration of the claims of this deserving charity can be brought home to our people. Mr. Lyman has been invited to be present at a meeting on Wednesday evening, when he will have an opportunity to inform the Portsmouth people as to the wants and capabilities of this worthy, tax-saving charity.

It seems that if a local interest could be developed in behalf of the claims of the Home, similar to that always evinced in regard to kindred charities and reformatory efforts, there would be little doubt that the result would prove worthy of the endeavor, and in keeping with the heretofore customary characteristics of our residents in these respects.

THE COUNTY BUILDING.

Ex-Gov. Bell has headed a petition addressed to the county commissioners, concerning the condition of the building at Exeter, wherein are the records of the deeds and the courts of Rockingham county. The present building when erected may have been regarded as sufficient for all then contemplated purposes, but the records of a county of the size of ours, incorporated in 1771, require as the years roll by more extended space.

The defect in the present structure is its want of proper ventilation. The building seems to have been built without a proper space for air beneath its first story, and there is a dampness pervading the vaults where the records are now crowded, which is injurious alike to the health of the officials and clerks in the building, and to the records. The commissioners are asked to take proper measures to remedy this evil. Just what can be done in the premises is not suggested. The probate office needs enlarging. The records concerning estates so often going through this office have become quite extensive, and more space is needed for their proper custody. Annexed to the room in which the records are kept should be a small room where the probate court should held its sessions.

What is needed in the building is air, with light, sunshine and space. The site of the building is a convenient one, and its surroundings such that the risk of fire communicating from adjoining premises is not great. But there is needed an improved mode of preserving the records and papers of the courts and the registry of deeds. It is possible that the building might be raised, and in the newly made basement proper heating apparatus be placed, which would render the offices what they should be. At all events, something must be done to place the building in a proper condition. It contains the public records of the earliest conveyances in the state, as well as the oldest wills and legal documents. All such records and papers should be most carefully preserved and faithfully looked after, and we trust the commissioners, countenanced by the request of the leading residents of the county who are familiar with the necessities of this structure, will take proper steps to transmit to posterity these ancient records and papers which form an important part of the early history of our state.

"A HOOP OF GOLD."

Of "A Hoop of Gold," the spectacular drama to be given at Music hall this evening, the New York Tribune says: "This play is highly dramatic, and startling situations follow each other so close that the audience have not time to weep with the heroine before they are called upon to laugh at the low comedian." The News, "The play is an interesting and popular one, the cast good and the scenery very fine." The Telegram, "A decided success." The Sun, "A glorious melo-drama—the plot consistent, scenery beautiful and appropriate, and company most excellent." The Boston Transcript, "An unusually good play, and a pronounced success." The Globe, "A strong play and handsomely staged, all the scenery new, and stage effects and mechanism of the highest order."

The comedy parts are said to be much more prominent and important than is ordinarily the case in spectacular plays. Reserved seat tickets at Goodrich's.

The flag staff on the premises of Mrs. James F. Jenness, Hanover street, was taken down on Monday by Mr. Eugene A. Sanborn, having become so decayed as to be considered unsafe.

Col. Sise Engine Co., No. 2, at the monthly meeting on Monday evening, voted $50 in aid of the erection of a Soldiers' and Sailors' monument.

A heavy and valuable gold ring, belonging to a young lady of Newington employed in this city, and inscribed with her name, was picked up on Monday morning at the railroad station by Mr. Elbridge M. Riley, night watchman there, and by him restored to the owner.

Hon. Daniel Marcy arrived home from the south on Monday.

Misses. Marston and Flagg and Mr. Sweet have been invited to give class exercises at the Teachers' Institute to be held here on the 13th and 14th insts.

Fence Viewer A. Shaw Waldron on Monday made an official tour of the city, and did it in a style becoming an official of the municipality when on duty, being driven around in a top buggy by Mr. Tom. McCue of Newington, the motive power being an ox which Mr. McCue recently got in trade of a colored lady of Kittery Point for an old white horse. The colored lady, who is employed in some capacity at the officers' quarters on the navy yard, is said to be the happy possessor of a white husband, whose principal occupation for some time has appeared to be the transportation of his better half to and from the yard daily, driving this ox; so the animal is thoroughly broken to harness. How he acts under the saddle is not stated.

At a trial of steam fire engines No. 2, No. 3 and No. 4, Monday evening, to see which could get thirty pounds of steam quickest, No. 2 was ahead, showing the specified pressure in seven minutes from the start. Good for Michael Henry.

Woodbury T. Langdon, a destitute child, was recently taken from our streets by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, who upon application to Hon. John D. Lyman of Exeter, a trustee of the New Hampshire Orphan's Home, secured the the boy's admission to that admirable institution.

Elvin S. Newton was in the city last week, making purchases for his fish market at Manchester. Daniel Clark forwarded to Mr. Newton on Monday by rail 2,000 lbs. of fresh fish.

The Agamenticus teams are becoming frisky. Not many days ago a load of baskets went from the parade up Congress street—many of them went out into the street—at a furious rate, as far as the academy; and early Saturday morning there was another runaway, this time on Market street, a charcoal wagon colliding with a heavy cart. Both shafts of the collier were broken, and the steed, clearing himself from the wreck, started to go it alone for a time, but was soon stopped.

Mr. Augustus Shapley of Eliot is bringing in to G. & J. W. Stott asparagus raised in the open air.

The schooner boat Harrie M. Young, of Cape Neddick, has made two trips from that port to Gloucester this spring, loaded with potatoes. Monday morning she arrived at Sise's wharf, and loaded with grain for the York merchants, and drain pipe for George Sampson. She is run by Charles O. Freeman, master, and Walter Matthews, his mate, and will now be repainted and refitted, preparatory to taking out excursions and fishing parties from York harbor and beach during the summer, at which business she has been employed for the past five beach seasons, very successfully.

Capt. Philpot's gondola, the Edgar A. Weston, is engaged in carrying lumber from Call's lumber yard to Pocacontas point, for the completion of the hotel stable, and building the wharf.

Alewives are running up the river to Exeter and Newmarket.

Twine was being placed on the Harding weirs at the mouth of the harbor, on Saturday.

Fish are very plentiful off here at present. The boat Hattie F. Weeks, Capt. Joseph B. Haley, brought in on Friday and Saturday of last week 4,500 lbs. to Ed. Jameson. Capt. Tom. Jameson also made successful trips in his boat last week.

Large quantities of lobsters were carried into Boston last week from Nova Scotia. What if the vessels were prohibited from purchasing supplies in the United States?

Again we remind the readers of the Chronicle that one of the best spring medicines is the old reliable Preston's Sarsaparilla.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do one good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. TO CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY, as they will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the delicate lung system. Then it is that the marvellous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begin from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

while feeling like a tradesman.

"Very well, I am willing to give this sum for a good likeness. When shall I come to sit? The sooner the better; I am a bird of passage, and am in London only for a short time."

He fumbled his pocket and handed me his card:

MR DOUGLAS CAMERON,
The Burn, Dumfries.

"I am a farmer, with a good deal of land north of the Tweed. Now, may I ask your name and address?"

As I had no card with me, I wrote in his pocketbook:

MISS WARD,
24 Thistle Grove, South Kensington S. W.

"Can you come to-morrow at 11?"

"All right, in my Sunday best. "Saying this we shook hands, and he waddled briskly out of the room.

Next morning at 11 o'clock punctually there was a loud rat-a-tat-tat at the door. I peeped from behind the curtain in my room, and beheld Mr. Cameron in a very black new suit of clothes standing on the steps. While waiting for the door to be opened, he had taken out a pocket-comb to trim his long whiskers. The housemaid came and handed me his card; her face was puckered up trying to restrain a smile. I had told her I was going to have my first sitter.

"Well, miss, excuse me, but he is no beauty. How can he want to have his picture done with such a red nose? It do astonish me."

He was ushered into my sanctum sanctorum, consecrated to my art studies. It was a nice room, with a north light. There were several good plaster casts from the antique; autotypes from some of the best masters hung on the wall. There were a couple of easels, an oak chair ready for my sitter, and in a corner stood my skeleton.

In welcoming Mr. Cameron my skirt caught the foot of the skeleton, which rattled ominously.

"What a horrible thing, Miss Ward! How can you keep such a terrible bag of bones in your room? It makes my flesh creep, I assure you."

"Have we not all a skeleton in the cupboard?" I answered, smiling gaily. "I keep mine here; it is useful when I draw."

"Would you mind, Miss Ward, taking it away? You may think me foolish, but this skeleton makes me miserable."

"Oh, of course, I will!" And taking it up in my arms, I carried it into the next room.

"Thank you; but rather than that you should think me troublesome, I shall give you a good reason. A few years ago I lost my wife, and then two bairnies"—his voice sank as he said this. "Anything that reminds me much of death is painful, and as you are going to paint my picture, better not to have a miserable expression."

When he talked, I watched his face, and noticed the extreme benevolence of the expression.

SOMETHING FOR EVERY PEOPLE.

How To Get Fat.
(The Falls Medical Bulletin.)

Leanness of the body is a thing to be avoided on the ground that any departure from conditions which are natural must certainly predispose the body to disease. One of the first positive evidences of the development of the conditions which lead to consumption, is the knowledge that the body is throwing off in an undigested form, the fat that is taken into the stomach. This is followed by a loss in quantity and quality of the blood and corresponding loss in flesh. In these cases, there as truly exists consumption (though there may not be necessarily consumption of the lungs at the beginning) as in any case that ever existed.

Lean persons are the only ones who furnish material for the quick development of many ailments. Susceptibility to changes in the weather, feeble digestion, limited strength and energy, nervousness and disturbed sleep, soon lead to some serious disease. Another popular fallacy with lean persons is, that they must necessarily always remain lean because their parents have perhaps shown a tendency of this kind.

These lean persons doubtless inherit a tendency to imperfect action of the digestive functions. For the cure of this difficulty, many medical authorities have agreed that a pure stimulant is the best thing. A stimulant which can be united with all of the best things which enter into an ordinary diet may well be considered a desirable one. This is secured in a pure malt whiskey, as it can be used with milk, eggs and with food at meal time. It is however not only desirable but absolutely necessary to get the best results, that a whiskey known to be free from fusel oil and all other adulterations should be used. The chief difference in stimulants of all kinds is the percentage of alcohol and, by diluting whiskey, which contains the greatest per cent. any percentage can be obtained to suit any taste. The special properties of a pure malt whiskey are not destroyed by being diluted and sweetened, and in this way many persons who cannot use alcohol in any other form, can use Duffy's pure malt whiskey, the discoverers of which are the sole proprietors of absolutely pure malt whiskey free from fusel oil and all adulterations. The company is furnishing constantly an abundance of testimony that by the use of their whiskey taken three times a day at meals, a marked, constant and permanent increase in weight has been obtained by persons suffering from leanness, supposed to be unsusceptible to any other agency.

Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic for correcting irregularities of the stomach and bowels. Gentle, yet thorough in their action they cure constipation, stimulate the appetite and digestive organs, and strengthen the system.

Almost the entire business portion of the town of Keystone, Ia., was destroyed by fire last Thursday night.

That feeling of weariness, so often experienced in the spring, results from a sluggish condition of the blood, which being impure does not quicken with the changing season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by vitalizing and cleansing the blood, strengthens and invigorates the system.

Ely's Cream Balm has cured me of catarrh of several years standing. I have recovered my sense of taste and smell. The Balm has no equal as a cure. Frank C. Ogden, Elizabeth, N. J. Apply with finger.

After using a large number of preparations for catarrh, I have become satisfied that of them all Ely's Cream Balm gives me the most relief. I can recommend it to any one who may have catarrh, cold in the head or hay fever.—S. B. Lewis, Principal Graded School, Clinton, Wis. Easy to use. Price 50 cents.

In Philadelphia the employes of the brewers are again content. They have settled the difficulties, and are to be allowed to guzzle all the beer they can take. The average of each man is from twenty to thirty glasses of beer each day. The thirst of course is increased in proportion to the amount drank.

Take Warning

And don't let the germs of that vile disease, catarrh, take root and flourish in your system. Sulphur Bitters will prevent this and will make you strong and healthy.—Editor Weekly Press.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHT PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases it has produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 90 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, continues to be the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built cars of the latest approved pattern as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical management of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Here connection is made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and Belleville, Ontario. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, health resorts, lake cities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most popular route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

In response to a call about 200 citizens and veterans met in the capitol at Albany, N. Y., last Thursday night, to protest against the ovation given to Jefferson Davis at Montgomery, Ala., and against the disloyal sentiments there uttered.

James J. Mitchell, Supt. Stone Dept. New Capital at Albany, N. Y., writes "315 Lark Street, June 25, 1885. I have been using Allock's Porous Plaster on my own person and in my family for the last thirty years. I deem it a matter of duty to bear public testimony to their exceeding usefulness as an external remedy. Placed upon the pit of the stomach, they warm and tone the digestive organs. On the small of the back, they give vigor to the nervous system, and act as a wonderful diuretic. I think in all cases of dyspepsia they should be worn both on the back and on the pit of the stomach. In this way they act as a stimulus to the whole system."

Alexander Rebolla, an Italian, and John Hifeman, a German, had a quarrel at Chicago, and Rebolla fired several shots at his antagonist. One ball accidentally hit a son of Rebolla, inflicting a fatal wound. After exclaiming "I shot my boy," Rebolla entered his house and shot himself, dying instantly.

The simplest and far the best regulator of the disordered liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, etc.; prevent and cure constipation and piles; remove sallowness and pimples from the complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

The casualties in the late bloody raid by Apaches, in Arizona, as far as is known to date, include nineteen killed and several wounded. One girl was taken prisoner by the Indians. A vast amount of property was destroyed and a great number of animals were carried off.

A Public Benefaction.

How to launder linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Virgin Salt is the cleanest, purest and whitest salt ever seen or used. A large package costs only ten cents.

McCLELLAN AND BURNSIDE.

The recent death of General McClellan leaves but few living of those unfortunate commanders who found themselves unequal to the great responsibilities placed upon them during the civil war. Burnside, Hallack, "Fighting Joe" Hooker, and others, had passed away before him, honored by the nation they had served, after having lived down the hostile criticism their official acts had excited. Equal justice will be done to General McClellan, and a true estimate of his abilities as an organizer and a soldier will be recorded. In his political ambition the genial Burnside was far more successful than his old commander, and death found him a senator from Rhode Island. McClellan might have been a cabinet officer but for factional quarrels in New Jersey which made his appointment inexpedient.

Rhode Island's devotion to her handsome senator illustrates a happy characteristic of the smallest State which still distinguishes her. General Burnside was not a native of "Little Rhody"—having come east from Indiana—but he had the right timber in him, and was made governor and afterward senator of his adopted State. The same spirit may be seen in her citizens to-day in their hearty reception of that which will be of benefit to them. A case in point is that of Mr. John A. Bishop, of Central Falls, R. I., who tells this story:

"For eighteen years I suffered with neuralgia and never got any relief until I took Athlophoros. After that had cured me of the disease I became afflicted with sciatic rheumatism, for which I was treated by two doctors. Neither of them did me any good, in fact I grew worse under their treatment. Again I began taking Athlophoros, and, strange as it may seem, relief came almost instantly. The pain abated so that I was able to get around in less than three days, and as I daily grew stronger the rheumatism left me altogether."

Mrs. S. T. Goss, of No. 42 Dudley Street, Providence, can confirm this seemingly wonderful cure out of her own experience. She says:

"For thirty years I suffered with muscular rheumatism, during which time I used every known remedy and all sorts of prescriptions from physicians. At times I would gain a little relief, but only for a short period, after which the disease would attack me with renewed violence. It was while I was suffering one of these very severe attacks that a friend spoke to me of the wonders Athlophoros was doing and advised me to try it. I did get a bottle and in two days after beginning to use it was on my feet. Athlophoros is now kept in my house and is looked upon as indispensable. It is the greatest preparation I ever knew of and will cure rheumatism just as it is claimed it will do."

Mr. J. D. Payne, one of the most prominent citizens of Westville, Ct., where he has pleasant home on Fountain street, is outspoken in his praise of Athlophoros.

"I did not think there was any cure for rheumatism," he says, "but I am pleased to say that there is and that it is Athlophoros. Three doses of it cured my wife of rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it, express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

MY FIRST SITTER.

That day, seeing the piano opened, he asked me, as a great favor, to play for him.

"I shall sing 'Highland Mary' for you."

He sat behind me, but, as there was a looking glass in front of me, I could see his face, and was surprised at the strong emotion it betrayed. His face grew almost white, while tears stood in his blue eyes.

"Ah, lassie!" he exclaimed, "what a treat to hear you sing! You have the voice of an angel!"

I sang "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon."

The handkerchief was in constant requisition. I heard him sob out loud.

"You have moved me, lassie, to the core. I can not stand any more; it brings back too strongly the days of auld lang syne, so you must pity the sorrows of a poor old man."

He left me, looking greatly agitated, and with red eyes, promising to return in a couple of days at the same hour for a three hours' sitting.

When Mr. Cameron came for his sitting, he noticed that I seemed dejected, and asked if anything had happened to annoy me.

"I have a headache." (What would we poor women do without our headaches, for they cover such a multitude of sins and omissions?)

"You worry yourself too much over this portrait. I feel ashamed of the trouble I am giving you. I had no notion that portrait-painting was so difficult."

"Yes; I am in a Slough of Despond." I scraped and scumbled. After an hour's work.

On leaving that day, Mr. Cameron held my hand longer than usual, and sighed.

Poor old man! I felt sorry for him; he was lonely.

The next day being Thursday, I went to the National gallery and set to work on my copy of Andrea del Sarto; his face seemed more beautiful than ever. That day's work refreshed and comforted me.

That evening I received a letter from Harold, telling me that he had something important! Most probably he was going to have a living, and, if so, our marriage would soon take place.

The next morning a magnificent bouquet of roses was left at the door for Miss Ward.

"How nice of dear Harold to be so thoughtful!" I mentally exclaimed, while sniffing the glorious roses and enjoying the bright feast of color. The bouquet was wrapped in silver lace, and round the stem I saw for the first time a card, which had escaped my notice:

"From Mr. Donald Cameron, with his very kindest regards."

Oh, so it was not from Harold! But how kind of Mr. Cameron! Now, I must really flatter him. Taking up the portrait, I did my very best to put in a benevolent expression. I mellowed down the nose, and toned down the warm coloring of the face, and managed, in a measure, to give the expression of benevolence.

When Mr. Cameron appeared again, I fancied he looked thinner and paler. I thanked him for the bouquet.

"Would you like another peep at your portrait?" I said, rather brusquely.

"You have flattered me," he remarked, after watching my performance for a while in silence; "but never mind that, I like to think that you have seen me in such a kindly light."

"Shall I sing for you, Mr. Cameron? You have sat long enough for me today."

I went to the piano, and, while I was looking for some music in the rack, Mr. Cameron sat down on the music stool.

"Are you going to play for me?" I asked, smiling at him. "I should like to hear you so much."

He did not answer, but turned round and round on the stool, mopping the perspiration from his face with a scarlet handkerchief. There was a queer expression on his face; evidently he was suffering from a severe attack of nervousness.

He whirled round and round like a teetotum, the stool creaked and groaned under his heavy weight, his eyes were wild and rolled about fearfully; I heard his voice, but it was so husky I could barely distinguish the following words:

"I am a lonely, elderly man, but that is no reason why I should not have a heart, and I tell you that"—now the stool gave a tremendous squeak—"I love you—yes, I do. Will you give me some hope?" A loud knock at the front door.

"Oh, Mr. Cameron, please don't say anything more on this subject, it is really too painful;" but, before I could say another word, Mr. Cameron was sprawling on the floor; the stool had given way. Harold walked in, and we were locked in each other's arms, but I disengaged myself quickly.

"Oh, Mr. Cameron, I am so sorry! Are you hurt? He has been sitting for his portrait, Harold," I gasped out.

Harold, who was a very shy young man, colored up; he had not noticed the prostrate form almost lying at my feet.

"Oh, allow me to help you; the stool has given way, I see," exclaimed Harold.

I could not look at Mr. Cameron, for I felt how wretchedly ill at ease he must be.

"I am a little faint," he muttered, getting up, "but the fresh air will set me up. I am going—where is my hat?"

I saw the hat; he had put it on the

What Locality is Exempt

From malaria? In city and suburb, village and hamlet, in the mining districts of the west, the bottom lands of the south, in regions teeming with the fruits of husbandry, in trackless wastes inhabited by half naked savages, it exists. But travellers, sojourners, old settlers, all who are liable to it can uproot from the system the diseases to which it gives birth, or prevent them, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake are each and all overcome by this potent and searching specific. It is not less efficacious for liver complaint, dyspepsia and costiveness, ailments not unfrequently complicated with malarial attacks. Rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and a want of vital strength, are also remediable by its persistent use. Appetite and sleep, always seriously impaired by the nervous disturbance and biliousness consequent upon fever and ague, are invariably restored by the bitters.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:—

1st: Because the system is now it its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Labor Matters.

In Chicago, Monday afternoon, over 4000 strikers, most of them foreigners; and many of them wearing the red badge of the anarchists, marched to the McCormick reaper works and attacked the workmen there. The workingmen defended themselves until the police arrived in force, when the mob was beaten back after a hot fight, in which both sides used firearms freely. Four rioters were fatally shot, and probably more; and several policemen were wounded.

The brakemen on the Nebraska division of the Union Pacific railway struck against a reduction of wages on Monday.

At Milford, Mass., all the cigar manufacturers except two small ones, closed on Monday, the employers refusing to accept the union's list of prices.

The master builders of Brockton, Mass., have agreed with the employes on a satisfactory scale of wages.

Five of the Third avenue (New York) railroad strikers have been arrested, charged with a disturbance of the peace in being implicated in a riot. They pleaded not guilty and were remanded for examination.

In Baltimore, on the 2d inst., the car makers and others struck; in Newark, N. J., 900 carpenters; in Jersey City, 2500 machinists, foundrymen, coopers, and silk workers; in Troy, N. Y., the workmen engaged in the building trades; in Milwaukee, 1700 railroad shop men, and many others. It is estimated that on Monday night at least 200,000 men were on strikes throughout the Union.

The congressional committee and the citizens' committee of St. Louis on the 1st inst. met the executive committee of the Knights of Labor at St. Louis with the result that the great strike on the Southwestern (or Gould) system of railroads was declared off on Tuesday morning, May 4th, the striking Knights being directed to apply for re-employment.

Singular Coincidence.

Schooner Jennie R. Morse, from Philadelphia for Boston, was run into and sunk by an unknown steamer on the night of May 1st, off Cape Cod. All hands were saved. She had a cargo of 800 tons of coal.

The Jennie R. Morse was built in Bath, Me., and owned there by B. W. Morse, who was also owner of the schooner Charles H. Morse of Bath, the vessel which is supposed to have sunk the steamer Oregon, and then foundered with all on board.

Frederick Douglass stoutly objects to the criticisms made of the president concerning his removal from the office of recorder. He declares that "there was nothing summary or unpleasant about it" and he has "nothing whatever to complain of." Mr. Cleveland might have removed him at any time, and was under no obligation to him whatever. Instead, he allowed Douglas to set his own time for withdrawing, treated him with every courtesy, and surprised him and his wife by the novelty of invitations to all the grand receptions at the White House.

"I am a republican," adds Mr. Douglass, loyally, "and, if living, shall do all I can to elect a republican in 1888; but I honor manliness wherever I find it, and I found it in President Cleveland, and I should despise myself if I let anybody think otherwise. Whatever else he may be, he is not a snob, and is not a coward."

Several workmen were discharged from the navy yard on Monday, on account of no funds and no work. There were very few men at the yard before this discharge, so there cannot be a great many left. In the joiners' shop of the construction department one-half the working force was discharged; he is a democrat, while the half that was retained is a republican.

A boy sixteen or seventeen years old was on Monday riding a horse at high speed up and down Church street, going back and forth half a dozen times or more. At length he attempted to turn into Warren street, when the horse suddenly stopped, and the boy went flying end-over-end through the air. The boy's face wore a look of astonishment when he arose from the ground, but whether it was at finding himself alive or at being so suddenly dismounted we do not know.

Mr. Robbins was born in East Boston, but left when a young man to go to Rumney in this state. He was afterward settled at Keene, and at East Greenwich, R. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with, many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by the long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

EASTERN RAILROAD IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Gov. Currier called the stockholders of this corporation to order on Tuesday morning, and the call of the meeting was read by Col. Hackett, the clerk.

Mr. E. A. Abbot's report as treasurer was read, showing the balance on hand to be $4193.68, in cash and stock.

On motion of Wallace Hackett, Esq., the meeting proceeded to the choice of directors. The ballots were unanimous for Moody Currier, Dexter Richards, Edward L. Giddings, Edward A. Abbot, William H. Goodwin, Frank A. Philbrick and Samuel C. Eastman, and these gentlemen were declared duly elected.

Col. Hackett offered the following resolutions:

Whereas, since the last annual meeting of this corporation, Hon. Francis Thompson of Boston, who had served as a director in this corporation since July, 1876, has deceased, be it

Resolved that the members of this corporation are sensible of the loss of an energetic and faithful member of the board of directors, always ready to serve the corporation with signal ability and devotion to its interests.

Resolved, that the clerk be directed to transmit to the family of the deceased a copy of the above resolutions.

The meeting then was adjourned.

The directors subsequently met and re-elected Hon. Moody Currier president, and Col. William H. Hackett clerk.

CORPORATION MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the New England Malt Co. was held at the Kearsarge house in this city on the 14th inst., and a full report of the past year's business was presented by the treasurer. A board of directors consisting of John W. Free, Isaac S. Morse, L. B. Lyman and Andrew Wiggin was elected to serve for the ensuing year.

Subsequently at a directors' meeting the following officers were elected: John W. Free, president; Isaac S. Morse, vice president; Andrew Wiggin, treasurer; H. A. Tarlton, secretary; L. B. Lyman, clerk of the directors.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The May term of the Circuit court of the United States will commence in this city on the 8th inst. Judge Colt is expected to be present on the 11th inst., on which day the jurors are summoned to appear.

WORK IN THE NAVY YARDS.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Revive Operations at Boston: Poor Prospect for Work at This Station.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says:

A great effort is making to have the Boston navy yard reopened, and work done there. Several delegations have been here to urge it, but the prospect is rather dubious. Congressman Lovering is pushing in that direction at the navy department, with the idea that if the yard should start up it would make some votes for him this fall, but in this hope he is likely to be disappointed. At the department this yard is regarded as probably the second best of those belonging to the government. It has, next to that at Brooklyn, the most complete outfit of any, and Commodore Wilson, chief of the bureau of construction, says that with a few thousand dollars spent for modern tools it could build and fully equip, outside of armament, a modern steel cruiser. Besides, the best class of artisans has gathered about its walls, waiting patiently for work to be resumed in the yard, but apparently with small prospects of seeing their wishes gratified.

As matters stand now, congress has been asked to repair the dry dock and vote money for new tools. It is doubtful if either suggestion is acted upon, for they involve the plan of reopening the yard. But reopen it for what? Building steel ships, they say at the department. As it happens, there are none such to be built. The four cruisers now approaching completion are all in private yards, and the four new ones, authorized a year ago, are soon to be submitted to contractors. A recommendation is made, if congress gives another supply of money for more vessels, that half of them shall be constructed at the navy yards. But of late years congress has rather discouraged that idea. Besides, no very large number of steel ships will be voted this session, until the merits of those now under way are better known. So the chances of building steel ships at Boston are so remote that this year will certainly see nothing done in that direction.

As to repairing wooden vessels, the outlook is equally dubious. The last one overhauled there was the Hartford, nearly three years ago. Since then congress ordered the superfluous yards closed, and in obedience to that order those at Boston, League island and Pensacola have since been left idle. Secretary Whitney has the option of sending ships for repair wherever he chooses, but it is doubtful if he can, save upon emergency, reopen these yards without the consent of congress, and the repairing will probably continue to be chiefly done at New York and Norfolk. Not all the yards can be kept open under the present appropriations, and as their amount will not be appreciably increased, the people in Boston who are waiting for work to be started up are likely to be disappointed. Judging by the talk at the department, things will remain then at a standstill for this year at least.

The Portsmouth naval station is, I hear, to be abandoned practically, only keeping there force enough to keep the public property from reverting to the original owners, which would happen if it should be formally given up. All work there is to be suspended.

The Advertiser disposes of the Kittery navy yard as if our democratic friends were putting forth no effort to have it kept up. Either the yard should be totally abandoned, or some provision made for its maintenance. A prolonged state of desuetude until a new administration comes into power is not a happy prospect for our democratic friends, who anticipated so much "when their side got in."

But perhaps the leaders of the party have some plan which has as yet not been made public. It is said that the work at navy yards, by reason of the eight-hour law, has so induced the present derangement as to labor contracts that there is but little prospect of anything being appropriated for navy yards save the smallest sum for guarding the public property. This is a reform administration.

WAS IT THE WRONG MAN?

Mr. Editor. Being on Congress street past nine o'clock on Wednesday evening of last week, I witnessed the piteous spectacle of two policemen leading a drunken man in the direction of the station-house. I could not help thinking they had got the wrong man; the rum-seller who sold the poor man the liquor would have been the right one.

"Stop the cause, and then the crime
Will never have beginning."

How long before the powers that be will learn that there is a prohibitory liquor law in New Hampshire? They allow the illegal sale of liquor, then employ policemen to lead drunkards through the streets. Beautiful picture!

O! rulers, where has thy sacred honor gone! O! democracy, where has thy patriotism fled! THOS. WIGGIN.

PORTSMOUTH, May 3d.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, May 4th.

Rev. Dr. DeLancey was not accidentally injured as reported but was prostrated by a sudden and severe pain in the side while standing on the lawn, two weeks ago last Saturday. Five of these attacks before midnight left little vitality for reaction, but he now seems slowly regaining strength.

Mr. Samuel Lamprey, formerly of Portsmouth, well known as a popular teacher of dancing, has been ill for a few days. But we are glad to see him out again.

There was a John B. Gough memorial meeting in the Methodist church Friday evening, and interesting addresses were made by Rev. Messrs. Fay and Merrill.

Arbor day was well observed in several districts; two rows of pines were planted on Academy street; on passing Lakeview cottage we saw elms just set out that were four inches in diameter at the butt; others set out maples, also several kinds of fruit trees; and improvements were made in the cemetery.

In a certain district of this town the combined weight of eight men is 1700 lbs. avoirdupois.

Mine host Whittier has regained his health, and is able to attend to improvements in and around the Union house.

Our new board of education have admirably organized our public schools, uniting the two schools in the north part of the town, the two in the western part, and the two grammar schools. We now have four primary schools, and one grammar school and the high school in successful operation. ***

The city authorities are doing a long-needed work at the end of Water street nearest Newcastle, and apparently doing it well. The sea wall, as it is relaid, is placed farther out, so that the street at the sharp bend where it turns toward Newcastle is widened twelve feet, the widening being continued in a less degree to the easterly end of the wall, where the increase is four feet. The job is a somewhat costly one, but it required to be done, as the city had long been in danger of having a big bill to pay for some accident consequent on the condition of the street at that point. It is said that the bit of street between the easterly end of the wall and the Newcastle bridge toll-gate will also be widened and straightened.

Messrs. Conner & Trefethen laid about sixteen linear feet of the big sewer on Friday last, and Mr. Shanahan laid a section of about the same length on Sunday.

A portion of the jaws of a whale caught by Capt. Henry Smith of Cape Porpoise, off Mount Desert, is on exhibition in John J. Hill's window at the Spring. Any one looking at it will see that this whale could not have swallowed Jonah, had he been there.

At the adjourned parish meeting of St. John's church, Tuesday evening, officers were elected as follows: Wardens, John Hatch, George B. French; parish clerk, Samuel R. Gardner; treasurer Robert C. Pierce; vestrymen, C. C. Jackson, Daniel L. Stover, W. Freeman, Alfred O. Larkin, H. F. Wendell, John Christie, Timothy A. Tucker, Robert King and Moses H. Goodrich; auditors, H. F. Wendell, C. S. Franklin; delegates to diocesan convention, John Hatch, C. C. Jackson, John Christie, C. S. Franklin.

Rev. Dr. Alden's sermon on temperance, on Sunday evening, was one of the best efforts of this gifted preacher. His portrayal of the evils of intemperance, and its effects upon the individual and the community, was most graphic and startling. The subject was presented with marked ability, and the lecture listened to with the closest attention.

The handsomest awning in town has been put up in front of W. J. Sampson & Co.'s paint, room-paper, curtain and decorative goods store on Daniel street.

Competition between leading manufacturers has resulted in wonderfully low prices in playing cards. This may continue, but many people are burying cards for next winter at Preston's drug store, prices from ninety cents to $6.00 per dozen packs.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicine failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging a large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. To CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health!" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will find out for themselves and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, and a hacking, gone-throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begin from the first application. It is rapid, radical permanent, economical, safe.

coal-scuttle. Evidently he did not know what he was doing.

"Oh, Mr. Cameron, don't go yet," I said; "you have had a shake. This music stool is not in good order. I am so sorry; do stay a little longer."

"No; I must go now, Miss Ward. I have stayed too long; but allow me to congratulate you on your good luck," addressing Harold.

While his back was turned I rescued his hat from the coal-scuttle.

"Now, Mr. Cameron, here is your hat, but I won't give it to you till you tell me when you will kindly come for one more sitting, for I have not done justice to your expression. He has been such a patient sitter!" I remarked, speaking to Harold. "Are we not friends, Mr. Cameron?"

"God bless you both! I wish you every happiness," and, before I knew what he was about, he had pulled his hat from my hand and was on the doorstep.

I never told Harold, or, indeed, any one that Mr. Cameron had proposed to me; I felt grieved and uneasy. Had I been guilty of flirting or misleading in any way that kindly man, who was so lonely? I sincerely hoped he would get some suitable, nice woman to be his wife, for I was almost young enough to be his granddaughter.

A few days after this last episode I received the following note from Mr. Cameron:

"DEAR MISS WARD—I find that I must leave London immediately. There is no necessity for me to give you another sitting, as I am perfectly satisfied with the portrait you have painted of me. I have ordered a Venetian frame and plate-glass for it; the framer will call in a couple of days.

"Please accept the enclosed check for 100 pounds sterling. I don't think 60 pounds sterling could possibly repay you for the trouble and anxiety you have had, and, as you are going to be married, a little money is always useful. If you should have time to spare, I should much like you to accept another commission from me, i. e., a duplicate of the picture you were copying at the National gallery when I first met you; I should like to have it for my drawing-room in Scotland. With my best wishes for your welfare, Yours sincerely,

I sent the copy of Andrea del Sarto to Mr. Cameron. Three months later I was married to Harold, and we went to live in a pretty village in Devonshire. The money I earned from Mr. Cameron was certainly a help, but it is ever with a mixture of pleasure and pain I think of my first sitter. Never since have I been asked to paint a portrait professionally.—Adapted from Henrietta Corkran in Belgravia.

To WALLACE HACKETT, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Rockingham, and State of New Hampshire:

The subscribers, owners of one-twentieth part of the stock and property of the Jennings Machine Company, a Corporation existing under the laws of the State of New Hampshire, represent that said Corporation failed to hold its annual meeting for the present year. They therefore request you to call a meeting of the members of said Corporation to be held at the office of William H. Hackett, in Portsmouth, in said County of Rockingham, on Tuesday, the 18th day of May, A. D., 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, then and there for the purpose of acting upon the following subjects:

1. To choose a chairman to preside over and in said meeting.

2. To choose such number of Directors as may be determined, also a Clerk, Treasurer, Manager, President and all other officers of said Corporation.

3. To see if the Corporation will vote to change the By-Laws so that either of the above-named officers may be chosen either by the Corporation at an annual meeting or at any adjournment thereof or by the Board of Directors, and to vote to pass and enact By-Laws providing for the mode of choosing the above-named officers or any officer of the Corporation.

4. To see if the Corporation will vote to close the affairs of the Corporation and dispose of the property and assets of the Corporation, or to take any steps or pass any vote relative to winding up the affairs of the Corporation and selling its property, placing the same in the hands of a committee or a Trustee for the purpose of such disposition of the property and assets and dividing the net proceeds arising from the sale of the property, or disposing of the same as may be deemed reasonable and proper.

5. To transact other business which may properly come before the meeting.

6. To see if the Corporation will vote to divide any and what portion of its present assets to and among its stockholders in proportion to the number of shares held by them respectively, and to fix upon and determine the time and mode of such division and how and when it shall be made.

PORTSMOUTH, April 27, 1886.

THOMAS S. NOWELL, 370,
JOHN A. BROWN, 350,
HENRY N. BIGELOW, 200.

The State of New Hampshire, Rockingham, ss.

To THOMAS S. NOWELL of Boston, in the County of Suffolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

Whereas, application has been made to me, Wallace Hackett, a Justice of the Peace for said County of Rockingham, as above—

You are therefore required to warn a meeting of said Corporation to be held at the time and place and for the purposes mentioned in said application by publishing a copy of said application and this warrant ten days at least in the same manner as is provided for warning the annual meeting of said Corporation, and make return of this warrant at said time and place of meeting.

WALLACE HACKETT,
Justice of the Peace.

The Boston Post, in a sensible article upon capital and labor, suggests that "it is about time that it be conceded that there are men on both sides of this labor controversy; that there is plenty of hardship, poverty, and insufficient return on the side of the employers as well as the employed. This world is a pretty fair one, but it is full of trouble, unrequited effort, misfortune, and grief, and the men who work with their hands need not by any means claim a monopoly of it."

We clip the following from the Portland Advertiser; "At Old Orchard last summer, a lady who spends her winters in Boston became very much pleased with a gentleman who was a guest in the same hotel as herself, and paid her marked attention. The friendship, however, died out with the season, and the lady supposed the gentleman had returned to Philadelphia. The other morning she ordered her breakfast served in her room at the Boston hotel where she stays, and when she opened the door to let the waiter in, there stood her handsome friend of the summer. It was an awkward position for both, and explanations were impossible, but the lady did not offer him a tip. On his part he bowed with all his usual grace, deposited the tray and went out, leaving her not only her breakfast but food for reflection."

"I have used your Athlophoros for rheumatism and will say that less than a bottle entirely cured me, taken as soon as I began to feel the pain," is the testimony of John S. Sampson, of Taunton, Mass., to Athlophoros' many virtues.

The ice left Mooselead lake May 2d, and the steamboat passed between Kineo and Greenville.

Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic for correcting irregularities of the stomach and bowels. Gentle, yet thorough in their action they cure constipation, stimulate the appetite and digestive organs, and strengthen the system.

John Feerick, who was accidentally shot by David Walsh in a saloon Saturday night, at Fall River, Mass., died Sunday morning.

That feeling of weariness, so often experienced in the spring, results from a sluggish condition of the blood, which being impure does not quicken with the changing season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by vitalizing and cleansing the blood, strengthens and invigorates the system.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relations to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important and continental link in that system of through transportation which unites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, smooth track of a continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that careful discretion and judgment which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are therefore at all times conceded by the Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Palace Equipment.

The Best Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite link between Chicago and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Minnesota points, and is made its Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Dominions. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Northern Iowa and Northwest. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and intermediate points.

The very worst cases of rheumatism and neuralgia are speedily cured by St. Jacobs Oil.

At South Hope, Me., three little children procured some pills, and "playing sick," swallowed several of them. One little girl, aged six years, soon died in terrible agony; the others will recover.

The simplest and far the best regulator of the disordered liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, etc.; prevent and cure constipation and piles; remove sallowness and pimples from the complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

L. Howard Billings of Castleton, Vt., shot himself through the head May 4th. Ill health was the cause. He was forty years old.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

The rumor that Secretary Manning intends to leave the cabinet is denied.

Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic for correcting irregularities of the stomach and bowels. Gentle, yet thorough in their action they cure constipation, stimulate the appetite and digestive organs, and strengthen the system.

Lieut. G. Blocklinger is ordered from the Alliance to waiting orders.

That feeling of weariness, so often experienced in the spring, results from a sluggish condition of the blood, which being impure does not quicken with the changing season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by vitalizing and cleansing the blood, strengthens and invigorates the system.

Lieut. G. B. Hunter is ordered from the Saratoga to the Alliance.

Ladies, be very cautious how you tamper with samples of the many vile counterfeits offered you, which may prove very damaging to the fabric and hands; and instead of those similar appearing packages, be sure to get the only harmless article for laundry and kitchen use, the original James Pyle's Pearline, sold by all Grocers.

Lieut. Walter McLean is ordered from the Alliance to temporary duty on the Vermont.

A Beautiful Easter Card.

The Virgin Salt Co., of New Haven, Conn., are making a grand offer to introduce their salt. Go and ask your grocer for Virgin Salt and get an elegant Easter card. In addition we offer an extra inducement, a pair of doves beautifully lithographed in ten colors, as natural as life, on a large card 9x10 inches. Virgin Salt is the cleanest, purest and whitest salt ever seen or used. A large package costs only ten cents.

Ed. Gurney of South Wareham, Mass., has been arrested as a witness in the Lawton murder case. It will be remembered that Richard N. Lawton's body was found in a wagon, and Samuel F. Besse arrested as his murderer. Gurney, while under the influence of liquor has confessed that he helped Besse put Lawton's body into the wagon, Besse threatening to shoot him if the assistance was withheld. Gurney did not know when he went to the woods with Besse what the latter wanted him for.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

Possesses the remedial power of these two valuable specifics in their fullest degree. Is prepared in a palatable form, easily tolerated by the stomach, and for delicate, sickly children, emaciation, consumption and all improvished conditions of the blood is unequalled by any other remedy.

AS INVALUABLE AS FLOUR.

Ansonia and West Ansonia are two thrifty towns in Connecticut that have become famous for their brass works. These are not their only claims to distinction, however. Apart from many pleasant features common to progressive New England communities, they possess a number of citizens of advanced views who are at present engaged in a work of peculiar interest. One of these is Mr. Reuben Locke, whose home is on Hill Street, West Ansonia, and who is highly esteemed by his fellow citizens. Why he is active in his present work he thus explains:

"Five spoonfuls of Athlophoros cured me of a very stubborn attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I cannot express my feelings of joy at having at last found a medicine that did what the doctors failed to do for me. I esteem Athlophoros as I would my dearest friend, and recommend it because I know that it will do all that is claimed for it."

Mr. J. V. Wightman, of Ansonia, is no less enthusiastic and positive in his belief in the efficacy of this great remedy. He says:

"I believe, in fact I know, that there is nothing like Athlophoros. It cured me permanently of a very severe case of muscular rheumatism. I have recommended it on the strength of my own case to a number of people suffering with rheumatism and neuralgia, and they have one and all been cured by it, and the good work still goes on. On every side I hear the highest praise of Athlophoros."

From Providence, R. I., the same good news is reported. The happy messenger of glad tidings in the present instance is Mr. Isaac Crocker, who is well known to many people in Providence as the paper carrier who brings them their daily papers. Mr. Crocker rejoices over the cure of his son which he describes as follows:

"In the winter of 1882 and 1883 our son, who was then fourteen years old, was very sick with inflammatory rheumatism. He was confined to his bed and suffered greatly. He was very sick until the spring, and his trouble continued up to February of the present year (1885), when he saw Athlophoros advertised. At that time he was unable to move his feet. After taking two doses he could move them without pain, and by the time he had taken half a bottle he was cured. We have recommended Athlophoros to a neighbor who is 75 years old and it has helped him more than anything he ever tried. We would as soon think of being without flour as without Atlophoros."

Mrs. Millie M. Davis, of No. 193 Whalley Avenue, New Haven, says:

"For three months I suffered dreadfully with muscular rheumatism. In that time I was treated by four different physicians, none of whom relieved me of the pain and distress. They said I had waited too long, and their medicine had no effect. I did not experience the much-sought relief till I took Athlophoros, the very first dose of which eased me so much that I could, for the first time in a great while, sit down to eat my meals. I steadily improved and in a short time was completely cured of rheumatism. I gladly add my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by Athlophoros."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it of your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

HOW DOES THE BRAIN WORK?

The True Answer to the Question—A Series of Co-Ordinated Movements.

How, then, does the mechanism of the brain really act? I believe the true answer to this question is the one most fully given by M. Ribot and never yet completely accepted by English psychologists. It acts, for the most part, as a whole; or, at least, even the simplest idea or mental act of any sort is a complex of processes involving the most enormously varied brain elements. Instead of dog being located somewhere in one particular cell of the brain, dog is an idea, audible, visible, legible, pronounceable, requiring for different modes of his perception or production the co-operation of an enormous number of separate cells, fibers and ganglia.

Let us take an illustration from a kindred case. How clumsy and awkward a supposition it would be if we were to imagine there was a muscle of dancing, and a muscle of walking, and a muscle of rowing, and a muscle of cricketing, and a muscle for the special practice of the noble art of lawn-tennis! Dancing is not a single act; it is a complex series of co-ordinated movements, implying for its proper performance the action of almost all the muscles of the body in different proportions, and in relatively fixed amounts and manners. Even a waltz is complicated enough; but when to a quadrille or a set of lancers, everybody can see at once that the figure consists of so many steps forward and so many back; of a bow here, and a twirl there; of hands now extended both together, and now held out one at a time in rapid succession, and so forth, throughout all the long complicated series. A quadrille in short, is not a name for one act, for a single movement of a single muscle, but for many acts of the whole organism, all arranged in a fixed sequence.—Popular Science Monthly.

Beware of the Hoo-Dooed Store-Rooms.

"There is one of the unlucky places of this town," said a renting agent, as he rode along Madison street in a horse car. "I wouldn't want to guarantee to give 5 cents for all the money that will ever be made in that store-room. Within the last year four or five men have tried their hands at running a restaurant there and have failed. The room is now vacant again. I never knew a man to succeed there. At least a score of tenants have been in there since the building was put up, and not one of them has made a dollar. Even a saloon failed. On either side of it business of all kinds is prosperous, but nothing goes there.

"That isn't the only place of the kind I know of in Chicago. There are store-rooms in which I would not start a business if I could get rent free and a subsidy to boot. They are unlucky spots, and a man had better keep out of them. Am I superstitious? Not at all. It isn't that. The unfortunate result of all enterprises started in these places is due to a trait of human nature—to a business law—that trade naturally avoids locations where sheriff's notices and to rent cards are frequently displayed. It isn't superstition, but business. The owner of any one of these fated stores could have well afforded to give rent free and paid out money besides if he could thereby have averted the reputation which his house now has. My advice to any man starting a new business would be to pay some attention to the reputation for luck which the store-room he intends taking has got, just as the prudent man does to the reputation of the partner with whom he joins fortunes.—Chicago Herald.

How Mme. Cavalazzi Liberated Rome.

The event of my life was the part I undertook in the liberation of Rome. One day while in Rome a young officer belonging to Garibaldi's staff called upon me and asked my aid in inciting an insurrection for the purpose of delivering the city over to his general. The plans were made, and the next night the place of the harlequin in the ballet was filled by the young officer, who wore a rich green costume. My bodice and skirt was of bright red. At the conclusion of an effective dance I fell back upon my partner in the regular ballet fashion, my red dress and white skirts resting against the green costume of the harlequin, thus showing the national colors which were then prohibited on the stage. The effect was electrical; and as the curtain fell the spectators rushed into the street in the wildest excitement. In a short time the city was aroused and Garibaldi entered it in triumph.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

in good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at odd times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the travelling public, this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveller, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer, all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kidneys, and is a fine nerve tonic.

LABOR MATTERS.

In Chicago, on the night of the 4th inst., a large crowd of socialists and anarchists assembled in Haymarket square, and listened to harangues of the most inflammatory character. The crowd finally became riotous, and the police endeavored to disperse them, when they were assailed with hand bombs and pistol shots, many of the officers being killed or wounded. The officers fought bravely and finally dispersed the ruffians, killing and wounding a large number, and making several important arrests of leading anarchists, all of whom, it is needless to say, are foreigners of the worst sort. Twenty-two wounded policemen were at one station-house after the fight.

The strikes and lockouts in St. Louis on account of the eight-hour agitation are fewer and less important than was anticipated.

The sugar refiners' strike in New York is about over, the refineries being running with half or two-thirds their regular force, and the police have been withdrawn. The employers have increased the men's wages, but refuse to recognize the union.

All the furniture manufactories in Baltimore shut down on the 4th inst., on account of the demand for eight hours.

Many of the bosses in the building trades at Washington have yielded to the demands of the strikers, and less than 2000 of their workmen were idle on the 5th.

The number of men on strike in Cincinnati on the 4th inst. was estimated at fully 10,000.

In Chicago the North Side rolling mill men, 1000 in number, have struck for eight hours work and ten hours pay. Most of the Chicago pork packers have yielded to the demands of their employes.

At Bay View works, Milwaukee, Wis., on the 5th, a vast mob of socialists made an attack, but were discouraged by the fire of six militia companies, by which five rioters were killed and many wounded. The mob fled. Another mob attacked the Allis works, and drew the fire of the militia, two rioters being shot dead and others wounded.

At Chicago on the 5th the 1700 workmen in the Deering Harvester works stopped work without giving notice or making any demands.

August Spies, Chris Spies and Michael Schwab, editors of the socialist paper in Chicago, were arrested on the 5th. They seemed almost scared to death when the police took them.

They Don't Understand It.

The fishermen of New England seem hardly able to understand that kind of fair play which allows fishing vessels owned in the British provinces to have all the privileges of American vessels in our ports, while our vessels are denied the privileges of buying bait, hiring men or procuring ordinary supplies in provincial ports. A despatch from Gloucester says: "The provincial schooners Annie Robertson and Festina Lente arrived at this port a week ago to fit out for mackereling on our coast. The Canadian authorities repeatedly order American fishermen from their ports, but provincial fishermen lie in our ports unmolested, buy bait, fit for fishing and sell their fish. These vessels, during the week, had painted, repaired seines, and taken all necessary articles for fishing voyages."

A Wise Precaution.

In view of the possible introduction of cholera from Europe this season, and in order to assist local authorities in the maintenance of quarantine against the introduction of that and other infectious diseases, the president has determined to establish by means of the vessels of the revenue marine a national patrol of the coast of the United States so far as it may be practicable under existing laws, and consistent with the performance of the other duties confided to that service. Instructions have been accordingly issued for the revenue steamers to cruise exclusively on the outer line of their cruising grounds, and to exercise special vigilance in speaking all vessels arriving from foreign ports, or from southern ports of the United States.

Naval Intelligence.

Sailmaker John A. Long is ordered to the New York navy yard, relieving Sailmaker G. T. Douglass, placed on waiting orders.

Carpenter Isaac Cooper is detached from the naval asylum at Philadelphia, and placed on waiting orders.

Passed Asst. Paymaster Lewis A. Yorke is ordered to the Pensacola navy yard, relieving Passed Asst. Paymaster Arthur Peterson, ordered to settle accounts.

Lieut. George F. W. Holman is ordered from the Saratoga to waiting orders.

The training ships Saratoga and Portsmouth arrived in Hampton roads April 29th.

Comdr. Charles V. Gridley is ordered from the command of the Jamestown to the command of the Portsmouth.

Jeff Davis' secession speech at Montgomery, Ala., in which he goes back to the state right of secession, will be productive of one good result: It will supply orators for Memorial day with an idea for their addresses, and will arouse an enthusiasm for the Union as of old. The democrats at Washington sadly deplore the ill-advised action of Davis in this speech, as just now they are desiring appropriations of large sums of public money to be expended in their states, and fear Davis' talk will have an unfortunate effect in Congress.

The Irish democrats of Portland are dissatisfied because Gen. Anderson has not appointed a representative Irish democrat to an inspectorship. The native democrats insist that the Irish want the earth. It does seem a little like running the thing into the ground for the democrats to give an office to Irishmen. They think they should be satisfied with blarney.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

Wouldn't Let Him Off.

Charles L. Davis' (Alvin Joslyn) combination was unable to appear in Bath, Me., on a recent evening, owing to Mr. Davis having to go to Philadelphia to defend a diamond suit. The hall was engaged some time ago, and as several attractions would have appeared about that date but for Davis having the hall, the manager would not let him cancel the engagement. As Davis had to pay for the hall, he made the manager light up, furnish ushers and officers and keep the hall open during the time his performance would have occupied, and his representative was present to see that it was done.

The pear trees are blossoming now, and the bloom indicates an abundant yield of the fruit for which the gardens of Portsmouth have been so long famous.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

As no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

ELIOT & KITTERY INS. CO.

At the annual meeting of the Eliot & Kittery Mutual Fire Insurance company, held at the school house in district No. 4, Eliot, on the 3d inst., the following officers were chosen: Directors, Warrington Paul, John Wentworth and Paschal M. Langton of Kittery, Joseph H. Moody and Josiah D. Bragdon of York, and John D. Frost and Timothy Dame of Eliot. At a subsequent meeting of the directors, Warrington Paul was elected president; Samuel Clark of Eliot, treasurer; and Alexander Junkins of Eliot, secretary.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Albert A. Huntress, aged thirty years, employed as a brakeman on the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, left his home in Manchester on the morning of the 4th inst., after kissing his wife and six-year-old child good bye, and was carried home that evening a mangled corpse. He made the trip from Manchester to this city without incident. On the return trip when near Newmarket Junction, while seated on a forked brake he fell between two platform cars and was run over by the rear part of the train, which severed his body at the hips, several wheels also passing over his right arm.

A REMINISCENCE.

Mr. Joseph Pettigrew is having what was formerly the brick barn on top of the hill in Parker street, in the rear of his residence, made into a house of two stories, with mansard roof. It will be a nice-looking structure when finished, and from its size and location should speedily command a good tenant. This barn was one of the buildings damaged in 1847 by the roof of the Portsmouth Steam Factory, when that huge mass of wood and metal, weighing several hundred tons, was lifted off the factory by the wind and went sailing over toward Islington street, slicing off the roof and upper part of the brickwork of the barn, and somewhat damaging two houses on the opposite side of Parker street, staving in the end of one of the houses, and causing a number of young women who were working at tailoring there to remove to the other end of the house with much promptness. If our memory serves us correctly there was but one person seriously hurt by the occurrence, a girl in the factory having an arm broken—a wonderful matter, certainly, as there were many women and girls at work in the upper room of the mill when the roof was taken off from over their heads, and many of them were slightly injured by jumping or falling down the stairs in their fright.

A HAMPTON FISH STORY.

A writer in a New York paper thus relates a story told to him at Hampton beach a few years ago:

A sturdy sailor told it to me as he rowed me out from shore past a tent on the sand where the pure-souled Quaker poet Whittier was summering.

"I was a Union soldier," said my boatman, "and had the misfortune to fall into the rebel clutches. It was believed that I possessed valuable information, and as it was in the latter part of the war, and the confederates were hard-pressed, defeats one after another and driven them to desperation. When I was captured, therefore, under circumstances that seemed to show that I was bent on some special mission, my captors determined to use all means in their power to secure possession of every secret in my possession. I was confronted with cruelty, but they learned nothing.

Then the town where I was held a prisoner was visited by Jeff Davis himself, and along with other Yankee prisoners I was marched out for exhibition before him. It was a wonderful spectacle enacted there. Never had I seen a man so worshiped. Had he been a king, and those who waited upon him his slaves, he could not received greater deference. This was on Saturday afternoon, and the air was balmy; it was a perfect day. But even if rain and snow and sleet and lightning had been in the atmosphere, still it would have seemed a perfect day to me. For the careworn face of the old confederate chieftain lighted up with a half-smile as he made a speech to the dozen of us held in imprisonment at rebel mercy.

'This day,' he said, 'is the birth day of my mother, and I promised her long ago that on this day I would always do some good deed in her remembrance. Now for her sake and for the love I owe her I set you all free. You are to go in peace. You have learned little here that can do the confederacy harm even if you tell it all, but I feel that I can count on your manhood far enough to accept freedom without striving to use it for meanness. Whatever the end of this conflict is, you may remember one thing: That Jefferson Davis was not all a fiend, and that he kept sacredly the pledge he made to a noble-hearted woman—his mother.'

We were escorted that night beyond the confederate lines and were free. And I think enough of the old traitor"—went on my boatman, resting on his oar—"I think enough of the old traitor to ship him every year a box of the finest fish that can be caught in these waters. He showed himself a man to me."

A second edition of that excellent book, "American Farm Law and Game Laws," written by Mr. Henry Austin, has appeared. The first edition was entirely exhausted in a short time after publication, as the demand from the New England states and the west was very large. We advise every farmer who wishes to be informed of his rights and obligations to his neighbor and employe, or employer, to obtain a copy of this valuable book at Mercer Goodrich's. And not only the farmer, but every owner and occupier of real estate in the city, whose yard or garden adjoins the premises of another, can find valuable information, in a condensed form and conveyed in popular terms, in this work.

The steamer Acushnet, which carried freight and passengers between this city and Boston during the summer and autumn months several years ago, arrived at this port on the 5th inst., her alleged errand being to tow the steamer City of Portsmouth to Boston.

The Red Stocking base ball club of this city played a game of base ball with the Exeter academy club at Exeter on the 5th inst., resulting in favor of the latter club by the score of seventeen to nine.

The Riverside base ball club of this city challenge any other club of the city to meet them for a game at any time or place—a match with the Red Stockings preferred.

See advertisement of carpets and furniture for sale in house No. 10 Middle street.

The new gaslight post and lantern have been placed in position on Bow street. Some people say that there must have been lofty ideas in those erecting it, for it requires a considerably long ladder to reach it by the lighter. The light has been much needed there, and is beneficial to the community.

A beautiful picture of flowers, painted by W. Stott, is on exhibition in Montgomery's window, and attracts considerable attention.

The Ham estate on Islington street, erroneously reported as having been sold to Mr. Daniel Littlefield, has been purchased by Mr. William A. Plaisted, to whom the deeds of the property have been passed.

The public schools of Dover will be closed on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, to give the teachers opportunity to attend the Teachers' Institute in this city on Thursday and Friday.

Contractor Shanahan on the 5th inst. laid fifteen feet of the big sewer at his end of the work.

Mr. S. A. Fernald brought up from the weirs off Pocahontas point, Gerrish's island, on the 5th inst., eleven fine shad, which were sold to George W. Randall & Son. Two mackerel were taken in the weir at the same time—the pioneers of the season.

Mr. Edwin O. Randall of this city has received notice that he has been granted a pension of $2 a month from 1865 to 1884, and from the latter date, $4 a month; his back pension amounts to $535.

The blasting on the new sewer at Deer street has been conducted with a great deal of care, and few accidents have occurred, but on Tuesday of this week there was a grand eruption of small stones, some of which smashed through the roof of a barn there. But all damages have been promptly attended to.

In rambling about the city no region can be seen that has been more improved from what it was a year ago, than the junction of Court and Washington streets. The principal improvement there was the purchase by Mrs. Cushman Tilton of the old houses and outbuildings on the southwest corner, their removal, and the transformation of the ground they stood on into a neatly-fenced grass plat. This was not only an esthetic but a sanitary improvement, as in obliterating the old buildings no less than seven large vaults were found, some so long disused that their existence had been forgotten, but all indescribably foul—a perfect reservoir of zymotic diseases; these of course were also obliterated, and the lot purified as well as beautified. The laying of a brick sidewalk on the Court street front of this lot, and the moving back to a line with the rest of the street of the building on the opposite corner, and the widening of the sidewalk there, were also all great improvements in the looks of the locality, and tending to increase the value of real estate in the vicinity.

The water has been cut off from the Portsmouth Aqueduct company's pipes at the navy yard landing at the foot of Daniel street, the navy department being too economical to pay for it, and the water for the steamer Emerald is now supplied from the navy yard. It is suggested by many that real economy would demand the suspension of the trips of the Emerald. Captain Horatio W. Trefethen is fully capable of carrying all the passengers who desire to cross, in the good steamer Mystic.

The brakemen and baggage-masters on the Boston & Maine railroad have petitioned for an advance of ten per cent in their wages.

Competition between leading manufacturers has resulted in wonderfully low prices in playing cards. This may continue, but many people are buying cards for next winter at Preston's drug store, prices from ninety cents to $6.00 per dozen packs.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharge 1 oz large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. TO CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES? you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but scoff vanishes when they look in their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY, so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands, who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in its STRIKINGLY and gratefull relief. Cure begin from the first application. It is rapid, radical permanent, economical, safe.

the press constantly aver that I have financial reason for changing an opera at the last moment. If it were only known what a dealer in macaroni-eating singers has to contend with, all this talk would be stopped. Upon the slightest pretense prima donnas will refuse to appear, and in figuring what we shall do, we have to select an opera that will not have in its cast one of the soloists who has sung the night before. Most of our best singers refuse to appear twice in succession, and we are compelled to do the best we can.—Col. Mapleson.

Paper Napkins in German Cities.

Paper napkins, of a thin but strong tissue paper, are largely used in the restaurants and hotels of the large German cities, the consumption amounting to many thousands daily. A different tint or color of ink is used to each napkin, neutral tints being apparently the fashion, though shades of blue, green, chocolate, and red are the most prominent in the score of patterns before us. The pictures are all evidently reproductions of antique designs, and, with the quaint typography, grotesque arrangement and novel tints of the ink used in the printing, are at once effective and attractive.—Chicago Herald.

The Endurance of Old Ruins.

Of the long-forgotten cities, discovered in the present century by their walls, little else remains but extensive cemeteries, which, as repeatedly happens among the ruined places of the earth, have outlasted by more than 2,000 years the dwellings of the living. The streets and buildings of settlements already in ruins during the time of the ancient Romans have disappeared almost without a trace, while the monuments of the dead are so well preserved as frequently to give information concerning even the domestic architecture of their builders.—Boston Budget.

The Perquisite of an English Cook.

The cooks in large establishments have for one of their perquisites what are called the drippings—the remains of uncooked meats and game. One man of large fortune told me that, wishing to distribute the fragments to his poor tenants in the neighborhood, he offered his cook 200 pounds sterling a year for the privilege. But the successor of Vatel refused, and the gentleman was helpless, unless he gave up a chef who had hardly an equal in England.—Adam Badean's Letter.

Italics an Evidence of Weakness.

The use of italics in writing is an evidence of weakness on the part of the writer. When a man can't get the right word he is apt to use the best he can think of and put a stroke under it for emphasis. The right word doesn't require special emphasis once in a thousand times.—Globe-Democrat.

The Largest Tree in Georgia.

The largest tree in Georgia almost rivals the giants of California forests. It is twenty feet in circumference at the ground, and its girth a short distance above is four feet greater. The great tree is 155 feet in height.—Boston Budget.

TELEPHONE.

To WALLACE HACKETT, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Rockingham, and State of New Hampshire:

The subscribers, owners of one-twentieth part of the stock and property of the Jenness Machine Company, a Corporation existing under the laws of the State of New Hampshire, represent that said Corporation failed to hold its annual meeting for the present year. They therefore request you to call a meeting of the members of said Corporation to be held at the office of William H. Hackett, in Portsmouth, in said County of Rockingham, on Tuesday, the 19th day of May, A. D., 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, then and there for the purpose of acting upon the following subjects:

1. To choose a chairman to preside over and in said meeting.

2. To choose such number of Directors as may be determined, also a Clerk, Treasurer, Manager, President and all other officers of said Corporation.

3. To see if the Corporation will vote to change the By-Laws so that any or all the above-named officers may be chosen either by the Corporation at an annual meeting or at any adjournment thereof or by the Board of Directors, and to vote to pass and enact By-Laws providing for the mode of choosing the above-named officers or any officer of the Corporation.

4. To see if the Corporation will vote to close the affairs of the Corporation and dispose of the property and assets of the Corporation, or to take any steps or pass any vote relative to winding up the affairs of the Corporation and selling its property, placing the same in the hands of a committee or a Trustee for the purpose of such disposal of the above-named property and dividing the net proceeds to and among the several shareholders, or disposing of the same as may be deemed reasonable for the same.

5. To transact any other business which may properly come before the meeting.

6. To see if the Corporation will vote to divide any and what portion of its present assets to and among its stockholders in proportion to the number of shares held by them respectively, and to fix upon and determine the time and mode of such division and how and when it shall be made.

PORTSMOUTH, April 27, 1886.

THOMAS S. NOWELL, 370,
JOHN A. BROWN, 250,
HENRY N. BIGELOW, 200.

The State of New Hampshire, Rockingham, ss.

To THOMAS S. NOWELL of Boston, in the County of Suffolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

Whereas, application has been made to me, Wallace Hackett, a Justice of the Peace for said County of Rockingham, as above—

You are therefore required to warn a meeting of said Corporation to be held at the time and place and for the purposes mentioned in said application by publishing a copy of said application and this warrant ten days at least in the same manner as is provided for warning the annual meeting of said Corporation, and make return of this warrant at said time and place of meeting.

WALLACE HACKETT,
Justice of the Peace.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the roots may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 80 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO., Cleveland, O.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental line that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, smooth tracks of common steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the operational operation of all its trains. Other specialities of this route are Transfers free of all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptious Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run, with no unnecessary stops, and every sort, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing resorts in Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirt bosoms, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

At Pullman, Ill., 4,000 men employed in the car works went on strike on the 4th and 5th insts., leaving only 500 men at work in the place, those being in the wheel shop.

John S. Wise, of Virginia, says in an interview that Jefferson Davis' speech at Montgomery, Ala., his subsequent tour, and the wild applause with which his treasonable sentiments are greeted by the people, will make republican votes, and are a calamity for the south.

That feeling of weariness, so often experienced in the spring, results from a sluggish condition of the blood, which being impure does not quicken with the changing season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by vitalizing and cleansing the blood, strengthens and invigorates the system.

A LETTER-CARRIER'S STORY.

"A letter-carrier has his ups and downs as every one else has, I suppose," said one of these messengers of Uncle Sam the other day, in speaking of his experiences, "but take it all in all I would rather be a carrier at $1,000 a year than a clerk at $1,200. In the first place our position is assured as long as we are honest and attentive to our duties, and then we have our little perquisities that net us more than people generally think. I used to have a route along Beacon street near the Public Gardens, and it was a very cold Christmas indeed when the rich nobs didn't remember me to the extent of $300 or $400. For letters that brought good news I have often been given crisp $5 notes from the pleased recipients. And then the little romances, and sometimes deep disappointments and heart-burning that we know of! I shall never forget the pale, anxious face with which an old millionaire used to greet me every morning for a long time, as he opened the door himself in answer to my whistle, and nervously reach for his letters. His hands would tremble as he tore open the envelopes, and then would come a long sigh of relief when he found there was no bad news. At last there came a letter that blanched his face whiter than the paper on which it was written, and he fell down senseless all in a heap at my feet. I helped to carry him up to his room, but never saw him again. Pretty soon a new family moved into the house. It was some financial trouble, I suppose, and the letter had brought ruin to the old gentleman, who had a big family to support."

Letter-Carrier W. B. Goodale, of Hartford, Conn., tells a not less interesting story, though happily its ending is not so tragic. Mr. Goodale is well known in Hartford, and his many friends to whom he had often as a carrier brought tidings of sorrow and of joy, were much pleased to receive his present message:

"For three months," he says, "I was confined to my house with inflammatory rheumatism. So severe, indeed, was my affliction that the doctors took such heroic measures as to prescribe forty grains of morphine a day, beside steaming me five hours and dosing me with all sorts of medicine. I had three doctors, but their combined skill failed to give me any relief. Finally I became discouraged and determined to let the disease do its work. I had a pair of crutches made and was nervously awaiting the worst, when a friend came to see me and advised me to try Athlophoros. After much persuasion I consented. I took the first dose at six o'clock in the evening and two more during the night. The next morning, for the first time in three months, I was able to go to work, greatly to the astonishment of my friends, who all thought I would never get around again. As Athlophoros cured me I believe it will cure anybody suffering with rheumatism. He has many friends in Hartford since the people have seen that it will do all that is claimed for it."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD ACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

THE HORNET'S NEST AT SHILOH.

Carrying the Confederate Colors Forward—Miraculously Preserved.

I witnessed the various bloody and unsuccessful attacks on the "hornet's nest." During one of the dreadful repulses of our forces, Gen. Bragg directed me to ride forward to the central regiment of a brigade of troops that was recoiling across an open field to take its colors and carry them forward. "The flag must not go back again," he said. Obeying the order I dashed through the line of battle, seized the colors from the color-bearer, and said to him: "Gen. Bragg says these colors must not go to the rear." While talking to him the color-sergeant was shot down. A moment or two afterward I was almost alone on horseback in the open field between the two lines of battle.

An officer came up to me with a bullet-hole in each cheek, the blood streaming from his mouth, and asked: "What are you doing with my colors, sir?" "I am obeying Gen. Bragg's orders, sir, to hold them where they are," was my reply. "Let me have them," he said. "If any man but my color-bearer carries these colors, I am the man. Tell Gen. Bragg I will see that these colors are in the right place. But he must attack this position in flank; we can never carry it alone from the front." It was Col. Allen, afterward Governor Allen, of Louisiana. I returned, miraculously preserved, to Gen. Bragg, and reported Col. Allen's words. I then carried an order to the same troops, giving the order I think to Gen. Gibson, to fall back to the fence in the rear and reorganize. This was done, and then Gen. Bragg dispatched me to the right, and Col. Frank Gardner (afterward major general) to the left, to inform the brigade and division commanders on either side that a combined movement would be made on the front and flank of that position. The movements were made and Prentiss was captured.—Col. Lockett in The Century.

Watching the Chicks Shell Out.

I was rather surprised last night when I drifted into the fanciers' show to see four indubitable swells sitting in four large wooden chairs in front of an artificial incubator, and staring at a lot of eggs with the most absorbed and interested faces imaginable. They all wore fur coats, leaned on their sticks heavily, and two of them held their watches in their hands. There were dozens of eggs under the glass case, and every few minutes one of the shells would open, and a small and puny chick was born into the world. When the event occurred, the four men would look at each other with eyes that were invariably wide open, and comment upon the size, appearance, and activity of the recent arrival with the solemnity of supreme court judges. Occasionally the two who held their watches in their hands would make bets of some magnitude on the interval of time which would elapse between one birth and another. Once, when four or five of the liveliest chicks pounced upon a weary-looking specimen who seemed to object to being born, the very moment the shell was broken the interest of the four men was almost painful. The exhibition was really very much of a novelty to them, and I am told that they had hired the chairs from an usher three nights before, and had attended the show regularly from that time on.—Blakely Hall in The Argonaut.

The Outcome of Assiduous Care.

When the late Charles Matthews was playing in Melbourne fifteen years ago he received what he considered the highest compliment of his professional career. A little girl in the audience was asked by her friends at the conclusion of performance how she was pleased, to which she replied: "I didn't care for Mr. Matthews' acting a bit; he just walked up and down the stage as papa walks up and down she dining-room at home." It is the fact of this appearance of perfect spontaneity in the highest art, being really the outcome of the most assiduous care, that renders it so truly inimitable and the counterfeit so easy of detection. The "round O of Giotto" was only a perfect circle, but it needed the master hand to execute it with a simple sweep of the crayon.

Ruskin tells us in one of his treaties on landscape painting that in some of the greatest works of genius an effect which is almost magical at the proper focal distance is conveyed by what appears, to the uninstructed eye and viewed close at hand, to be a mere dash of loaded color, but which in reality could not be added to or diminished by the smallest particle without detracting from the effect. Chambers' Journal.

Persian Pattern of a Tent.

It formerly belonged to a Persian general, who used it when accompanying the king or the army in the field. It was of a pattern peculiar to Persia, where it has been the custom for the court to spend the summer in tents. Consequently, the making of tents has been carried to great perfection in Persia and has given good scope to the decorative talents of the native artists.

My tent was of the sort called kalemkar, the designs of the interior being done by hand, and the colors being also applied or stamped by hand. Nothing could exceed the extraordinary beauty of the intricate designs which completely covered the interior of this tent.

Each panel had in the center an agreeable representation of the conventional figure of a cypress or tree of life, which we are in the habit of calling the palm-leaf pattern when we see it on Cashmere shawls. But this is an error; it is the cypress that is intended in this design. Around this figure were wreaths of flowin good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at odd times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the travelling public, this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveller, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer, all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kidneys, and is a fine nerve tonic.

SICK-HEADACHE. — Thousands who have suffered intensely with sick headache say that Hood's Sarsaparilla has completely cured them. One gentleman thus relieved, writes: "Hood's Sarsaparilla is worth its weight in gold." Reader, if you are a sufferer with sick headache, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. It will do you positive good. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.. Sold by all druggists. 100 Doses One Dollar.

The people of Exeter were surprised on a recent morning to see that the statue of Justice, on top of the court house, had been painted a bright red during the night, the "artist" having left his paint pot in the goddess' scales. The figure is over 100 feet from the ground, and whoever did the work must have climbed up by the lightning-rod.

To The Pure

All things are pure. Life is too short to waste with adulterations. The best is always cheapest. Adulterated liquors are the abuse of a good thing. The G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey is an absolutely pure alcholic stimulant, unequalled for medical purposes; sold by every leading druggist and respectable grocer as of standard quality. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is guaranteed.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

The corner stone of the United States government building at Concord is to be laid Thursday, May 13th, at eleven o'clock A. M., at which time the pledges of the children and youth who have signed the corner stone pledge, will be deposited. Appropriate exercises will be held. Speaking by prominent temperance workers. Please send in pledges at once to J. A. Merrill, Nashua. The annual meeting of the Temperance Union will be held the same day at 1:30 P. M. sharp, at White's opera house.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

Possesses the remedial power of these two valuable specifics in their fullest degree. Is prepared in a palatable form, easily tolerated by the stomach, and for delicate, sickly children, emaciation, consumption and all improvished conditions of the blood is unequalled by any other remedy.

A Democratic View of Cleveland.

Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, testified before the Pan-Electric committee on the 4th inst. Mr. Dana, in reply to a question whether "he thought very highly of the president's abilities before the election," answered as follows:

I thought very highly of his abilities in some respects—I thought he was a very bad democrat and I tried very hard to beat him. I came mighty near doing it, too. He had a tight squeeze—a plurality of only a thousand votes in New York—and Burchard did that. [Laughter.] The democratic party would be a great deal better off to-day, in my judgment, if he had been defeated.

This was under oath, it will be remembered. Most of the democrats, now-a-days, use an oath when giving an unbiassed opinion of Mr. Cleveland's democracy. Indeed, as both the World and Sun cast a shadow on the democratic president which is especially frigid in its effect, the Buffalo statesman is compelled to rely upon the Star to reflect his acts in a proper light for democratic vision. Mr. Dana's testimony was given with a degree of refreshing originality, and was full of cogent reasoning. Its report must have been interesting reading for the tenant of the White House.

Equal to the Emergency.

A Portland police officer recently discovered two inebriated men lying in the yard of the Grand Trunk railway, nearly side by side, sleeping off the effects of the potions that cheer if not inebriate in Maine. Between the sleepers, sitting on his haunches, was a bull dog of goodly proportions keeping watch. Any attempt by the officer to approach the prospective prisoners was resisted by a growl that had a meaning not capable of being misunderstood.

The policeman was discreet. He consulted a brother officer and retired from the scene, but shortly re-appeared leading by a string another bull dog, more ferocious than the sentinel. During the canine circus which subsequently ensued, the officers slipped up and secured the prisoners, after which it took the united efforts of a large committee of bystanders, who always promptly rally at the sound of a dog fight, to unravel the knots into which the contesting pugs had been twisted in the friendly encounter.

The resources of the P. P. are admirable in the extreme.

A Glass of Beer.

All sorts of differences between employers and employes in these times are revealed by the strikes. In Chicago, for instance, one of the demands of the brewers' men was free beer at six, eight and eleven A. M., and two and four P. M., no one person to drink more than three glasses at a time. The brewers surrendered, and each employe can now have fifteen glasses of beer to drink daily. It will be interesting to know how such a demand as this is justified by the labor organizations. Possibly it rests upon the old biblical remark about letting the man who treads out the wine have to drink; but in these days that is narrow foundation. Do the wives and families of these brewers' men rejoice that their husbands and brothers are to be allowed fifteen glasses of beer a day to drink? According to a clergyman in a recent address workingmen spend $600,000,000 a year for liquor. We should think that was enough without free drinks thrown in, but the free drinks are one of the rights which labor demands whatever may be its effect on the imbiber.

Naval Intelligence.

Surgeon William J. Simon and Passed Assistant Surgeon George C. Lippincott have been ordered to temporary duty at the naval academy, and Cadet Engineers C. H. Howland and C. C. Willis to the Talisapoosa.

Lieutenant F. H. Lefavor has been detached from the branch hydrographic office at New Orleans, and ordered to temporary duty in the bureau of Navigation.

Pay Director Caspar Schenck is detached from special duty, and ordered to duty at the navy pay office, Norfolk, Virginia.

Pay Director Edward May is detached from duty at the Norfolk navy pay office, and ordered to settle accounts and wait orders.

"Improvement of the Senses," by Horace Grant, author of "Arithmetic for young children;" American edition edited by William Small. Lee & Shepard, Boston, publishers; for sale in Portsmouth by Goodrich; price fifty cents. This is a book of 150 pp., filled with exercises prepared for the purpose of providing instruction—and amusement as well, and at the same time—for children too young to learn to read and wright, or indeed to study at all. It contains many judicious and valuable hints for those having the care of very young children, and to such is worth much more than its price.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 48 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Bright's Disease

Prevented

AYER'S

It is stated that the Washington agents of the English free traders have sent to the old country frantic appeals for more funds, stating that they have lost their grip upon several democratic congressmen, and others will follow unless the most convincing aid is at once remitted. The free trade policy of the democracy is having severe opposition from the south, and is denounced all through that heretofore reliable region.

The jury in the case against Capt. Jeffrey Gerrior, charged with barratry in sinking the schooner Racer, and tried in Boston this week, on Thursday rendered a verdict of not guilty on all the counts, after being out only forty minutes.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Choses, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. FRELES, Rochester, N.Y.

REFORM BACKWARD.

We are informed by a shipping merchant that the telephone has been removed from the Custom House under a plea of economy!! Under the former collector the telephone company were induced, at no little expense for setting poles in a rocky soil and on a circuitous route, to establish a line to Fort point, Newcastle, with a view to communicate the arrival of vessels so that the customs officers might be early informed of what was transpiring in the lower harbor, as to the arrivals and departures. Very many instances have occurred where the services of steam tugs to vessels bound either in or out, or to those in distress off the port, were needed, and were procured much sooner than would have been possible without the telephone, the veteran Card having always promptly attended to these matters.

Arrivals of vessels have been at once reported, as at other ports, but it seems the treasury department is determined to reduce expenditures. The company built the line at a great cost, far above that which could be regarded as a profitable outlay, with the understanding that a certain annual sum should be paid for telephonic communication to the custom house. But this was not a contract reduced to writing, and is now ignored.

The consignees of coal and other merchandise, as well as many others, have an interest in having the telephone kept as it has been, and it is stated that the facts will be represented to the treasury department, to the end that the service may be restored. It is possible that the need of this convenience has not been properly appreciated by whoever has directed its discontinuance.

A HINT TO THE TRAINMEN.

Mr. Editor: I notice in your paper this morning that the brakemen on the Boston & Maine railroad desire increased pay. Some of these men deserve it; others do not. Now is an excellent time for the manager to weed out the poor sticks, and select from the great army of unemployed, good men. Just how some of the brakemen contrive to pass the time on the run, now that the braking is done from the engine, is a wonder often to stockholders.

On some lines they are seen and heard at each station. On the roads west of Boston the brakeman, as soon as a train leaves a station, passes through the car, closes the doors, and announces the name of the next stopping place—a great convenience to travellers unfamiliar with the route. This system has long been maintained on the Boston & Providence road, whose managers are notably the most careful in their regard to the comforts of passengers of any road in the country. It is also in vogue on the Albany, the New York & New England, and other lines, and on the Western division of the Boston & Maine. On the Eastern division, as one journeys east in a raw, easterly day, he finds the brakeman has forgotten the open doors. On the 3:15 train from Boston recently I saw a passenger leave his seat eight times and go and close the front door of the car. These doors, even in winter, are apt on some trains to be left open all the time the train stands at stations, and often until the conductor comes through the train. On the Portland trains this is not the case, but the way trains are made uncomfortable by this neglect of the brakemen. Before the wages of the men on the short trains are raised there should be an examination of candidates, to see if they know there are during the bleak days of spring on the Sea-Shore line such articles as doors; and if they know that, to see if they also know whose duty it is to see that they are closed. A proper observance of a rule in this respect would be an essential improvement to the train service on the Eastern division.

MATRIMONIAL.

At half past nine Thursday morning, May 6th, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Mr. Robert N. Anderson, long and favorably know as the courteous and attentive watchman at the navy yard landing, and Miss Nellie T. Walsh, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan, pastor of the church, officiating. Mr. Anderson and his bride received the congratulations of numerous friends during the day—we add ours now—and the tables were kept hospitably spread for all.

RICE LIBRARY BUILDING.

The building committe of the Rice Free Public Library at Kittery were in session at the Rockingham house on Thursday, when several contractors examined the plans and specifications of the proposed library building. These plans are with Moses A. Safford, Esq., the chairman of the building committee, at Kittery, and can be seen until Monday.

The plans and specifications are so prepared that the bids can be made separately for foundations, superstructure, carpenter work, plumbing, etc. Contractors can see the plans, etc., by calling on Mr. Safford at Kittery at once.

The studious youngsters at Exeter who achieved such a result in high art as to improve the color of the statue of Justice on the tip-top of the court house, left the blind girl with the remains of a hoop skirt encircling her form, while she is suffused with blushes at her condition. Exeter has looked up considerably since the morning on which the "outrage" was discovered. The feat was far more daring but less profane than the alteration of the letters in gilded wood on the former Swamscot hotel, which read "Gorham Hall" until some youth with perhaps a too sectarian taste, removed the second "a" and inserted an "e" in its place. The boys are apt to think these achievements far more funny than the faculty incline to esteem all such efforts.

The Teachers' Institute for Rockingham county will be held at the high school building and Franklin opera house in this city next week, beginning on Thursday forenoon at nine o'clock in the high school building, and continuing to Friday evening. The Concord & Portsmouth and Boston & Maine railroads will sell round-trip tickets to persons attending the institute, at two cents a mile. The institute will be under the direction of Hon. J. W. Patterson, superintendent of public instruction.

The Red Stockings base ball club say they have $25 which they will risk on a game with the Riversides, or any other club in Portsmouth.

Rev. Alfred Gooding and Dr. George Haven started Thursday afternoon on a trip to New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Niagara Falls, to be gone ten days or more.

The pay of the workmen employed at the wood preserving works of the Boston & Maine railroad on Noble's island has been increased from $1.35 to $1.50 per day.

Acanthus Y. Evans, a veteran of the late war, died at the residence of his father, Leonard Evans, on Middle road, last Thursday morning. The deceased was a brother of Wm. Y. Evans, and like him served in the navy during the rebellion. Acanthus served on board the "Ossipee," and was discharged therefrom at the close of the war. He afterward re-entered the navy, and was in the expedition which stormed and carried some of the forts on the coast of Japan some years ago.

A public entertainment was given on Wednesday evening of this week in the North parish chapel on Middle street, by the Young People's Literary Society of the North church, to a large audience. The subject was "Lowell, the poet." Essays were read by several of the principals of our schools, as well as selections from the author's poems by some of the lady teachers.

The steamer Clara Bateman on Thursday morning towed to the lower harbor the steamer City of Portsmouth, which was there taken in tow by the Acushnet to be towed to Boston.

A force of men has been put at work by the street commissioner on Market street, cleaning the highway. It is not too early for the benefit of the community, and a great many other streets are in a filthy condition.

Mr. Charles E. Berry is day engineer at the Rockingham house, and Mr. Clarence B. Hodgdon at night. The fireroom is the best arranged one in the state, and none can be better kept.

Our readers may believe just as much as they please of the following likely story, which we find in a leading New York journal. It is on a par with several similar statements told of the good doctor of divinity. "One warm summer day, the story runs, Rev. Dr. Peabody, of Cambridge, was coming into Boston, and getting off the car at the Revere house, he nearly collided, in turning a sharp corner, with an elderly gentleman who was standing with his hat off, wiping the perspiration from his forehead; but he held his hat is such a position as to give the appearance of begging. Dr. Peabody, seeing only the hat, dropped a quarter into it, with his customary kind remark. Dr. Oliver Wendell Homes, who was holding the hat, put the money in his pocket, solemnly thanked the giver, and passed on."

Competition between leading manufacturers has resulted in wonderfully low prices in playing cards. This may continue, but many people are buying cards for next winter at Preston's drug store, prices from ninety cents to $6.00 per dozen packs.

Dr. J. L. M. Willis of Eliot, who has quite a collection of autographs, has recently made a valuable acquisition to them, having secured one of Napoleon Bonaparte, upon a vellum commission to a lieutenant in the army at the time of the first consulate. The document is countersigned by the secretary of state and secretary of war.—Times.

St. Gregory's Guest, and recent poems by John Greenleaf Whittier. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston; 16mo, illuminated vellum covers, price $1. For sale in Portsmouth by M. Goodrich.

This dainty little work, in the best style of the Riverside Press, contains about twenty short pieces by the Quaker poet, which show that at fourscore he is not only still a poet, but that his trust in the divine mercy and love, and his devotion to humanity and human liberty, have not in any respect cooled.

"Forgotton Meanings: or, an hour with a dictionary," is a little book by Alfred Waites, giving the derivation and original signification of some two or three hundred words in common use, but which now mostly mean something very different from what they did long ago, the difference being so great in many cases as to be very amusing as well as curious. Lee & Shepard, Boston, publishers; price, in boards, fifty cents; for sale by M. Goodrich.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. To CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES? you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY, so that they will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—be on familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvellous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cures the worst cases from the first application. It is rapid, radical permanent, economical, safe.

ers, interwoven with birds of paradise, and at the base of the picture were grotesque elephants pursued by hunters brandishing cimeters.

Over the junction of the panels was a pair of exquisitely comical lions of the most ferocious aspect, bearing naked swords in their right paws. This is but a feeble description of the graceful and fertile fancy displayed in this intricate and lovely system of decoration. As in all Oriental decoration, the individuality of the artist was apparent in a score of repetitions; for while repeating the same general plan in each panel, the artist allowed himself to vary the arrangement of the color in several places.—The Century.

They Had Fish for Dinner.

The member for West Algoma tells a good story about a species of sturgeon from forty to sixty pounds in weight, which is peculiar to Rainy river and lake. On a visit which he paid last summer to a settlement on the river, he had occasion to visit a young bachelor, who, with true backwoods hospitality, insisted that he should stay for dinner. Mr. Conmee seated himself and watched the preparations of his entertainer.

First he set down his home-made bread on the table, with tin mugs for the tea, and then put a big pot full of water over the fire. When the water came to the boiling point he infused the tea and set it aside. Then he seized a gaff about six feet long, stepped outside to the river's edge, which was not over ten paces distant, and returned in three minutes with a sturgeon kicking on the end of his gaff, part of which was soon cut off and transferred to the pot of boiling water to be cooked for dinner. This is the usual thing up there. They always have the water boiling before they go to catch the fish, and they use only a common gaff.—Toronto World.

The Surprise Party in England.

Yet another American social institution is becoming acclimatized in London society in the shape of "surprise parties." Briefly described, a "surprise party" is one in which the guests, who should all be known to each other, swoop down unexpectedly on the rooms or houses of a friend and proceed to enjoy themselves. The gist of the business is that the "surprise guests" take their supper with them, so that even if the surprised host or hostess be actually out the party can still be held. To make "surprise parties" really successful is no easy matter. A perfect organizer of them is well-nigh as valued a member of society in New York as a finished leader of cotillions is in our own capital. But, thanks to the presence of so large an American contingent in London, the "surprise party" is likely to become quite a feature of the current season.—London Figaro.

The Rattlesnake and the Prairie Dog.

The strange companionship explained thus: The prairie dog's burrow is the only shelter afforded the snake from the intense heat of those torrid plains; and as the dog always sinks a well on his premises, it is the only means of getting water, and I have demonstrated to my satisfaction that rattlesnakes speedily perish without it. In return for this hospitality, the rattlesnake takes charge of the census, and thoughtfully prevents the prairie dog from accumulating a larger family than he can conveniently support.—Scientific American.

FROM THE SAGES OF THE EAST, TO THE CHILDREN OF THE WEST.

GREETING:

BE IT KNOWN UNTO YOU AND TO ALL THE DWELLERS OF WALLED TOWNS THAT TO THE BRAINERD & ARMSTRONG CO. AND TO THEIR AGENTS IS IMPARTED THE KNOWLEDGE OF AND THE RIGHT TO USE THE EASTERN OR ASIATIC DYES.

Society of Decorative Art,
55 EAST 18TH ST., NEW YORK, Dec. 22, 1885.

TO THE BRAINERD & ARMSTRONG CO.—Dear Sirs: Having tested your embroidery silks, and finding them in color and texture eminently satisfactory, the managers of the Society of Decorative Art believe that you have found the secret of that dye. They believe it is no longer necessary to the Society to be dependent upon foreign manufacturers. I have pleasure in telling you that it has been decided by the board of management to give you the silk thread business of the Society of Decorative Art. Congratulating you that your dyes stand "best" under the severest test, I am,

Very truly yours, A. H. BLODGETT, President of the Society of Decorative Art.

Also endorsed and exclusively used by the ASSOCIATED ARTISTS of New York.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the persons may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 90 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

A MAP

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE GREAT WEST AND NORTHWEST, EXAMINING THIS MAP THEY WILL SEE AT A GLANCE THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Manages its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the prudential operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to Watertown, Huron, Aberdeen, Watertown, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of long renown in Dakota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral districts of Southern Minnesota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

THE TWILIGHT OF THE POETS.

TO E. C. STEDMAN.

By the Atlantic, when the sunlight falls
From all the winter world enrobed in white,
The tender twilight hardly brings the night;
For lo, the moon, that glowing noontide pales,
Renews the day and shines on hills and vales
With such a clear, calm plenitude of light,
That men are glad. So, too as from our sight
The great bards go, or cease to sing the tales
Of magic beauty that have held us long
So bound that we could hear no strain beside,
The poets that are less to these alone
Shall keep undimmed the shining day of song.
Then, gentle critic, loving not to chide,
No voice shall sound more sweetly than mine own.

A five-year-old son of Mrs. Mary J. Wilson, of Newton Lower Falls, Mass., was drowned in a shallow pond a short distance from the house. No one saw the accident. The mother became alarmed at the child's absence, and after searching the vicinity discovered its body in the pond.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

BETTER THAN PROMISES

Is positive proof.

What has been done in many cases can still be done in others. Sufferers from rheumatism and neuralgia can find relief if they wish. In proof of this statement the following letters are submitted:—

East Somerville, Mass., Jan. 26, 1886.

I have been asked to give my testimony as to what good there is in Athlophoros as a cure for rheumatism, and I simply say to those who are suffering from it try it, and if it does not give relief or a permanent cure it will be a most extraordinary case. In my own case it is a well-known fact among many of my acquaintances it knocked the rheumatism out of me.

GEO. C. BOZRUM, U. S. N.
44 Franklin street.

East Douglass, Mass., Jan. 25, 1886.

One-third of a bottle of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. Being a cattle dealer my business compels me to be around in all kinds of weather and by constant exposure I contracted a severe and painful attack of inflammatory rheumatism in the hips and arms, which defied the supposed healing virtues of most every known remedy. Hearing that Athlophoros was doing wonders I tried it with the above gratifying results. Although the rheumatism has not troubled me for nearly a year, I always keep Athlophoros where I can lay my hands on it, and now instead of the disease defying the medicine matters are reversed. I feel perfectly safe for I know Athlophoros will cure rheumatism.

E. P. HEATH.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1886.

Yes, sir; Athlophoros will cure rheumatism and so far as my experience goes it is the only medicine that will make a complete cure, for I have tried most every thing with no effect. Certainly there was no good effect from my long use of the many so-called rheumatic cures, for all proved worthless; but when I saw with my own eyes what Athlophoros had done for a friend of mine—cured him of rheumatism—I tried it, and two doses of it relieved me so much as to permit me to put my feet on the ground, and in twenty-four hours I was standing on my feet, after which I steadily improved and soon was entirely rid of the rheumatism. So I truthfully say to anybody suffering with rheumatism take Athlophoros and you will be cured.

GUSTAV NELSSON, 216 Harrison Av.
Boston, Mass., Jan. 8, 1886.

I was suffering terribly with inflammatory rheumatism and thought I would just try Athlophoros. I did so, receiving immediate relief and taking three or four doses without any deleterious effects from it. I can honestly recommend it to any one suffering from muscular or inflammatory rheumatism.

E. S. RICHARDS.
50 Washington street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 19, 1886.

I desire to express my feeling of gratitude for the benefit I received from the use of Athlophoros. A medicine of genuine worth being afflicted with that common but painful disease, inflammatory rheumatism, and being laid up because my feet were so swollen I could not stand up, I commenced using Athlophoros. Before half of the first bottle was used I was able to walk to my store. I continued to use it until in a short while my rheumatism disappeared entirely, the cure complete. I recommend Athlophoros because I know it to be an article of merit.

BOTANICAL GARDENS OF MARTINIQUE

The Wonders of Tropical Vegetation—Vivid Description of the Scenery.

In a short time (too short, considering the beauty and novelty of the scenery,) we arrived at the entrance to the botanical gardens. Somebody had told me that these gardens were well worth seeing, but that, I soon found, was a mild way of expressing it. The entrance was not at all imposing—only a big iron gate, with a small porter's lodge beside it. Carriages are not allowed to enter, so we left the carriage at the gate and walked in. There were on the right as we entered several clusters of mammoth bamboos, each cluster as high as a house and as large around at the base as three or four hogsheads. On the left, a short distance in, a high steep hill, and at its base a small artificial pond, walled in with rustic stonework, and a miniature cataract supplying it with water, and the surface of the pond covered with lilies and other aquatic plants. Here the path turned sharp to the left and entered a glen between two high mountains.

The foliage was so thick it was impossible to tell where the hills began, and whether the big trees were unusually high or whether they grew on the mountain side. Wherever they grew, they were of immense hight. There were scores of royal palms, running such a distance into the air that it made one's neck ache to look up at the tops of them; and generally their straight round trunks were festooned with parasitical plants, that ran from the ground all the way up into their branches. Wherever there was any possible place on the trunk of a tree for one to stick, a huge air plant was growing. There were bamboos without number, and hundreds of thick tropical plants that I had never seen or heard of before. The road wound here and there through the ravine, and led us to an elevated spot on which there was a small lake, its edges bordered with such tropical plants as one usually sees in pictures but seldom in reality. There was a grotto cut out of the rock in the mountain side, where the water gushed through holes cut for it in the back, dashed itself over a sloping bed of rocks, and was caught in a basin of stone at the foot; and this basin was half-covered with green leaves and growing water plants.

There were more lakes and more grottoes and natural cascades where the water fell from considerable heights and broke itself into foam in tearing over the rocks. Near the shore of the largest lake was a small cottage, with chairs and tables in its single open room—no doubt a favorite resort for picnicking parties. There were more high trees in that one little spot than I ever saw gathered together before. It fairly makes the back of my neck ache now to think of trying to look up at them. And such vegetation everywhere! Just such plants and trees as you see in the pictures of tropical countries, and such as you generally don't see when you visit those countries in person. But here they were, all gathered together in this botanical garden, the whole garden covering a space, at a rough guess, of a hundred acres. I remember seeing a gaudy lithograph once in an atlas in the public library in Bermuda of a "scene in South America." The leaves were the deepest and brightest greens, the trees were preternaturally tall, the mountains were high, the foliage was thick enough to cut with a knife, and birds of brilliant plummage sat in the branches. I thought at the time that the picture must have been made by somebody who had never been in a tropical country; but here was just such a scene—colors, trees, shrubbery, birds, and all. There was nothing lacking.—Cor. New York Times.

Descendants of the Twenty-Two.

"Are you descended from one of the twenty-two?" is the first question asked when you introduce Mr. Camp to Mr. Camp—which is explained as follows: Benjamin Camp of Virginia had eleven sons and one daughter by his first wife, who, not unnaturally, died. He married a new wife and repeated his record, having by her eleven sons and one daughter. Having gathered about him his twenty-two sons and two daughters he felt that he had fully obeyed God's first injunction and died the death of the just. His descendants are to be found in every Southern state, having his characteristics of courage, industry, and shrewdness. They are steady lovers, good husbands, religious as a rule, and clannish.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

Snow-Shoes for Minnesota Norwegians.

The Norwegians in Minnesota have introduced their peculiar snow-shoes there. The shoes are made of strips of hard wood, about ten feet long and six inches wide, slightly turned up in front. They are fastened to the foot at about the middle of the shoe. The wearer slides over the snow, not trying to lift the shoes, and carries a pole with which to keep his balance. Since the big snows of this winter these shoes have been almost the only means of locomotion in Dodge county. It is not unusual to see something like half a cord of shoes piled in front of a store, within which their wearers are shopping.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Fireless Soda Locomotive.

The "Maschinenfabric" at Halle, Germany, has acquired the Honigmann patent for fireless soda locomotives and other soda engines. In style and construction these engines resemble the tramway carriage. The carriage contains a boiler constructed in two parts, and which must be filled every six or eight hours. This is done at a steam

Start for the Train or Boat in good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at odd times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the travelling public, this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveller, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer, all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kid eys, and is a fine nerve tonic.

The Badge of Cruelty.

The following earnest appeal from Mrs. Thaxter to the women of Boston, in behalf of the birds, was published early in April. Since then the "spring bonnet" has blossomed out, and it appears that Fashion, omnipotent Fashion, has decreed that no bird or feather shall be worn on it, and we can at least hope that humanity had some influence in effecting the change.

Is it not possible to persuade the women of Boston—the city we are proud to consider the centre of refinement, reason and intelligence—to take a decided stand in the matter of the slaughter of birds, and protect them by refusing to wear them? We are fostering a grievous wrong out of pure thoughtlessness. A bow of ribbon, or a bunch of flowers, or any of the endless variety of materials used by the milliner, would answer every purpose of decoration, without involving the sacrifice of bright and beautiful lives. But women do not know what they are doing when they buy and wear birds and feathers, or they never would do it. How should people brought up in cities know anything of the sacred lives of birds? What woman whose head is bristling with their feathers knows, for instance, the hymn of the song sparrows, the sweet jargon of the blackbirds, the fairy fluting of the oriole, the lonely, lovely wooing call of the sandpiper, the cheerful challenge of the chickadee, the wild, clear whistle of the curlew, the twittering of the swallows as they go careering in wide curves through summer air, filling earth and heaven with tones of pure gladness, each bird a marvel of grace, beauty and joy? God gave us these exquisite creatures for delight and solace, and we suffer them to be slain by thousands for our "adornment." When I take note of the headgear of my sex, a kind of despair overwhelms me. I go mourning at heart in an endless funeral procession of slaughtered birds, many of whom are like dear friends to me. From infancy I have lived among them, have watched them with the most profound reverence and love, respected their rights, adored their beauty and their song, and I could no more injure a bird than I could hurt a child. No woman would if she knew it. The family life of most birds is a lesson to men and women. But how few people have had the privilege of watching that sweet life, of knowing how precious and sacred it is, how the little beings guard their nests with almost human wisdom, and cherish their young with faithful, careful self-sacrificing love. If women only knew these things, there is not one in the length and breadth of the land, I am happy to believe, who would be cruel enough to encourage this massacre of the innocents by wearing any precious rifled plume of theirs upon her person.

At this moment, when again comes April back to us, bringing once more these sky-born minstrels and poets dear, troops of boys throughout the whole country are slaughtering the bluebirds for the milliner! and not only the bluebirds but every feathered thing that flies. Oh, let us begin to try to put an end to this evil, "wrought from want of thought!" The Audubon society furnish some facts which prove how far it has gone. "From one small district on Long Island about 70,000 birds were brought to New York in four months' time. In New York one firm had on hand Feb. 1, 1886, 200,000 skins. The supply is not limited by domestic consumption; American bird skins are sent abroad; one New York firm had a contract to supply 40,000 skins of American birds to one Paris firm."

No comment is needed.

Will not the women of Boston lead the way as a city of merciful women, and take vigorous steps toward putting an end to this outrage against our Mother Nature? Once let refined and cultivated women see the matter in its true light, refuse to wear feathers and refuse to allow their children to wear them, the evil in this city, at least, would soon disappear. And it would be a beginning—let the fine women lead the way, the rest will soon follow; the servant will not wear what the lady refuses to countenance, for, curiously enough, Fashion is respected as much by the ignorant as by the cultivated—high and low alike bow down before the grim goddess, and Fashion has become a murderous fiend.

It is spring, the old hats and bonnets are to be laid aside. Let us buy no more birds with which to "decorate" the new head covering. More than this, let us not keep any we have now for future use, neither give them away, but destroy them at once, without hesitation, that they may never again set a bad example. Let us all be proud to walk abroad without a badge of cruelty upon our heads. Destroy them and never purchase others. How slight a sacrifice is this for us, how great a gain in the cause of humanity! At once, this day, this hour let us, in the name of love and pity, begin to spare and try to save the birds.

Firing Guns in Newspapers.

BOSTON, May 7.—As firing guns shocks sick people and alarms the timid, the Boston Globe is celebrating its reaching over 100,000 circulation by firing its guns in the newspapers, which is the best way after all to reach the people. The average circulation of the Boston Sunday Globe in April was 101,685 and the Daily Globe 97,692.

The Sunday Globe to-morrow will be exceptionally brilliant and interesting for all classes. Order it to-day.

Three of the leading anarchist conspirators of Chicago were arrested on the 5th, charged with murder. These are Spies, editor of the Arbeiter Zeitung, German Socialist newspaper, Michael Schwab, and Fielding. They are held without bail. Parsons, another leader, is secreted, and search is made for him; his wife is arrested. Search in Spies' office discovered explosives similar to those used by the mob. A large quantity of powder, fuses, and high explosives were found at A. R. Parsons' place of business. He is said to be a native of Massachusetts, about forty-five years of age, and is known in Pittsburg, Pa., as an instigator and leader in the riots in that state last year. His mulatto wife told the police that her husband was so well hid that there was no danger of his being found.

The striking workmen in Cincinnati strongly denounce the carrying of a red flag at the head of a recent parade.

Several incendiary fires, credited to the anarchists, were started in Chicago on the 6th. Many socialists' houses and saloons were raided, and arms, ammunition and anarchist literature seized. Gustav Stenge, a maker of dynamite bombs, and by some persons said to be the man who threw the bomb which was so disastrous to the police, was arrested. The fund for the families of the officers killed and wounded was raised to $32,000, and subscriptions kept coming in.

The strikers in Cincinnati on the 6th compelled laborers who were at work, and wished to continue, to stop. Serious trouble was feared.

Seventeen members of the Bohemian Bakers' union who were engaged in boycotting Mrs. Landgruff, have been arrested at New York, and locked up; they were arrested on warrants issued on indictments found by the grand jury.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or

Bright's Disease

is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

This is Vol. III of the Lake and Forest series, and portrays the movements and adventures of a party of Boston boys in the forests of Maine. It is intended specially for the reading of boys and young men, and is both interesting and wholesome, besides containing a great amount of information in regard to the wild regions of Maine, of whose extent few persons have any adequate conception. Though written mainly for the boys, the men and the ladies will find, both amusement and instruction within its covers.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla heals all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that some has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1885, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. FREE, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LAWS, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Friday evening, May 7th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board.

Records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Edward C. Mathes was granted leave to encumber Langdon street, and George B. French to encumber Daniel street, for building purposes.

John Stewart's request for leave to open Water street to lay drain was referred to committee on streets.

Sophie Searcy and others petitioned for laying out of a new highway near Clinton street; referred.

Committee on laying out and widening streets were authorized to widen and straighten Sagamore road according to plan, a stone wall to be built at Mr. Hall's, men to be employed by the day, and Mr. Jos. R. Holmes to oversee the work; and $1000 was voted for this purpose.

The city solicitor reported in regard to the fence across Sparhawk street, and it was ordered removed.

The ordinance authorizing the sale of part of the city's stock in the Portsmouth & Dover railroad was passed under suspension of the rules, and sent down for concurrence.

Voted that Mr. John Nutter be allowed to appear before the committee on claims, in support of his claim for compensation for injury received from a fall on the sidewalk.

Bills to the amount of $3,400.27, were reported, and ordered paid except bills incurred by health committee amounting to $18.25.

A delegation of barbers appeared before the board, requesting the enforcement of the Sunday ordinance so far as barber shops are concerned. City marshal was instructed to enforce the ordinance.

The court leading off Deer street between High and Vaughan streets, was named Garrett's court, and a sign ordered to be put up.

City employes were ordered to be paid every two weeks instead of monthly.

An ordinance authorizing the sale of the city farm was introduced and referred, as was also a bill transferring certain unexpended balances.

Adjourned to Thursday, May 20th.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Teachers' Institute for Rockingham county will meet in this city on Thursday and Friday of next week, and the programme for the two days will be as follows:

Evening—7:30 o'clock, lecture by Hon. G. H. Littlefield; subject: "Daniel Webster."

The larger part, if not all, the exercises will be held at Franklin hall. The public are cordially invited.

The effort to provide visiting teachers with entertainment is meeting with fair success. Citizens who are willing to open their homes to the visitors, and who have not yet notified the committee, are requested to send their names to Mr. F. W. Sweet at their earliest convenience.

EASTERN RAILROAD ELECTION.

The supreme court of Massachusetts has sent down a rescript in the case brought against Willard P. Phillips and others, to test the legality of the election of six directors of the Eastern railroad by the bondholders at the last election. The trustees at that election voted on certificates that had been purchased on behalf of the sinking fund, and thereby defeated Arthur Sewall, George C. Lord, Nathaniel J. Bradlee, Sam'l C. Lawrence, Frank Jones and Richard Olney. The court rules that the trustees are bound to cancel the bonds as soon as purchased, and that the voting of the trustees on them was illegal.

The Monument committee will meet this (Saturday) evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the common council room.

Mayor Eldredge is having a large addition made to his stable in Cornwall street.

In each of the suits of Emery against the Boston & Maine railroad the court has decided that the plaintiff recover two hundred dollars damages, the sum provided by statute to be paid to the party delayed at a public crossing more than two minutes each time. The railroad contended that in one case the delay was caused by the breaking of part of the engine. In the other case it was contended that a sufficient space was left open between the cars to allow teams to be driven through.

Quite a hilarious nuptial celebration came off in the brewery district on Thursday evening. The wedding breakfast lasted as long as the contents of the barrel of ale donated for the happy festivities held out.

The voters of the town of North Hampton at the last town meeting voted to enlarge the town hall, which some time since was removed to its present site near the railroad station. The enlargement is now being made by an extension of sixteen feet in the rear. The town appropriated fifteen hundred dollars for this purpose. The town hall is used for election purposes once a year, and every other year for the fall election, and some of the voters begin to regard it as an expensive luxury, and think it would be better for the tax-payers if the town would "hire a hall."

In the United States Circuit court Judge Colt has handed down a rescript in case Fairbanks, assignee of Dunn, against the Amoskeag bank and others, allowing the application of the bank for a writ of certiorari to be directed to the clerk of the District court requiring him to send copies of certain papers forming, as the defendants claim, a part of the case in the District court, appealed to the Circuit court.

A new sloop built at Waldoboro', Me., and owned by Capt. Creamer and others, arrived at this port on Friday from Waldoboro' to engage in the fishing business. She is forty feet long over all, fourteen feet beam, seven feet deep, and measures 9.43 tons, government measurement; she hails from Waldoboro', and is commanded by Capt. Creamer, who proposes to use her in the trawl fishery out of this port until about the 1st of July, and then go after sword fish. She is named the John W. Caswell, in honor of Ex-Alderman Caswell, who has presented her with a set of colors. She was visited by many seamen and river men on Friday afternoon as she lay at Randall & Caswell's wharf.

The schooner Mary Willey, Williams master, arrived on Friday from Bangor with lumber to John H. Broughton—her first trip this season.

Mrs. John C. Bush leaves for Glasgow, Scotland, in the steamer of the 12th inst. from New York.

Mr. Daniel Ross, who has been in Orlando, Fla., through the winter, with his father, Capt. Ross, has arrived in this city for a visit of a couple of weeks.

Competition between leading manufacturers has resulted in wonderfully low prices in playing cards. This may continue, but many people are buying cards for next winter at Preston's drug store, prices from ninety cents to $6.00 per dozen packs.

Georgia Cayvan had a fine reception recently at Bath, Me., her native place. Large floral tribute, with a presentation speech by the mayor, a reception at the Sagadahoc house, and similar testimonials, showed how the people on the Kennebec appreciate their native celebrity.

Pittsfield, Mass., is excited over the discovery that Miss Alice Cook, a highly accomplished and popular society lady of thirty-six years, has for some months been the wife of John Acres, aged twenty-three. The husband is an Irishman, and was employed by Miss Cook's brother-in-law, District Attorney A. F. Waterman, as coachman.

A delegation of the American Knights of Labor is in England, endeavoring to effect an alliance with the British trade organizations.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were painful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging a large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars "to my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. TO CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY, so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvellous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begin from the first application. It is rapid, radical permanent, economical, safe.

Making Paper as Tough as Leather.

A plan for rendering paper as tough as wood or leather has been recently introduced on the continent; it consists in mixing chloride of zinc with the pulp in the course of manufacture. It has been found that the greater the degree of concentration of the zinc solution, the greater will be the toughness of the paper. It can be used for making boxes and for roofing.—Boston Budget.

The Designers of Artistic Valentines.

High prices are paid for valentine designs, and some of the best artists in New York, Boston, and elsewhere are regularly employed by the manufacturers at good salaries, but the greater part of the work is done by the piece by outsiders.

Appreciation of the California Redwood.

The value for manufacturing and finishing purposes of the richly grained redwood of California is beginning to be appreciated, though not, it would seem, until after immense quantities of it have been diverted to unnecessary uses. Until recently the rich, curley bird's-eye and other peculiarly marked species were cut for rough lumber and the softer, straight-grained kinds being so much more easy to work, less liable to shrink endwise, and not so liable to split in nailing, were the favorite material for building and other purposes for which redwood was used, to the exclusion of the wavy and peculiarly grained varieties included in the first-class redwood list.

Thus trees or logs indicating the very features now so prized in redwood have been used in prodigious quantities, simply because of their size and strength; but it is now a matter of special interest to builders and artisans that, for richness and peculiarity of grain, the redwood is excelled only by the finest of costly hard wood. The shrinking endwise is special to this wood, but does not extend beyond thorough seasoning.—Chicago Herald.

A New Formula for Consumption.

We are in receipt of a number of communications on a topic which just now seems to be receiving the attention of a great many persons. It is the question of the treatment of consumption, and all kindred of diseases, without drugs. Many years ago, in France, it was decided by the leading physicians that nothing was equal to beef as a article of diet in consumption and all ailments which tend to its development. This is now a generally admitted fact. Much difficulty, however, has been experienced in the promulgation of this truth, from the fact that many stomachs cannot digest it. The indigestible quality of cooked beef oil having led to its being abandoned in medical treatment, it was found that blood taken from an animal just killed, if swallowed, produced marvelous beneficial effects. This found favor with few, however, but the idea has been put into practical operation, and there are in all parts of the world to-day hospitals devoted to the cure of consumption, and kindred diseases, where beef combined with alcohol, in some form, is the chief article of food. Efforts have been made by those interested to keep this simple remedy from the masses, partly from selfish motives, but quite as much from the fact that the wonderful benefits to be received would be doubted by many if they knew in advance what constituted the cure. Absolutely pure blood, the efficacy depends on the presence of spirits free from adulterations and fusel oil. In the past such an article has been difficult to procure. Now, however, it can be obtained, and the communications we have referred to are from parties who are using a formula of this kind received from the Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., of Baltimore, Md. The formula, which was prepared specially for them by an eminent German scientist, consists principally of raw beef steak and ingredients, which any housekeeper can get and mix, combined with their pure malt whiskey, which will, if regularly used, add on an average from 5 to 8 pounds in a month to the weight. On the receipt of a two-cent stamp, the formula will be sent, to all parties using their whiskey, under the seal of the company. From the abundance of testimony there can be no question as to its value. This method of treatment is in accordance with the views of the two recognized leading medical authorities of this country, Professor Austin Flint and Professor H. C. Wood. The company has received so many inquires concerning this formula, that they have found it necessary to add a medical department to their other business facilities.

Society of Decorative Art,
23 East 21st St., New York, Dec. 22, 1885.

To The Brainerd & Armstrong Co.—Dear Sirs: Having tested your embroidery silks, and finding them in color and texture eminently satisfactory, the managers of the Society of Decorative Art believe that you have found the secret of fast dyes. They believe it is no longer necessary to the Society to be dependent upon foreign manufacturers. I have pleasure in telling you that it has been decided by the board of management to give you the silk thread lustreless of the Society of Decorative Art. Congratulating you that your dyes stand "test" under the severest test, I am,

Very truly yours, A. R. BLODGETT,
President of the Society of Decorative Art.

Also endorsed and exclusively used by the ASSOCIATED ARTISTS of New York.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp, should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PERCENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a good growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow Hair in 40 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.

When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.

Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO.,

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are leisurely eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route for those who seek the pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Setting Out Trees and Gardening!

BY a man who has had fifteen years experience. EDWIN SMALL, No. 5 Liberty St.

THE HOPE OF NEW ENGLAND.

The last census is not altogether pleasant reading in many portions for the sons of New England, but it conveys lessons which they cannot afford to ignore. If it tells that Maine and Vermont stood stationary as regards populations between 1870 and 1880, it also records the rapid growth and prosperity of many cities and towns which are beginning to tread upon the heels of older communities. It seems to say that to manufactures, not to agriculture, must New England apply herself, and that to the skill of her artisans must she look for her old-time supremacy. This changed condition of affairs is recognized in many enterprising cities, a good example of which may be found in Waterbury, the bustling Connecticut city upon the Naugatuck that is so rapidly coming to the front as a manufacturing center. Waterbury has wide-awake citizens who take every opportunity to push it and to welcome new ideas. The advantage of such a progressive spirit is well shown in the case of G. W. Angell, who lives at No. 204 South Main street, Waterbury, and who gives this personal experience:

"For twenty years I have suffered tortures from chronic rheumatism. The doctors said I was incurable, but thanks to Athlophoros, I have now taken a new lease on life. I had tried numerous remedies with the hope of at least allaying my suffering, but all failed until a friend advised me to try Athlophoros. I did so, and as the result am now looking and feeling as though I had never known what rheumatism was."

Mrs. E. Vickers, of No. 46 Pleasant street, says:

"It is owing to Athlophoros that I am now alive. I suffered with inflammatory rheumatism for years, most of the time being perfectly helpless. One bottle of Athlophoros cured me. I can sincerely say that there is nothing like it for the speedy relief and permanent cure of rheumatism and can recommend it to all suffering from that disease."

The testimony is reinforced by that of Mrs. Jane Downey, of No. 24 Pleasant street, a near neighbor of Mrs. Vicker's, in this story of her case:

"Two bottles of Athlophoros cured me of inflammatory rheumatism. My family physician advised me to take the remedy, saying that he had done all he could for me, but could give me no relief. Athlophoros drove the rheumatism away, and I am happy to say that it has never come back. My daughter, who suffered terribly from rheumatism, was also cured by taking half a bottle of the medicine."

If you cannot get Athlophoros at your druggist, we will send it express prepaid on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We wish to impress upon the public that you buy it from the druggist, if you haven't it, do not be persuaded to take something else, but order at once from us. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing SICK Headache, yet our Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured HEAD Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But a cure all sick head ACHE is the base of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not. Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents: five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail. SONG.

How many lips have uttered one sweet word—
Ever the sweetest word in any tongue!
How many listening hearts have wildly stirred,
While burning blushes to the soft cheeks sprung,
And dear eyes, deepening with a light divine,
Were lifted up, as thine are now to mine!

How oft the night, with silence and perfume,
Has hushed the world that heart might speak to heart,
And made in each dim haunt of leafy gloom
A trysting place where love might meet and part,
And kisses fall unseen on lips and brow,
As on thine, sweet, my kisses linger now!

—Charles L. Hildreth.

TAKING THE VEIL.

Just there the turbid river assumes even more than its wonted angry appearance and in great eddies, miniature whirlpools and seething currents seems to be undergoing some terrible convulsion of pain at being confined between the barriers of the levees. Immediately above and below this sweeping bend it moved along with something like majesty in its smooth, broad surface, and creates an impression of its Titanic power perhaps far greater than where it bubbles and boils, twists and turns in discomfiture at being forced to change its straight, onward rush to the sea to conform to the idiosyncrasies of the irregular banks. Here and there the branches of partially submerged willows were swaying to and fro moved by the impetuous current, and rafts of driftwood, gathered by the eddy from the great masses floating down, kept up their slow revolution some twenty yards from the bank. Every little while portions of this confused aggregation of trees, branches, twigs, fence rails and other flotsam, always seen in high water on the Mississippi, would be caught by the main current and go sweeping down as if glad to part company with the heterogenous mass it had just left. Deadman's Eddy was known in those days by all the steamboatmen, and few of them cared to put the noses of their boats into it on a dark night, for it had a reputation that was anything but inviting. Numbers of boats had their wheels disabled by the accumulated drift, and one or two had been snagged within the boundaries of this ominously named portion of the river.

Opposite Deadman's Eddy, embowered in a grove of stately live oaks, stood the large plantation house of the Cavellier family, a roomy, comfortable building belonging to the Creole style of architecture that probably affords more shade and ventilation to the square foot than any other known to southern climates.

It stood about 200 yards back from the levee, and the intervening space was laid out in parterres of roses and palms, camelias and sweet olive.

Neither the quiet charm of the landscape, the delicious atmosphere of perfume, nor the ravishing pearl shower of bird notes produced anything like the effect on a visitor to this place that the queenly beauty of Marguerite Cavellier did. A brunette of 22, her eyes had set more guitars thrumming in bachelor's quarters along the river than any other belle ever known thereabouts, and her face had flooded the table of the editor of L'Abeille, in New Orleans, with hundreds of poems, some of them written, it must be admitted, in questionable French, but all warm, passionate and devoted. She was tall, with the figure of some of those delicately chiseled Grecian statues, and possessed of a manner that was so perfectly natural and free from constraint it left with everybody the impression that they had been intimate friends of hers for years. She did not know what guile or duplicity was, and with the naivete of a child would reprove or compliment the action regardless of any thought of the actor. Every negro picaninny on the plantation worshiped her with a blind idolatry as something entirely supernatural and not of this earth. Her voice was low and musical, and when her great black eyes were fixed on the listener the effect was almost magnetic. The French word svelte applied to her most appropriately. To see her on horseback in the morning galloping along the river road, followed by her gayly-dressed negro boy was a sight well worth the trouble of early rising, at least so thought Edouard de Montpre, the struggling young attorney of the parish. No matter how late he may have been pouring over his books endeavoring to fix in his memory precedents and leading cases he never missed his promenade on the levee just at that hour when the young equestrienne came cantering along. A lifted hat and deferential bow was always paid for by a bewitching smile and wave of the hand, and the lawyer for the rest of that day saw that face peering into his own over the back of his Hennen's digest, and out of the panels of his not too well filled bookcase. On his father's death city merchants had sold out the Grand Bosquet plantation under many mortgages, and the only surviving son was left with an athletic form, good disposition and excellent education as the only legacies from the Montpre estate. Everybody along the coast, as the banks of the Mississippi river was called by the residents in those days, esteemed the young man and applauded him in his efforts to re-establish the paternal name.

He visited the Cavelliers once or twice a month, but his self-pride imagined that his receptions there were not as cordial on the part of the venerable host as they might have been, and this he attributed to his own modest purse.

It would be pleasant writing to tell how the friendship between the lawyer

Start for the Train or Boat in good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at odd times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the travelling public, this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveller, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer, all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kidneys, and is a fine nerve tonic.

Purify Your Blood.

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

Bourbon

Is a word usually applied to a settled conservative thing. We speak of Bourbon Democrats, meaning those of the old school. It is applied to the G. O. Taylor Whiskey, as Old Bourbon, meaning a safe, reliable and proven article. Pure Rye shows what is meant. Ask your druggist or Grocer for the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, and you get all you ask and pay for. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is not equalled for purity or medicinal quality.

Just Wait a Bit.

The schooner David J. Adams, of Gloucester, Mass., Capt. Allen Kennedy, has been seized by the Dominion authorities while purchasing bait at Digby. The schooner was taken to St. John.

Just hold on until our gallant American secretary of state has had time to ask the British minister what is proper to be done in this case, and then admire the soothing and apologetic message he will send to the Bluenoses. Were the wicked Blaine secretary of state now, just as likely as not he would say or do something displeasing to the English, don't you know, as he would undoubtedly act without first consulting Minister West, but Secretary Bayard won't, unless he departs from his previous custom.

They May Manage It.

A Washington despatch says that "Messrs. Randall and Morrison, hostile as they are on tariff subjects, have agreed on a programme for the rest of the session on other matters. They will unite in opposing any large pension bill, against large appropriations for building new cruisers or for coast defence. They propose to prevent any consideration of the education or bankruptcy bills and after the tariff bill is disposed of, to bring the session to an end at the earliest possible moment."

Whether these leaders can sufficiently control the men of their party to defeat pension bills, prevent an increase of the navy and the appropriation of a proper sum for our coast defences, besides compelling the postponement of the proposed bankrupt law, of course depends largely upon the discipline of the democrats. The democratic house of representatives seems thus far to be noted for what it does not accomplish, and if its past record is to be taken as an indication of its future action it is quite possible that Messrs. Randall and Morrison may be able to keep their forces sufficiently in subjection to carry out their programme.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or

Bright's Disease

is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

ORPHANS' HOME--MEETING.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 7th.

The New Hampshire Orphans' Home at Franklin is one of the noblest and best organized charities in the state. It is conducted in a manner best calculated to serve the humane purpose for which its founders and supporters bought and improved the homestead farm of the immortal Webster. Four hundred destitute children have found shelter in the home, and have been adopted by respectable families to be educated and reared, happy and useful members of society.

In order that the citizens of Portsmouth may learn something about the practical working of this admirable institution, and have an opportunity to contribute every one a "mite," we the undersigned unite in extending an invitation to Hon. John D. Lyman, a trustee of the Home, to visit our city and address a public meeting of the ladies and gentlemen of Portsmouth, with a view to the future maintainance of the Orphans' Home.

EXETER, N. H., May 8th, 1886.

Mrs. A. R. Dwight and others:

Your letter expressive of a generous appreciation of the management of the New Hampshire Orphans' Home and indicative of an encouraging interest in its dependent inmates, is received.

I take pleasure in accepting your kind invitation to address the citizens of Portsmouth for the purpose of giving them a history of the institution and an account of its practical operation, and to demonstrate the necessity for its existence, and perpetuation; and suggest Wednesday evening, May 12th, as the date.

Very Respectfully Yours,
JOHN D. LYMAN.

In accordance with the above, the committee have arranged for a public meeting at the Congregational chapel on Middle street, Wednesday evening, May 12th, to commence at 7:45 o'clock. Mayor Eldredge will preside, and other able speakers beside Mr. Lyman will be present. All are invited.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The directors of the hospital very gratefully acknowledge the donation of a portable bath-tub from a friend; also of a box at Easter, from a class in one of our Sunday schools, containing the following articles: One tidy, two pillow-cases, four towels, one twine-ball bag, with scissors, two holders, and three duster-bags with two dusters each. The work, done by the little girls of this class, is so beautiful that the directors cannot refrain from making special mention of it.

A refrigerator is greatly needed at the hospital. Will not some person, or persons, contribute one?

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The programme for the Teachers' Institute promises a session of much interest, not only to teachers and school officers, but to the general public. The speakers are those thoroughly interested in the cause of education, and for the most part, so well known that comment is unnecessary. The list includes Miss Laura Carlton of the State Normal school, Profs. Smith, Quimby and Butterfield of Dartmouth college, Hon. W. A. Mowry of Boston, in his lecture on the great northwest, and Hon G. A. Littlefield, on Daniel Webster. From our own schools, Prof. Pickard gives a talk on light, and Mr. F. W. Sweet illustrates his method of teaching the effect of alcohol. From the intermediate grades Miss Ida L. Marston will illustrate with a class her method of teaching language and its application, and Miss Lizzie M. Flagg will also illustrate, with class, her method of teaching geography. The class exercises will prove of much practical value to teachers, showing, as they will, the means rather than the end, the method rather than the result. Exercises held in Franklin hall, and all citizens invited.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

MAY TERM, Clark J.

The May term of this court began in this city on Saturday. The number of entries of civil actions is greater than at any previous term of this court. Among them are cases removed from the state courts of Merrimac, Sullivan, Carroll and Coos counties.

The call of the docket of civil actions showed that but few cases would be for trial by the jury. Of the actions entered, two have been referred to Ex-Judge Lowell; in four, motions to dismiss have been filed.

One bill in equity, Hale & Smith vs. Keene Chair Co., Sam'l W. Hale and others, has been removed to this court, and was entered.

In case Norton and others against the city of Portsmouth, Ex-Judge Foster, counsel for the city, filed motions for security for costs and for leave to plead double.

Walter D. Hardy, Esq., of Franklin, and Fred. R. Felch of Derry, were on motion of District Attorney Frink admitted to practice.

Mrs. Ann T. Worthen, against whom is pending an indictment for illegally obtaining money from the United States on a pension voucher, and also a civil suit to recover the amount obtained, appeared in court, and the disclosure of Jay P. Bassett as trustee was taken. Mrs. Worthen is an old lady, and she was advised to procure counsel. Her case will be brought up this week.

In Robertson vs. Kittell, (treasurer of the Northern railroad,) removed from state court, counsel for piff. filed a motion to remand the action to the state court. This is a suit brought by a stockholder in the Northern railroad to recover one thousand dollars which he avers the defendant forfeited by neglecting to make at the plaintiff's request a certified copy of certain journal entries on the books of the corporation. The plaintiff contends that this is not an action of a civil nature, and is not removable from the state court, as it is a suit for the recovery of a penalty or forfeiture for a violation of a statute law of the state, and therefore an action of a penal or criminal nature.

The court took a recess to Tuesday, the 11th inst., at eleven o'clock A. M., when the jurors will be in attendance.

Judge Colt is expected to be in court on Tuesday.

A NOBLE DONATION.

The Cottage Hospital has received a very handsome donation from the ladies of St. Elisabeth's Guild of the Church of the Annunciation, Philadelphia, of which Rev. Dr. H. G. Batterson is rector. The following is a list of the 256 articles contained in the box:

Towels—Two dozen plain white, half-dozen red-line, one dozen miscellaneous, two dozen light gray, one dozen red-line, two dozen crash, one dozen glass, four miscellaneous; six tablecloths, twelve tea napkins, twenty-four dinner napkins, twenty sheets, twenty draw-sheets, two night-dresses, ten night-shirts, four dozen pillow-slips.

This noble gift was entirely unsolicited. The ladies of the guild above-named prepare a box every Lent for some hospital, and learning from one of their number of our little hospital here, and the efforts made to establish and carry on the work, they most generously volunteered their assistance.

The manufacturer's agents who have been conducting the extensive sale of ladies' and children's cotton underwear at No. 29 Market street, in another column make a special announcement which will greatly interest the ladies. The trade at this store since it was opened has been very large, the managers expressing themselves as well satisfied. The sale ends this week.

Now is the chance to get your picture copied and enlarged on the installment plan. Don't let this opportunity pass, but have them now, before it is too late. I remain one week only. Orders left with Richard May, No. 5 Warren street. Specimen of the work to be seen in Montgomery's window.

Henry Atwell and another young man were "fooling" with a cleaver in a meat shop on Saturday, when Atwell had all the fingers of his right hand gashed to the bone by the cleaver being drawn through it.

Col. Charles A. Sinclair is absent on a brief visit to Florida.

Mr. J. L. Sanborn of South Boston, formerly of Portsmouth, was in the city one day last week, for the first time in twenty years. Mr. Sanborn was one of the original crew of the U. S. S. Kearsarge, and a participant in the duel with the Alabama, twenty-two years ago on the 19th of June next; and his visit here was to call on some of his former shipmates, and assist in arranging for the next annual reunion, which will this year take place at the Quincy house, Boston.

The new flower vases placed in front of the Rockingham, on a line with those previously set up by Dr. Parsons in front of his residence on State street, are in good taste, and set off the terraces finely.

President Cleveland last week vetoed two private pension bills, one of which proposed to increase the pension of Major Alfred J. Hill of this city.

There was sharp lightning, some very fair thunder, and a fine rain, Saturday night.

Mr. Henry L. Harlow, who has supplied the music at the Hotel Wentworth for several years past, has been engaged to furnish it this season. The band will go on duty July 1st.

Gentlemen: Truly the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. To CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as others who use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY, so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the membrane is destructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hawking and gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical permanent, economical, safe.

and Marguerite ripened into an intimacy that soon developed into a pure and deep love. The Cavellier family, although opposing De Montpre's frequent visits, were all of them under the sweet influence of Marguerite, and could refuse her nothing.

"Edouard," she said, "was so different from the other callers, and she never saw him without learning something—he was so gifted and knew so much."

And so it was within' a year after her return from the convent they were engaged, Mons. Cavellier agreeing to give the young man the Belle Colombe place, on the other side of the river, for a start after marriage.

In the midst of that beautiful season of contemplated love and betrothal, the old plantation house was startled by the report brought from New Orleans that the state of Louisiana had seceded, and troops were being raised for a war. The news spread rapidly. People that hitherto had taken little or no part in political affairs began to discuss the situation. Col. Lafferranderie, an old army officer had established his headquarters at the Cut-off postoffice, not far distant from the Cavellier place, and young men were enrolling in scores. The conversation around the dinner tables now was devoted to the new artillery company of Capt. So-and-so, or the splendid chasseurs a-peid of young Molaison of the adjoining parish. Edouard Montpre caught the infection. Forty young men tendered him their captaincy, and in three weeks he and his men were on a steamboat bound for the Crescent City.

The parting of Edouard and Marguerite was most tender and affecting. The men of the company, long afterward, around the camp fires in the mountains of Virginia, frequently talked of it, and not a little of the love and solicitude for their captain was due to their knowledge that he had left behind the most loving and noble girl in the state.

The boat blew a long and discordant whistle, as if impatient of the delay caused by De Montpre's leave-taking. He realized that the supreme moment had come. He bent tenderly over her and whispered. "Ma cherie, I will be with you soon again. It may all be over in a month. Look for my return on every boat. Think of me often, my darling. It is for you and our people I go." He kissed her, muttered a tremulous "Adieu," and started down the steps. Marguerite stood motionless for a moment and then sank to the floor.

Assisted by her father and an old negro nurse she reached the levee just as the boat was backing out. As long as Deadman's Eddy was in sight the flutter of a white handkerchief could be discerned against the background of green willows growing on the bank.

Boats passed and repassed. Sometimes they would stop near the Cavellier place, sometimes they would go on, but none of them bore her lover back to her. She waited weeks, months, years. Each day that figure in white could be seen seated in the shade of a live oak in front of the old plantation house, keeping its watch for that boat that never came.

Bankers,

Doctors, lawyers, carpenters, druggist, engineers, mechanics, in fact we have recommendations from people in all stations in life, testifying to the wonderful cures that Sulphur Bitters have effected. Send for testimonials. See another column.

Hugo Floris, who killed a burglar in Hartford, Conn., one night last week, has been discharged from custody.

Twenty years of suffering from catarrh and catarrhal headache; I never found anything to afford lasting relief until I tried Ely's Cream Balm. I have used two bottles, and now consider my catarrh cured. I have recommended it to several of my friends with like good results.—D. T. Higginson, 145 Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

The president has appointed Wm. Fitzgerald collector of internal revenue for Boston, vice Eben F. Pillsbury, whose nomination was very properly rejected by the senate.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

Mr. W. H. Bigelow, superintendent of the first division railway mail service of New England, has been requested to send in his resignation, to take effect May 15th.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose.

Counsel for Mrs. Annie J. Taber have filed objections in the Massachusetts court to having the decree of divorce obtained by her husband, Fred J. Taber, made absolute. The ground is that new and important evidence has been discovered.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HEMMICK & Bro., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

At Madden Hill, Tenn., Polk Martin quarrelled with his sweetheart, shot her, her sister and her mother, and then killed himself.

In the spring, hundreds of persons suffer from boils, carbuncles, and other eruptive diseases. These are evidences that the system is trying to purge itself of impurities, and that it needs the powerful aid which is afforded by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Achille Onofri of Philadelphia has gone to prison for twelve years, for beating to death his nine-years-old stepdaughter.

The household cure for sudden pains, stitch, cramps and soreness, is the Hop Plaster. 25 cts.

Republicans in the house of representatives think they discover a disposition on the part of southern men to unite to prevent the passage of any more bills for the benefit of former Union soldiers. This has been noticed on two recent occasions. Some of the northern democrats have remonstrated against such a course, but without effect.

Hop Plasters cure pain and disease when other remedies fail. Always soothes and strengthens.

St. Mary's Catholic church at New Haven, Conn., has been transferred to the order of Dominicans, and is the first New England church to come under control of this order.

Always avoid harsh purgative pills. They first make you sick and then leave you constipated. Carter's Little Liver Pills regulate the bowels and make you well. Dose, one pill.

The citadel of the Yaqui Indians has been captured by the Mexicans.

The signal station at Cape Henlopen was burned April 8th.

Many ladies admire gray hair—on some other person—but few care to try its effects on their own charms. They need not, since Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray hair to its original color. Sold by druggists and perfumers.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. cod1an

THE WRONG WAY TO GO UP STAIRS.

Going up stairs on one's hands and knees is a method of ascent not uncommonly seen among infants who are just learning the mysteries and perplexities of ambulation, but fortunately it is seldom that those of mature years have to resort to such means of progress. Mrs. J. C. Chapman, a well known resident of Mansfield, Mass., says that she once tried it and failed, and that others may be deterred from a similar experience it is perhaps worth while to give her experience. Mrs. Chapman now walks as upright as any one, and gives this account of her attempt:

"I was perfectly helpless with an attack of acute rheumatism, and was all doubled up. I could not sit upright even long enough to eat a meal. I tried once to get up stairs on my hands and knees, but failed. After taking everything recommended by my friends, and not getting the least benefit from anything, I despaired of ever getting around again. I had lost all hope of being cured when, like a gleam of light, Athlophoros was recommended to me by a friend who had used it with entire success. I took it and have never been troubled with rheumatism since, now three years. I can cheerfully recommend Athlophoros to any body suffering with rheumatism, for I know from experience that it will make a complete and permanent cure."

From J. A. Crane & Co., prominent druggists of Orange, Mass., comes this statement of a case that came under their observation:

"Mr. Shubel Briggs, of this place, has bought Athlophoros of us. He stated to us to-day that his wife before taking it could not move herself in bed, as she was suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism. After taking a few doses of Athlophoros she could move easily, and before two bottles were finished she had recovered completely and has not been troubled since. Mr. Briggs himself, who was troubled with stiffness in the joints, used some of the Athlophoros and experienced decided relief."

Charles H. Minchew, of Taunton, tells this story of his wife's cure, which was not unlike that of Mrs. Briggs:

"My wife had been afflicted with rheumatism for some time, and I employed a doctor who failed to do her any good. I happened to see Athlophoros advertised and concluded to get and try it. It worked like a charm, curing my wife completely, and I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. George H. Surgens is foreman of the cloth room of the Flint mill, Flint Village, Fall River, Mass. He lives at No. 140 County Street, Fall River. Of his wife's case he says:

"My wife was treated by four different doctors for a severe case of neuralgia of six years' standing. Her sufferings were terrible and the physicians could not allay them, though using the most powerful medicines all the time. As she was getting worse and worse I bought a bottle of Athlophoros, and that brought the first and only relief my wife had. Now she can attend to her household affairs and other duties as though she had never experienced the tortures of that dread disease, neuralgia. When Athlophoros can be had at the nearest drug store nobody should suffer from neuralgia or rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he doesn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

TAKING THE VEIL.

The Federal pickets near Culpeper court house, Virginia, were surprised just after daybreak by the appearance of a man staggering along alone, without rifle or accoutrement. The mud on his dress completely hid the color of his uniform. His face was bloody and he reeled like a drunken man. There had been a sharp skirmish near there the evening before, and it was thought the solitary figure coming through the misty woods was some Union soldier left on the field who had recovered sufficiently to get up. The men went out to meet him and were surprised to discover that the unfortunate fellow was a Confederate, and a captain at that. He had received a ball in the center of the forehead, which had fractured but had not penetrated the skull. He could not talk intelligently, and his movements showed that his brain lacked co-ordination. The expression had gone out of his eyes, and his countenance was pale and wan. He was escorted to the rear and placed in a hospital in Washington City, from which he recovered from the wound, but the pressure of a particle of bone on the brain left him lacking his memory. He could tell nothing of his past. It was as if it had never existed.

When the war closed he was released from prison. He knew not where to go, for he could not recall from whence he came. An old gentleman of southern proclivities gave him employment as a gardener in the neighborhood of Washington, and he brought to his new position a strong frame, willing heart and happy disposition. He was looked upon with much curiosity by all the neighborhood, for his bearing and features showed he came from patrician blood.

* * * * * * * *

It seemed as if all nature's minstrels had joined to greet the beautiful morning. The tinkling of cow bells in the pastures behind the convent, usually the first notes of approaching dawn, were silenced by the twitter of birds in the great pecan trees. Mocking birds and oriole, the cardinal and pape, whistled so cheerily that even the blackbirds, half dozing on last year's cornstalks out in the fields, turned their heads first on one side and then on the other meditatively, to listen to the joyous outburst. Inside the chapel of the Ursuline convent there was gathered a silent congregation, mostly of ladies. The yellow light of this spring morning poured through the windows, adding something of the supernatural to the appearance of the interior. The tender, tremulous notes of the organ, the almost weeping voices of the choir, and the agitated tones of the good priest visibly affected all present.

In front of the altar knelt a queenly figure robed in the habiliments of a bride. From that hour she was to become a bride of the Lord, and henceforth as a nun, to devote herself to the obligation of a recluse. For her the world was to be dead forever. There is always something inefinitely sad in the ceremony of taking the veil, and in this case circumstances made it unusually touching. A young lady endowed with wealth, beauty and everything that could make a home happy passed out the chapel door never more to look upon a worldly life again. There were few dry eyes in the little building, and even until to-day many recall the morning when that beautiful young woman gave up the name her family knew her by and was rechristened Sister Ursule. Hope deferred had made the heart sick, and the world had lost its sweetness for her.

That very morning, in the operating ward of the Charity hospital, that skillful surgeon, Dr. Stone, was performing a most delicate operation. A poor fellow, shortly before arrived on a New York steamer, had applied for admission to the hospital, suffering from neuralgia. He complained of his head, and after a careful examination the cicatrix of a wound in the forehead was discovered. The patient told of his lack of memory and could not give anything of his history. The doctors diagnosed the case as one of pressure on the brain by a portion of the frontal bone, and resolved to trephine and remove the cause of the trouble. The operation was successful, and the patient was removed to his cot in another ward.

The next morning he had fully recovered from the effects of chloroform. He called the nurse to him. He asked where he was, and was told. A new light shone in his eyes. He sent for the house surgeon. Everything had come back to him. The vanished years of oblivionsness dawned upon his re-awakened memory. He remembered his parting on that front gallery, the war, the skirmish, and his affianced wife.

He begged the doctor to send for his friends in the city. Surely some of them could be found.

On the third day old Zenon Cavellier visited the hospital. In the man with a bandage about his head he recognized one he had known five years before. The sick man turned over on his bed and looked at the visitor. He raised himself on his elbow and his lips moved. "Where is Marguerite?" were his first words.

The old gentleman hesitated, but the invalid begged so hard. At last, with tears in his eyes, the visitor answered: "She has taken the veil at the convent, and has left the world."

The head dropped back, the eye closed, the hand fell listless on the white sheet. The nurse hurried to the surgeon. There was a rapid movement of feet on the sanded floor, and the gray-haired physi-

in good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at odd times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the travelling public, this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveller, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer, all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kid eys, and is a fine nerve tonic.

The Root of all Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

It has been decided by the Nova Scotia legislature to refer the question of separation from the Dominion government to the people, who will vote yes or nay.

Bourbon

Is a word usually applied to a settled conservative thing. We speak of Bourbon Democrats, meaning those of the old school. It is applied to the G. O. Taylor Whiskey, as Old Bourbon, meaning a safe, reliable and proven article. Pure Rye shows what is meant. Ask your druggist or Grocer for the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, and you get all you ask and pay for. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is not equalled for purity or medicinal quality.

The Seizure by the Canadian Authorities.

At the cabinet meeting on Monday the question arose how mad the administration could afford to become on account of the recent fishery seizure.

Judge Endicott feelingly represented the effect of this outrage upon the thirty thousand fishermen of New England.

The president enquired of Secretary Whitney how he was off for ships of war just now.

The secretary replied that he had caused Mr. Chandler's favorite craft, the Tallapoosa, to be put in fighting trim for a summer cruise, but that in case of a collision between two great powers, the Tallapoosa could not be relied upon to stand much of a shock at sea. He admitted that Randall's movements to reduce the appropriations had made him tired of trying to build a navy, and thought if we were to assume a hostile attitude it had better be entirely on paper.

Secretary Bayard went to the presidential book case, where he found a copy of the poems of the blind bard, from which he read, from a sonnet—

"Peace hath her victories
No less renowned than war."

He suggested that the president invite the British minister to a "fish dinner" at the White House, where the outrage could be discussed over the walnuts and water, and such a programme arranged for a graceful attitude of both nations as would satisfy the fishermen of Cape Ann, prevent a wasteful extravagance in building and equipping naval ships, and maintain the friendly relations between the two countries.

Mr. Garland electrified the board by stating that he took no stock in such proceedings, but the remark was considered as not germane to the discussion, and the president and the cabinet ministers proceeded to consider the question of how much could be saved by substituting for the Bell telephones in the custom houses those of the Pan-Electric company.

Labor Matters.

Up to the evening of the 6th, six of the rioters shot at Bay View, Milwaukee, had died; two more were said to be dying. The Milwaukee police were active in arresting anarchists and seizing arms on the 6th, and the ruffians seemed to be cowed.

The silk weavers at Hoboken, N. J., who struck for eight hours, returned to work when they realized that the mills would be shut down rather than yield to their demand.

The Knights of Labor at Clinton, Mass., on the 7th offered to order the striking carpet-mill employes back to work if they would be received as a body, but the agent refused to treat with them other than as individual applicants for work.

Five hundred brickmakers who returned to work in the yards at Lake View, Chicago, on the 7th, were driven from work by a mob of strikers.

The McCormick Reaper works at Chicago were running with nearly a full force of 1,400 men on the 8th.

The 200 strikers at Armour's glue factory in Chicago have returned to work at the old rate, ten hours' pay for ten hour' work.

At Milwaukee, on the 8th, nineteen socialists and anarchists, including the four ringleaders, were arraigned on a charge of riot and conspiracy to murder. All were remanded to jail.

The police of Cincinnati on the 9th claimed to have discovered that 600 socialists were organized there, armed with rifles; that they controlled the manufacture of dynamite bombs; that the one used in Chicago was made in Cincinnati, and that the socialists of Cincinnati have now on hand a supply of them. The commissioners claim that they have found the name of the manufacturer, William Haines of Covington, Ky. The seventh regiment was in camp at the Hamilton fair grounds, and other regiments were expected. The force will have two field pieces and nine gatling guns.

Two more of the officers injured by the dynamite bomb of the anarchists in Chicago died on the 9th, making five deaths in all. Kruger and Lannis, two of the rioters, died the same day. Adolph Fischer is held on a charge of having thrown the bomb. Several more noted anarchist leaders were jailed on the 9th.

A large supply of modern small arms and ammunition has been stored in the McCormick Reaper works at Chicago, in readiness for another mob. The police claim to have identified many rioters among the men who have returned to work.

E. W. Voight, a brewer of Detroit, Mich., has surrendered completely to his striking employes. He has paid the strikers $2 a day for seven days they were out, a fine for five days' boycott, the expenses of advertising the boycott and minor items, a total of $780. He also discharged eleven men who returned to his employ on the second day of the strike.

The street car employes of Toronto, Ont., have struck for more pay and shorter hours.

The strike at the Bigelow carpet mills in Clinton, Mass., practically ended on the afternoon of the 8th, when seventy of the old dyers applied for work individually, the agent having refused to treat with the committee of the union or the Knights of Labor.

The wholesale clothing manufacturers of Philadelphia having refused to pay the cutters ten hours' pay for eight hours' work, the cutters, 600 in number, struck on the 10th, throwing 8000 persons out of work.

Six hundred hatters at Newark, N. J., are "out."

All the bakers in Pittsburg, Pa., are on a strike for the shortening of their day to twelve hours.

The striking piano makers in New York held a mass meeting on Saturday, declared the strike for eight hours work with ten hours pay to be a failure, and ordered the men back to their respective shops. Resolutions were passed condemning the workmen in the Steinway and Weber shops for not striking, and charging the failure of the strike to them.

The freight handlers strike in Chicago has ended disastrously for the strikers. Some of the roads refused to take back any of the strikers on any terms; one road took all its old hands back, on their agreeing to quit the freight handlers' union; other roads took back all the old hands they had room for, but none of the roads would discharge any of the new men.

Mr. Rice of Massachusetts on Monday introduced a resolution in the house declaring that the seizure of the American schooner by the Canadian authorities was an insult to this country, and demanding reparation and an assurance that it shall not again happen. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Orders have been issued for a survey of the United States steamer Powhatan, at the navy yard in New York. It is likely she will be condemned.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or

Bright's Disease

is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Prevented

AYER'S
Sarsaparilla

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, affect almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." B. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT--A SUGGESTION.

There are probably, very many persons who cannot afford to subscribe any considerably large sum toward the cost of a soldiers' monument, yet who would take pleasure in contributing something toward the desired end. If there could be an arrangement where a box in the postoffice, or in some safe place easily accessible, where the mites could be dropped either enclosed in envelopes or like pennies in childrens' savings banks, perhaps quite a sum could be obtained from persons not likely to be asked to contribute, while such donors would not be deprived of the pleasures to be enjoyed from having been contributors in proportion to their means. The more general the contributions, the more interest will be evinced in the movement, and the greater the appreciation of the result in the years to come. S. R.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, May 10th.

Langdon M. Perkins was before the court on a charge of cruelty to a horse, but the case was nol. pros'd.

MARITIME NOTES.

Mr. Lewis Holmes is making a new topmast and foreboom for the schooner Garnet, Capt. Clark, now up river loading with bricks.

The schooner Orion, Williams master, from Hoboken for this port with a cargo of coal for Dover, was run into on the 7th inst. while at anchor in Vineyard sound, by the schooner Marshall Perrin, and had her jib-boom with all her headgear narried away, cutwater, stem and figure head badly damaged, waterways opened on the port side on deck, and other damage to the hull and rigging. The other schooner had a few stanchions broken, and rail started.

The fishing schooner Grace Choate, Robinson master, on Saturday last when just outside the Shoals carried away the head of her mainmast, and had to put back. She sailed from this port on Monday for Gloucester, to have a new stick put in.

John J. Collins and Richard Gregory, two fishermen belonging to the crew of the schooner Eleanor L. Young, of Cape Porpoise, Me., came in from the Shoals in the steamer Pinafore on Monday morning, having landed on Star island in dory Saturday afternoon, they having lost their vessel while tending trawls on Jeffrey's in the morning of that day. The were hospitably entertained over Sunday be Mr. O. L. Frisbee, manager of the Oceanic, for whose kindness they expressed much gratitude. Mayor Eldredge furnished them with a dinner on Monday, and a passage to Kennebunk, Me., where they expected to find their vessel and rejoin her.

The fishing schooner Monitor, Capt. McDonald, was totally wrecked on the night of the 6th inst. at Port May, Newfoundland. She was built in 1885, owned in Gloucester, Mass., and insured $9,690. The crew were saved.

Last evening Charles L. Davis' "Alvin Joslin" company appeared at the Grand before a fine audience. Mr. Davis as Uncle Alvin was inexpressible funny and kept the audience in a roar. His orchestra is a splendid one, and the soloists were compelled to respond to several encores. Mr. Davis was finely supported, and the play was the hit of the season. The play should be seen by every one, as it is enjoyable in the extreme.—Syracuse Courier.

At Music hall next Friday evening; reserved seat tickets at Goodrich's.

The delegation of barbers as they filed into the aldermen's room at Friday evening's meeting of the board, made a very creditable appearance, and their addresses to the board showed that they have been accustomed to speaking in public. Particular impressive were the religious remarks of Mr. Robert Johns, whose tonsorial studio is near the Pa ade.

The concert in Music hall, Sunday evening, by the South Berwick Cadet band and the Schubert quartette of Boston, was attended by a numerous audience, and proved a very enjoyable entertainment.

Mr. Jeremiah O'Connell, whose foot was badly burned at the foundry of the Portsmouth Machine Co. a few days ago, has so far recovered as to be able to move about on crutches.

We are indebted to Hon. Martin A. Haynes for valuable public documents.

The trustees of the Children's Home have appointed Miss Lizzie Ayers to the position of matron of the Home, made vacant by the resignation of Miss Lizzie J. Hanaford. The trustees' selection gives general satisfaction, Miss Ayers having been the matron's assistant for some years, and being thoroughly qualified by experience to fill her new position.

The Portsmouth Machine Co.'s foundry is now engaged on work used in the manufacture of Brown's Endless-chain mowing machines, the demand for which is said to be so great that this shop will soon be able to furnish but half the quantity required.

Rev. Phillips Brooks was elected assistant bishop of the Episcopal church of Pennsylvania recently. The candidate who received the next highest vote was Rev. Thomas F. Davies, formerly pastor of St. John's church in this city. Mr. Brooks sent a declination by telegraph, being strongly disinclined to leave his rectorship in Boston, a position which in some respects is better than the bishopric.

Mr. Charles R. Bailey, of the theological institute at Newton, Mass., will be ordained to the ministry and installed over the Baptist church at Hampton Falls on the 17th inst.

Rev. J. E. Barry of Concord, Catholic vicar general of New Hampshire, Rev. D. W. Murphy of Dover, and Rev. Eugene M. O'Callaghan, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in this city, will sail from Boston for Europe by steamship Pavonia on Thursday, 13th inst., to be absent three months.

Rev. J. K. Chase of South Hampton is to be the Memorial day orator at Wells, Maine.

Sarah Orne Jewett, now south on account of bad health, contributes an illustrated ballad to the June Wide Awake, entitled "York Garrison, 1640."

Robert C. Dickey of Hillsborough Bridge has leased the Thompson house at Union Bluff, York beach.

Competition between leading manufacturers has resulted in wonderfully low prices in playing cards. This may continue, but many people are buying cards for next winter at Preston's drug store, prices from ninety cents to $6.00 per dozen packs.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The U. S. S. Vandalia was afforded a dock trial at the New York navy yard during last week. As a result several minor imperfections were discovered in her machinery. Owing to defective crank pins her shaft will require repairs, which will delay the departure of the vessel several weeks. A small force of carpenters and machinists are at work upon the repairs to the ship.

The present strikes for eight hours bring to mind an incident which occured some years ago in the inception of the eight-hour movement, at which time Admiral Smith was commandant of the Washington navy yard. The bill making eight hours a day's work in all the public dock yards and navy yards had passed both houses of Congress. The morning after its passage a committee of the navy yard employes waited upon Admiral Smith, and said: "Admiral, hereafter we will work eight hours a day." The Admiral, in his bluff way, said: "I am blanked glad to hear it; you have never done it before."

Naval Intelligence.

Lieut. Comdrs. E. B. Thomas and Isaac Hazlett, and Lieuts. John T. Sullivan, James M. Grimes and E. B. Delehay, have been ordered to examination for retirement.

Lieut. Comdr. Louis Kingsley is detached from torpedo instruction, and placed on waiting orders.

Capt. S. L. Breese is ordered to hold himself in readiness for sea service.

Lieut. Fred H. Lefavor is ordered from the branch hydrographic office at New Orleans, to temporary duty in the bureau of navigation.

Pay Director Casper Schenck is ordered from special duty at San Francisco to the navy pay office at Norfolk, relieving Pay Director Edward May, placed on waiting orders.

Lieut. Chapman C. Todd is ordered from the Washington navy yard to the naval academy.

The New Route to St. Joseph, Mo.

The through line from Chicago to St. Joseph, Mo., over the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway is now open to public use. The extension west from Altamont (from which point the line diverges to St. Joseph) has been constructed with the utmost care, and in all respects compares favorably with any of the older portions of the Rock Island system. Two through express trains run daily between Chicago and St. Joseph, making the trips inside of twenty-one hours. The passenger equipment of these trains, consisting of day coaches, Pullman palace parlor and sleeping cars, reclining-chair cars and dining cars, is and will be charterized by the comfort, luxury and splendor which have made the Kansas City route of the Rock Island so universally popular. The new line opens up a new and independent avenue of transportation to and from one of the most flourishing, go-ahead cities of the west—a city of 50,000 inhabitants, commanding an immense trade that covers a vast area included in the states and territories contiguous and tributary to it. Success to the through line to St. Joseph, and may the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific management harvest that full measure of reward which their superior energy and enterprise have so faily earned.

D. Lothrop & Co. have issued a volume which ought to be of practical value to at least one young woman in every town, "A new departure for girls," by Margaret Sidney. It shows how two Boston-bred girls earned their living, and a competence beside, by repairing worn clothing, curtains, carpets, etc. In France la raccommodeuse, with her patronage of a dozen families or so, is a regular-arriving and important personage, as prosperous as she is necessary. A quiet-mannered mender, nice in her stitches and her "joinings," going from home to home to repair, would find herself a well-paid and welcomed visitor.

From 115 lbs. to 161 lbs.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a sudden lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. TO CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold cheap, so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this dreadful disease in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvellous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

cian appeared. He shook his head sadly. "Tis too bad," said he; "You have spoiled that operation. Heart disease. That did the work! Some shock to his nerves, eh?"

The driftwood still is carried round and round, in the currents of Deadman's Eddy. The orange trees put on their bridal crowns each spring, as before, and the mocking-birds still warble their orisons in the tall pecan trees, but never more will that queenly figure in white be seen on the broad veranda of the old plantation house. Never again will the young attorney wait on the road in the early morn for the coming of that beautiful equestrienne. From the turbid eddies of life the one has floated into the harbor of religion, the other drifted out into the measureless sea of eternity.—"O. E. W." in Times-Democrat.

THE BATTLE OF STEWART'S CREEK.

Rabbits in a Brush Heap—Hundreds of Snakes, Big and Little.

"When Rosecrans moved from Nashville against Bragg at Murfreesboro he had constructed a fort at Stewart's creek between Nashville and La Vergne. The trees were cut down in front and the fortifications were extended, so that in case of retreat a stand could be made at that point. At a late date the fort was abandoned, and a year or more after the battle of Stone River our brigade went into camp on the site of the old fortification, which was now covered with heavy, long grass.

"The brush from the fallen trees had been thrown loosely together in an immense heap covering say a quarter of an acre. As the brigade was preparing to bivouac scores of rabbits started up from the tall grass and ran into this big brush heap. Before the lines were fairly formed some one set fire to the brush, and in a few minutes one-half the brigade was gathered round the heap armed with ramrods, swords, bayonets, and clubs, ready to knock down and capture the rabbits that were running out of the brush. Rabbits came by the score and were easily killed, but the fire had made little progress when there were other developments more astounding. Hundreds of snakes, big and little, ran out in a panicky way, caring no more for the men than if they had been so many logs.

"While the smaller snakes ran between the legs of the boys, the larger ones either ran over the men or scared them out of the way. One or two big racers created a positive panic. In the midst of the uproar, which was now terrific, a queer-looking animal made a dash toward me. The man standing at my side threw a club at it, and killed it at a blow. It proved to be one of the largest red foxes that any of us had ever seen. One the other side and at the same time a wildcat made a dash at the line, and broke through, but was ultimately captured. This was the battle of Stewart's Creek."—Inter Ocean "Curbstone Crayons."

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, as initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which provides and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Commands its patrons that sense of personal security and comfort which results from well ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built bridges, substantial rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of modern railroading and attention to every detail that go to make up the sum of the traveler's comfort and convenience. All connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of the Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars in which elaborately cooked meals are delicately served between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison, according to the Celebrated Rock Island Cuisine.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the only one operating Pullman Sleepers to all points in the Territories and Dakotas, traversing Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, and picturesque localities in Northern Illinois and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most direct route to all points in the great Sioux City and Pacific Land of Interior Dakota.

Still another FAST LINE, with its Express and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

Bankers,

Doctors, lawyers, carpenters, druggist, engineers, mechanics, in fact we have recommendations from people in all stations in life, testifying to the wonderful cures that Sulphur Bitters have effected. Send for testimonials. See another column.

Fred Murch, Albert Murch and a young man named Jordan, all about twenty-one years of age, where capsized in Portland harbor while sailing on Sunday. One was drowned, another burst a blood vessel and died soon after reaching land, and the third was so exhausted he cannot recover.

Twenty years of suffering from catarrh and catarrhal headache; I never found anything to afford lasting relief until I tried Ely's Cream Balm. I have used two bottles, and now consider my catarrh cured. I have recommended it to several of my friends with like good results.—D. T. Higginson, 145 Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

The congressional sub-committee has taken at Galveston, Texas, much strong testimony as to the depression of business caused by the recent Gould-lines strike.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

Titus B. Latimer, a petroleum broker of Brooklyn, N. Y., committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Pecuniary embarrassment is supposed to have been the cause of the act.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose.

A mob of strikers at Lyons, France, sacked the house of one who had returned to work, severely beat the man and his wife, and threw their furniture into the Rhone. The rioters then attacked the factory, but the employes, armed with fowling-pieces, opened fire upon the strikers. The fusilade was kept up until the mob was forced to withdraw with thirty of their number wounded.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Elastic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Chas. L. Mitchell, representative to congress from the second Connecticut district, declines to be again a candidate.

In the spring, hundreds of persons suffer from boils, carbuncles, and other eruptive diseases. These are evidences that the system is trying to purge itself of impurities, and that it needs the powerful aid which is afforded by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fire at Hull, Quebec, on the 10th inst. destroyed 350,000 worth of property, and 200 families were burned out. The fire covered ten acres.

The household cure for sudden pains, stitch, cramps and soreness, is the Hop Plaster. 25 cts.

Edwin Stewart, son of Gen. Edwin R. Stewart, of New York, was thrown from his horse at Pueblo, Col., and fatally injured.

Hop Plasters cure pain and disease when other remedies fail. Always soothes and strengthens.

Dover is pretty sure of a public building, both houses of Congress agreeing on an appropriation of $75,000, instead of $100,000, which the original bill named.

Always avoid harsh purgative pills. They first make you sick and then leave you constipated. Carter's Little Liver Pills regulate the bowels and make you well. Dose, one pill.

The Peterboro' creamery is making 1,200 pounds of butter weekly, which meets with prompt sales.

Many ladies admire gray hair—on some other person—but few care to try its effects on their own charms. They need not, since Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray hair to its original color. Sold by druggists and perfumers.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 4eoiJan

McCLELLAN AND BURNSIDE.

The recent death of General McClellan leaves but few living of those unfortunate commanders who found themselves unequal to the great responsibilities placed upon them during the civil war. Burnside, Halleck, "Fighting Joe" Hooker, and others, had passed away before him, honored by the nation they had served, after having lived down the hostile criticism their official acts had excited. Equal justice will be done to General McClellan, and a true estimate of his abilities as an organizer and a soldier will be recorded. In his political ambition the genial Burnside was far more successful than his old commander, and death found him a senator from Rhode Island. McClellan might have been a cabinet officer but for factional quarrels in New Jersey which made his appointment inexpedient.

Rhode Island's devotion to her handsome senator illustrates a happy characteristic of the smallest State which still distinguishes her. General Burnside was not a native of "Little Rhody"—having come east from Indiana—but he had the right timber in him, and was made governor and afterward senator of his adopted State. The same spirit may be seen in her citizens to-day in their hearty reception of that which will be of benefit to them. A casein point is that of Mr. John A. Bishop, of Central Falls, R. I., who tells this story:

"For eighteen years I suffered with neuralgia and never got any relief until I took Athlophoros. After that had cured me of the disease I became afflicted with sciatic rheumatism, for which I was treated by two doctors. Neither of them did me any good, in fact I grew worse under their treatment. Again I began taking Athlophoros, and, strange as it may seem, relief came almost instantly. The pain abated so that I was able to get around in less than three days, and as I daily grew stronger the rheumatism left me altogether."

Mrs. S. T. Goss, of No. 42 Dudley Street, Providence, can confirm this seemingly wonderful cure out of her own experience. She says:

"For thirty years I suffered with muscular rheumatism, during which time I used every known remedy and all sorts of prescriptions from physicians. At times I would gain a little relief, but only for a short period, after which the disease would attack me with renewed violence. It was while I was suffering one of these very severe attacks that a friend spoke to me of the wonders Athlophoros was doing and advised me to try it. I did get a bottle and in two days after beginning to use it was on my feet. Athlophoros is now kept in my house and is looked upon as indispensable. It is the greatest preparation I ever knew of and will cure rheumatism just as it is claimed it will do."

Mr. J. D. Payne, one of the most prominent citizens of Westville, Ct., where he has pleasant home on Fountain street, is outspoken in his praise of Athlophoros.

"I did not think there was any cure for rheumatism," he says, "but I am pleased to say that there is and that it is Athlophoros. Three doses of it cured my wife of rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he won't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

AN EX-MAYOR'S DIET.

HON. JOHN WENTWORTH, OF CHICAGO LECTURES ON HYGIENE.

"Long John's" Lesson of Life—"Eat When You're Hungry, Drink When Your Thirsty, Sleep When Sleepy"—A Brief Discourse on Drinks—Baths.

The Hon. John Wentworth sat at the corner of a pretty little table sipping Rhine wine and listening to the chatter of the fair dames and damsels arranged about him. Mr. Wentworth prides himself on longevity, and when a freckle-faced maiden in a red bodice asked him "how he managed to live young so long," the ex-mayor rubbed his long, beautiful hands together, threw his shoulders back, and replied:

"Well, it's a continued story. Many cantos to it as there are to 'Childe Harold.' But the final is, I ain't going to get old while I live, and I'm not going to stop living. This world is a pretty nice sort of a place. It suits me; I like it, and I've made up my mind to stay here. People have no business being ill: needn't be, if they only live right."

"Do tell us what you mean by living right" was the next question, that came from the group in waiting.

"Ah, now you've got me. Well, I'll tell you how I manage, but it won't fit your cases, I know, for you women folks aren't like anything else on earth." Without heeding the "ohs" of expostulation and remonstrance, Mr. Wentworth delivered the following little lecture on hygiene, which was made the subject of conversation for a whole hour of the reception.

MEALS WHEN YOU WANT THEM.

He said: "I never was one of your bell-livers. I never did and never will live on time. Got no use for call-bells, dinner-bells, or alarm clocks, and I believe they do more for the general playing of health and killing of people than either gluttony or intemperance. Now, my doctrine is this, eat when you're hungry, drink when you're thirsty, sleep when you're sleepy, and get up when you're ready.

"Why, if I had been hung up the morning and rung to my meals as some people are I'd been dead years ago. No, ladies the way you want to do, if you want to live and go to all the afternoon receptions and old settlers reunions, is to have your meals when you want them, and have what you want."

"I get up in the morning when I am ready. Sometimes at 6, sometimes at 8, sometimes I don't get up at all. Then I have my breakfast if I want it. If my appetite don't get round, I don't have any. What's the use eating if I'm not hungry? I know I can have it, its there; but if I don't need it, why I don't go down, that's all. Eat? oh any thing I feel like. Eggs, fish, chop or so, potatoes, toast, fruit, tea and buckwheat cakes."

"No coffee? nor biscuits?" was echoed in a chorus.

"No coffee. Coffee makes you yellow, and I don't want to be taken for a Mongolian. Don't eat biscuits, 'cause they're always hot, and I don't like hot bread."

"But buckwheat is the worst kind of diet for a careful liver," came from a willowy creature.

"Yes, but I like buckwheat cakes. Just set 'em afloat in a stream of country maple and I'll tell you there's nothing to beat 'em."

"For dinner?"

"Dinner when I'm ready, and that is when my appetite is sharp as yonder dude's nose. No, don't worry me a bit when noon comes and I see the people rushing pell-mell into restaurants and lunch-houses. I dine when I get hungry, and as I'm a working man I have no time to waste thinking about it. Perhaps I dine at 2 or 4 or not until 6 or 8, and when I do I have what's good—soup, fish, roast or stew, plenty of vegetables, bread, rice, bread pudding or such, for I don't lean heavily on pie and dumplings, and Rhine wine."

A BRIEF DISCOURSE ON DRINKS.

For the benefit of the W. C. T. U. element the ex-mayor explained that he used to entertain quite a fancy for whisky, but the stuff was too powerful and he cut loose. "After I gave up whisky I took to champagne, and, by gracious! how I did like to drink the stuff, though! But the doctor told me I was getting kidney trouble, and I had to give up that pleasure; and ever since I have been drinking this clear Rhine wine. It don't do any hurt, and I feel first rate. Not never drink beer. It's nasty stuff; makes you soggy and fat and lazy, and I don't want to be a beer."

"No, young women, wine is not a necessity to any one. I could have just as good health without it; but I don't take any other kind of stimulant but tea—and you know a fellow has to have some bad habits about him, and tea is as sinless as buttermilk. Water? Yes, gallons of it; but not this lake stuff—Waukesha; have it delivered as my room every week, and drink two or three gallons a day."

"Supper? Well, I'm not a maniac on suppers. If I have a late dinner I don't want anything else to eat until next morning, but if I dine anywhere about noon I regale on tea, a salad of fricasse, toast, sauce and a bit of cheese."

To a myriad of inquiries Mr. Wentworth said that hotel life is the best calculated to bring out the individualities of a man as there and only there is liberty hall to be found. "In a private home man is subordinate to the whims and foibles of a cook and housemaid, but where I live I am ruler of my own destiny and if there is any falling in line the house does it, not I. For instance, you people have to eat your meals when they are ready or go without, while my meals are ready when I order them. If I foolishly go to bed before I am sleepy I just get up again, turn on the gas, ring for a paper or new publication and read till I get tired. Fancy your husband humoring himself in that luxurious fashion."

Touching the subject of baths, he said he took a wash when he needed it, but didn't believe in soaking and steaming his life out on a marble slab as fashionables of the present day were doing.—Inter Ocean.

in good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at odd times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the travelling public, this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveller, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer, all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kid eys, and is a fine nerve tonic.

Biliousness

is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, offensive breath, coated tongue, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may result. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

Dr. Frederick N. Palmer of Boston, aged about seventy-three years, took passage on the steamer John Brooks, bound for Portland, on the evening of the 10th inst., being accompanied by a boy four years old, his grandson. When near Thatcher's island he threw the boy overboard and then jumped over himself, and both were drowned. No cause for the act is known.

Bourbon

is a word usually applied to a settled conservative thing. We speak of Bourbon Democrats, meaning those of the old school. It is applied to the G. O. Taylor Whiskey, as Old Bourbon, meaning a safe, reliable and proven article. Pure Rye shows what is meant. Ask your druggist or Grocer for the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, and you get all you ask and pay for. It is bottled by G. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is not equalled for purity or medicinal quality.

Mr. Powderly Speaks Plainly.

Grand Master Workman Powderly has called a special session of the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, to be held in Ohio on Tuesday, May 25th. In his circular letter to the several district and local assemblies of the order, he makes some very plain statements and gives his fellow workmen some good advice. Among other things he says:

We have been losing ground so far as public opinion is concerned for some time. One of the causes is that we have allowed things to be done under the name of the Knights of Labor, for which the organization was in no way responsible. I ask our members to keep a jealous eye upon the doings of the labor men who never labor, and when they charge anything to our order in your locality set the seal of your condemnation upon it at once by denying it.

If a paper criticises the Knights of Labor or its officers do not boycott it; and if you have any such boycotts on, remove them. A journal not long since made some uncomplimentary allusions to the General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, and at the next meeting of the nearest assembly a motion was passed to boycott the paper; not that alone, but every person who advertised in the columns of the paper. I wrote to the assembly asking that they remove the boycott, and it was done.

Let me direct your attention to a few little abuses. I find that wherever a strike occurs appeals for aid are scattered broadcast among the assemblies. Do not pay one cent for such purposes in future unless the appeal comes from your own district assembly or the general assembly. If boycott notices are sent to you, burn them. Our order has been used as a tail for a hundred different kites, and in future it must soar aloft, free from all of them. I hate the word boycott. I was boycotted ten years ago, and could not get work at my trade for months. It is a bad practice; it has been handed to us by the capitalists. I have no use for it only when everything else fails.

Fishermen's Strike.

It is supposed that "there are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught," but many men who go down to the sea in fishing vessels have no desire to take the fish from the waters under existing arrangements any longer. Feeling that under existing conditions they are not getting a just share of the profits from their labor, a large number of the crews of vessels that have been fishing out of Boston have concluded to stay on shore until the owners of the craft come to terms and agree to bear their share of the expenses.

The fishermen say the owners at the present time receive one-fourth of the gross earnings of a vessel. If a vessel after a week's trip earns $400, the owners received $100. Out of the remaining $300 the boat must be provisioned, ice purchased, wharfage and towage paid, lines replaced and bait supplied. The ordinary expenses on a fishing vessel which carries eighteen men will foot up fully $100 each week. Consequently, if the vessel earns $400 for the week each member of the crew will not receive over $12 for his seven days' hard labor. The fishermen demand that the owners, as they take one-fourth of the profits, shall pay for one-fourth of the ice, bait, wharfage and towing. They claim that if, in order to save a market, they (the fishermen) engage a tow and receive, owing to an early arrival, twenty-five cents or fifty cents more per hundred for their fish, the owners are benefitted, and should pay a share of the extra expense incurred.

Until these matters are satisfactorily arranged the following schooners will lay up: Sarah H. Prior, Gertie Windsor, Hattie J. Phillips, Emily P. Wright, William Parnell O'Hara, Belle J. O'Neil, Julia E. Whelan, Edith Emery, William Emerson, John H. McManus, and others, each carrying a crew of eighteen men.

Sale of the Boston Post.

The controlling interest in the stock of the Boston Post has been transferred to Benj. Kimball of Boston, and several associates. It is understood that the new owners will assume the management in a few days. Mr. W. H. H. Andrews, having parted with his interest in the company, will retire from the management of it, and, after a few months' needed rest, to recover his impaired health, will return to the practice of his profession at the bar.

"Boycotting a Professor."

The students of the medical college at Burlington, Vt., to the number of 125, have struck against Dr. L. M. Brigham, professor of surgery in the college. He delivered his first lecture on the 10th inst., and only six students were present. They claim that his clinics have been failures, and have petitioned him to resign. Dr. Bingham and his friends, and other members of the medical faculty, insist that it is not fair to condemn him in advance of hearing his lectures. The trouble is in part an outgrowth of a controversy among the medical profession of Burlington, with one side of which Dr. Bingham has been identified, though he has not taken active part in the quarrel.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., May 10th.

Our popular townsman, Dr. John C. Stewart, has been elected grand commander of the United Order of the Golden Cross for the state of Maine. Grand Commander Stewart will at once appoint deputies throughout the state for the purpose of increasing the number of commanderies and memberships. He is a thorough worker, and his heart is in the cause; we question whether a better selection could have been made.

The finest assortment of genuine meerchaum pipes ever seen in York are now for sale at Plaisted's, at $6.75 to $8.00 each.

Mr. W. T. Keen was severely injured on Friday last though his horse becoming unmanageable, and he being thrown from the team. He was attended by Dr. Stewart. No serious permanent damage is expected as a result, though he was badly shaken up. P.

Cornelius F. Roach, an employe of the East Boston ferry, has been arrested for shooting twice at his wife, whom he found drunk on his return from a walk, and who assaulted him on his remonstrating. Roach has a gold medal presented him by congress for saving lives, and two silver medals from the humane society. He had a leg crushed and amputated nine months ago, and it is believed his mind is affected.

The dead body of an infant child packed in a box was found in the Salmon Falls river at East Rochester on the 8th inst. It had been dead about ten days. The police of the town think they know who the parents are. The child was born alive.

The creditors of the Great Falls Woolen company held a meeting on the 4th inst., and a committee was chosen to report at a subsequent meeting some line of action to be pursued. The liabilities are $168,000, and the assets $115,000, besides the plant, worth $55,000.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or

Bright's Disease

is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Prevented

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

TUESDAY, May 11th.

The grand jurors appeared at the opening of the court this morning, and were empanelled. John J. Scammon of Stratham was appointed foreman. Judge Clark in his charge explained the mode of selecting jurors for the federal courts. The grand jury in this court consists of a number above sixteen, and the greatest number is twenty-three. Twelve jurors must vote for, to find an indictment; otherwise it fails to be found. The learned judge alluded to the oath of grand jurors, which requires that secrecy shall be observed regarding proceedings in the jury room. The nature of offences enquired into by jurors in this court was explained and illustrated.

The grand jury retired, and the petite jury were empanelled. The court heard several cases where jurors desired to be excused, but none were allowed to go.

The docket of civil cases not passed upon last week was called. The New Hampshire land cases were continued.

Case United States vs. Ann F. Worthen was continued.

Case Stephen Woodward vs. Cox Needle Co. was entered neither party. Barnard for pltf.; Fellows for deft.

Security for costs in Norton vs. Portsmouth was ordered, and leave to plead double allowed. Judge Foster, for the deft., desired the court to eliminate the plea of release that it might be considered by the court, before the trial of the case on its merits. The question as to the right to try a part of a case seems not to have been before considered by the court. Mr. Caverly, for the pltf., had no personal objections, but other parties had interest. The court intimated that it would be glad to receive authorities in support of the motion, if counsel were desirous of sending them; and the court ordered briefs filed in twenty days. Caverly for pltf., Foster for deft.

In Morey vs. Sohier, appellant from decree of court of probate for Carroll county, a motion was made to remand to the state court. To be heard before Gray, justice of the Supreme court of the United States, May 21st. Ray for pltf.; Edgerly for deft.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The finance committee selected by the general committee on soldiers' monument is constituted as follows:

C. M. Gignoux, Charles A. Sinclair, John H. Broughton, Thomas E. Call, Jr., John Laighton, J. Albert Sanborn, D. Webster Barnabee, M. M. Collis, John H. Hutchinson, Charles H. Bessellevre, John W. Caswell, and J. Horace Kent.

The committee will meet on Thursday evening, 13th inst., at eight o'clock, in the city rooms.

Subscriptions to the monument fund will be publicly acknowledged.

MORE LIGHT NEEDED.

Some person regarding neither the statute nor the divine law, nor having concern for the public welfare, on Saturday night during the darkness and the rain confiscated and appropriated to his own use the top of the pump on Miller avenue, with the handle and plunger attached, so that on Sunday the many people and animals that visited the pump to partake of the pure water of the spring were forced to depart unsatisfied. Then some hoodlum, Sunday forenoon, indicated his displeasure at not being able to get water there, by ramming the tin dipper down the barrel of the pump; and the gentleman who maintains the pump, drinking trough and dipper there for the benefit of the two-legged and four-legged public was obliged to forego attending divine service Sunday afternoon, as it took him all the time till late in the evening to repair damages and replace the abstracted parts of the pump, so that it would work all right on Monday.

There should be a street light established near that pump, so that drivers of teams wishing to water their horses on dark nights could see what they are doing. Such a light was petitioned for four or five years ago; but though it was asked for by a large number of tax-payers residing in that vicinity, and it was shown that it would much benefit the very large amount of travel between Rye and this city by way of Sagamore road, it was refused by the then board of aldermen, although the same board at the same time did not hesitate to pass orders establishing lights on the roads far outside the compact part of the city, in batches of fifteen or twenty at once. The present board should put a light there now.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The eleventh annual session of the Rockingham County School Association will be held in the Congregational church at Kingston on Tuesday, the 18th inst., commencing at 9:30 o'clock A. M., and closing at 4:30 P. M., in time for delegates to take the evening trains at East Kingston for their homes.

Each Sunday school is entitled to be represented in the business meetings of the association, (which will be held at 10:45 A. M. and 2:15 P. M.,) by the superintendent of the school, the pastor of the church to which it is an auxiliary, and two delegates. All Sunday school workers and well wishers are invited to attend the convention. Co-workers in Kingston will warmly receive and entertain all; and free conveyance from East Kingston station to the church will be furnished all who notify Dea. C. B. Clark, of Kingston, previous to the 16th.

The officers of the association for 1885-86 are as follows: President, B. R. Jewell, Esq., of South Hampton; vice presidents, Rev. J. W. Adams of Exeter, Rev. Charles Tenney of Chester; secretary and treasurer, Dea. F. R. Drake of North Hampton; executive committee, Rev. C. M. Dinsmore of South Newmarket, Rev. E. B. Pike of Brentwood, Rev. C. R. Cressett of Portsmouth, Rev. J. N. Rich of Candia village, Rev. W. A. McGinley of Portsmouth.

Do not forget the meeting in the chapel on Middle street this evening, to be addressed by Hon. John D. Lyman and others in behalf of the New Hampshire Orphans' Home. All are invited.

Charles L. Davis' "Alvin Joslin" troupe last night had a large audience, which they highly entertained. Their play has little plot. It is hardly anything more than a series of adventures, and contains a good deal of the tragic order for a comedy, but the admirable way in which it was presented, the excellent mechanical effects, the fun made by "Uncle Alvin" and the splendid music of the large orchestra pleased everybody, and there was much applause. The dressing of the troupe was also fine.—Hudson Journal.

At Music hall next Friday evening; reserved seat tickets at Goodrich's.

The wooden jackets were taken off the drinking fountains a month ago, but no water has yet been drawn from either of them by any of the many hundreds of persons who have tried it.

Mr. Stephen E. Jones, day-shifter at the Boston & Maine railroad yard in this city, who had one of his legs broken a few weeks ago, is now able to go about on crutches.

Large shipments of fresh fish and lobsters were forwarded from Commercial wharf to Elvin S. Newton at Manchester, on Tuesday, the 11th inst.

The Portsmouth high school nine went to Dover on the 10th inst. to play the Dover high school nine, and were defeated, sixteen to four.

The Portsmouth cricket club will play a game with the Dover club on Saturday, on the grounds of the latter.

A large force of men are engaged at present by the street commissioner cleaning the streets.

The government pile driver was sunk at the navy yard on the night of the 10th inst., having caught under the wharf on the rise of the tide.

Pure castile soap is made from soda and olive oil; there are many inferior qualities before the public, in which a cheap cotton seed oil is substituted. Possibly the purest now sold is imported from Spain, and it can be bought by the cake, or bar, at Preston's apothecary store.

Frederick W. Abbott, who formerly taught the Elliott school in Dover, N. H., and later was for two years principal of the high school at Kennebunk, after a two years course of study at Bowdoin college was recently graduated from the Maine Eclectic medical college.

George R. Webber, of York, brought to this city from Lobster cove on Monday 340 lobsters, which were boiled by George W. Randall & Son and soon disposed of.

Rev. John H. Carr of Rural Grove, New York, has been supplying the pulpit of the Christian church at Kittery Point for the past two Sabbaths, with a view of settling as pastor over the society.

MARITIME NOTES.

The clipper sloop-boat Bessie Ethel, of Newburyport, was lying at Philbrick's wharf on the 11th inst., on account of the weather. She is engaged in procuring bait along shore for the use of the fishermen.

William Brewster, Charles W. Robinson, John Handy Robinson and Josiah Hales are going to Star island in about two weeks, where they will be employed as boatmen for the Oceanic hotel, as usual for several seasons past.

Mr. George Carlton, of Water street, who goes out fishing in his shore-boat, brought in a few days since a halibut weighing 300 lbs., caught off the Isles of Shoals.

The state department has received official notice of the seizure of the fishing schooner David J. Adams. Secretary Bayard says a thorough investigation will be made at once. Mr. West, the British minister, thinks the matter will not cause serious trouble.

The bodies of Charles W. Stives of Winnebago, Ill., and the three-year-old daughter of C. G. Hillman of Minneapolis, were incinerated in the same furnace and at the same hour at Sampson crematory, Pittsburg, Pa., on Sunday, May 9th. This is the first instance of a double cremation on record, and was made possible by the use of natural gas.

To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES—CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was one hundred and fifteen sickly pounds; my weight now is one hundred and sixty-one solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the CUTICURA REMEDIES, North, South, East, and West. To CUTICURA REMEDIES I OWE MY HEALTH, MY HAPPINESS, AND MY LIFE. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the CUTICURA REMEDIES; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the CUTICURA REMEDIES." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large CUTICURA Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the CUTICURA REMEDIES shall be sold ONLY so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—these are familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the enfeebled system. Then it is that the marvellous curative powers of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

Pesth providing for the extension of the time of beginning military service from the 20th to the 21st year. This is rendered necessary by the bad physique of the recruits who have presented themselves during the last few years. THE STORM-EAGLE.

When quiet broods throughout the blue,
Nor breathes the wood, nor lisps the wave,
He hides away from mortal view,
Asleep, adream, in some lone cave.

But when great storms their fury vent,
And roar and wreak their pow'r,
He soars into the firmament,
The genius of the hour.

The hero thus. When Peace presides,
Obscure, unknown, he lives his days;
Then trumpets, war. Behold, he rides
Of battles king, and crowned with bays!

Chas. G. Blanden, in The Current.

Stage Love-Making Not Natural.

When you hear a young lady remark, as the stage lover goes down upon his knees, seizes the actress' hands and imprints an impassioned kiss upon her eight-button kids, "How naturally he does that!" you may set it down for a fact that that young lady isn't so familiar with such scenes as she would have people believe. We have have it on the best authority that lovers think too much of their pantaloons to genuflect upon a dusty carpet, and that they are not given to bestowing kisses upon kid gloves to an alarming extent.—Boston Transcript.

Quinine Manufactured in Ceylon.

Arrangements have been made for the manufacture of quinine in Ceylon on the spot where the trees are grown. Hitherto the manufacture has been monopolized by a few chemists in Europe, and it is expected that the drug will be greatly cheapened.—The Current.

Suicide as an "Unpardonable Sin."

The popular superstition of northern, Lutheran Europe accounts suicide an unpardonable sin because it destroys of itself the chance of repentance—viz., that the devil lies in wait, and the moment the noose is about the suicide's neck, jumps on his back and holds him down for good. It is then a struggle for a soul in which the devil has the advantage, for the dying sinner has himself thrown away his chance of a last cry for mercy that alone could avail. In that way common belief accounts for the success of self-murderers who have strangled themselves by merely lying down with throat upon a suspended string or a board, by resting the chin on a prayer-book, or in other like ways choking themselves to death. It is a good orthodox view of it according to the old, severe style of theology, but one can't help thinking it is rather a mean advantage for even the devil to take.—New York Mail and Express.

Bankers,

Doctors, lawyers, carpenters, druggist, engineers, mechanics, in fact we have recommendations from people in all stations in life, testifying to the wonderful cures that Sulphur Bitters have effected. Send for testimonials. See another column.

At Dartmouth, Mass., May 11th, Charles Slocum, a farmer aged seventy years, was burned to death in his barn, which with three horses was destroyed. It is supposed he fell in a fit, and broke a kerosene lantern.

Twenty years of suffering from catarrh and catarrhal headache; I never found anything to afford lasting relief until I tried Ely's Cream Balm. I have used two bottles, and now consider my catarrh cured. I have recommended it to several of my friends with like good results.—D. T. Higginson, 145 Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

The Richards Paper Co. of Gardiner, Me., have given notice of the permanent closing of their mills on account of a strike.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

By the capsizing of a ferry boat on a Kansas river, May 10th, a Mr. Kline, two of his children and his brother-in-law were drowned. Mrs. Kline and one child were saved.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose.

J. C. Bell is under arrest at Newcastle, N. B., for robbing two safes. He had nearly $10,000 on his person when arrested. He says he belongs in Bangor.

A Public Benefaction.

How to laundry linen as it is done in Troy, N. Y., has been kept a secret long enough; it can and should be done in every family. The Electic Starch is the only starch in the United States that is put up by men who have a practical knowledge of the laundry profession. It requires no cooking, keeps the iron from sticking and linen from blistering while ironing, and gives shirts, cuffs and collars that stiffness and beautiful polish they have when new, which, everybody knows keeps them clean twice as long. Beware of imitations. See that the name J. C. HUBINGER & BRO., New Haven, Conn., is on every package.

Charles Barr, a much respected young man of Brewer, Me., hung himself May 11th, through fear of blindness.

In the spring, hundreds of persons suffer from boils, carbuncles, and other eruptive diseases. These are evidences that the system is trying to purge itself of impurities, and that it needs the powerful aid which is afforded by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Rev. T. H. Stacey of Lawrence, Mass., has accepted a call to the Free Baptist church in Auburn, Me.

The household cure for sudden pains, stitch, cramps and soreness, is the Hop Plaster. 25 cts.

At Inwood, Ind., May 8th, a wagon containing John Wymer, a young farmer residing near that place, his wife and two daughters, was run down at a crossing by a Chicago train, and Wymer and one child and both horses killed, and Mrs. Wymer and the other child fatally injured.

The simplest and far the best regulator of the disordered liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, etc.; prevent and cure constipation and piles; remove sallowness and pimples from the complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

At Oswego, N. Y., May 10th, Norman Lounsbury, aged seventy-eight, a farmer, shot his young wife aged sixteen, and her relative, Horace Payson, aged thirty-five. He then shot himself before officers arrived to arrest him. They are all dead.

Many ladies admire gray hair—on some other person—but few care to try his effects on their own charms. They need not, since Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray hair to its original color. Sold by druggists and perfumers.

The Dartmouth summer school of science will open July 12th, under instruction of E. J. Bartlett, professor of chemistry, and C. F. Emerson, professor of astronomy.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa; regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodtfan

AS INVALUABLE AS FLOUR.

Ansonia and West Ansonia are two thrifty towns in Connecticut that have become famous for their brass works. These are not their only claims to distinction, however. Apart from many pleasant features common to progressive New England communities, they possess a number of citizens of advanced views who are at present engaged in a work of peculiar interest. One of these is Mr. Reuben Locke, whose home is on Hill Street, West Ansonia, and who is highly esteemed by his fellow citizens. Why he is active in his present work he thus explains:

"Five spoonfuls of Athlophoros cured me of a very stubborn attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I cannot express my feelings of joy at having at last found a medicine that did what the doctors failed to do for me. I esteem Athlophoros as I would my dearest friend, and recommend it because I know that it will do all that is claimed for it."

Mr. J. V. Wightman, of Ansonia, is no less enthusiastic and positive in his belief in the efficacy of this great remedy. He says:

"I believe, in fact I know, that there is nothing like Athlophoros. It cured me permanently of a very severe case of muscular rheumatism. I have recommended it on the strength of my own case to a number of people suffering with rheumatism and neuralgia, and they have one and all been cured by it, and the good work still goes on. On every side I hear the highest praise of Athlophoros."

From Providence, R. I., the same good news is reported. The happy messenger of glad tidings in the present instance is Mr. Isaac Crocker, who is well known to many people in Providence as the paper carrier who brings them their daily papers. Mr. Crocker rejoices over the cure of his son which he describes as follows:

"In the winter of 1882 and 1883 our son, who was then fourteen years old, was very sick with inflammatory rheumatism. He was confined to his bed and suffered greatly. He was very sick until the spring, and his trouble continued up to February of the present year (1885), when he saw Athlophoros advertised. At that time he was unable to move his feet. After taking two doses he could move them without pain, and by the time he had taken half a bottle he was cured. We have recommended Athlophoros to a neighbor who is 75 years old and it has helped him more than anything he ever tried. We would as soon think of being without flour as without Athlophoros."

Mrs. Millie M. Davis, of No. 193 Whalley Avenue, New Haven, says:

"For three months I suffered dreadfully with muscular rheumatism. In that time I was treated by four different physicians, none of whom relieved me of the pain and distress. They said I had waited too long, and their medicine had no effect. I did not experience the much-sought relief till I took Athlophoros, the very first dose of which caused me so much that I could, for the first time in a great while, sit down to eat my meals. I steadily improved and in a short time was completely cured of rheumatism. I gladly add my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by Athlophoros."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy of your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

IN FORD'S THEATRE.

AN EYEWITNESS' STORY OF THE ASSASSINATION OF LINCOLN.

A Change from Comedy to Terrible Tragedy—Booth's Leap to the Stage—A Stage Carpenter's Interpretation of the Assassin's Exclamation—Escape.

Twenty-one years ago occurred the greatest tragedy of American history. It was the assassination of President Lincoln in Ford's theater in this city. The story grows more interesting as time goes on. In this letter I wish to give you some curious gossip in regard to it, which you may not find in your libraries. Mr. Davis, who has been a leading lawyer of Washington since the days of James Buchannan, was present in Ford's theatre the night that Lincoln was shot. He chatted with me about the assassination the other night. Said he: "I had not intended to go to the theatre, but I saw it stated in the papers that both the president and Gen. Grant would be there, and I went more to see Grant than anything else. His fame at this time was in every one's mouth, but he had not been much at Washington, and I had not met him.

TRANSITION FROM COMEDY TO TRAGEDY.

The play was, you know, "Our American Cousin," and the house was crowded. I sat within five or six rows of the front in the pit, and Joe Stewart, the six-foot, 200-weight of a man who attempted to catch the assassin, was immediately in front of me. President Lincoln entered the theatre with his party when Dundreary was telling why a dog wags its tail. The audience greeted the president with cheers and clapping of hands, and as he reached the door of his private box he turned and bowed to the audience. He then followed Mrs. Lincoln into the box, and took his seat at the front of it by her side. The interior of the box was lined with crimson velvet paper, and the people within it shown out plainly from this as a background. The front of the box was hung with curtains made of American flags, and between those flags the president looked out.

"The comedy went on until the third act, and the president's party seemed to enjoy themselves. Lincoln was sitting with his left arm on the balustrade of the box, and with Mrs. Lincoln's hand resting on his knee. In the midst of a scene a pistol shot rang out and a scream from Mrs. Lincoln drew my attention to the president. I saw clouds of smoke coming out between the flags, and through this I saw the president's head fall upon his chest. Then out of the smoke a form sprang down on the stage, his foot catching in the flag as he fell. It was John Wilkes Booth. Tall, thin black hair, and with eyes which glittered like those of a wild beast, his face was as white as chalk. He rose half upon his knees and waved a sword-like dagger which I can see glittering before my eyes now. I heard him say in tragic tones, 'Sic semper tyrannis,' and then he limped fast across the stage, going behind the scenes.

THE AUDIENCE WAS DUMBFOUNDED.

All this happened in an instant, and all the time Mrs. Lincoln was screaming. As Booth rush from the stage he pushed aside Laura Keene, who was ready to enter for her part, and within half a minute he was in the alley and away. The audience was dumbfounded for a moment. Then every one sprang to his feet, but my friend Joe Stewart was the only one who had attempted to seize Booth. He rushed through the orchestra, crushing violins and trombones in his efforts to get upon the stage, but the footlights burned his fingers, and when at last he clambered up, he was too late. He was able to see Booth galloping out of the alley. A moment later the whole audience was in the street.

"Lincoln was carried across to the Peterson house, in which he died the next morning. I do not think Mrs. Lincoln ever recovered from the shock of that night. I did not see Grant, for you know he was prevented from attending the theatre by his baggage being left at the depot, instead of being brought to the hotel, as he had directed. On the trial of the conspirators I remember that a stage-shifter was among the witnesses, who, on being asked as to what Booth had said as he went across the stage, replied: 'He said: I am sick; send for McGinnis.'

"Among the men tried was a commission merchant whom I had done some business for. He sent a note for me to come and defend him. An orderly brought it. I refused, of course, though I did not believe him guilty. I would not have taken his case for $10,000. The feeling was such and the opprobrium of having anything to do with the assassin was so great that it would have been by no means safe."—"Carp" in Cleveland Leader.

Value of an Overlooked Material.

A German writer remarks that the compound known as "Zeiodelite," discovered by Simon, has not been used so much as its peculiar advantages would seem to suggest. It is prepared by mixing twenty to thirty parts of the powered glass with twenty parts of melted sulphur. This may be shaped into any design; and it cools into a strong hardness, resisting boiling water and the strongest acids. It can be united at a heat of 400 degrees.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Here at last is something odd. The boy is a pure

To Digest Vulcanite,

Requires acids more potent than the solvent juices of the human stomach. And yet, in the form of medicine intended to reform the very evil they aggravate, to-wit, dyspepsia, solids and fluids, irreconcilable in their constitutents that have no chemical affinity one with the other, are introduced into it. Are these so-called remedies more digestible than vulcanite? Positively—no! Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand, a simple medicine, harmonious in its composition and readily assimilable, is active, and produces marked as well as speedily appreciable effects, because it is a rational remedy suited to the stomach. It is a tonic in the true sense, because it harmonizes and insures regularity of the operations of digestion. Not the least of the benefits which it confers, is a thorough repair of the damage inflicted on the stomach by ill-chosen remedies. For biliousness, constipation, malarial complaints, rheumatism and kidney troubles, it is alike valuable.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse." CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors can confer on employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration of their claims at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1880. R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1866, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, to your fair, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER. TOY, January 1, 1886. eod2

Reasons

needs, and should take Sarsaparilla in the spring:—

1st: Because the system is now it's most need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives health.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

The steamer Acadia, of Baltimore, from Port Antonio, Jamaica, April 10th, for Baltimore, with a cargo of bananas, is long overdue, and is supposed to have gone down with all hands, sixteen in number.

Bourbon

Is a word usually applied to a settled conservative thing. We speak of Bourbon Democrats, meaning those of the old school. It is applied to the G. O. Taylor Whiskey, as Old Bourbon, meaning a safe, reliable and proven article. Pure Rye shows what is meant. Ask your druggist or Grocer for the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, and you get all you ask and pay for. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and is not equalled for purity or medicinal quality.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.
